ROOSEVELT PICKS ICKES TO DIRECT $3,300,000,000 WORKS PROGRAM

President Acts to End Cabinet Dissension and to Get Entire Construction Plan Started as Quickly as Possible.

BLOW TO FACTION OF LEWIS DOUGLAS

Selection of Interior Secretary Also Significant Because of Fight on Patronage Seekers and Unnecessary Projects.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—President Roosevelt today took abrupt steps to end dissension among Cabinet members and other high officials over the nature and scope of the public works program, when he named Secretary of the Interior Ickes as public works administrator. Ickes is head of a faction which has been insisting that the entire $3,300,000,000 program be initiated quickly as possible, while Budget Director Douglas has led a group contending that prosperity is returning, and that the expenditure is unnecessary.

Secretary Ickes already was chairman of the public works board appointed to supervise the program. And the President's act in making him administrator in addition was uniformly construed here as meaning that Ickes' viewpoint had prevailed at the White House. Moreover, it strengthened the impression that Douglas, with his various programs for "economy," is losing prestige with the President. He represents the so-called "conservative" element of the administration, while Ickes has always been known as a "progressive."

The incident was acepted among expert observers as another indication of the Roosevelt administration's tendency to "move toward the left"—that is, to adopt more radical measures for recovery.

Dr. Lukin Slated for Post.

There is reason to expect that the vacant post of Commissioner of Labor Statistics, one of the most coveted political plums in the Federal service, will be filled within a few days by the appointment of Dr. Isador Lubin, former instructor in economics at Missouri University, now a member of the research staff of the Brookings Institution here, and widely known as an economist of liberal views. Dr. Lubin has no more politics, in the partisan sense, than Einstein.

Another direct implication was conveyed by the appointment of Ickes. He has contended, against the claims of politicians seeking patronage, that money lent to states and cities for the construction of public works must be rigidly restricted to projects vitally needed, and not consumed by civic luxuries or ornaments. As Secretary of the Interior, public works administrator and chairman of the Public Works Board, he is now in a position to have his way.

A subcommittee consisting of Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Labor Battle, Assistant Budget Director Brown, and Col. Donald Sawyer, who has been temporary administrator, met today and will meet again Sunday to study Federal projects which have been recommended by Government departments. The total cost of the projects under study would be about 400,000,000. River and harbor developments comprise a substantial part.

To Allot 350 Millions.

Ickes is expected shortly to announce an allotment of approximately $350,000,000 for state, county, municipal and other non-Federal projects, but will insist on confining them to public works that are actually needed by the respective communities. There are more than enough of these, he believes, to exhaust the funds available.

Continuing his opposition to the patronage-seekers, Ickes today recommended to the President a plan for the appointment of regional public works administrators. He said the plan was approved by the Supervisory Board. Politicians have urged the appointment of state administrators, on the obvious theory that this plan would provide more patronage and create more administrative jobs.

Although the primary purpose of the public works program is to create jobs, the new administrator

WALLACE SAYS CAMPAIGN TO CUT COTTON CROP IS "UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS"

Extends it to July 12 — Reports Pledges So Far to Destroy 5,566,169 Acres in 14 of 16 States.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8. — Farm administrators today officially described their first major program to adjust American farm production downward as "unqualified success" in announcing that cotton growers had signed contracts offering to plow up 5,566,169 acres of their growing crop.

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace at the same time extended the period in which growers may sign contracts, which was to have ended tonight, until midnight, Wednesday, and said further extensions would be made, if necessary, so that every cotton grower would have a chance to sign.

They desire to cut the potential crop by at least 3,000,000 bales. Both Wallace and George N. Peek, chief administrator of the farm act, indicated confidence that this goal would be achieved.

Roosevelt Urges Co-Operation.

In an address tonight Secretary Wallace made public the following letter to him from President Roosevelt:

"I want you to make it very clear that I attach the greatest possible importance to the cotton adjustment campaign. It is our first major attack on the agricultural depression.

"I know that for the past two weeks the representatives of the farm adjustment administration have been presenting to the 2,000,000 producers of cotton the hard facts of supply and demand, but the real question is, are the cotton growers ready to recognize these facts and seize their opportunity?

"I myself am one of those who as a planter of cotton has suffered from the absurdly low prices of the past few years. What I am concerned about, and what every other cotton grower ought to think about, is the price of cotton next year if cotton acreage is not reduced.

"There are two reasons why every cotton grower should go along with the Government's national responsibility. The first is the patriotic duty of making the plan a success for the benefit of the whole country; and the second is the personal advantage to every cotton grower in helping as an individual to reduce an oversupply of cotton and thereby obtaining a better price for what he grows.

"The responsibility rests on the individual grower, and I believe that we can get substantial unity among our more than 2,000,000 cotton producers for this program of a planned and orderly harvest."

Increased Acreage.

Earlier in the day the crop reporting board in its first cotton estimate this year, reported the acreage as of July 1 was 40,798,000 acres, an increase of 11.6 per cent over last year.

The board will make its first production estimate in August, but on the basis of the long-time average yield in the cotton belt of one-third of a bale to the acre this would indicate a potential crop of about 13,500,000 bales. By cutting production 3,000,000 bales or more, Wallace hoped this year's crop might be brought to about 10,000,000 bales. There is a carry-over from last year of about 12,500,000 bales of American cotton.

Processing Tax About Aug. 1.

Employment of the acreage-reduction program means that a processing tax of about 4 cents a pound will go into effect about Aug. 1. At the same time, the floor stocks of cotton processors and wholesalers will be subjected to tax. Retailers will have 30 days in which to dispose of their stocks on hand before they are taxed.

Wallace said the Bureau of Internal Revenue was attempting to work out conversion factors to be used in determining the amount of tax to be applied to cotton goods on the floor. Also when the processing tax becomes effective, a compensatory import tax of an equal amount will become effective. The movement of raw cotton to American shores has long been insignificant, however, as, individually, more than one-half of this country's production is exported. The compensatory tax will have significance in connection with the importation of fabricated cotton and conversion factors will be established for that levy.

Response "Remarkable."

Wallace and Peek both described the response of the Southern farmers to the reduction campaign which has been under way for two weeks as "remarkable." They said the campaign had been especially successful in recent days, that delays in educating farmers regarding details of their program and the distribution of contract forms and other supplies prevented the

TWO EX-EMPLOYES OF BANK ACCUSED OF TAKING $17,000

Discharged Tellers of Manchester Depository, 4011 Chouteau, Said to Have Confessed.

Thomas A. McGrath, discharged teller at the Manchester Bank of St. Louis, 4011 Chouteau avenue, was accused of misapplying $16,400 of the bank's funds in a warrant issued yesterday by United States Commissioner Burke.

Named in another warrant is another discharged teller, Robert E. Blum, with alleged defalcations of $1132.

The two shortages are not related, according to J. P. Hickok, vice-president of the bank, who said both men had admitted peculations.

The bank and its depositors are fully protected by a $300,000 surety bond, Hickok said, with the surety company having already agreed to make good the losses.

McGrath, 40 years old, was taken to St. Mary's Hospital yesterday for an appendicities operation. Both Hickok and his relatives said he had refused to tell what he did with the money. The relatives said it was taken over a period of more than two years.

McGrath's method, according to Hickok, was to cash drafts presented for deposit by customers, keeping the money himself and making no entries in the customer's accounts. He was discharged June 28, when shortages in his accounts were discovered, Hickok said.

An employe of the bank for 20 years, McGrath was earning $200 a month when discharged and had received $275 until a general wage cut went into effect last Jan. 1. Relatives said he had been paying $65 a month on his $10,000 brick bungalow at 4114 Alma avenue, but that his equity amounted to only about $3000. He is married and has three daughters.

Blum, according to the bank officer, was discharged last April in a general lay-off and his shortage discovered later. Hickok said Blum had taken $1000 that a customer had deposited to a savings account and $132 in interest payments that should have been credited to accounts. Blum is 28 years old, married and resides at 3526 Vista avenue. He had worked for the bank seven years. He had earned $175 a month.

Blum, in his statement to the bank, did not say what he had done with the money he took, Hickok told a reporter.

A maximum penalty of five years and a $2000 fine is provided under Federal laws for misapplying funds. Joseph E. Muckerman is president of the Manchester Bank.

POLICEMAN KILLED, ROBBERS CAUGHT IN CHICAGO HOLDUP

Truck Driver Wrecks Machine to Aid in Capture of Pair After Chase.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Two robbers committed an $81 holdup today and when the chase for them was ended a policeman lay dead, a truck was smashed and its driver injured, both robbers had been captured, and police said a dozen daring robberies had been solved.

Policeman Harry Redlich, 38 years old, interrupted the robbery in an advertising agency. He captured one of the robbers and was standing guard when the other crept up a fire escape and shot him in the back.

Both robbers fled and separated one of them commandeering a passing motor truck. Threatened with a pistol, the chauffeur drove straight ahead until he saw a approaching police squad car. Then he deliberately crashed his truck into a building, suffering slight injuries. Police captured the robber in an alley and identified him as Ross King, 29.

The other robber barricaded himself in a nearby apartment building, but police broke in the door. He was identified as John Borgiorna.

SIX NATIONS FORM BIG GOLD POOL TO PROTECT CURRENCY

Italy, Belgium, Poland, Holland and Switzerland Join France in Effort to Save Standard.

SPECULATORS TO BE ATTACKED

Agreement Not Directed Against American Dollar or English Pound, It Is Said in Paris.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, July 8.—A huge pool of gold for defense of their currencies was formed today by six chiefs of central banks of gold countries.

The national banks of Italy, Belgium, Poland, Holland and Switzerland joined the Bank of France in the formation of this fund to maintain their respective countries on the gold standard.

The agreement for this concerted action was proclaimed as solely for self-protection and in nowise directed against the dollar or the pound. The fund will be operated as a vigorous attack against speculators.

Distinctly technical arrangements were worked out by the gold bloc bankers at their meeting in the Bank of France, including a common fund to maintain their monies at parity.

The workings of this plan were kept secret on the ground that its efficacy might be destroyed if it were published.

Experts at the close of the conference frankly recognized that their battle was a fight against time and they admitted that, if it continued for several months, some of the weaker countries still on gold probably would drop out, although the "Big Six" themselves are sure that they can hold out.

It was learned authoritatively that there will be no embargo on gold exportations by the countries involved.

It was expected that Germany, Czecho-Slovakia and the Free City of Danzig will join the agreement shortly.

The gold situation will be reviewed at the next meeting of the Bank for International Settlements directors, July 7.

The six countries participating in the meeting and the agreement hold two-fifths of the world's supply of gold. Their action was declared to be designed to "maintain unhindered the functioning of the gold standard in their respective countries, at present parities."

3 DROWNED IN WHITE RIVER, BOAT UPSETS AFTER STORM

Automatic Gate Opens Without Warning and Rush of Water Capsizes Craft.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., July 8. — Three men were drowned in White River at Forsyth early tonight when an automatic gate in the power plant opened without warning following a heavy rain storm and the rush of water capsized the light boat in which they were fishing below the dam.

The dead: Ray Simmons, 20 years old; Joe Day, 22, and H. V. Russell, 35, all of Forsyth. Simmons and Day both were sons of former Taney County Sheriffs, Russell a world-war veteran. Simmons, captain of the Southwest Missouri champion basketball team last year, was married. His body has not been recovered.

ITALIAN AIR FLEET HELD IN ICELAND BY WEATHER

Gen. Balbo Delays Start to Labrador Because of Fog On Western Atlantic.

By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, July 8.—Gen. Italo Balbo, Italian Air Minister, and his companions piloting 24 seaplanes to Chicago tonight awaited more favorable weather conditions for the next stage of their journey, a 1500-mile journey to Cartwright. Labrador.

Weather reports are received at frequent intervals from vessels along the projected course of the air fleet and the pilots are ready to start as soon as conditions are good.

The weather was calm here but there was fog over the Western Atlantic.

WOMAN TEACHER KILLED IN PLANE; RESCUER DROWNED

Miss Mildred Wright Falls Into Missouri River; Donald Moss Loses Life Trying to Save Her.

HER PARACHUTE FAILED TO OPEN

She Had Been Stunting Near Kansas City. Kan.—Her Father Lives in Webster Groves.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., July 8.—Miss Mildred Wright, 30 years old, of Webster Groves, fell 1000 feet to her death in the Missouri River late today when the plane in which she was stunting, got out of control. Donald Moss, 23, another pilot, was drowned when he swam out to rescue her.

While the plane was in the midst of a tailspin, the body of Miss Wright was seen to shoot out as if it had been tossed free. She wore a parachute and pulled the rip cord as she fell, but the parachute did not open until just before she struck the water.

Moss, informed of the accident, hurried to the river, and seeing her plane, supposed that she was in the wreckage.

While Daniel Covington looked on, Moss swam out into the swift current which had borne Miss Wright and her parachute rapidly down the river. Before he could reach the plane, Moss shouted to Covington: "I can't make it. The current is too strong."

Covington, a poor swimmer, then leaped into the water but Moss sank and Covington returned to the river bank.

Miss Wright, a member of the faculty of the Central Missouri Teachers' College at Warrensburg, held a private flying license and was seeking to qualify for a commercial pilot's license. She had been stunting in the plane when it went into a tailspin at an altitude of about 2000 feet. It fell 1000 feet before she jumped.

Miss Wright's father, W. J. Wright, is employed by the Missouri Pacific Railroad and lives at Webster Groves, Mo.

Two Women Injured in Jumping From Blazing Plane.

By the Associated Press.

INDIANAPOLIS, July 8.—Two women were injured and burned seriously this afternoon when they leaped from their burning airplane which had landed in high tension wires northwest of the city. When the women jumped they landed in burning gasoline on the ground. They are Mrs. Lenore Harper, owner and pilot, and Mrs. Hazel Frinke.

A witness said Mrs. Harper apparently realized she was flying too low to clear the wires and "gunned" the ship but it failed to rise. It burst into flames as it struck the wires and the women jumped.

Mrs. Harper was the first Indiana woman to obtain a commercial pilot's license. She is the mother of three children, Warren, 9 years old; Richard 5, and Sherill 2. Mrs. Frinke has one child.

The wires into which the plane fell carried 33,000 volts. On striking the wires the plane immediately burst into flames.

FORESTRY CAMP COMMANDER KILLS SELF IN QUARTERS

Maj. H. E. Miner Ends Life After Wife and Son Visit Him in Minnesota.

By the Associated Press.

ELBA, Minn., July 8.—Maj. Harold E. Miner, commander of a civilian conservation corps camp near here, committed suicide by shooting last night a few hours after his wife and son visited him. His body was found in his quarters today.

Miner, 48 years old, was a field artillery officer, stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kan. Associates said Miner, a 1909 graduate of West Point and a World War veteran, appeared despondent recently.

47 PCT. OF INCOME FOR TAXES

The Frisco Railroad paid $3,804,497 in taxes for 1932 on property in nine states assessed at $134,954,313. The payment was 47 per cent of net railway operating income.

Missouri, with $771,950, received the second largest part of the payment, following Oklahoma, which received $1,542,668. School taxes took $1,486,000, or 39 per cent of the total, and road taxes took $558,912, or 14.7 per cent. Of the total tax, 20.2 per cent was for support of counties, 10.8 per cent for states, 9.3 per cent for municipalities, and 5.7 for special purposes.

LAW SUBTRACTS TWO ANGLES OF TRIANGLE

Man and Girl Living With Ex-Wife Are Sentenced on Statutory Charges.

By the Associated Press.

RACINE, Wis., July 8.—Jay Beegle, 31 years old, was sentenced to Waupun Penitentiary today for a year to 18 months and Miss Lyda Weber, 22, to the county jail for three months on statutory charges. They were arrested this morning at the home of Beegle's divorced wife, Mrs. Linda Beegle, with whom they were living.

The Beegles were divorced last month after the husband confessed to his wife his love for Miss Weber. Then Beegle returned to the home, paying room and board in addition to alimony. When Miss Weber was ordered from her home because, as she said, of her affair with Beegle, she was invited into the Beegle home by Mrs. Beegle.

Neighbors complained and Beegle was arrested. He told District Attorney John Brown that he and the girl were to be married as soon as his divorce became final. He was released. But this morning warrants were issued for Beegle and Miss Weber on statutory charges, and they were sentenced in Municipal Court.

Several hours after Beegle had been sentenced Mrs. Beegle learned for the first time of her husband's arrest.

"I'm going to help him," she said, and went to the county jail with her two children. She saw her husband, later interviewed his attorney, and then said she was going to plead with the judge for his sake.

She has no income of her own, and with both alimony and room rent cut off, she said she might have to fall back on the city for help.

"Why did they have to arrest him?" she asked. "We were doing all right."

Beegle and Miss Weber reaffirmed their affection for each other with kisses as they were being led to their cells.

"I'll be waiting for you when you come back," the girl promised him.

"I'm sorry I got you into this jam," he said.

Before the arrests Beegle said today the "eternal triangle" presented no insurmountable angles at all, as he and the other "two angles" sat in their pleasant new cottage and watched his two children at play with their dog, Spike.

If she harbored any bitterness, Mrs. Beegle, the wife he divorced on June 27, that he might marry Miss Weber, submerged it well. The three smiled and joked as Beegle unfolded his story.

"Just as you see us now," said he, "that's the way we've been since we worked this thing out sensibly. At least it appears sensible to the three of us."

"Here's my ex-wife," he said, waving a hand toward the small, dark-eyed woman who is the mother of his children, Doris, 8, and Richard, 6. "And here's my sweetheart, the girl I will marry as soon as I can," motioning toward tall, blonde Lyda. The women smiled at each other.

Wisconsin law will not permit Beegle to marry Lyda for a year, but he said he intended to get work in another state where they may be united earlier.

SEEKS OWNER OF DOG SAVED FROM QUARRY

Humane Society Notes Animal Was No. 886 Inoculated in Webster Groves.

Its tongue and eyes swollen from lack of food and water, a 2-year-old German shepherd dog, hardly able to stand, was rescued by the Humane Society yesterday from a quarry ledge where it had been trapped for four days.

Exposed to the glaring sun except for intervals when a small box afforded it shade, the dog had attracted the attention of residents in the neighborhood of the quarry at Theresa avenue and La Salle street, but none sought to help until yesterday when John Boyd, a Negro, 3432A La Salle, called the Humane Society and told of its plight.

Employes of the Central Quarry Co., at the request of Humane Society officers, provided a derrick and engine. Edmond Pieper, an officer of the society, was lowered in a skip to the ledge about eight feet wide, 35 feet below the edge of the excavation. Below the ledge, a sheer wall of rock extends about 175 feet.

His hands protected by heavy gloves, for fear the distressed animal might turn on him, Pieper lifted it into the skip and was hauled to the top.

Pieper expressed the opinion the dog had ventured too near the edge and had slipped and fallen to the ledge. It was taken to the society's shelter at 1210 Macklind avenue.

Efforts to find the owner will be made. A tag certifying the dog had been inoculated against rabies at Webster Groves bore the number 886.

ROOSEVELT MAKES PUBLIC APPEAL FOR DRY REPEAL

Plea Contained in Message Sent to Democratic Committeeman of Alabama, Which Will Vote on Issue July 18.

REPLY TO SEVERAL INQUIRIES ON STAND

President in Telegram Says That Platform of Party Should Be Carried Out "Insofar as It Lies in Our Power."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—President Roosevelt today made a public appeal for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

The appeal was contained in a telegram to Leon McCord, the Democratic National Committeeman for Alabama, where a repeal election will be held July 18. Roosevelt's telegram was in response to an inquiry from McCord. Noting that he had received similar inquiries from other Southern States including Tennessee, Arkansas and Kentucky, the President said he thought it well to make his reply public.

The message of the President reads:

"I have received your telegram of July 3 in reference to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

"I think I have made it abundantly clear that the platform of the Democratic party adopted last year should be carried out insofar as it lies in our power. The special session of the Congress has already translated into law a great majority of the pledges made.

"One of the pledges of the platform read as follows: 'We advocate the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. To effect such repeal we demand that the Congress immediately propose a constitutional amendment to truly representative conventions in the States called to act solely on that proposal.'

"The Congress has acted on this and many of the States are now engaged in holding elections for the conventions proposed.

"Finally, I have made it clear ever since my nomination a year ago that I subscribe to the Democratic platform 100 per cent.

"In view of the fact that I have had so great a number of telegrams similar to yours not only from your state but from Tennessee, Arkansas, Kentucky and others, I am taking the liberty of giving this message to you and to the press.

"Sincerely,
"FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT."

16 States in Repeal Column.

Besides Alabama, Arkansas also will vote on July 18 on repeal of the eighteeuth amendment.

Sixteen states, one-third of the 48, have voted for repeal. Thirty-six are necessary to ratify the proposal.

The states that have voted for repeal, in order of their action, are: Michigan, by 2 to 1; Wisconsin, 5 to 1; Rhode Island, 7 to 1; New Jersey, 6 to 1; Wyoming, 5 to 1; New York, 12 to 1; Delaware, 3 to 1; Nevada (popular vote by county conventions); Illinois, 4 to 1; Indiana, 2 to 1; Massachusetts, 4 to 1; Connecticut, 6 to 1; New Hampshire, 2 to 1; Iowa, 3 to 2; West Virginia 1 3-5 to 1, and California, 3 to 1.

Of these, nine have ratified, as follows:

Michigan, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, Wyoming, New Jersey, Delaware, Indiana, Massachusetts and New York.

Missouri May Vote This Year.

Besides Arkansas and Alabama, 15 other states have definitely set elections for 1933. In addition, Florida and Missouri will act before the end of the year, and Montana and Utah are expected to. Oklahoma took its first step today with introduction of a measure for a repeal vote at a special legislative session. Two states, Nebraska and South Dakota, have definitely decided against voting this year. Thus, there are eight remaining states with no indication as to their probable action.

Other states which have set elections this year are: Tennessee, July 20; Oregon, July 21; Texas, Aug. 26;

HULL CALLS ON PARLEY TO AID IN PRICE-RAISING

Puts That First in List of Subjects He Says London Conference Should Take Up.

THINKS MAJORITY IS WITH HIM

In Statement Declares to Adjourn Would Be "to Betray the Responsibility Laid Upon Us."

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 8.—Cordell Hull, American Secretary of State, sought tonight to rally the forces of the world economic conference, sorely divided over the monetary issue, by pointing to various major problems which he said the nations might yet attack.

In an appeal which was interpreted as aimed primarily at regaining the co-operation of France and other members of the gold bloc, the leader of the American delegation urged the summoning of "fresh resolution to surmount immediate obstacles" and called for better understanding of opposing viewpoints.

Armed with fresh amplifications of President Roosevelt's policies, received by cable during the day, Secretary Hull endeavored to enlist as many nations as possible in a price-making program on an international scale similar to that under way in the United States.

Hull also engaged in quiet conversations with spokesmen for various countries friendly to American policy with a view to drawing up a program in which many delegations will have a hand and which will not bear the specific American labels.

The foremost goal would be raising of the world price level. In this connection it was noted that Secretary Hull mentioned the price level at the head of the list of topics which he said could be discussed despite refusal of the French and their continental allies to discuss monetary matters.

Hull's Statement.

"I gather from comments in the newspapers that what is desired is a recital of some of the questions which are capable of consideration under existing conditions," the statement issued in his capacity as chief of the American delegation said.

"I would list for example: Price levels, credit policy, innumerable prohibitions and restrictions strangling mutually profitable trade transactions, retailiation and countless other war breeding trade practices and methods.

"We cannot pretend we have exhausted the resources of statesmanship when we have not yet even superficially examined these problems, all of which are listed on the agenda.

"All those who believe in international amity must rejoice in the decision of the bureau, which is also the steering committee, to have the economic conference go forward.

"I have conferred with leaders of many delegations and I am confident that the majority of the delegates of 66 nations represented at the conference will heartily support that decision.

Urges That Work Go On.

"We have assembled here from every corner of the earth to deal with fundamental problems contained in the agenda. We would betray the responsibility laid upon us were we to adjourn the conference in the face of the first troublesome issues which beset our paths.

"We all know that the difficulties are great. We have known that from the outset. We need only to summon fresh resolutions to surmount the immediate obstacle and approach our task with deeper understanding of our respective viewpoints.

"Every nation will benefit if we succeed, standing united in a war against the common enemy of universal economic prostration.

"No greater opportunity could be presented to statesmanship than confronts this conference. To let the opportunity for advancing the common good be lost because we are unable to rise above transitory perplexities would rightly earn for us the condemnation of history."

Roosevelt Amplifies Plan in Message to Delegation.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The amplified American plan of action for world price recovery and economic rehabilitation was forwarded today to the delegation at the London conference. The details of the President's message to the American delegation were withheld and will develop through the subsequent action of the group at London. It was emphasized, however, that no new instructions were forwarded but rather that a clarification of the original American position had been sent to Chairman Hull. Mr. Roosevelt has in mind for the international conference a program which will co-ordinate with his own domestic recovery plans now going into operation.

There is no intention to bar a discussion of the vexing monetary situation by those nations that desire to discus this problem.

SAYS CAMPAIGN TO CUT COTTON CROP IS SUCCESS

first response from hitting its full stride.

Their acreage estimate was based on reports from 14 of the 16 cotton states showing progress up to last night. The reports showed a total acreage of almost double the report given farm administrators just 24 hours before, Peek said. On Thursday night, it was unofficially reported that 2,600,000 acres had been offered.

More than 22,000 workers have been engaged in the campaign.

When all of the offers have been received from farmers they will be compiled by accountants at the Department of Agriculture.

The Government offers farmers cash payments or a combination of cash and an option on Government held cotton in return for their agreements. The cash will be paid in proportion to the estimated yield of the area farmers offers to plow up. Each must offer from 25 to 50 per cent of their growing crop in order to qualify for the plan.

Wallace said it was possible that there would be more offers than he would be able to accept. The cash payments are to be made from the processing tax proceeds, which, it is estimated, will produce about $100,000,000. Wallace is unwilling to contract for more acreage than can be paid for from this fund.

In passing on contracts, the object of farm administrators will be to reduce the potential crop as much as possible for the benefit money expended. The work of passing on these contracts might take a month, Wallace said. He was hopeful, however, that the first checks might be sent to farmers early in August, but said that late August was more likely to be the time the principal cash benefits would move into the South.

"The attitude of the cotton producer during this campaign has been highly satisfactory," Wallace said. "The majority of them understand the situation, and realize that it is imperative they do something about it.

"Today's acreage reports on land in cultivation emphasize the necessity for the success of this campaign. The cotton producers cannot expect a decent price for their crop this fall if the present planted acreage is permitted to go to harvest."

The administration would determine what acreage was to be retired after the acreage offered had been inspected and the cost determined, Wallace explained. He said the plan would be carried through as rapidly as possible.

$11,000,000 ALLOTTED BY U. S. FOR RIVER, HARBOR PROJECTS

WASHINGTON, July 8. — The War Department today allotted more than $11,000,000 for maintenance on river and harbor projects. They included:

The Mississippi River between the Ohio and the Illinois rivers, $750,000; Mississippi between the Illinois River and Minneapolis, $75,000; Missouri River, Hermann to the mouth, $325,000; Kansas City to Hermann, $740,000; Kansas to Sioux City, $220,000; Illinois River, Utica to the mouth, $155,000; Utica to Lockport, $340,000; Mill Creek and South Slough, Ill., $2000.

Examinations, surveys and general contingencies—St. Louis district, $20,000; Kansas City district, $20,000; Rock Island district, $56,000.

is determined that a maximum number of the jobs shall be given to persons engaged in actual construction, and a minimum to those needed for administrative detail. In that purpose he is bucking formidable political forces, but thus far he has been successful. It is contemplated that 1,000,000 persons will be employed on the new projects by Sept. 1.

President Roosevelt already has allotted $400,000,000 of the fund for highway construction, which is expected to provide 100,000 new jobs before September. That allotment was made mandatory by Congress. In addition, $238,000,000 has been allotted to the Navy for the construction of 32 new vessels, including cruisers, destroyers and aircraft carriers. Of these, 17 will be built in private shipyards and 15 in Government yards. Bids on the 17 will be opened here July 26.

Private shipyards have not yet submitted a "code of fair competition" to Gen. Johnson, Administrator of Industrial Control, and it is possible that acceptance of bids will be made contingent upon the establishment of minimum wages and maximum hours for persons engaged on the construction of these vessels.

Representatives from 26 states met here today with W. Frank Persons, Director of the United States Employment Service, to work out a plan for re-employment of men on the public works projects. State employment agencies will be set up under Federal supervision, and will furnish lists of names of men qualified for the new jobs.

RAIN IN FOUR FARM STATES

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 8.—Drouth-breaking rains over Central and Northeastern Kansas, Northwest Missouri, Southeastern Nebraska and Southwestern Iowa gave corn and other crops a new lease on life today. S. D. Flora of the Federal Weather Bureau at Topeka said the rains "came just in time for the corn" in Kansas.

The precipitation revived burned pastures, replenished water supplies and brought moisture to truck crops. Most of the area had not received a soaking rain since May.

Measure Offered in Oklahoma Legislature for Repeal Vote.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 8.—Gov. Murray today authorized the special legislative session to set up machinery for a vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Without delay a repeal measure was introduced in the House.

Murray said he was not opening the way for a vote on the repeal of Oklahoma's bone-dry State law, but was submitting the repeal question "in obedience to the United States submission resolution." The repeal vote would not be taken before Dec. 5 and probably not before the first primary election next July.

Meanwhile, the beer and anti-beer proponents were closing their campaigns in readiness for next Tuesday's vote on the sale of 3.2 per cent beer. Prospective venders were taking out licenses and brewers were ready to rush shipments across Oklahoma borders should the beer proposal win.

Attorney-General King worked out plans for handling the sale of the brew. King said beer could be sold on the day following the election, if the proposal carried. Beer "not for consumption on the premises where it is sold" may be vended legally as soon as the State license is obtained.

NEW PROCESSING TAX ON WHEAT IS PUT INTO EFFECT

It Is Expected to Produce $150,000,000 to Pay Farmers for Cutting Wheat Acreage.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8. — The wheat processing tax which goes into effect at midnight tonight is expected to produce about $150,000,000, which will be used to pay benefits to farmers in return for agreements to reduce their acreage in the next two years up to 20 per cent.

The exact reduction will be determined later by Wallace, who desires to harmonize the reduction with any agreement involving other wheat-producing nations which may be arrived at during the international wheat conference now in progress in London.

Wheat which moves into export channels is not affected by the tax nor is that which is used for animal feed, seed and other purposes unrelated to human food domestically consumed.

The campaign to obtain agreements from wheat farmers will be carried on from Aug. 1 to Sept. 15.

The tax will be in effect for one year and may then be continued by order of Secretary Wallace.

In terms of flour it will amount to $1.38 on a 196-pound barrel. On bread, Secretary Wallace says it should not be more than half a cent, and adding to the tax the increased price of other ingredients other than wheat, he thinks the increase in the price of one-pound loaves should not exceed 1⅛ or 1¼ cents.

Secretary Wallace may hold that approximately 50 per cent of the average annual wheat production during the period 1928-32 is required for domestic consumption and that benefits to farmers will be distributed on that basis.

The average annual production for the nation during that five-year period was 844,607,000. About 425,000,000 to 450,000,000 bushels is needed for domestic consumption after allowances are made for flour produced for unemployment relief and for charitable groups that are entitled to refunds of the processing tax.

If he decides on the 50 per cent figure instead of 60 per cent or others which have been suggested, this would mean roughly that there would be paid farmers in wheat growing states an amount equal to one-half of the average number of bushels produced in each, times 30 cents, less 2 cents a bushel for administrative costs.

The average production for Texas during the five years was 37,749,000 bushels. Using the rough formula this would mean that $5,284,900 would be available for benefit payments to farmers there who co-operate in the plan after payment of the cost of administration.

Kansas is the leading wheat state with an average annual production for the base period of 169,176,000 bushels; North Dakota second, with 102,255,000 bushels; Nebraska third, with 56,701,000 bushels, and Oklahoma fourth, with 54,352,000 bushels.

Only 18 states produced an average of more than 15,000,000 bushels during the five years, although wheat was grown in some quantities in 40 states. The wheat plan is not to be applied in counties where production is less than 150,000 to 200,000 bushels a year.

Wallace's estimate of the national consumption will be known as an "allotment." This figure then will be broken down into allotments for each state in proportion to the production of each for the five-year period up to June 30, 1932.

Progress Slow in Pledging Farmers To Plow Up Cotton, but Success Is Hoped for With Time Extended

Reports From Nine States Show General Acceptance of Plan, Especially Among Large Growers.

INQUIRY by the Post-Dispatch in the major cotton-growing states of the South disclosed yesterday that while the Administration's cotton-destruction program is progressing slowly almost everywhere, hope is expressed that the extension of the time limit will make success possible: Following are reports from nine states:

AUSTIN, Tex., July 8.—While Texas has not yet completed its quota of acreage in the cotton destruction program, the plan is working satisfactorily in most parts of the state, according to authorities in charge of the work. Farmers throughout the state have received the proposal favorably, as many as 90 per cent of the growers in some counties indorsing it. An extension of time for signing the acreage reduction contracts will undoubtedly enable Texas to reach its quota.

The total acreage planted to cotton in Texas this year is approximately 16,874,000 acres. It is estimated that enough Texas farmers will co-operate in the program to reduce this acreage by about 25 per cent, or 4,200,000 acres.

A total of 2500 growers in Shelby County affixed their signatures to the contracts and County Agent C. P. Scurlock predicts that 90 per cent of the 45,000 farmers in the county would sign by the expiration of the time limit. Nearly 400 farmers in San Saba County agreed to plough up nearly 6000 acres, or about 35 per cent of the total. In Tom Green County 700 growers agreed to take more than 20,000 acres out of cultivation. The 12 state prison farms will destroy acreage equal to the average for the counties in which they are situated. Former Gov. James E. Ferguson signed a contract calling for a reduction of 40 per cent of the cotton acreage on his farms in Bosque and Live Oak Counties.

Roosevelt Urged to Aid in Bringing Mississippi Into Line.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JACKSON, Miss., July 8.—The cotton acreage reduction program here is threatened with failure because too many farmers are sitting back waiting for the other fellow to sign reduction agreement. This is the situation in Mississippi, where less than 50 per cent of the assigned quota of 1,200,000 acres for abandonment had been pledged up to noon today.

Private telegrams are being sent to President Roosevelt urging him to put the power of his personality behind the program by issuing an emphatic warning to farmers that if the cotton reduction program fails, all other farm relief plans will fail; that the Federal Government cannot be expected in the future to grant crop loans or seed loans to those cotton growers who refuse to pledge acreage for reduction.

A message from Senator Pat Harrison states that he had placed this suggestion before President Roosevelt in a personal conference Friday afternoon and the President readily agreed with his views.

Agricultural agents at work securing pledges in the various counties, while publicly expressing optimism, privately admit they are discouraged, and feel that it is about time for President Roosevelt to use the big stick.

Almost Half of Required Acreage in Alabama Pledged.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MOBILE, Ala., July 8.—Reports of 70,171 additional acres contracted for retirement from cotton production today brought Alabama's total to 471,000 acres in the state-wide campaign to reduce the cotton lands of the state by 988,000 acres.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the campaign in Alabama, said that his forces expected to reach the State's quota by tonight. Farmers of Montgomery County, one of the largest cotton-growing counties in the State, unanimously indorsed the plan. The indorsement followed strong appeals by Dr. Duncan. Judge Leon McCord, ex-Gov. Bibb Graves, F. W. Gist, Montgomery, and J. C. Thompson, cotton growers, expressed the opinion that there would be a big decline in the cotton market between now and fall if the plan were not carried out.

Statistician Gist gave figures showing how much a farmer with 100 acres in cotton would profit by either the cash or option plan by reducing his crop 30 acres. On the other hand he gave figures showing how much this same farmer would lose on the entire crop if the plan were not put into effect and cotton should drop to 6 cents a pound. The profits by following the Government plan ranged from $50 to $750, depending on the yields and the cash or option plan chosen; the losses which this same farmer would suffer if the plan were not carried out ranged from $450 to $2000, depending upon the yields.

More Time Needed to Get Required Pledges in Missouri

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., July 8.—Additional time will be required in Southeast Missouri to obtain the quota of acreage in the Federal plan to curtail this year's cotton crop, it was announced, following a meeting of special cotton agents with C. E. Carter, area director of the campaign in Missouri.

Taking the seven counties in this district as a unit, only a little more than half the required amount of contracts had been signed today. In Butler County about one-third of the quota of 3000 acres had been pledged this morning.

An organization of 20 leading farmers comprise the committee in Butler County working under direction of F. H. Darnall, county farm agent.

"We have received co-operation from larger land owners, banks and insurance companies," said Darnall, "but the smaller farmers have been slow to sign contracts."

The largest land owners in Butler County co-operating are John C. Corrigan and Ed L. Abington, it is stated.

Eighty per cent of Scott County quota has been signed but progress is slower in New Madrid County. That county has 7468 acres already pledged. Mississippi County had only 725 acres of 7379 acre quota pledged today. While reports from Stoddard, Dunklin and Pemiscot Counties were termed "encouraging." The Missouri quota is 106,000 acres.

Campaign in Arkansas Progressing Satisfactorily.

MISS EARHART BREAKS COAST-TO-COAST MARK

Flies Across U. S. in Little More Than 17 Hours for Woman's Record.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., July 8.—Amelia Earhart Putnam, with a new women's transcontinental record in hand, brought her red monoplane down at Newark airport at 8:19 p. m. today, 17 hours 7½ minutes after she left Los Angeles.

Her former record was 19 hours and 4 minutes. The worst part of her flight, Mrs. Putnam said, was after she left Amarillo, Tex., where she stopped to let mechanics tighten a loosened latch. Between Los Angeles and Amarillo and between Columbus, O., and Newark she made her best time, she said, with tail winds most of the way.

She flew at an altitude of between 6000 and 8000 feet, and rounded several thunderstorms. Over the Alleghenies she encountered rain, she said.

She attributed the success of her flight in a great measure to her variable pitch propeller, which, she said, gave her greater speed and an easier takeoff and enabled her to get the maximum speed in the air. She estimated the elapsed time of her stops at two hours and a half.

During a great deal of the flight, Mrs. Putnam said, she was bothered by gas fumes in the cockpit. Her overalls were quite soiled with grease when she landed.

"I'm dirtier than ever before," she said, as she climbed out of the cockpit before a small crowd and greeted her husband, George Palmer Putnam. M. H. Goodnough of the New Jersey State Aviation Commission, timed her landing.

Mrs. Putnam climbed into the automobile her husband had brought to the field, took the wheel herself, apparently unfatigued by her long flight, and drove off to their home in Rye, N. Y.

Roscoe Turner holds the man's record for transcontinental flights, making the trip in 12 hours and 13 minutes last Nov. 14.

SCHOOL BUDGET FOR NEW YEAR TO BE $10,204,000

Figure Approved by Finance Committee Expected to Be Adopted by Board Tuesday Night.

10 PER CENT SALARY CUT CONTINUES

Automatic Pay Increases for Teachers Set Aside — No Further Reductions Probable This Year.

A school budget for the new fiscal year, appropriating $10,204,475 for all purposes, will be presented to the Board of Education Tuesday night. Adoption is anticipated, as the budget was approved by the Finance Committee Friday night.

The 10 per cent reduction of salaries of teachers and all other board employes, except those earning less than $1200 a year, which was put into effect a year ago, will be continued, but there will be no additional cut in pay. The 10 per cent will save about $850,000.

For the first time in many years the system of automatic increases of salary in the teaching and administrative corps of the instruction department, based on length of service, will be set aside. This will save $130,660. Out of 3184 men and women in this corps, 994 will not get the automatic raises they had looked for this year. Included [illegible] 911 teachers, 24 principals and 59 others. The board hopes to reinstate the system when finances permit.

The fiscal year began July 1. A tentative budget two months ago called for appropriation of $10,857,786, but it was known this would have to be reduced. The new budget calls for about $63,000 more than was spent in the last fiscal year. Expenditures last year were $10,140,826; in 1931-32, $13,401,227, and in 1930-31—the most expensive year on record—$15,202,795.

$2,769,510 to Start Year.

In the budget a year ago the board estimated it would have $1,987,916 cash on hand this July 1. It developed the cash for the start of the new year was $2,769,510. The board must have $2,000,000 or more cash at the start of each fiscal year to pay expenses until the bulk of its income is received in December. Estimated income for the new year is $10,196,590, the principal items being: Current taxes, $6,831,375; delinquent taxes, $1,500,000; merchants and manufacturers' taxes, $700,000; railroad taxes, $500,000; State school fund (general), $200,000; State text-book fund, $200,000; interest on permanent fund bonds, $88,815; State teachers' training fund, $45,000.

The estimate of receipts from delinquent taxes was increased by $300,000 last week because of the unexpected volume of collections of old taxes recently under a new law remitting penalties.

Receipts during the last fiscal year were $10,511,904, compared with an estimate of $10,809,399 at the start of the year. Receipts from current taxes were $541,080 less than was anticipated, but income from some other sources, including delinquent tax payments, was larger.

After deduction of a 5 per cent reserve required by law from the estimated income for the new year and deduction of the year's appropriations, the board figures it will have $2,251,794 cash on July 1, 1934. The appropriations, divided by departments, are: Instruction Department, $7,911,180; Building, $1,474,437; Supply, $697,338; Finance, $90,505; Auditing, $24,315; Attorney, $6700.

Appropriations Last Year.

Appropriations for the last fiscal year, aggregating $10,679,445, compared with expenditures, by departments, as follows: Instruction, $8,160,726 appropriated, $7,995,400 spent; Building, $1,493,018 appropriated, $1,455,725 spent; Supply, $852,490 appropriated, $556,224 spent; Finance, $139,918 appropriated, $104,218 spent; Auditing, $25,529 appropriated, $24,419 spent; Attorney, [illegible] appropriated, $4838 spent. All departments curtailed expenditures, as it was found income was falling below the expectation, so that total expenditures were $538,618 less than appropriations.

The largest item of appropriation is $7,543,351 for instructional salaries—74 per cent of the entire budget. These salaries amounted to $7,608,029 in the last year. Other large items are: Building operating salaries, $817,430, compared with $790,[illegible] last year; building maintenance expenses, $344,424, compared with $306,513 last year; warehouse supply stock, $306,650, compared with $241,778 last year.

$2,769,510 to Start Year.

In the budget a year ago the board estimated it would have $1,987,916 cash on hand this July 1. It developed the cash for the start of the new year was $2,769,510. The board must have $2,000,000 or more cash at the start of each fiscal year to pay expenses until the bulk of its income is received in December. Estimated income for the new year is $10,196,590, the principal items being: Current taxes, $6,831,375; delinquent taxes, $1,500,000; merchants and manufacturers' taxes, $700,000; railroad taxes, $500,000; State school fund (general), $200,000; State text-book fund, $200,000; interest on permanent fund bonds, $88,815; State teachers' training fund, $45,000.

The estimate of receipts from delinquent taxes was increased by $300,000 last week because of the unexpected volume of collections of old taxes recently under a new law remitting penalties.

Receipts during the last fiscal year were $10,511,904, compared with an estimate of $10,809,399 at the start of the year. Receipts from current taxes were $541,080 less than was anticipated, but income from some other sources, including delinquent tax payments, was larger.

After deduction of a 5 per cent reserve required by law from the estimateed income for the new year and deduction of the year's appropriations, the board figures it will have $2,251,794 cash on July 1, 1934. The appropriations, divided by departments, are: Instruction Department, $7,911,180; Building, $1,474,437; Supply, $697,338; Finance, $90,505; Auditing, $24,315; Attorney, $6700.

Appropriations Last Year.

Appropriations for the last fiscal year, aggregating $10,679,445, compared with expenditures, by departments, as follows: Instruction, $8,160,726 appropriated, $7,995,400 spent; Building, $1,493,018 appropriated, $1,455,725 spent; Supply, $852,490 appropriated, $556,224 spent; Finance, $139,918 appropriated, $104,218 spent; Auditing, $25,529 appropriated, $24,419 spent; Attorney, $[illegible]61 appropriated, $4838 spent. All departments curtailed expenditures, as it was found income was falling below the expectation, so that total expenditures were $538,618 less than appropriations.

The largest item of appropriation is $7,543,351 for instructional salaries—74 per cent of the entire budget. These salaries amounted to $7,608,029 in the last year. Other large items are: Building operating salaries, $817,430, compared with $790,[illegible] last year; building maintenance expenses, $344,424, compared with $306,513 last year; warehouse supply stock, $306,650, compared with $241,778 last year.

MISS YURI KAWAKAMI.

JAPANESE-AMERICAN GIRL TEACHING MUSIC

Young Woman at Washington U. Tells of Overcoming Parents' Objections.

Although both her parents are artists—one a writer and the other a painter—Miss Yuri Kawakhami, a student in the summer school at Washington University, had to overcome strong parental objections to study music and later to teach it.

Miss Kawakami is the daughter of Karl K. Kawakami, Japanese publicist, author of "Japan Speaks," and Washington correspondent for the Tokio newspaper Hochi Shimbun. Her mother is the former Mildred Clarke of Chicago, an amateur painter.

Chief objections to studying music came from her father. "Although he's been in America almost 30 years," she said, "father is somewhat of an Orinetal old-timer. He holds the traditional Oriental belief that music, since it's associated with Geisha girls, entertainers, and beggars, is not a dignified profession. He wanted me to study for the diplomatic service."

For a while she followed her father's wish and began acquiring the background necessary for diplomatic work. But she soon gave it up for music. Now she teaches piano to the children of diplomats in Washington.

She is not only American by birth but almost Occidental in appearance. Her eyes slant only when she smiles. She has the olive skin and the dark hair of the Oriental. She is taller than the average Japanese woman.

Her college attendance was varied—yet similar in name. After Swarthmore she studied at the University of Washington and at George Washington University in Washington, D. C. Now she's here at Washington University after having studied music at the New England Conservatory of Music in Boston.

She has taught for three years in the nation's capital and came here for the summer because she saw a course in progressive music teaching which she wanted. "I don't want to get in a rut, like some teachers," she explains* "I want to continue studying."

Last year Miss Kawakami got a touch of diplomacy and internationalism when she accompanied her brother to Geneva, where he went to study international law on a fellowship from Harvard. She also has a younger sister whom she describes as "The Japanees of the family, useless, and mostly decorative."

$80 HOLDUP IN E. ST. LOUIS BAR

Two Men Enter by Alley Door, Lock Porter in Closet.

Two men who entered by the alley door of a saloon at 507B Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, at 9:30 o'clock last night, locked the porter in a closet and while one pointed a revolver at the bartender, Frank Terry, 204A North Fifth street, the other rifled the cash register of $80. They fled in an automobile.

SAYS A. R. LINDBURG STOLE HIS WIFE'S LOVE

George Metcalfe, Employe, Files Suit Against Auto Distributor for $150,000.

Suit for $150,000 for alleged alienation of his wife's affections was filed yesterday by George Metcalfe against Arthur R. Lindburg, 5226 Westminster place, automobile distributer at 3556 Lindell boulevard.

Metcalfe and his wife, Thelma, who was also employed by Lindburg's company as secretary, according to the petition, were married in Feb., 1928, and separated in June, 1931. The petition further alleges that Lindburg began paying unusual attention to Mrs. Metcalfe in May, 1930, and that he subsequently gave her clothing and other gifts. It was also alleged that Mrs. Metcalfe and Lindburg rode on the same train from Reno, Nev., to California, and back to Cheyenne, Wyo., in June, 1931, when she was supposed to be on a visit to her parents in Toledo, O.

Lindburg could not be reached.

5-CENT CARFARE TOMORROW FROM 10 A. M. TO 4 P. M.

Plan of Giving Two Rides for 10 Cents Will Be Tested by P. S. Co.

Bargain carfare during the dull midday period will be charged by the Public Service Co. as an experiment, beginning tomorrow. The fare will be two rides for 10 cents, between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m.—the equivalent of the 5-cent fare, which last was charged here in 1918.

In the specified period a passenger paying the usual 10-cent cash fare will be entitled, on request, to a ticket good for a second ride up to 4 p. m. the same day. The ticket will have a different color daily—a new color for each of the six week days. It will be of thin pasteboard.

These tickets will not be issued on payment of fare with tokens, which sell four for 35 cents. Transfers may be obtained on both the first and second ride of the 2-for-10-cent fare.

MAN KNOCKED DOWN BY AUTO

Driver Goes On, but Witnesses Get License Number.

Thomas Lally, 48-year-old unemployed laborer, 3630 Evans avenue, suffered head injuries last night when he was knocked down by an automobile the driver of which did not stop.

Lally was crossing Cass avenue at Prairie avenue when a sedan, westbound on Cass, hit him. Witnesses furnished police with its license number.

TWO SUSPECTS HELD IN MACHINE GUN KILLING OF 5

Herbert Farmer Seized at Joplin, "Fur" Sammons, Chicago Gangster, at Kansas City.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 8.—The hunt by Federal and State officers for suspects in the slaying of five men at Union Station here June 17, began to get results with the arrest today of Herbert Farmer, 42 years old, at his home near Joplin, Mo., and the detention here of James (Fur) Sammons, listed as a "public enemy" in Chicago.

Farmer, known to police as a gambler and ex-convict, was the second man to be seized in the extreme search for the killers' gang.

He was arrested without resistance at his home seven miles south of Joplin, and, by order of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, was held incommunicado there.

Farmer's arrest was ordered after Federal agents had traced long distance telephone calls from Hot Springs, Ark., to his home. The calls, officers said, were placed the night after Frank Nash, train robber and escaped convict, was captured in Hot Springs, by Federal agents and Otto Reed, Chief of Police of McAlester, Ok.

Killing On June 17.

Nash, Reed, a Federal agent and two Kansas City detectives, were killed by machine gun fire outside the station here when they arrived the morning of June 17, en route to the Federal Penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kan., from which the fugitive escaped in 1930.

Officers said a telephone call went out from Farmer's home to a residence here, which officers said was occupied at the time by Verne C. Miller, said by officers to have been the man at the machine gun in the Union Station slaying.

Sammons was held on a fugitive warrant issued at the request of Baltimore, Md. authorities who said he was wanted in connection with a $45,000 robbery there.

His preliminary hearing was set for July 20.

Suspect in Kidnaping.

Officers said St. Paul police were investigating Sammons' movements in connection with the kidnaping June 15, of William Hamm, wealthy St. Paul brewer. When he was arrested police found in his possession more than $8500 in cash, including four $1000 bank notes. Police said the serial numbers of the notes found on Sammon would be checked to determine if they were a part of the $100,000 ransom paid for Hamm's release.

St. Paul officers, however, reported the notes paid in the Hamm ransom all were in denominations of $20 or less.

Officers here said Sammons definitely has been placed as a member of a gang headed by Miller now sought throughout the nation as one of the actual killers in the five-man slaying here. He has been at odds with the law for 25 years and is a former Capone gangster.

William Weissman, alias Bill Weiss, also is being sought as one of the slayers. He also was said by police to have been a member of Miller's gang.

Farmer in Kansas City "Few Hours After Killings," He Says.

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., July 8.—Five men from the offices of the Department of Justice at Kansas City arrived here tonight and began questioning Herb Farmer, arrested in connection with the slaying of four officers and their prisoner in Kansas City, June 17.

Farmer told the Joplin Chief of Police he went to Kansas City a few hours after the slayings "to visit several persons." He denied having any connection with the slayings.

NEW YORK BANK ROBBERS WAIT AN HOUR, GET $23,838

Bogus Policeman Makes Entry; Office Workers and Executive Disposed of As They Arrive.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—In a carefully planned and calmly executed holdup of a branch of the Corn Exchange Bank & Trust Co. today five robbers got $23,838 in cash after they waited for more than an hour for the bank's vaults to open.

One of the men, dressed in a policeman's uniform, tapped on the bank windows at 7:40 a. m. George Smith, a Negro porter, admitted him and faced a revolver. The intruder was joined by two confederates.

Twelve clerks, arriving for work, were met at the door by the bogus officer, who escorted them to a rear room. Four were found with picture wire. The holdup men chatted pleasantly with their victims, among whom were six women, and supplied them with cigarettes.

When Paul Miller, assistant manager, finally arrived, he was asked for the keys to the bank's vaults. Informed the vaults could not be opened until 8:45 a. m., the robbers waited.

As the clock reached the quarter hour, the "policeman" pushed Miller toward the vault, jabbing him with his revolver. The paper money was tossed into waste paper baskets and carried to the front office where it was placed in a brief case, a black bag and a large shopping bag. The robbers ignored $9000 in coin. They got away in an automobile in which two others waited.

MACARONI DEALERS WILL NOT ABSORB U. S. PROCESSING TAX

Wholesalers and Retailers Have, However, Met the Increased Cost of Manufacture.

Macaroni wholesalers and retailers have absorbed a half-cent-a-pound increase in the cost of manufacture due to higher flour prices, but additional increases of ¾ of a cent a pound because of additional increases in flour prices and ¾ of a cent required by the Federal processing tax on wheat, will be passed on to the consumer.

A statement that the processing tax would be absorbed by dealers, appearing in Friday's Post-Dispatch, was erroneous, L. S. Vagnino, vice-president of the National Macaroni Manufacturers' Association and manager of the American Beauty Macaroni Co., said yesterday.

The processing tax, provided by the agricultural adjustment act, Vagnino said, was intended to be reflected in the retail price.

RECOVERS REAL ESTATE TITLE, AWARDED $5685 FROM MAN

Mrs. Pauline Hagens, 74, Alleged Pair Broke Agreement to Provide Home for Her.

Mrs. Pauline Hagens, 3502 Pine boulevard, recovered title to real estate valued at $6500 from Morris Barnholtz, and his wife, Mrs. Hagens' niece, 3617A Wilmington avenue, and obtained a judgment for $5685 against Barnholtz in two decisions handed down yesterday by Circuit Judge Calhoun.

Mrs. Hagens, who is 74 years old, asserted she gave title to property at 7048 Tholozan avenue in consideration of an agreement by Barnholtz and his wife to provide a home for her. She said they compelled her to live at hotels and boarding houses.

In the other suit, Mrs. Hagens asked for recovery of money advanced to Barnholtz in 1925.

THREE DEAD, THREE MISSING IN FLOOD NEAR DENVER

Loss Estimated at Million—Cloudbbursts in Five Sections of Colorado — St. Louis Girl Rescued.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, July 8. — Six persons were listed as dead—with three bodies recovered—and property loss estimated at around $1,000,000 as a checkup progressed today after cloudbursts in five sections of Colorado.

The first bodies recovered in Bear Creek Canyon, where a 20-foot wall of water roaring down the narrow gorge inundated Morrison and Idledale, mountain resorts, were those of Mrs. Sylvia Soderman, of Denver; an unidentified man about 50 years old, and Raymond Conde, 12, of Denver.

A new flood swept down Bear Creek Canyon late today and sent 200 searchers, hunting for bodies of victims, scurrying to mountainsides and safety. Most of the additional loss was to roads above Idledale, an area that was not seriously damaged yesterday.

Missing, and regarded as virtually certain to have perished, are Leonard Conde, 14, brother of Raymond; Eunice Soderman, 4, a daughter of the dead woman; C. C. Los Angeles.

Many survivors told of narrow escapes in the canyon. Capt. and Mrs. Livingston Swetzel of New York and Mrs. Elizabeth Phillips of Omaha, a guest at their summer camp, left for Denver a short time before the storm broke. When they returned today their camp was in ruins.

Another cloudburst that deluged Eastern Colorado washed out several miles of railroad tracks and covered Transcontinental Highway 40 with water. Sharon Springs and Red Eye, Colo., were flooded.

Victor Haag of Huga saved himself, his wife and her sister, Mrs. Prantiss Howard of Leavenworth, Kan., after their automobile had been washed off the highway into a ditch. He crawled through a window of the car and kicked a hole in the top so the two women could climb out. They waited on top of the car for several hours until a passing motorist threw a rope to them.

St. Louis Girl Escapes in Storm, in Bear Creek Canyon.

Miss Marietta McIntyre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Rankin McIntyre, 5849 Clemens avenue, was caught in the flood in Bear Creek Canyon, but escaped. She is staying with her mother at Kittridge, near Denver.

C. E. Burton, missing, is a brother of Jack Burton, 4110 Maryland avenue.

LEOLA ALMA BRASE.

SHELTON GANG ASSOCIATE, WIFE ARRESTED ON MURDER CHARGE

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Stamper Indicted Last January in Death of Ralph Fulgham.

Dale Stamper, Shelton gang associate, and his wife, Goldie, were arrested in East St. Louis yesterday on an indictment charging murder, which was voted against them in Edwardsville in January, 1932.

The Stampers are accused of murdering Ralph Fulgham, East Side bootlegger, on Nov. 7, 1931. Madison County officials last night were unable to recall details of the shooting of Fulgham, but said they were informed he was killed at Stamper's home near the Fairmount racetrack.

Stamper and his wife were taken into custody by four deputy sheriffs who surrounded a house at 4707 Bond avenue, where they had been living.

Fulgham's body was taken to St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, the night of the shooting, by Ernie Davis, who had been wounded in the cheek. Davis told a story of being held up and fired on by four strangers, which police did not believe because there were no bullet marks in the automobile. In the rear of the car with Fulgham's body was a revolver with three empty and three loaded shells. Davis said he had no idea where it came from.

Stamper and his wife were convicted and sent to jail in 1928 for violating the Volstead law.

GIRL, 15, DROWNED TRYING TO AID TWO BOYS IN DISTRESS

Leola Alma Brase, Granite City, Falls Into Kaskaskia in Shoving Boat Out to Youths.

Leola Alma Brase, 15-year-old Granite City High School student, was drowned in the Kaskaskia River at Venedy Station, Ill., 35 miles southeast of St. Louis, late yesterday. Unable to swim, she shoved a rowboat out to two boys she saw in distress in deep water, lost her balance and fell off the bank into water 20 feet deep.

Leola, an only child, lived with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Brase, at 2326 East Twenty-fifth street, Granite City. She left home yesterday morning at 4 o'clock with Leota Phillips, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Phillips, 2615 East Twenty-fifth street, and the Phillips' son.

Identify of the two boys, who were saved, was not learned. Brase, a steel worker, and a Granite City undertaker hurried to Venedy to assist in the search for the body after several men who live there had dived for it in vain, in the swift water.

Coroner Paul H. Dahlke of Washington County, who went to the scene, said he would not set the time for an inquest until the body is recovered. Venedy Station is on Illinois Highway No. 15, near Okawville.

MUNICIPAL OPERA RAINED OUT, FIRST TIME THIS SEASON

About 3500 in Forest Park Theater When Showers Prevent Performance.

Rain, starting early yesterday and continuing intermittently during the afternoon and evening, caused the cancelation last night of the performance of "Nina Rosa" at the Municipal Opera in Forest Park.

The cancelation was the first this season after 33 performances. About 3500 persons were in the theater when the opera was called off at 8:50 o'clock.

Tickets may be exchanged for others to the last performance of "Nina Rosa" tonight or to any performance of "The Student Prince" this week. Exchanges may be made at the box office in the Arcade Building from 10 a. m. to 5 p. m. or at the box office in Forest Park from noon to 9 p. m.

GEORGE A. RADFORD DIES IN WISCONSIN

Former Member of Paul Brown & Co. Retired From Business Last January.

George A. Radford, former member of the firm of Paul Brown & Co., stock and bond brokers, died yesterday at his summer cottage at Plum Lake, Wis., following a long illness. He was 69 years old.

Mr. Radford suffered from a kidney ailment and retired from active business last January. He and Mrs. Radford closed their home at 406 Hawthorne avenue, Webster Groves, and went to Wisconsin for the summer.

Born in Boone County, Missouri, he taught school at Montgomery City, Mo., until his marriage to Miss Julia Brown, daughter of the late Paul Brown, tobacco manufacturer. He became associated with Mr. Brown in the tobacco business and later was connected with a bank at Marshall, Mo. In 1919 he became a partner in Paul Brown & Co.

Despite his retirement from active business, Mr. Radford retained the presidency of the Paul Brown Realty & Investment Co. He was also chairman of the board of Central College at Fayette, and last year was president of the Civitan Club. He was one of four co-executors of his father-in-law's estate, valued for inheritance tax purposes at more than $13,000,000.

In addition to his wife, a brother, Robert Radford of Moberly, Mo., survives. Funeral services will be held here at a time to be announced.

Laugh at summer heat

Mavis Talcum Gives This Positive Protection Against Discomfort

IN a single day a revelation in comfort. Serene, lasting comfort, even in warmest weather. Your whole body cool. This is the promise the new Mavis Talcum Powder bath brings to you.

To have lasting freedom from the annoyance of summer heat, do this. After your bath, hot or cold, dry the body thoroughly without rubbing. Then, before dressing, sprinkle yourself completely, from head to heels, with Mavis Talcum Powder. Apply it liberally. Rub on gently or pat all over. Be particular that all surfaces which rub or chafe easily are especially well covered. Do this as often as you bathe. The whole simple operation takes hardly more time to tell it. But doing this, summer heat will not trouble you.

A Scientific Safeguard

Simple but thoroughly scientific. This is what happens: Mavis Talcum is specially processed. When dusted on the body, it provides a tiny film of lasting protection. It adds to the ability of the skin to throw off excess heat. It guards the whole body against outside heat. Skin temperature is made measurably lower.

Only Mavis Talcum Gives This Protection

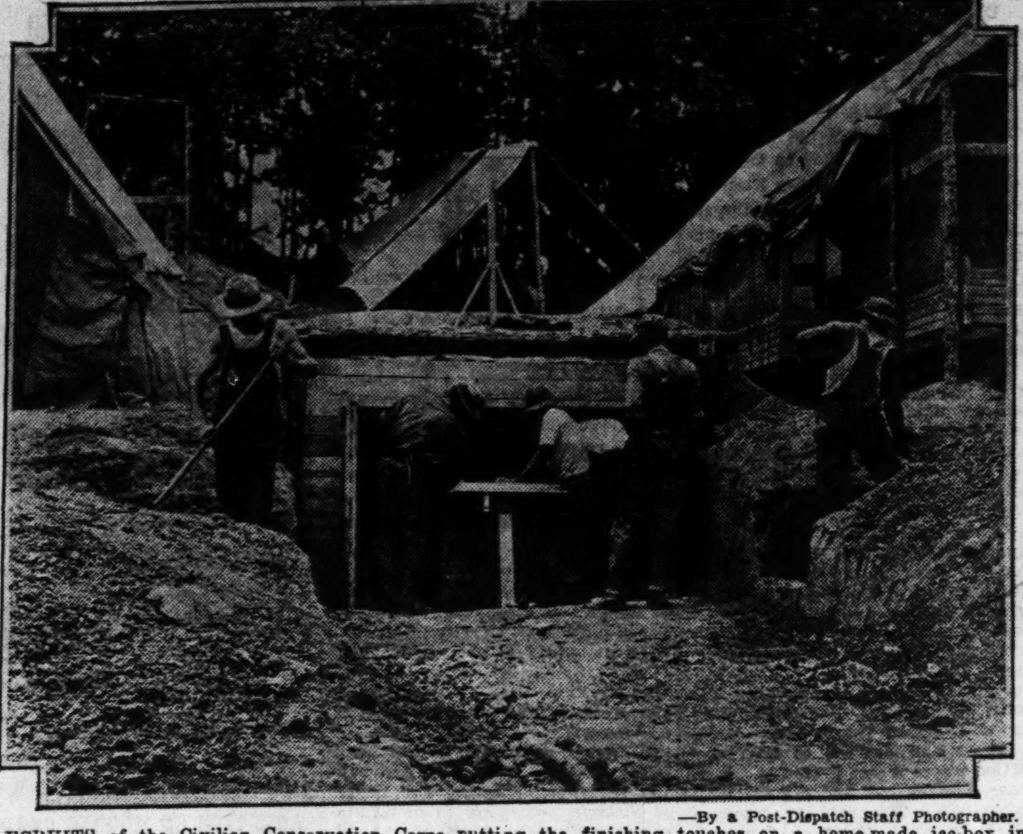
To use Mavis Talcum Powder, as directed, is the only way to gain this comfort. No matter how liberally you employ it, no ill effects can follow its use. It does not clog the delicate pores of the skin. It interferes in no way with natural skin functioning.

Try this new delight in comfort. You can actually feel the difference at once. You will look cooler—be cooler. Now summer holds no terrors for you.

Mavis Talcum is sold in three convenient sizes— 25c, 50c and $1.00. V. VIVAUDOU, INC.

Don't clog your pores with cheap Talcum. Your body deserves the best.

Scene in Forestry Camp at Meramec State Park



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

RECRUITS of the Civilian Conservation Corps putting the finishing touches on a home-made ice-box in their camp.

Around Clock in Camp Of Conservation Corps At Meramec State Park

Reveille and Taps Sounded in Harrow Disc—Recruits Grow Hale and Hearty Doing Useful Work.

WITH a harrow disc replacing the bugle and a rough hewn cave as a commissary, 200 young men from Kansas City and points in Central Missouri are encamped in Meramec State Park, near Sullivan, one of five Civilian Conservation Camps established in this State for the unemployed.

Before them lies the task of putting into practical effect the reforestation plan of President Roosevelt which almost overnight has resulted in the mobilization of nearly 300,000 recruits and the creation of 1600 camps in different sections of the country.

Prepared to do the work at hand, the recruits have entered on a park improvement program designed to transform the 7000-acre tract into a place of ordered beauty, with its remotest reaches readily accessible to visitors.

An elaborate system of foot and bridle paths is contemplated leading to natural vistas—"wildness" will remain unspoiled—unknown to most St. Louisans who drive 65 miles or so to the park only to see but a few acres of it.

Initial projects, already under way, include the creation of new beaches along Meramec River, enlargement of some present ones to obviate congestion, and the preparation of systematic fire-prevention facilities.

20 Miles of Fire Lanes.

Main thoroughfares leading into the reservation are being improved. Construction has begun of 22 miles of secondary roadways and about 20 miles of fire lanes. Trees will be thinned wherever advisable and thick undergrowth eliminated.

A pick and shovel battalion was engaged yesterday in clearing the hitherto impassable road to the big fire tower, so that it may be reached by automobile. Still another gang was occupied clearing away underbrush and dead timber along the river, causing a 600-foot sandy beach to begin to take form where only a dense and uninviting tangle of bushes was apparent a few days ago.

Camp life, scheduled now to last for about six months, is just getting into full swing. The camp itself is in lively contrast to the morning of June 16, when an advance guard of 45 made camp for the remainder of the contingent, all of whom were in the mess line a few days later.

Against the flank of a hillside near the entrance to the park their tents are pitched, official headquarters of "Co. 739 of the C. C. C." Other companies of similar size are at Big Spring State Park, Roaring River State Park, Indian Trail State Park and Sam A. Baker State Park, in Missouri.

Camp Morale Good.

But already the "men of Co. 739"—most of them are nearer the 18-year minimum age requirement than the 25-year maximum—aver their outfit is the best in the State, bar none, so steadily has camp morale developed despite a mixture of city and country youths and a representation of everything from clerks and wood carvers to automobile mechanics and farm boys.

Urban youths, accustomed to the mechanized life of the city, are growing accustomed to sights and sounds which were of strange and eerie import to them the first few days and nights in camp.

And Jim Jones from Thirty-first street and Sam Smith from a Benton County farm, tent-mates now, find they have a lot in common, share in the daily work, sleep together; play together on a baseball diamond taking shape near the camp. True, the country recruit twirls a more expert horseshoe in the games but rivalries are friendly and differences are settled with the gloves in the company streets.

No Military Formalities.

There is nothing military about the camp, save the army equipment, and the gold insignia on the shoulders of the commandant, Maj. G. S. Brownell of Fort Leavenworth, under whom the recruits were conditioned prior to coming to camp. There are no salutes, no formal discipline, not even the traditional bugle.

Instead, lusty blows on a harrow disc sound reveille at 5:45 a. m. and taps at 11 p. m. When mess call clamors through the camp, all eat the same food, stout army fare prepared by cooks trained from among the campers. Six cooks man the big field range and at night two bakers prepare bread for the next day.

Major Brownell and Capt. C. G. Kershaw, also of Fort Leavenworth, saunter through the camp, pausing now and then for an informal word or two, keeping a general eye on its many activities. Only an occasional suggestion is necessary, recruits eagerly seizing on new devices to make camp life comfortable and facilitate their work. Lieut. R. S. Metheny, a Medical Reserve Officer from Lincoln, Neb., the only other officer in camp, said the health of the campers had been excellent; announced they had gained in weight and strength since living and working in the open.

They look it. Many of the workers are stripped to the waist, backs bronzed by the sun, muscular arms quick to do everything from stoking the fire under the field range to cutting down trees. One camper, a wood carver, insists on the hardest work; says he wants to "get toughened up." There are few shirkers—and their section mates deal with them.

"Look out, here we come," rose a shout yesterday as 24 men, 12 on a side, carried a 45-foot oak pole into camp, set it down ready to be raised into position as a flag pole. Then they raced a few rods across the field, gathered about one of four rock-rimmed pools they had constructed.

Home-Made Ice Box.

Damming a stream, the campers formed separate pools, designating each one. In one they wash their hands and faces; in another they bathe; in others they wash their clothes. A big hole, circled by rocks, marked "For Razor Blades" is probably the biggest razor blade container in the world.

Ingenuity is manifested in other ways. A crew was busy putting the finishing touches on an ice box, built into the bank but a few yards from one of the tents in which food is prepared. Across the company street was a rustic cave, timbered into the hill—a comparatively cool commissary.

One of the tents contains a field telephone, connecting with the Sullivan exchange, about four miles away. Word may be instantly flashed when an army plane lands on a flying field which the campers laid out near the town. Wherever feasible, the army has built flying fields near the conservation camps.

Under the trees, incongruously enough, is a red plush barber's chair, salvaged from some old equipment at Fort Leavenworth for $2. It is the pride of the camp. A camp barber stands over it with razor and scissors.

Another popular spot is the camp postoffice. Many of the letters received by the recruits speak gratefully of the $25 monthly that goes to dependants back home out of a $30 wage.

Little Home-Sickness.

Although most of the campers, many of whom are from Chillicothe, never have been away from home before cases of home-sickness have been rare. They have been too busy to be homesick, and a progressive program of camp improvements is calculated to stave off the day when the novelty has worn off.

More than half the company has had at least two years in high school; about 86 recruits are high school graduates; a few have attended college; one served in the navy—he regards camp life as "the easiest time I ever had."

Work of the campers in the park is planned partly by C. A. Doland, a Federal park engineer, who has outlined "nature trail" projects and other developments designed not only to change the reservation for the better but also to increase its popularity.

When the day's work is over, at 4:30 p. m., the workers hasten to amuse themselves, seemingly not tired by seven hours of hauling wood, grubbing up bushes or making little rocks out of big ones. Nearly everybody, including the Major, gets in a swim before taps and there's always a baseball game going.

When it gets too dark to play baseball, the camp becomes a place of soft lights and shadows. Candles gleam from tents where recruits write home; the embers by the field range send a ruddy reflection down into the valley. Presently the strum of guitars—several of the corps play well—permeates the little encampment; soon impromptu choruses rise in songs which have been a part of camping life for many years.

Wins Air Race in England.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 8.—Capt. Geoffrey de Havilland today won the annual King's Cup air race around England, completing the four-circuit 800-mile course just 30 feet ahead of Flight Lieut. E. C. T. Edwards. A. J. Stryan was third and Capt. Ed Ayre fourth. De Havilland averaged 139.14 miles an hour on the final lap. Lady Mary Bailey, one of the two women to start, failed to qualify in the third round. Mrs. A. S. Butler, the other, finished sixth.

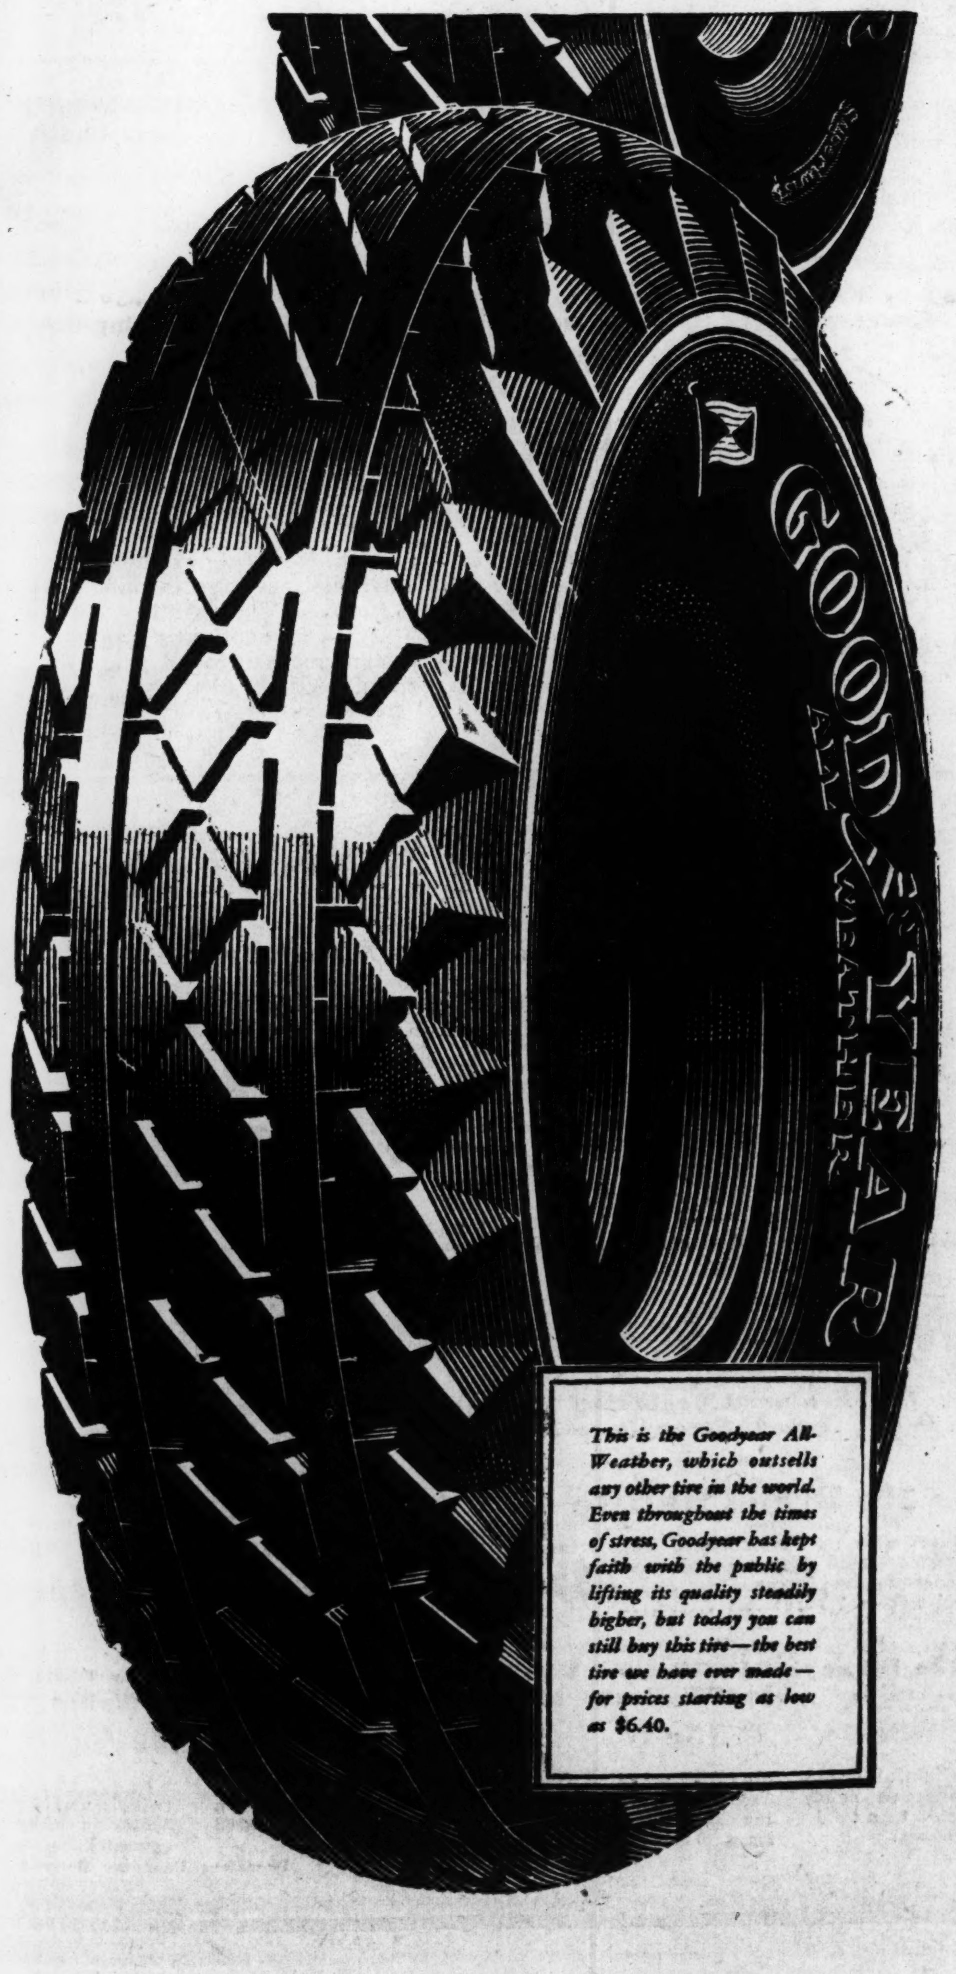
In War, in Prosperity, and through two Depressions it has stood the Acid Test of VALUE



This is the Goodyear All-Weather, which outsells any other tire in the world. Even throughout the times of stress, Goodyear has kept faith with the public by lifting its quality steadily higher, but today you can still buy this tire—the best tire we have ever made—for prices starting as low as $6.40.

HERE is pictured a tire which needs no introduction to any car owner in America.

You will recognize the massive, sharp-edged blocks of its sure-footed tread that has symbolized safety since the early days of the automobile.

You will identify it as the Goodyear All-Weather—the tire that has outsold and outserviced any other tire for more than half a generation—in war, in prosperity, and through two depressions.

Even during the past three years it has topped any other tire, at any price—in sales.

Let us examine what this means.

First of all, it means that shrewd car owners want quality and safety more than they want false savings.

It means they have clearly seen it takes more than low price to make a bargain.

While hysterical competition in every field of business has pounded down quality to pound down price, and when a hard-pressed public has been bombarded from every side with "bargains"—so many millions have put goodness, and safety, and honest value above price that more people have bought this one tire than any other tire in the world.

WE believe there is one simple reason for this loyalty to Goodyear—and that is, Goodyear has kept on keeping faith with the public.

Straight through the recent years when all tire prices were forced lower and lower by competition, Goodyear has consistently raised quality higher. The rubber in the tread has been made tougher. The non-skid life of the tread has been increased year by year. This has meant more thousands of miles of safety—longer wear, greater value from the whole tire.

When you ride on this tire, it tells the world you are one of the people who recognize sheer value.

It evidences your judgment of safety, in choosing the only tire with All-Weather tread center-traction which puts grip where the tire contacts the road—and the genuine protection from blowouts built in every ply of the tire with the patented cord material Supertwist.

It proves you're alert to the new spirit of the times which puts the most for the money above cheapness at a price—and it proves your foresight, in buying quality now while tire prices are still low.

Considering how magnificently this tire has stood every acid test of value, isn't it well to ask yourself—do you wish to, can you afford to, buy any other tire?

ART MUSEUM VISITED BY 327,941 IN YEAR

Report Says Exhibits Begin to Tax Capacity of Building—Extensions Urged.

The City Art Museum was visited by 327,941 persons in the year which ended April 30, according to the report of the director, Meyric R. Rogers, published yesterday. This was a gain of about 9000 over the attendance for the previous fiscal year, 1931-32, and was the second largest annual attendance in the record of the Museum.

August was the best month of the year in attendance, with 39,075, and April was second with 38,513. August is usually the best month of the year in attendance at the Museum.

The Administrative Board of Control, headed by Louis La-Beaume, in its report to the Mayor, states that the collections are beginning to tax the capacity of the Museum, which dates from the Louisiana Purchase Exposition of 1904.

"Realizing these facts," the board says, "the Chamber of Commerce has wisely included an item for building extensions to the Museum in the schedule of its request for Federal consideration in connection with the pending Industrial Control and Public Works Bill. Preliminary plans have been drawn, and, should the Government act favorably on this item, actual building operations could be started in the near future, with immediate stimulation to employment."

Net receipts of the Museum for 1932-33 are shown as $231,879, of which $225,148 was from tax collections. The Museum, under a tax ordinance voted by the people, receives the proceeds of a tax of 2 cents on the $100 valuation, the Zoo getting an equal rate, 2 cents, and the Public Library 4 cents.

For purchase of art objects, $104,321 was spent; for building improvements and equipment, $66,843; and for salaries and wages, $69,797. Net disbursements were $274,031, or $42,152 more than the year's receipts.

MRS. JULIA ANN ROBINSON, 95, DIES; RESIDENT HERE 85 YEARS

Oldest Son, 74, Succumbed Six Weeks Ago; She Came to St. Louis From England.

Mrs. Julia Ann Robinson, who had lived in St. Louis continually since 1848, died yesterday of infirmities at her home, 221 Florida avenue. She was 95 years old, the widow of William J. Robinson, who died in 1915.

Mrs. Robinson came here as a girl from Burslem, England, her birthplace. At first she lived on Green street, now Lucas avenue, in the building near Fourth street later occupied by the old Rock Bakery. Soon after her marriage in 1857 she and her husband moved to the Florida street address, where they reared a family of 13 children and four adopted orphans. The eldest son, 74 years old, died six weeks ago.

Surviving are three sons, Robert A., William L. and George A. Robinson, all of St. Louis; and two daughters, Mrs. Julia von Stade of St. Louis and Mrs. G. C. Graham of Los Angeles. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Provost undertaking establishment, 3710 North Grand boulevard. Burial will be in Bellefontaine Cemetery.

REPORTS FROM NINE COTTON STATES SHOW PROGRESS OF CAMPAIGN

progressed very satisfactorily. He said that figures and estimates had been forwarded to Washington where they would be announced. Reid would not say whether he expected Arkansas to attain its quota of 1,002,000 acres, but did say that he had never experienced greater interest by the farmers in any other movement.

The acreage reduction campaign has been conducted by holding meetings in each county under Reid's general direction. These meetings have been well attended in almost all instances and a willingness to co-operate has prevailed, Reid said. This is true with reference to large plantation owners and small farmers alike. R. E. Lee Wilson of Wilson, Mississippi County, and one of the largest planters, offered to plow under 7000 acres. G. F. Watson of Drew County, who had planted but two acres in cotton, agreed to plow under one acre and to take an option on 100 pounds of lit cotton in payment.

Tennessee Will Reach Full Quota, Administrator Predicts.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 7. — About half of the Tennessee quota in the cotton acreage reduction campaign has been pledged, according to C. E. Brehm, State administrator of the campaign. Brehm predicts that the State will reach its full quota. About 150,000 acres of the State's quota of 317,000 acres have been pledged by about 11,000 farmers, Brehm estimated. The reports have not been fully checked.

The campaign has been conducted through the county agricultural agents. Generally the farmers were called to a meeting, and pledges were received after acreage reducton had been explained. In one instance a Chamber of Commerce provided teams to carry on the work. The campaign has been slowed up in this State by lack of workers for cotton acreage inspection on individual farms.

Three growers in the western part of the State signed for a total reduction of 1900 acres. John Jackson, Tiptonville, signed for 700 acres; Jack Bratton Dyersburg, 600 acres, and George Mukes, Stanton, 600 acres.

Cash Benefits With Options Popular in Georgia.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 8. — Confidence that Georgia would subscribe its quota toward the cotton acreage reduction campaign was expressed by J. Phil Campbell, director of the extension service in Georgia, as figures were given showing Georgia farmers had signed up so far to eliminate 397,716 acres. Georgia's tentative quota was fixed at 940,000 acres.

Cash benefits without options in the contracts submitted so far from Georgia amount to $1,679,319. Cash benefits with options amount to $2,794,360.

Agents of the extension service report little opposition to the cotton crop curtailment plan, although some growers have not signed the acreage reduction agreement yet. County Agent Truitt reports one large planter in Fulton County, Mrs. Susie McClure, who usually has more than 300 acres in cotton, has agreed to take out one-half of her crop.

Oklahoma Campaign Not Finished, But Workers Are Keeping On.

OLAHOMA CITY, Ok., July 8.— Arriving at the original deadline Saturday with their task not nearly finished, cotton acreage reduction workers had orders to keep on working.

The cotton program in Oklahoma has progressed rapidly this week since a new supply of contract blanks arrived. Some of the local committees already have finished their work and the others should be through by Tuesday night.

D. P. Trent, Oklahoma A. and M. College, extension director in charge of cotton reduction, said he had been ordered not to release more figures on the success of the campaign. The latest figures compiled, after six days of campaigning, showed the farmers were readily accepting the plan, but the total acreage reduction was far from what was expected.

Co-operative leaders attribute this to the fact that the organization could not reach the farmers.

In Oklahoma County, in which Oklahoma City is situated, 181 farmers agreed to abandon 2124 acres out of a total of 5976 acres in the county. Almost as many more contracts have been signed in this count, but due to errors must be resigned. Farmers in this community are closed to the agencies, and are readers of newspapers, and therefore had a good understanding of the plan. The growers in more remote communities have been slower to join the plan.

South Carolina Administrator Hopeful if Given Time.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 8.—Plans for an intensive cotton acreage reduction campaign in South Carolina, to bring to a conclusion the campaign started a week ago, were launched for South Carolina here today, representatives of various civic organizations meeting with Dr. W. W. Long, director of the agricultural extension service in this state. Doctor Long said that 175,000 acres had been contracted for, mostly within the last few days, and he was satisfied 500,000 could be signed up, but that it took more time than had been expected.

"Washington had no idea," Long said, "what a tremendous task it had imposed in asking the Extension Service to reach every grower of cotton and get his signature, if possible, within eight days." Long feels South Carolina will sign up for its allotment and the only reason it has not already done so is that it has been impossible to see the required number of people in the time allowed. With the extension granted by Washington and with the aid of others, who will assist in interviewing the farmers, Long expects the campaign in this state to succeed.

$535,000 PUBLIC WORKS PROPOSAL AT ST. CHARLES

A $535,000 public works program for St. Charles, including the erection of a $300,000 municipal power plant was outlined yesterday by Mayor Wayne S. O'Neal in a letter to the director of relief and construction for Missouri, who had requested officers of various municipalities to suggest projects which would be financed partly by Federal funds.

Mayor O'Neal, who drew up the program after a meeting of the Municipal League for Home Rule, included in it the power plant, although a bond issue for a municipal plant twice has been defeated at the polls this year. The league supported the project. At present, St. Charles obtains its electricity from the Union Electric Light & Power Co.

Other suggested projects include a $60,000 water filteration system, storm sewers and street improvements.

PRESIDENT LIKELY TO GET TEXTILE CODE THIS WEEK

Delay in Submission Said to Be Due to Extreme Care Which Johnson Is Taking on Report.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—An administration effort to allay industrial fears of forcible unionization under the codes of fair competition became evident today, together with an indication that the textile code, first submitted, would be placed before President Roosevelt early next week.

The delay in putting the cotton agreement before the Chief Executive for final study and promulgation was authoritatively attributed to extreme care on the part of Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator. Twice he has returned to subordinates for revision the report in which he will review for the President the agreement and the testmony collected in the public hearings on it. Finally, last night he went to work on it himself.

Forecasts that codes would be submitted very shortly by other basic industries continued, but there were signs also that some of the non-union trades, though ready to submit wage-raising and work-limiting agreements, were fearful of the provision of the industrial act granting labor right to organize without any interference from the employers.

In the light of this, significance was attached to a statement by Johnson asserting that "it is not the duty of the (Recovery) administration to act as an agent to unionize labor in any industry and, as has repeatedly been stated, it will not so act."

Johnson referred specifically to "circulars and other literature" allegedly distributed by labor unions, saying the purpose of the recovery act was to unionize labor "or that the only way labor can secure benefits under that act is to join this or that union."

Among leading non-unionized industries are steel and automobiles, as well as a large section of the coal fields. Codes from all three have been awaited here for some time and every effort has been made to speed them up. Both automobile and steel industries have been running on short week schedules to share employment, and some business quarters maintain that their wage rates are in line with any reasonable minimum levels that might be established by codes.

Industrial attorneys have been studying the law closely to see whether it may be interpreted to permit employers to bar outside organizers while allowing their own employes to organize voluntarily among themselves. On the other hand, labor organizers have been seeking opportunities to tie these vast unorganized masses of labor in with existing organizations.

Johnson said his administration would see to it that the codes fulfilled the terms of collective bargaining and organizing safeguards to labor in the law, but he added:

"Collective bargaining under adequate Government sanction and supervision should hold no fears for the fair-minded industrialist; on the other hand the national recovery administration pledges itself through its labor advisory board to obtain a fair deal for labor in any industry presenting a code, whether the employes are organized or not."

While answering the labor union claims, he also called incorrect statements attributed to industrial concerns trying to convince their workers that they must join new company unions to get any benefit from the law.

Meanwhile a committee of 10 coal operators, representing mainly union fields, pushed on with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America in a conference out of which they hope to draft a code for submission to Johnson next week. The Southern coal interests, who oppose unionization, are working separately and were understood to have nearly completed a second code. There was talk also of other separate codes.

Representatives of the lumber industry met with Johnson today to discuss the code drawn by it, which has not yet been submitted.

The one unsettled angle of the cotton textile industry, the "stretch-out system," under which employes are given more machines to tend without increased wages, will get the attention of a special committee in hearings to be held July 13 and 14 in Spartansburg and Greenville, S. C.

The committee yesterday met in New Haven, Conn., to review a study of the "stretch-out" made at Yale.

Off on Long, Long Journey

LINCOLN ELLSWORTH and his wife left the Newark, N. J., airport on July 6 en route to California, thus starting his first leg of his trip to the Antarctic. From California he will go to New Zealand, and from there his trip to the South Polar regions will begin.

AT 75 OLDEST U. S. SAILOR IS MUSTERED OUT OF NAVY

Chief Boatswain's Mate I. O. Castles Began Active Duty in 1873; Left Sea for 40 Years.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 8.—At 75, Chief Boatswain's Mate Isaac O. Castles retired as Uncle Sam's oldest sailor today with a service record dating back to 1873, before many of the Admirals now on active duty were born.

It was an occasion at the destroyer base when the man who had served before the mast of the Navy's famous old square-rigged clippers and on the steel decks of its modern dreadnoughts was mustered out.

Capt. C. W. Nimitz, commander of the base, called a special inspection of the crew in Castles' honor, and the retiring sailor, with grandchildren as old as some of them, bade a formal good-by to his shipmates.

Castles had not served continuously in the uniform he donned 60 years ago as a boy from the farm near Armo, Wis., where he was born in 1858. He left the sea and spent 40 years on a farm near Salem, Ore., re-enlisting in 1918 to serve on a transport during the World War. Twenty years of service completed, he became eligible for retirement with pay today and left immediately after being discharged for Aumsville, Ore., where he now owns a farm and where his family lives.

SENECA C. TAYLOR GETS $6200 FEE AS RECEIVER

Report Shows Carthage Marble & Lime Co. Has $15,800 Cash Balance.

A fee of $6291 was allowed yesterday by Circuit Judge Hogan to Seneca C. Taylor as compensation for services as receiver of the Carthage Marble & White Lime Co., 3900 Chouteau avenue. Taylor was appointed June 29, 1931, and the award is to cover services from that time until July 5 of this year.

The allowance is at the rate of $60 a week. A report filed shows a cash balance of $15,823 in the estate. The receiver was named on petition of Mrs. Clara Bromschwig in behalf of herself and as trustee for Joseph Remmers, stockholders. George S. Beimdiek is president of the company.

ST. LOUIS ACCIDENTAL DEATHS

Rate Second Lowest of Larger Cities First 5 Months of 1933.

St. Louis had the second lowest rate in accidental deaths for the first five months of 1933 among eight cities with population of more than 500,000, according to the Safety Council.

Accidental deaths for the period totaled 138, compared with 197 for the first five months of 1932.

France to Sign Four-Power Pact.

PARIS, July 8.—Premier Daladier today postponed his projected visit to Rome for a private talk with Premier Mussolini until later in the summer. He instructed Henry de Jouvenel, French Ambassador at Rome, to sign the four-Power peace pact for France, and this is expected to be done during the next few days.

OLD FRIENDS KILL EACH OTHER

"Terrible Mistake," Relatives of Spring Valley, Ill., Men Say.

By the Associated Press.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., July 8.—Friends and neighbors for years, Joseph Stermer and Sylvester Prusiatis killed each other today as a result of what relatives said was "all a terrible mistake." Prusiatis, a bachelor, sought refuge in Stermer's home after two men he thought to be robbers had demanded entrance to his home. Stermer was glad to give shelter to, and protect, his friend. Peering out a window of the Stermer home, Prusiatis heard a noise behind him. He turned quickly and fired two shots. Both bullets struck his friend Stermer in the head.

Stermer ran into another room, obtained a shotgun, pursued Prusiatis to the porch and beat him to death with the weapon. Mrs. Stermer said she thought the pain of the wounds had driven her husband insane.

EQUAL RIGHTS PARTY PAGEANT

Women at Washington Draft Appeal to Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Banners once used by pickets at the White House in the woman suffrage campaign were used in a pageant presented here tonight as part of a National Woman's party campaign for the equal rights amendment.

The climax of the pageant was the reading of a resolution addressed to President Roosevelt, protesting against "wholesale dismissals of women from Government service" and asking him to aid in the passage of an equal rights amendment. Announcement was made that the petition would be "carried to the White House as soon as an appointment can be made."

'MODEL HUSBAND' ACCUSED OF BEATING WOMAN TO DEATH

Admits to Present Wife He Is Wanted for Killing Bride Seven Years Ago.

PITTSBURGH, July 8. — Mrs. Bertha Hindman Callahan tonight heard the man she described as a "model husband" admit he is wanted in California on a charge of fatally beating a former wife seven years ago.

Earlier before Magistrate Leo Rothenberg, Callahan admitted his name is Murphy, and that he is wanted in Long Beach on a manslaughter charge. California authorities telegraphed that they are arranging extradition papers.

Returning to their 15-month old son, with whom the two had hitchhiked to Pittsburgh a few days ago, Mrs. Callahan said she hopes to accompany Callahan back to Long Beach to face the charge.

Traced to Pittsburgh through a letter, Callahan's arrest this week ended a seven-year search. He is accused of having beaten his bride of three weeks so badly in their Long Beach, Cal., home that she died a few days later.

Long Beach authorities said Murphy has not been divorced from his first wife, Mrs. Claude McNay Murphy, of Peoria, Ill., a school teacher, whom he is alleged to have married 12 years ago.

Robbed of $26 in Smoke Shop.

Walter Farr, odd-jobs man at the Wellston Smoke Shop, 6213 Easton avenue, was held up in the shop at 6 o'clock yesterday morning by two men who escaped with $26, the contents of the cash register. Farr was alone in the place when the robbers entered, asked for cigarettes and then produced pistols. They took his keys and locked both doors when they left, throwing the keys into the back yard.

SALE OF CONCRETE COMPANY

$100,000 Reported Paid for Contractors' Material Concern.

The Contractors' Material Co., Fyler avenue and the Missouri Pacific Railroad, was sold yesterday. The consideration, it is understood, was about $100,000.

Sellers were Lewis J. Stiers and Harold C. Stiers, brothers, who were the sole owners. The purchase was made by William H. Armstrong, a lawyer, and Clifford Corneli, a contractor. Armstrong said the purchase was made for clients whose identity he could not disclose. Corneli could not be reached. Harold Stiers said he thought an out-of-town syndicate was the purchaser. The company, formed a year and a half ago, supplies ready-mixed concrete for contractors. Lewis Stiers, president, expects to continue temporarily as manager.

Flyers From Haiti Reach New York

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Capt. J. Erroll Boyd and Robert Lyon landed at Floyd Bennett Field this afternoon in the veteran monoplane Columbia, completing a round trip flight between New York and Haiti. They flew here from Washington, where a five-pound sack of Haitian coffee was left for President Roosevelt.

Three Killed When Tire Blows Out.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 8.—Three persons were killed and two others injured late today when a tire on their automobile blew out and threw the car against a tree three miles south of here. The dead: M. J. Corbin, 70 years old, Washburn, Ill.; his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Florine Pennington, 31, Chicago, and Mrs. Pennington's daughter, Nancy, 6. Corbin's wife, Anna, 68, suffered a skull injury, and R. B. Pennington, husband of Mrs. Pennington and driver of the automobile, minor injuries.

Ford Motor Company
Dearborn, Mich.

To people who want something for nothing.

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

There are some things we refuse to do to sell a car. We like sales, but fair-dealing and the confidence of our customers are desirable, too.

For one thing, we refuse to poison anyone's mind against another make of car. We know what our car is and what it will do, and we are ready to tell you about that. But to imply defects in another car is not our business.

We have done our utmost to encourage intelligent buying of motor cars by showing purchasers how to protect their own interests. All that a good producer asks is a customer who knows quality when he sees it. An intelligent purchaser will speedily conclude that only a bad product requires bad sales methods.

We refuse, also, to adopt the role of tricky trader—that is, pretending to offer you a larger trade-in allowance, and taking it away from you in some other way. Ford trade-in values are high, but we do not make fictitious allowances in order to get a sale which may be otherwise disadvantageous to the buyer. Our dealers take used cars upon a system of values, not by haggling or barter.

In this world no one gets something for nothing, although there are many ways of making people think that they do. The sure way to get value for value is, first, by being yourself willing to deal on that basis, and second, by dealing with a concern that has no other policy.

We refuse to keep dinning in your ears that the Ford V-8 is the best, most economical, lowest-priced car. That is claimed for several cars. Obviously it cannot be true of all. There comes a point where claims and adjectives and all advertising hysteria disappears in its own fog. Personally, I prefer facts.

We say the new Ford V-8 is the best car we have made.

We say that our 8-cylinder car is as economical to operate as any lower number of cylinders.

We say that we have always been known as the makers of good cars and that the many good, well-balanced qualities of our present car places it at the head of our line to date.

Any one wishing to do business with us on these principles will find our word and the quality of our product to be A-1. What we say about economy, operation and durability will stand good anywhere.

MISSING OHIO COLLEGE GIRL REPORTED SEEN IN ST. LOUIS

Fire Captain Thinks She Boarded Westbound Truck Monday on Manchester Avenue.

The search for Miss Marian Buckley, missing Cleveland, O., college girl, turned westward with the report of Fire Captain Walter H. Kammann, Engine Co. 42, that he thinks he saw her board a truck in front of the engine house, at Manchester and Pierce avenues, last Monday. Manchester avenue at that point is designated as a truck route for United States Highways 50 and 66.

Miss Buckley, 18-year-old freshman at Wilmington, O., College wore white trousers and a green shirt when she left her Cleveland home last Saturday after saying she was going for a walk. A young woman so attired got out of a sedan with a young man about 10 a. m. Monday, Capt. Kammann told police. The driver remained at the wheel of the sedan, which had Ohio license plates, until the girl and her companion boarded a westbound cargo truck

Fire Captain Thinks She Boarded Westbound Truck Monday on Manchester Avenue.

The search for Miss Marian Buckley, missing Cleveland, O., college girl, turned westward with the report of Fire Captain Walter H. Kammann, Engine Co. 42, that he thinks he saw her board a truck in front of the engine house, at Manchester and Pierce avenues, last Monday. Manchester avenue at that point is designated as a truck route for United States Highways 50 and 66.

Miss Buckley, 18-year-old freshman at Wilmington, O., College wore white trousers and a green shirt when she left her Cleveland home last Saturday after saying she was going for a walk. A young woman so attired got out of a sedan with a young man about 10 a. m. Monday, Capt. Kammann told police. The driver remained at the wheel of the sedan, which had Ohio license plates, until the girl and her companion boarded a westbound cargo truck a few minutes later. He then turned and drove east.

Capt. Kammann said the girl hitch-hiker bore a close resemblance to the published photographs of the missing Miss Buckley.

PRUSSIAN COUNCIL REDUCED TO MERE ADVISORY BODY

Premier Goering Promulgates New Constitution and Tells Members They Must Obey.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, July 8.—A new constitution for the Prussian State Council in which National Socialist Storm Troop members were officially recognized as among the chief advisers of the State Premier was promulgated today by Capt. Wilhelm Goering, right hand man of Chancellor Hitler in the National cabinet.

Goering, who also is Premier of Prussia, hailed the new State Council as "the most important organ of government next to the State Cabinet."

This council, which formerly functioned as a Senate, or upper House, will hereafter merely listen to the pronouncements of Goering, make observations concerning them and then adjourn.

Article 10 of the Constitution declares that "the State Council does not vote," that it merely "advises the State Ministry anent the conduct of the State's affairs."

Membership is composed of the Prussian cabinet and 50 persons appointed by the Premier, among them chiefs and subchiefs of the storm troops and shock troops. Representatives of the churches, industry, business, science and labor also will be included.

Goering Explains Idea.

Goering, explaining the Constitution to newspapermen, said:

"The new Germany is built on National Socialism. Chancellor Hitler's ideas constitute a platform on which hereafter Germany will be reared and governed. In the Nazi state there will be no voting. The Nazi state knows but one authority, namely, that from above downward, and but one responsibility, from the bottom upward.

"We are the dead enemies the Democratic majority principles. Not since the times of Frederick the Great was authority so concentrated. Call it dictatorship if you please—really it is merely the principle of leadership."

Members of the State Consul, he added, rank above members of the Diet and come directly behind the Cabinet members.

Developments in Church Fight.

With the suppression for three months today of the newspaper Taegliche Rundschau, the struggle for Protestant church control entered a new and bitter stage.

The newspaper had cited an article of a church pronouncement drawn up in 1537 at Schmalkalden, in which Martin Luther participated, declaring that the churches alone possess the right of choosing pastors and other spiritual officers and that "no earthly power can take this from them."

This was regarded as unjustified criticism of the removal of churchmen by State church commissioners.

The Taegliche Rundschau also had backed the Rev. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, recently elected by non-Nazi church groups as evangelical reichsbishop. It also had reported the arrests of pastors who delivered sermons criticising appointments of the State church commissioner.

Meanwhile, Ludwig Mueller, Nazi church leader, issued an appeal to the United Prussian Church not to disturb the work of unification now in progress by "unobjective talk and action."

Church Commissioner's Order.

August Jaeger, Prussian church commissioner, issued an order to police chiefs and provincial and district governors declaring that the Government's action regarding churches "while in nowise interfering with religious life" was essential to safeguard the national unity created by the Chancellor.

"Since the State in its own interests as well as the interests of the people and the church cannot tolerate opposition of this kind," said his decree, "but on the contrary must regard attempts at such opposition as treason to the people and the State, I request you to see to it very sharply that my orders and those of my deputies are not sabotaged."

He added such attempts "would constitute revolt against the state authorities which must be suppressed immediately."

JOBS AND DEMOCRATIC FUND

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Postmaster-General Farley, patronage dispenser for the Roosevelt administration, said emphatically today there was no relation between appointments and contributions to the Democratic deficit of about $500,000.

Speaking as Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, Farley said in a statement that "rumors" had reached him that many persons believed positions were being obtained in Washington through funds to balance party books. "Nothing could be further from the fact," he said, "and I solicit information as to any case concerning which negotiations of this character have been made." Farley said that the only money-raising activities in progress now were being conducted by Democratic State organizations.

INTERNATIONAL LIONS CLUB MEETING OPENS HERE TUESDAY

12,000 Delegates Expected to Attend 4-Day Convention; Irving Fisher to Speak.

The seventeenth international convention of Lions' Clubs will open Tuesday for a four-day session at Hotel Jefferson. About 12,000 delegates are expected from all parts of the country and from China, Mexico, Canada and Cuba.

The convention will be featured by addresses by Lorado Taft of Chicago, noted sculptor, and Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale University economist.

The Missouri State convention of Lions' Clubs will be held today, tomorrow and Tuesday morning at Hotel Statler. A reception is scheduled for this afternoon at the country place of Dr. John O'Connell, Overland.

The fourteenth annual convention of Illinois Lions' Clubs opened at Belleville yesterday for a three-day session. A number of delegates will stay over for the international convention at St. Louis Tuesday. The three state sub-districts met at Hotel Belleville, the Elks' Club and the St. Clair County highway building.

TO INVESTIGATE RISE IN PRICE OF BREAD IN STATE

Attorney-General McKittrick Seeks to Learn If Missouri Anti-Trust Laws Are Violated.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 8.—Attorney-General Roy McKittrick today said he would begin an investigation of increases in the price of bread in several cities in Missouri, to determine whether they violated the State anti-trust laws, as soon as he returned, in about a week, from a trip to Washington to confer with Federal authorities on the provisions of the national industrial recovery act.

McKittrick left today for Washington and while there will confer with the United States Attorney-General, administrators of the industrial recovery act, and with the Federal Trade Commission.

Has Reports of Concerted Action.

He said he had received information indicating there had been some concerted action by bakeries and chain store organizations to increase the price of bread in advance of approval by Federal authorities of any price or trade control agreements under the recovery act.

"They appear to be taking the law into their own hands," McKittrick said, "and we want to find out about it. So far my department has not indicated that it will suspend enforcement of the State anti-trust laws against any price or trade control agreements, and I will go into the matter as soon as I return from Washington."

McKittrick recently was asked by representatives of about 90 industries in Missouri to make a declaration of policy on the extent to which he would waive enforcement of the provisions of the strict anti-trust laws of Missouri, insofar as they conflict with provisions of the industrial recovery act which suspend, in part, the Federal anti-trust laws.

He deferred making a decision, or announcement of policy, until he could confer with Federal authorities. He holds the view the industrial recovery act does not supersede the State law against combinations or agreements to control prices or trade practices, so far as intrastate business transactions are concerned. He told the industrial representatives his department was disposed to co-operate with the Federal program as far as possible but pointed out he had no authority to suspend the operation of the State anti-trust law.

While in Washington the Attorney-General will confer with Federal authorities on an inquiry they have made into cement prices. This action by McKittrick is in connection with his investigation, directed by a State Senate committee of the 1933 Legislature, to determine whether identical bids submitted by 14 cement companies, on about $2,000,000 worth of cement required by the State Highway Department for 1933 road construction, involved any violations of the Missouri anti-trust laws.

MULE TRADE BRIDE DEAD IN KENTUCKY

MRS. LOUISE GIBBS GREEN.

GIRL WHOSE FATHER TRADED HER FOR TWO MULES DIES

She Ran Away From Husband and Subsequently Another Admirer Shot Her Leg Off.

By the Associated Press.

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., July 8.—Louise Gibbs Green, who at the age of 13 was given in marriage for a mule team and whose leg was shot off last October by a spurned suitor died last night at the home of relatives here from complications following an illness. She was 18 years old.

After she was married to Ed Green five years ago she ran away and left him. Fights and legal action between members of the Green family and hers followed and County authorities said Green had given her father, Henry Gibbs, two mules and a wagon for permission to marry the girl.

Last Oct. 16, William Perrigo, who wanted to marry her, shot her leg off. He afterward again offered to marry her, but she refused him.

SCOUTS ARRANGE FALL PICNICS AND RALLIES

Commissioners of South and Central Districts Make Preliminary Plans.

The commissioners of the South and Central Districts of the Boy Scouts held meetings last week at which a series of activities for early fall were planned. Both made arrangements for their annual picnics and rallies.

The South District will hold its rally Saturday afternoon and evening, Sept. 30, in Tower Grove Park. C. H. Laemmli, field executive, will be in charge, assisted by a committee composed of A. W. Lantz, Henry Kirchmer and A. H. Baum. The rally will be conducted along the lines of the city-wide camparall. The Scouts, however, will not camp over night. They will go through some tests and will cook their own supper. In the evening there will be a bonfire. The district flag will be awarded to the winning troop and banners to the next five.

The South District picnic will be held Saturday, Sept. 9, at a place to be announced later. William T. Thomsen is head of the Arrangements Committee.

Central District will hold its annual picnic for scouters, scouts and parents, Saturday, Aug. 19, at the old tourist camp in Forest Park. L. J. Case, field executive, and Charles W. Flach, chairman of the Picnic Committee, will be in charge.

Central District also will hold a rally in September. During the summer it will sponsor a series of lawn and bridge parties conducted by the mothers of scouts.

The St. Louis group of scouts going to the world jamboree at Godollo, Hungary, will dock at Southampton tomorrow. Last week the local council sent a letter to the parents of the boys on the trip relaying to them a message received from Bob West, son of James West, chief scout executive, who is making the trip with the St. Louis contingent. Bob West, cabling from mid-ocean, described the journey as being fine and said "everybody is well and happy." "Swell bunch of boys," he added.

The same letter told the parents that Earle W. Beckman, scout executive of the St. Louis Council, seriously ill with a streptococcus infection of the right cheek, was slightly better.

MRS. ROOSEVELT CONTINUES AUTO TRIP TO CANADA

President's Wife Departs From Glens Falls, N. Y., After Going on Picnic.

By the Associated Press.

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., July 8.—After an afternoon spent in a picnic grove and bathing beach at Round Pond, several miles north of here, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt early tonight departed in her roadster for Montreal and Quebec, the next scheduled stops on her second vacation trip from the White House.

Whether Mrs. Roosevelt and her party, consisting of Miss Lorena A. Hickok of New York City and Earl Miller, former State trooper, who was President Roosevelt's bodyguard when he was Governor, planned to stop overnight en route to Canada was not known.

Mrs. Roosevelt's visit to Round Pond today, as was her moonlight cruise on Lake George last night, was entirely unexpected. She appeared at the bathing beach shortly after noon and set out a picnic lunch. Later she donned a swimming suit and entered the water.

LOS ANGELES, July 8.—The marriage of McClelland Barclay, artist and illustrator, and Helen Marie Haskin, his model, has been dissolved by divorce here. Superior Judge Dudley S. Valentine granted Mrs. Barclay the decree late yesterday on the grounds of cruelty.

ROCKEFELLER, 94, OBSERVES BIRTHDAY IN QUIET, PRIVACY

Takes Nap Before Lunch and Goes for Auto Ride on Pocantico Hills Estate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8.—John D. Rockefeller today quietly observed his ninety-fourth birthday. His day's program varied little from the usual routine, Rockefeller spending his time in the privacy afforded by the spacious grounds and barred iron gates of his Pocantico Hills estate, which was guarded by 22 private policemen.

A nap before lunch, an automobile drive about his grounds and a birthday dinner tonight—that was the schedule. Rockefeller rose at 7 a. m. Told his family and servants he was "feeling fine," and breakfasted at 8 on orange juice, a spoonful of cereal and a glass of milk.

Neighbors commented that John D. was looking as well as he was at any time in recent years. Rockefeller arrived yesterday at the Pocantico Hills home, Kyk-Uit, named after an old Indian tribe. He made the trip from the Lakewood, N. J., home, in order to be in the Hudson River country for his birthday, a custom he has observed for many years.

HUMANE SOCIETY APPEAL BRINGS IN GIFTS OF $2762

Claude E. Vrooman Corrects Mistaken Idea Organization Is Supported by City.

The Humane Society of Missouri has received $2762 in response to its recent emergency appeal for funds, Claude E. Vrooman, general chairman, announced yesterday.

Vrooman, who termed the contributions "most gratifying," said that some persons were under the erroneous impression that the society is supported by the city or from the Community Fund. He said the society had never received any financial assistance from the city or relief agencies, but depends entirely on voluntary contributions.

The society handled 32,713 animal cases in the past year, Vrooman said, providing a service for sick and injured pets that is given by no other agency.

By Charles Dunkley,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Queen of the American turf for 1933 is the slim, brown Mata Hari, owned by Charles T. Fisher, of Detroit.

She came galloping down the stretch to victory today in the $26,000 Arlington Lassie Stakes for two-year-old fillies, to win by two and one-half lengths, with her stablemate, Far Star, second. Dabchick, the fleet Greentree Stable's two-year-old, finished third, after having being closest all the way to the front-running Mata Hari and Far Star. The race was witnessed by 18,000 persons.

Mata Hari, undefeated in two previous starts, ran the six furlongs in the rather ordinary time of 1:12, but she could probably have won it by a city block, so completed did she dominate the race. Made favorite along with her stablemate, Mata Hari paid $4.84 to win, while the place price on the entry was $4.24, with $3.26 to show. Dabchick, which also was heavily played, paid $3.70 to show.

The victory of the fashionable young flapper of the turf enriched Owner Fisher by $21,670, and he also drew down $2500 additional, making a total of $24,170, when Far Star took second money. Dabchick earned $1500 for her brilliant effort in finishing third, while Some Pomp won $500 for fourth money.

Ten of the fleetest two-year-old fillies in America started, with the winner conquering the best of the East. Finishing behind the four leaders was Slapdash, the star Easterner, which had captured five of her six previous starts.

With Jockey Bobby Jones on her back, Mata Hari quickly took the lead, after Far Star had got away first, and remained in front all the way. For the first quarter of a mile, Jones was content merely to have his filly in command, but after half the distance had been traversed, he gave her the reins and she sprinted out to a three-length lead. All Jones had to do was sit in the saddle and let the two-year-old daughter of Peter Hastings-War Woman do her own running. And if the way she ran is a criterian, she may develop to be one of the great fillies of recent years.

By her triumph, Mata Hari becomes a contender for the two-year-old honors of the year, outside of the fillies' division. Inasmuch as she has won all her starts with burning speed, she may prove to be a formidable competitor for the best of the colts.

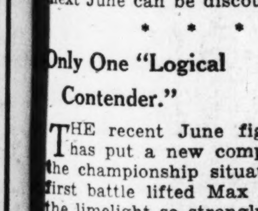
Mata Hari's sire, Peter Hastings, is a horse which never raced. As a two-year-old in 1927 he twice worked three furlongs in the dazzling time of :33 3-5 over the Douglas Park track at Louisville, and that effort broke him down.

Wray's Column

No Title Bout This Year.

NOW that the brainstorm which followed the victory of the Man Mountain, Primo Carnera, over Jack Sharkey has stabilized, it seems evident that there will be no more championship milling this year.

Carnera is going kale-gathering, barnstorming through the country, and will finish his tour in a movie studio, where he will be pictured in a movie thriller.



MAX BAER.

His time will be occupied until February, according to recent announcement, and thereafter just what he will do is not known at this time.

It can be stated definitely that whatever he does, it will not be anything that will jeopardize his chance of defending the title next June.

Efforts to lure Carnera into a fight against anybody capable of giving him a real battle before next June can be discounted.

Only One "Logical Contender."

THE recent June fight flurry has put a new complexion on the championship situation. The first battle lifted Max Baer into the limelight so strongly that the public's only demand now is for a match between Carnera and the Californian.

There is no other "logical contender." Sharkey is completely out of the title picture, no matter how fiery the vows to return and win back his prestige he is making at this time. The gob made perhaps his most praiseworthy if not his best fight against Carnera. His failure proved that he is unequal to the burden of carrying the fight to Carnera. And surely no one wants to see him try to run away from him for 15 rounds in a return engagement.

Sharkey's drawing power is greatly weakened. His punch seems more futile than ever and the public has soured on his fickle temperament. If he really tries to come back he will indicate that he is at least consistently foolish or else in financial need.

Schmeling May Come Back.

SCHMELING'S extremely disappointing fight against Baer was a huge surprise. Some who viewed the slaughter, thought the German merely the victim of his failure to remain active in the ring; that he had merely "rusted." These believe that Schmeling can be brought back to his former efficiency, but

MAKO TO MEET PARKER TODAY IN CLAY COURT TENNIS FINAL

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Two 17-year-old schoolboy wonders of the tennis world, Frankie Parker of Milwaukee and Gene Mako of Los Angeles, sailed into the finals of the National Clay Courts singles championship on the tide of straight-set victories today at the Chicago Town and Tennis Club.

Parker, national junior champion and conqueror of four members of the United States Davis Cup team during his victorious jaunts, entered the finals with a 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 triumph over the crippled Junior Coen of Kansas City, while Mako stormed in with a 6-3, 6-2, 6-2 conquest over Karl Kamrath, University of Texas star of the courts.

The two rivals, extreme contrasts in build, with Mako husky and Parker slight, meet for the crown dropped by George Lott, Davis Cup player, tomorrow. Lott did not defend his title because of his foreign competition.

Mako played a leisurely game, bewildered Kamrath with his cannon-ball serve and returns and won almost as he pleased. He was an easy master of the match, scoring 94 points to Kamrath's 60.

It was a different story with Parker. Coen entered the match handicapped with a blistered right foot and played against the advice of his physician and refused to chase after Frankie's lightning returns, but forgot his sore foot toward the end and came back to win two straight games after Parker had piled up a 5-1 margin. The handicap caught up with him, how-

MRS. MOODY IS STILL CHAMPION; LOSES SET FIRST TIME SINCE 1927

By the Associated Press.

WIMBLEDON, England, July 8.—Wimbledon closed its annual tennis fortnight in a final blaze of British glory today as a little English girl, Dorothy Round, forced Helen Wills Moody to battle as she hasn't had to in years to win the women's singles championships for the sixth time.

Mrs. Moody won, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3, but not until Miss Round had provided the greatest sensation of the two weeks of play by winning one set, something that hasn't happened to the American queen of the courts in women's singles play in six years.

On her way to the first title she won here in 1927, Mrs. Moody, then Helen Wills, dropped a set in an early round match to Gwynneth Sterry.

There was no hope in any British mind that Miss Round, though tremendously improved in the past year, could hope to conquer the powerful girl from California who has ruled the women's singles play of the world with serene invincibility since Suzanne Lenglen stepped out of the amateur picture in 1926.

Before the King and Queen.

But her magnificent stand, with the King and Queen of England in the throng that jammed every inch of space about the famed center court, thrilled them in defeat even as Jack Crawford's five-set conquest of Ellsworth Vines in the men's singles final yesterday—to bring the title back to the British Empire for the first time in 11 years—had stirred another capacity crowd to ecstacies.

Miss Round, a slender, courageous shotmaker with a beautiful drive and forehand, was the first British girl to reach the final round of England's prized championships since Kitty McKane Godfree won the women's title in 1926.

And for a few minutes today, unbelievable as the possibility seemed when they took the courts, Miss Round was definitely on her way to victory over the champion who crushed her only last year in the quarterfinals of this same tournament with the loss of but one game.

Decision Nettles Player.

The battle Mrs. Moody had on her hands to win the first set at 6—4, was nothing compared to the rising brillance of the slender English girl as she fought the champion evenly through 12 games of the second set, then as Mrs. Moody wavered, fought off her own weariness to win the last two games and set, 8—6.

Both were tired, both unsteady from a linesman's decision that overruled the referee's opinion on a vital point in the final game of the second set, but Mrs. Moody, veteran of many campaigns, was first to rally.

Games went with service until the sixth of the third set, where Mrs. Moody broke through after both had made many errors to take a lead of 4—2. Miss Round rallied

Carey Will Not Be Ousted, Dodger President States

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Published reports that May Carey was in danger of being relieved as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers because of the poor showing of the club brought a formal denial today from Steve McKeever, president of the club.

"To make matters clear, I want to state definitely," McKeever's statement said, "that neither I nor the board of directors of this club have ever discussed or considered replacing Max Carey as manager. "Every player purchased and every trade made has been with Carey's recommendation and approval. Furthermore, there has not been and there will not be the slightest interference with his operation of the club."

McKeever pointed out that the club has been riddled with injuries and illness, but still showed excellent spirit. He predicted the team would be "up there" before the season ends.

Three Victories, One Defeat Is U. S. Week-End Record in England

By the Associated Press.

A week of sensational sports competiton in Great Britain was capped yesterday by a brilliant series of American conquests.

Helen Wills Moody, world's foremost woman tennis player, captured the Wimbledon singles championship for the sixth time but she dropped her first set in six years as she was extended to beat Dorothy Round, English girl, 6—4, 6—8, 6—3, in the final round.

This followed the defeat yesterday of Ellsworth Vines, American champion and defending Wimbledon titleholder, in the men's singles final by Jack Crawford of Australia.

H. Densmore Shute, young American professional from Philadelphia, scored the tenth successive victory for the United States in the British open golf championship by conquering his compatriot, Craig Wood, by five strokes in a 36-hole playoff, 149 to 154. Four of the first five leaders in the tournament were American homebreds, with Gene Sarazen, 1932 winner, one stroke behind Shute and Wood.

Kent School's fine eight-oared crew triumphed for the classic Thames Challenge Cup, in the Royal Henley regatta, defeating Bedford School in the final. Kent is a Connecticut "prep" school which has several times sent crews abroad.

Oh! What a Pal— In Lifting $100 Fine

When Ernie Orsatti (right) singled in the eighth inning to score Martin with the only run of the game, the little Italian outfielder helped to lift the $100 fine Manager Gabby Street had levied against Dizzy Dean (left) for missing a train to Elmira, N. Y. It gave Jerome Herman his second 1-0 shutout in three games by that score. The return of Dizzy's "century" hinged on his winning by a shutout.

Wells Hurls Browns To 4-1 Victory Over Boston; Scharein Stars

(By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.)

BOSTON, July 9.—Ed "Lefty" Wells, hurled the Browns to a 4 to 1victory over the Red Sox here this afternoon, a pleasant gesture with which to start the team's second eastern invasion of the season.

The big left-hander flirted with a shut-out, although hit hard in spots. The solitary run trickled across the plate in the eighth, when Hodapp made his first hit of the afternoon, a long triple off the left field wall and came home following Sammy West's good running catch of Rick Ferrell's deep drive to right center.

Wells Gives 8 Hits.

Wells let down the Sox, who had won 16 out of their last 24 games, with eight hits, four of them doubles. The measure of his success in the pinches was that the Sox had nine men left on base and that all the extra base whacks except one was wasted.

Art Scharein, besides playing an alert game at third base, was very much a potent cog in the Browns' attack. He made two hits, as did Merv Shea, former Sox catcher. Art twice scored runs and once was robbed of a likely base hit by a good one-handed play by Third Sacker Bill Werber on a slow roller.

Three of the Browns' runs, in fact, the first three tallied, were more or less tangled up with errors by the Sox defenders.

Scharein's Smart Play.

The fourth Brown run was the smartest seen here in some time. Scharein led off the seventh, against Henry Johnson, with a single to center. West waited out a base on balls. Thereupon Debs Garms bunted slickly toward third. Werber made a good play ,and his rifle peg to Hodapp, covering first, retired Garms. Meanwhile, however, Art never even hesitated at third base. He kept right on for the plate and scored while Hodapp and the somewhat loafing (for a wonder) Rick Ferrell were a trifle surprised by the dashing base running of Scharein.

Oscar Melillo played brilliantly at second base for the winners and his best bit was a flying stop over on the grass toward first base, of Dusty Cooke's hot grounder in the eighth, just before the Hodapp triple.

While the Browns were playing errorless afield, the Sox were giving Henry Johnson miserable cooperation. In the first Scharein singled to center and then Hodapp booted West's grounder and Art halted at second. Garms got an infield single on a niftily placed bunt. Campbell, with the bases loaded, was called out on strikes, but Irving Burns, a Bostonian, was treasonable enough to loft a long fly to Cooke in center, after which Scharein tallied.

Shea and Wells singled in the second, and a boot by Cooke in center of the pitcher's single, and an infield out by Scharein, let in the second run for the St. Louisans.

Two were out in the fifth when Campbell was hit on the toe by an errant H. Johnson pitch. He went down for second while Burns was at bat and was waved out, only to have Warstler drop Ferrell's perfect peg. Then Burns walked and a hot Melillo single to center field let Campbell tally with run number three.

The fourth was a hard luck frame for the Browns. Singles by Levey and Shea and a pass to Wells loaded the bases with one gone, only to have Scharein whistle a drive smack into Shortstop Warstler's hands, the latter pegging to first in time to double up Wells.

Two base hits—Watkins Boyle. Three-base hit—Leslie. Runs batted in—Orsatti. Sacrifice hits—Wilson. Struck out—By Dean 8. Left on bases—Brooklyn 4; Cardinals 6. Umpires—Barr and Reardon. Time 1:37.

By J. Roy Stockton,

Jerome Herman Dean pitched a 1-0 shutout against the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday afternoon, reduced the first-place lead of the Giants to four and a half games and earned $100 extra for himself.

"I told Dizzy before the game that I was going to give him a chance to get back that hundred that I fined him for missing the train to Elmira," Manager Street explained in the club house after the contest. "I told him that if he would shut out the Dodgers I'd remit that fine. Winning wouldn't do him any good. It had to be a coat of whitewash. He came through and I sent word to the office to give him back his $100. I hated to take his money from him in the first place because I was a player myself and I was very happy to be able to give it back to him."

Dean in Great Form.

Dean turned in a masterpiece. The Cardinals could pay and would pay more for such shutout victories. Jerome Herman held the enemy to four hits, struck out eight men, was fast as lightning and he worked as though he could have gone on another nine innings without giving the enemy any runs.

Three singles in the eighth inning gave Dizzy and the Redbirds their victory and Joe Medwick can always say that he helped to build the Dean fortune. "Joisey Joe" made the spectacular play of the afternoon, a diving catch of a short fly, with a Dodger runner on third base legging it for home with what would have been the first run of the game.

Sam Leslie was the man on third. With two out in the seventh he hit a line drive to left-center. Orsatti was after it like a deer, but in his eagerness to hold the wallop to a single he overran the ball and when it took a bad hop, it slithered past him and rolled to the wall for a triple.

Dean worked hard on Cuccinello, who leads the Dodgers at driving in runs and Tony finally hit a short fly to left-center. Medwick was playing deep, as you have to play for Cuccinello, but he never quit on the ball and when it seemed that he could not catch up with it he gave a final desperate lunge with his glove-hand outstretched and the ball settled in it. Joe slid over the wet grass for 20 feet, but he held the ball.

Orsatti Bats in Run.

Orsatti, who was perturbed no little when that dangerous triple bounced past him, had the honor and satisfaction of driving in the run that gave Dizzy his $100 victory. Two were out in the eighth when Pepper Martin slashed a single to left for his second hit of the game.

Frankie Frisch, the league's greatest money-player, delivered a single to center, sending Martin dashing to third and Orsatti singled to center to drive the Wild

WASHINGTON WINS BOAT RACE; YALE IS SECOND

By the Associated Press.

LONG BEACH, Calif., July 8.—In a thrilling sprint climax to a bow and bow race with Yale, Washington's long-sweeping oarsmen won the national intercollegiate rowing championship before 15,000 persons here today over this Olympic dedicated 2000-meter course.

The finish brought the crowd to its feet cheering wildly as the Huskies, pulling smoothly at a 36-beat, slowly put distance between themselves and the valiant Sons of Eli. They crossed the line six feet in front .

Yale, already moving along at top speed, could not meet Washington's power. Cornell was left behind in third place, a length and a half behind Yale, with Harvard last, two lengths in the wake of the inspired Ithacans.

Washington's time of six minutes 38 4-5 seconds was 10 and 3-5 seconds. short of Italy's course record, due largely to the sharp wind which whipped the usually placid lagoon from the southwest, diagonally across the homebound shells.

Yale's time was six minutes 39 seconds, 1-5 second slower than that of the winners, while Cornell crossed the wire in six minutes 50 seconds. Harvard's crimsoned-blades flashed through in 7 minutes 1 2-5 seconds.

Officials of the meet announced the crowd of 15,000 had failed to contribute enough gate to take care of the travel expenses of the visiting crews, underwritten by Southern California business men, but said antoher national championship probably would be held next summer.

Roy Riegels Married

By the Associated Press.

RENO, Nev., July 8.—Roy Riegels, captain and center of the University of California football team in 1929, and Miss Josephine Christine Brown were married here last Monday, it became known today. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Carl M. Warner, Methodist minister.

Riegels is a California player who, in the Rose Bowl game of 1929 against Georgia Tech, scooped up a fumble and then ran in the wrong direction. The play cost California the game.

CUBS DEFEAT GIANTS, 2-1; SENATORS WIN TWO FROM INDIANS

TWO WALKS AND JACKSON'S ERROR GIVE CHICAGO BOTH ITS RUNS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Guy Bush shaded Hal Schumacher in a fine mound duel today and the Cubs made it two straight over the league-leading Giants by a 2 to 1 count. The defeat reduced the Giants' lead over the victorious St. Louis Cardinals to four and one-half games.

Schumacher allowed the Cubs only four hits, all singles, in the seven innings he worked and Lefty Clark set them down in order, but a brief burst of wildness on Schumacher's part and a costly error by Travis Jackson enabled the Cubs to score their runs in the first inning. Bush granted only six blows for his ninth victory of the season.

Schumacher passed the second and third batsmen to face him, Billy Herman and Jim Mosolf. Then Jackson fumbled on Babe Herman's grounder and the bases were loaded. Frank Demaree beat out a slow bounder to Johnny Vergez for a hit that sent W. Herman home and Mosolf came in a moment later on Gabby Hartnett's long fly to Ott.

The games will be played this afternoon at Heman Park.

Bob Douglas, Old Fighter, Now Helps Business Men Get Rid of Waistlines

Was in Sport When the Game and Not Money Was Main Issue—Tommy Ryan Stopped Him in His Last Bout.

By W. J. McGoogan.

Bob Douglas, a middleweight boxer of 30 and more years ago, who fought his last fight in 1904 when he was knocked out in four rounds by Tommy Ryan, then middleweight champion of the world, at the building which is now the Winter Garden, is using the knowledge of training he gained in his ring days to help business men battle waistlines, at Douglas' Gymnasium, 6442 Nashville avenue.

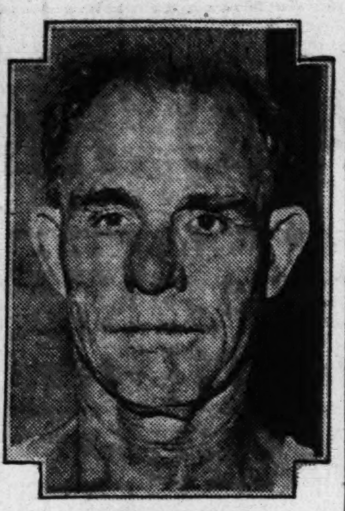
Bob, now 57 years of age, shows few marks of his days in the ring when most of the fights were of the bootleg variety, fought in back yards, on river barges, generally to a finish and winner take all. He is slightly deaf in one ear and has a few store teeth to remind him of battles with Ryan, Australian Jimmy Ryan, Tom Maffitt and others.

Otherwise he is hale and hearty and boxes three or four times a week with his pupils.

Takes Plenty of Punishment.

"I take more punishment now from men I box than I did in the old days," remarked Douglas. "Then it was the game to move in and out without getting hit and we learned to block and slip punches. Now, I stand up and trade blows for the fun of it."

It was the custom when Douglas started out as a professional (after he had decided there was more fun and probably more money in boxing than in continuing as a blacksmith, at which he started in the shop of Pat O'Neill at Taylor and Delmar) for private individuals to put up purses for the boys. Then if they could get a permit from Mayor Ziegenhein, they could fight anywhere. If they couldn't, they fought in a livery stable, or a back yard.



BOB DOUGLAS.

Chief of Police Lawrence Harrigan always knew the fights were going to take place and he had a couple of men on hand to arrest the contestants. The detectives, among them Lee Killian and George Williams, always watched the show, then brought the boys to the Chief. They were generally hailed before a Judge who refused to penalize them and advised the detectives to go out "and get some thieves."

Largest Purse Was $800.

All told Douglas had 70 fights and the most he ever received was $800. His purses ranged from that down to $25. One fight he fought barefoot on a barge in the river against Rufus Sharpe. The purse was $150, $100 for the winner, $50 for the loser. Douglas won on a knockout in the eleventh round and spent the greater part of the next day picking splinters out of his feet.

Retired Boxer's Largest Purse Was $800 — Says Present Day Fighters Think Too Much of Money.

Later he had a hand in training fighters, among them Ollie Kirk, Billy Gruppe and Benny McGovern.

He opened his health school in 1910 and has been at it ever since, having some very well known St. Louisans in his charge. His idea is patterned something after that of the late William Muldoon of New York. He gives his students a strenuous routine to follow. Calisthenics, gymnasium work, handball, medicine ball, boxing and wrestling.

Think Too Much of Money.

Among those who are now taking his course are Judge Fred Mueller, Victor Fricke, an attorney; Merl Vince and Guy Mullen, while some of his previous patrons were Harry Scullin, Senator A. E. L. Gardner, Judge Arthur V. Lashly, Walter P. Freund and William P. Anderson.

Douglas, as do many old-time fighters, believes that the only trouble with the game today is that the boxers think too much of money and too little of boxing. In his day the game was the thing and the purse a side issue.

Raising 4000 Quail.

UNDAUNTED by the fact that Missouri's game laws prohibit the exportation of bobwhite quail even though they may be produced on a private game farm which pays a State license to operate, E. E. Breisch of Windsor, Mo., is raising 4000 birds this season. Some of these he hopes to sell to the State Game and Fish Department and the remainder to sportsmen's clubs and individuals for stocking purposes.

Breisch, a former Kansas Cityan, has been raising bobwhite for the past three seasons, having abandoned English ringneck pheasant propagation to devote all of his time to producing the native game bird. His pheasants were of the finest in the country, but when he realized that Missouri was not suited to the satisfactory seating of these exotic game birds he began experimenting with quail.

Finding the necessary equipment and devising a plan to produce quail on a large scale, Breisch last year sold the last of his brood stock pheasants and converted much of his pheasant raising equipment into his quail producing plant. Today the Breisch plant, known as the "Missouri Pheasantries", is the largest quail producing place in this section of the country. It exceeds in production even the State operated game farms.

Started With 75 Birds.

Breisch started his quail production three years ago with 75 birds produced from eggs obtained from Virginia. The Missouri and Virginia quail are of the same species. Last year he produced 1000 birds which were sold to the State game and fish department at a price lower than the State game farms could produce them. This year Breisch has set a production goal of 4000 mature birds and his present schedule indicates this figure will be reached easily.

There long has been a common idea that as quail were difficult to raise to maturity they could not be produced in large numbers. This had already been proved false before Breisch started work with the birds but it yet was necessary for him to do considerable research work before hitting upon his present successful plan for large scale production of quail.

The type incubator and brooder used in southeastern states was not suited to Missouri's varying temperatures and Breisch, through experimentation, found the proper equipment. The incubators used are produced at Higginsville and fit the needs of a quail producer perfectly, according to Breisch. The brooders he devised. Wild turkey eggs also have been hatched in the incubators with success but this was done only for experimental purposes.

Breisch is able to raise to maturity about 60 per cent of the birds hatched. He rarely ever loses a mature bird. Last fall, however, some one stole 142 birds from the rearing pens. The usual cost of brood stock quail is $10 a pair but because of the production methods used by the Windsor man he is able to quote them at nearly half that price.

Works Long and Hard.

Part of Breisch's success with his birds is believed to be the amount of time he spends caring for them. He devotes most of a day from 3:30 a. m. to 9 p. m. working with them. During the hatching season he sleeps in the incubator room.

Breisch is the only big quail producer in Missouri although there are more than 400 holders of game farm permits in the State.

Must Have Licenses.

Joe Green, chief of wardens for the Missouri State Game and Fish Department, has issued an order to all game wardens to "tighten down on hunters and fishermen to see that they possess the necessary licenses."

The order is a part of the department's campaign to increase the sale of hunting and fishing licenses that a rapidly lowering game fund can be bolstered.

He Fell for a Fly

Townsend Godsey, former director of publicity for the State Game and Fish Department, proves that the smallmouth bass are rising to flies—this is one he has just taken from the Big Maries.

All Missouri Fish May Be Caught Beginning Saturday

THE channel cat fishing season opens July 15. Starting that date, every fish in Missouri waters will be eligible for the creel. Channel cat fishing has been prohibited since June 1.

Channel cat are classed as game fish under Missouri laws. The daily limit is 10.

These fish usually are taken on minnows, crayfish, worms or mussel, but they have been known to rise to a fly.

1,000,000 Fish Rescued.

More than a million game fish were rescued from overflow waters in Southeast Missouri during the last month, Dr. G. B. Herndon, chief of hatcheries for the Missouri Game and Fish Department, said this week on his return from the base of operations. The reclamation work was done largely in nine counties along the Black and St. Francois and Mississippi rivers.

With tributaries of the Lake of the Ozarks being rapidly depleted of minnows, several minnow farms are being started in the lake region. Harry H. Kersey has the largest "farm" now in operation. It is located four miles south of Eldon on the Big Saline Creek. He is producing golden shiner and red fin minnows. The brood stock and much of his current supply was obtained in Kansas and shipped by truck to the new hatchery.

50,000 Trout Plantings at Montauk.

Some fifty thousand three and five-inch trout fingerlings have been transferred from the State hatcheries at Bennett Spring State Park and Sequiota to the spring in Montauk State Park, located in Dent County, southwest of Salem. The baby trout will be used to stock Current River and other cold water streams in South Missouri.

FINNEGAN AND MOORE MATCHED FOR RETURN GO

A return welterweight match between Wild Bill Finnegan, colorful St. Louis Sports Club fighter, who is regarded as a promising ring prospect, and Farrell Moore, former city champion, has been added to the St. Louis Sports Club's boxing card which will take place Saturday night at the club's arena, Grand and Natural Bridge.

If suitable opponents can be obtained for them, Babe Davis, socking member of Herbert Kranz's fistic team, and Bill Beauhuld, district lightweight king, will be employed in star bouts, according to Matchmaker Allsbury.

St. Louis Fan Won First Prize In All-Star Team Competition

Judging of letters submitted in the "Game of the Century" competition, conducted by the Post-Dispatch, has been completed. Winners of the three awards offered follow:

B. G. Stith, 3239 Lafayette avenue, St. Louis, first prize, $25.

James English, 624 West Fourth street, Sedalia, Mo., second prize, $15.

O. B. Ringe, 10 North Eighth street, St. Louis, third prize, $10.

As baseball fans know, the competition was conducted in connection with the all-star game played Thursday at Chicago. Entrants were asked to submit their ideas of the strongest lineups in the two leagues and then, in a short, analytical letter, explain which of the two teams, in the opinion of the writer, was the stronger. The letters by the three prize winners were chosen as being the best submitted.

KENT SCHOOL CREW SECOND OF U. S. TO WIN THAMES CUP

By the Associated Press.

HENLEY, England, July 8.—For the second time in the long history of the classic royal Henley regatta, an American crew today won the Thames Challenge Cup when the Kent (Conn.) schoolboy eight, often a challenger but never a winner, swept to victory over Bedford School in the finals. Browne and Nichols of Boston won the trophy in 1929.

Kent, sole survivor of an American contingent of three crews and a like number of individual performers in the diamond sculls raced the Bedford boat into a two-length defeat after entering the finals earlier in the day with a three-length conquest of the Lensbury Rowing Club.

Rowing the same type of race that carried them to three victories on their way to the finals, the Connecticut youngsters swung into an early lead with a slow but powerful stroke. Steadily increasing its advantage, the American boat finished the one and five-sixteenths miles in 7 minutes and 30 seconds, with the issue never in doubt.

Open Water at Half Mark.

Both crews started the race with 36 strokes to the minute and rowed on even terms through the first quarter of a mile. The Kent stroke's call for a slightly higher beat sent the invaders to the front and although Bedford also stepped up the stroke, the English boatload trailed by two-thirds of a length at the half-mile post.

At Fawley Boathouse, the half-way mark, there was open water between the shells, with Kent leading by slightly more than a length, being timed in three minutes, 35 seconds for the distance. Through the next quarter of a mile, the English representatives made a determined but futile effort to close the gap and in doing so shot their bolt.

Swinging through the enclosures with long, easy strokes, Kent steadily pulled away to a two-length lead and crossed the finish line with no evidence of being exhausted.

Rutherford Defeated.

Kent had an even easier time defeating Lensbury. The schoolboys from New England pulled into a slight lead in the first 20 strokes, soon opened up daylight and swept across the finish line in 7 minutes and 43 seconds.

T. G. Askwith of Cambridge, conqueror of the American, Winthrop Rutherford, won the diamond sculls by two lengths from H. L. Warren of Trinity Hall, Cambridge. The time was 9 minutes and 7 seconds.

WHITE SOX BREAK EVEN WITH ATHLETICS

PHILADELPHIA, July 8.—A six-run rally in the eighth gave the Chicago White Sox enough runs to defeat the Athletics 11 to 6 in the nightcap contest of today's double-header after the A's won the first 10 to 4. Appling got four hits out of five times up in the second game.

Shute, 60 Yards Short On Drives, Beats Wood In British Open Golf

By the Associated Press.

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 8.—Slender "Denny" Shute, 28-year-old American golfing artist with steely wrists and a steely temperament, cool as the westerly breezes that blew over the ancient links of St. Andrews, today whipped his long-driving countryman, Craig Wood, by five strokes in their 36-hole playoff for the British Open Golf Championship.

Shute scored 75-74—149, Wood 78-76—154 and the outcome was seldom, if ever, in doubt from the first hole, where Wood shed his shoes and sox, waded into the famous Swilcan Burn with his niblick and experienced the first of a series of mishaps. A pair of sixes on the first two holes cost Wood a deficit of four strokes which he was never able to offset.

Shute thereafter always looked the winner. Although far behind Wood on almost every tee shot, sometimes by as much as 60 yards, Shute scored a well-deserved victory by the mastery of his irons and the consistency of his rusty old putter. Squatting oddly with feet far apart, Shute rolled up shots over the wide-spreading St. Andrews greens and rarely gave Wood a chance to recover ground that the New Jersey blonde had lost at the vey outset.

Wood Plays Last Nine in Par.

Shute was three strokes in front after the first nine holes, still that much ahead at the eighteenth and jumped to a six-stroke lead at the twenty-seventh, from where Wood's closing nine-hole drive in par was only good enough to cut a single stroke from the new champion's margin. A six at the twenty-fifth hole, where Wood blasted out of one trap into another, was the final blow to his fleeting hopes.

Shute's victory, his first in any national championship, marked the tenth consecutive triumph for American golfing arms in the British open. He succeeds Gene Sarazen, who lost out by a single stroke in the regulation 72-hole battle in which Shute and Wood tied at 292.

"I just tried to keep ahead of Craig for a round," Shute told the Associated Press after he had a chance to escape the first onrush of well-wishers and congratulations. "I knew I had a three-stroke lead at the eighteenth. I knew I had something to spare, even when Craig picked up two on the last nine, but I had honestly forgotten I had doubled my advantage going out in the afternoon. I was concentrating so much, I guess, that I couldn't keep the score straight."

Four Rounds of 73.

Shute was no more spectacular today than he was when shooting four straight 73's to tie the brilliant Wood. Until his last round yesterday and the playoff today the Philadelphia professional was given scant attention by the galleries but from start to finish he was the most consistently accurate shotmaker in the tournament. There was not a single 6 or Shute's cards today, whereas Wood had three, and there were only four 6's on Denny's tally for the previous 72 holes. He was not once in the famous "Hell bunker" on the fourteenth hole, the yawning trap that swallowed Sarazen alive, costing him an 8, besides ending Walter Hagen's championship hopes and ruining the cards of two Britons, Syd Easterbrook and Abe Mitchell.

It was at the famous No. 14 hole, this morning, that Shute furnished a sample of what he could do in a tight spot. His drive caught the rough and a fine brassie shot had just enough roll to catch "Gingerbeer" bunker, short of the green. Denny then exploded to within nine feet of the pin and sank his putt for a birdie. On the ninth, again on the twenty-third and the twenty-eighth, Shute matched Wood's birdies, seeming to have the rare ability to check any threat or challenge.

Wood lost his chances on the outward and easier half of the course, taking 39 strokes both morning and afternoon to the turn, whereas Shute each time shot par golf and thus had a substantial margin for each drive down the stretch. Twice Shute was seven strokes ahead, but Wood won back a stroke on both the thirty-second and thirty-third with his last rally. There were three tough holes remaining, including the famous "road hole," No. 17, but Shute never faltered as he got pars on each.

The Shutes Are British.

When Shute tonight accepted from the Earl of Lindsay the championship cup on which are engraved the names of Vardon, Braid, Taylor, Hagen and Jones, all he could say was: "I'm still too excited to think but I'm tickled to death."

Mrs. Shute, the champion's wife, was even more excited than her husband. She followed the entire playoff and said she mentally played every shot. When Wood holed a long putt at the thirty-second, she said: "We can afford to lose that one."

Giving up hope of producing a champion of her own, Britain hailed Shute as the next best thing, for his 75-year-old grandmother still lives in the village of Northam, near Westward Ho! where his father was clubmaker before going to the United States. The Shutes are a well-known family in Devon and the veteran J. H. Taylor, famous professional at Westward Ho!, was among the first to congratulate the new champion.

Shute plans to visit his relatives, then see Paris with Mrs. Shute and play several exhibition matches in England before returning to the United States.

World Golf Title Match Proposed, Goodman vs. Shute

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.

INVITATIONS tonight were dispatched to Johnny Goodman of Omaha, winner of the United States open golf championship at Chicago last month, and to Densmore Shute of Philadelphia, who today won the British open, to compete for the "world's championship" at the Miami Biltmore Country Club in February.

The special match, similar to one played at Coral Gables, Fla. last February when Gene Sarazen, then U. S. and British open champion, overwhelmingly defeated Olin Dutra, P. G. A. champion, 11 and 10, over the 72-hole route, is proposed for the Henry L. Doherty golf challenge cup, posted by the president of the Florida Year-Round Clubs.

The telegrams to Shute and Goodman were signed by J. M. Frazor, secretary of the Year-Round Clubs.

MRS. MOODY DEFEATS MISS ROUND TO WIN 6TH WIMBLEDON TITLE

once more and held her own service in the eighth game, but as the brave little English girl tired, Mrs. Moody found new strength. She came back with all the brilliance Wimbledon has come to expect of her in the years she has been coming here to dominate the play. She raced through the final game with the loss of only one point and walked with obvious relief to the net for a hearty handshake.

After the Match.

"I'm glad to have won such a great match," she said. "Miss Round was magnificent, especially, in the second set. At the end she was rather uncertain, perhaps, on the easy ones, but it was a fine match."

Calmly meeting Mrs. Moody's bid to equal Suzanne Lenglen's record of six singles titles, Miss Round played so strongly through the first set that she was within a single point at one time of deucing the set 5-all. Twice in succession she broke through Mrs. Moody's service, the last time for a 3—2 lead that might have led to victory.

Mrs. Mooney swept the first game on her own service at love, in typical fashion, only to have the English girl bound right back at her with drives to the forehand and drop shots that not only won her the second game but broke the Californian's service in the third game. Twice the fourth game was deuced before Mrs. Moody broke through Miss Round's service and got the advantage back, but to the amazement of the crowd the English girl took the champion's service for the second time in a row.

Needing only to hold her own service from then on to win the set, Miss Round weakened, lost her delivery and with it the victory touch. Mrs. Moody allowed her but one more game in the first set, the eighth on service, though the final game several times was deuced.

Miss Round played the greatest tennis of her career in the second set, as games went with service 12 straight times and the count stood 6-all. Her forehand drives brought nods of approval from Mrs. Moody as they nicked the lines; her service was strong, and she consistently brought out a weakness in the champion's forehand.

Tiring and getting nervous under the strain, Mrs. Moody broke in the thirteenth game on her own service as Wimbledon hasn't seen her go in years. Leading 40-30, she suddenly lost control and as Miss Round pressed, the champion netted the points that cost her the critical game.

Mrs. Moody had one more rally left, however, before submitting to the end of her straight-set winning streak. She led 40-30 in the fourteenth game, with Miss Round serving, when the English girl shot a backhand down the sideline. It nicked the line, the umpire called the ball out. The linesman corrected him and the latter's decision stood, deucing the game.

The next ball Mrs. Moody hit landed in the net. Miss Round volleyed into a far corner and when the champion could not reach the ball, the streak was ended.

The United States gained a share in another title as three doubles finals completed the annual play.

Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian, teamed with Mme. Rene Mathieu of France to win the women's doubles crown from Freda James and Mrs. A. M. Yorke, British pair, 6—2, 9—11, 6—4.

Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, defending champions, retained their men's doubles title by defeating Jiro Satoh and Ryosoke Nunoi of Japan, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3, 7—5.

The German team of Gottfried von Cramm and Hilda Krahwinkel won the mixed doubles championship, beating Nat Farquharson of South Africa and Miss Mary Heeley of England, 7—5, 8—6.

SCHULTE STAR OF 6-2 AND 5-4 VICTORIES; LEAD BY 4 1-2 GAMES

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The Washington Senators today made the first homecoming in a foreign uniform of their former manager, Walter Johnson, a sad one for his Cleveland Indians, snatching both ends of a doubleheader to take a commanding four and a half game lead over the second-place New York Yankees.

After winning the first handily by a 6 to 2 score, the Senators kept a crowd of 26,000 on the edge of an exhibition of Frank Merriwell baseball, which they finally put in the win column by pushing over a run in the last of the ninth for a 5 to 4 victory.

The Senators scored the winning run in the ninth after the Indians had tied it up with a four-run rally. Manush singled in the home half, took second on Goslin's deep fly to center and scored on Schulte's single to left.

Schulte also played the hero's role in the first game, smacking out two triples and a single in four times at bat. The contest was never in doubt, however, as the Nationals bunched the 11 hits they obtained from Wesley Ferrell, while Alvin Crowder was granting almost as many but keeping them considerably more scattered.

STELLA WALSH WINS FOUR FIRST PLACES IN POLISH MEET

CHICAGO, July 8.—Stanislawa Walasiewicz (Stella Walsh) of Cleveland, today won four first places to take most of the glory in the National Polish Falcons of America track and field championship.

Miss Walsh, who competed for Poland in the 1932 Olympic games, won the 60-meter hurdles in 9.2 seconds, the broad jump with 17 feet, 9 inches, the eight-pound shot put with 43 feet, ¼ inch, and the discus throw with 110 feet, 7½ inches. She is entered in the finals of the 100 meters tomorrow, which probably will mean another victory for her.

A field of 356 athletes competed in 48 events, including gymnastics, today and eight more will be held tomorrow.

YALE-H

SECONDS DECIDE MEET; BROWN OF YALE WINS PAIR OF FIRSTS

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 8.—In record-battering competition that saw Jack Lovelock, one of England's greatest college milers, run a 4:12 3-5 race to break all competitive mile marks for this historic track, the combined Harvard-Yale track team today gained its third consecutive victory over the Oxford-Cambridge forces in the eleventh meet waged by the famous international rivals.

These colorful teams were so evenly matched that they shared the 12 first places and, for the second time in history, counted the second places to decide the victory.

The better-balanced American team gained nine second places to three for the invaders, a more decisive margin than the one that broke the 1925 deadlock, when the Americans won six first places to six and 7½ seconds to 4½.

Lovelock's amazing mile, which wiped out the great John Paul Jones' long-standing mark of 4:14 2-5 and equaled the paced race time that Norman Taber of Brown made here about 20 years ago, was the outstanding performance of the thrilling meet, which see-sawed from start to finish and ended with a total of six new records; besides having the best marks for two more events equaled.

Two Winners of Two Firsts.

The other outstanding stars were Charlie Stanwood, the Bowdoin product now attending Oxford, and Keith Brown of Yale. Both scored double victories, Brown in the pole vault and high jump, and Stanwood in the two hurdle races.

The latter, first Oxford man to register three victories against Cambridge, tried to duplicate this "iron man" feat, but trailed Brown by an inch in the high jump, which the Yale star won with a leap of 6 ft. 2¼ in. Brown's 13 ft. 6¾ in. performance in the pole vault wiped out the previous record, set in 1929 by F. H. Sturdy, also of Yale, by three and one-eighth inches.

Four other Americans competed for the Oxford-Cambridge forces, but only one of them, Pen Hallowell, who won the intercollegiate mile title for Harvard before enrolling at Oxford, was able to win a first place. The former Crimson star gained a brilliant victory in the half-mile, the last event on the program, to beat out John White of Harvard by five yards and give the British team its sixth first place.

Oscar Sutermeister, formerly of Harvard and now of Cambridge, placed third in the pole vault. Julius Byles of Oxford and late of Princeton, was equally successful in the shotput, won by Arthur Jackson of Yale, and John Hawes, another Crimson star who took his Rhodes scholarship to Cambridge University, trailed the field of four in the 100-yard dash, which went to Eddie Calvin of Harvard, in the meet record-equaling time of 9 4-5 seconds.

Stanwood Sets Two Meet Marks.

Stanwood was credited with two meet records for his 14 4-5 seconds victory in the 120-yard high hurdles and his 24 1-5 seconds performance in the 220-yard low hurdles. Yale's great Karl Warner shaved three-fifths of a second off the mark set by B. G. Rudd of Oxford back in 1921 when he out-footed Phil Dodge of Harvard for a five-yard victory in the 440 in 48 2-5 seconds, and Cyril Mabey of Oxford clipped six and two-fifths seconds off the 22-year-old two-mile record set by C. G. Taylor, an earlier Oxonian star, when he ran Arthur Foote of Harvard into the ground with his 9:22 3-5 race.

The summaries:

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Charles Stanwood, Oxford; George Lockwood, Yale, second; John Thornton, Cambridge, third; Arthur Walsh, Yale, fourth. Time: 14 4-5 seconds (new record).

100-YARD DASH—Won by Edward Calvin, Harvard; Edward Davis, Cambridge, second; [illegible], third; John Hawes, Cambridge, fourth. Time: 9 4-5 seconds (equals meet record).

MILE RUN—Won by Jack Lovelock, Oxford; John Turley, Yale, second; Forbes Horan, Cambridge, third; Alfred Hallowell, Harvard, fourth. Time 4 minutes 12 3-5 seconds (new meet record).

220-YARD RUN—Won by Edward Davis, Cambridge; Edward Calvin, Harvard, second; Francis Lane, Harvard, third; Denis Rathbone, Cambridge, fourth. Time: 21 3-5 seconds (equals meet record).

SHOT PUT—Won by Arthur Jackson, Yale, (44 feet 9 5-8 inches); John Dean, Harvard, second ([illegible]); Julius Byles, Oxford, third ([illegible]); Ivan Ivanovic, Cambridge, fourth ([illegible]).

POLE VAULT—Won by Brown, Yale (13 feet 6¾ inches); Wirt Thompson, Yale, second; [illegible], third (12 feet 8 in.); [illegible] meier, [illegible] (Only three competed.)

TWO MILE RUN—Won by Cyril Mabey, Oxford; Arthur Foote, Harvard, second; Allen Minor, Yale, third; [illegible], Cambridge, fourth. Time: 9 minutes 22 3-5 seconds. (New meet record.)

440-YARD RUN—Won by Karl Warner, Yale; Phillips Dodge, Harvard, second; John Barnes, Oxford, third; [illegible] Marsh, Cambridge, fourth. Time: 48 2-5 seconds. (New meet record.)

220-YARD LOW HURDLES—Won by Charles Stanwood, Oxford; John Thornton, Cambridge, second; John Grady, Harvard, third; Charles Dunbar, Yale, fourth. Time: 24 1-5 seconds (new meet record.)

880-YARD RUN—Won by Penrose Hallowell, Oxford; John White, Harvard, second; [illegible], Cambridge, third; [illegible] Time: 1 minute 54 seconds.

HIGH JUMP—Won by Keith Brown, Yale, 6 feet, 2¼ inches; Charles Stanwood, Oxford, second (6 feet 1¼ inches); Julian Barrett, Yale, third ([illegible]) (Only three competed.)

BROAD JUMP—Won by Wyndham Hasler, Yale ([illegible]); [illegible] man, Yale, second ([illegible]); Kenneth Duncan, Oxford, third ([illegible]); Laurie Lang, Oxford, fourth (21 feet 1⅛ inches).

STELLA WALSH WINS FOUR FIRST PLACES IN POLISH MEET

CHICAGO, July 8.—Stanislawa Walasiewicz (Stella Walsh) of Cleveland, today won four first places to take most of the glory in the National Polish Falcons of America track and field championship.

Miss Walsh, who competed for Poland in the 1932 Olympic games, won the 60-meter hurdles in 9.2 seconds, the broad jump with 17 feet, 9 inches, the eight-pound shot put with 43 feet, ¼ inch, and the discus throw with 110 feet, 7½ inches. She is entered in the finals of the 100 meters tomorrow, which probably will mean another victory for her.

A field of 356 athletes competed in 48 events, including gymnastics, today and eight more will be held tomorrow.

non, defending champions, retained their men's doubles title by defeating Jiro Satoh and Ryosoke Nunoi of Japan, 4—6, 6—3, 6—3, 7—5.

The German team of Gottfried von Cramm and Hilda Krahwinkel won the mixed doubles championship, beating Nat Farquharson of South Africa and Miss Mary Heeley of England, 7—5, 8—6.

SECONDS DECIDE MEET; BROWN OF YALE WINS PAIR OF FIRSTS

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., July 8.—In a record-battering competition that saw Jack Lovelock, one of England's greatest college milers, run a 4:12 3-5 race to break all competitive mile marks for this historic track, the combined Harvard-Yale track team today gained its third consecutive victory over the Oxford-Cambridge forces in the eleventh meet waged by the famous international rivals.

These colorful teams were so evenly matched that they shared the 12 first places and, for the second time in history, counted the second places to decide the victory.

The better-balanced American team gained nine second places to three for the invaders, a more decisive margin than the one that broke the 1925 deadlock, when the Americans won six first places to six and 7½ seconds to 4½.

Lovelock's amazing mile, which wiped out the great John Paul Jones' long-standing mark of 4:14 2-5 and equaled the paced race time that Norman Taber of Brown made here about 20 years ago, was the outstanding performance of the thrilling meet, which see-sawed from start to finish and ended with a total of six new records, besides having the best marks for two more events equaled.

Two Winners of Two Firsts.

The other outstanding stars were Charlie Stanwood, the Bowdoin product now attending Oxford, and Keith Brown of Yale. Both scored double victories, Brown in the pole vault and high jump, and Stanwood in the two hurdle races.

The latter, first Oxford man to register three victories against Cambridge, tried to duplicate this "iron man" feat, but trailed Brown by an inch in the high jump, which the Yale star won with a leap of 6 ft. 2¼ in. Brown's 13 ft. 6⅝ in. performance in the pole vault wiped out the previous record, set in 1929 by F. H. Sturdy, also of Yale, by three and one-eighth inches.

Four other Americans competed for the Oxford-Cambridge forces, but only one of them, Pen Hallowell, who won the intercollegiate mile title for Harvard before enrolling at Oxford, was able to win a first place. The former Crimson star gained a brilliant victory in the half-mile, the last event on the program, to beat out John White of Harvard by five yards and give the British team its sixth first place.

Oscar Sutermeister, formerly of Harvard and now of Cambridge, placed third in the pole vault. Julius Byles of Oxford and late of Princeton, was equally successful in the shotput, won by Arthur Jackson of Yale, and John Hawes, another Crimson star who took his Rhodes scholarship to Cambridge University, trailed the field of four in the 100-yard dash, which went to Eddie Calvin of Harvard, in the meet record-equaling time of 9 4-5 seconds.

Stanwood Sets Two Meet Marks.

Stanwood was credited with two meet records for his 14 4-5 seconds victory in the 120-yard high hurdles and his 24 1-5 seconds performance in the 220-yard low hurdles. Yale's great Karl Warner shaved three-fifths of a second off the mark set by B. G. Rudd of Oxford back in 1921 when he out-footed Phil Dodge of Harvard for a five-yard victory in the 440 in 48 2-5 seconds, and Cyril Mabey of Oxford clipped six and two-fifths seconds off the 22-year-old two-mile record set by C. G. Taylor, an earlier Oxonian star, when he ran Arthur Foote of Harvard into the ground with his 9:22 3-5 race.

The summaries:

120-YARD HIGH HURDLES—Won by Charles Stanwood, Oxford; George Lockwood, Yale, second; John Thornton, Cambridge, second; Arthur Walsh, Yale, bridge, third; John Grady, Harvard, fourth. Time: 14 4-5 seconds (new meet record).

WESTERN JUNIOR GOLF ENTRANTS TO PLAY AT NORMANDIE TOMORROW

Young golfers from out of town who are to play in the Western junior tournament which opens at Normandie Golf Club Tuesday, are expected to arrive in numbers today for practice over the St. Charles road course. Some few tested out their shots there yesterday.

Chicago is supplying the largest number of entrants outside of St. Louis and the Windy City contingent is expected to be a strong one despite the fact that Johnny Banks, who won the title last year, is ineligible for competition this season due to his age.

Among the St. Louis hopes are Bob Cochran, district champion, who won the Western junior title two years ago; Frank Bredall, Woodlawn, present junior district champion, and Paul Jamison, Glen Echo, runner-up to Bredall in the recent junior tournament.

There are numerous other good players and the tournament over the testing Normandie layout is expected to be a strenuous one. The course will be open for practice by contestants tomorrow.

ILLINOIS U. SWIMMING STAR TO COMPETE IN WESTERN A. A. U. MEET

St. Louis swimming enthusiasts will get their first glimpse of the season of Charley Flachman, Illinois University swimming star, who unofficially broke the intercollegiate 100-yard dash record last winter, when he competes Friday night against a crack field in the 100-yard free style race in the Western A. A. U. city championship swimming and diving meet at the Lorelei swimming pool, 4525 Olive street.

Flachman, the best of the Illini splashers, shattered the record George Kojacq created when he was at Rutgers. Charley, similar to several other local swimmers, has made a national name for himself within the past two years. He will represent Illinois U. in the National Intercollegiate swimming meet which will be held this summer in Chicago.

The low board diving event for life guards also is expected to be another thrilling event.

Dean Turns Back Brooklyn In Another 1 to 0 Game

Horse of the Osage over the plate.

Ray Benge, who opposed Dean in the duel gave the great Dizzy a good fight. Until the eighth inning he was even with him in that the Cardinals had only four hits. And in the seven innings only two Redbirds advanced as far as second and none as far as third. But Dean carried through all the way and that's why his next check from Sam Breadon won't be $100 light.

Dean's Second 1-0 Victory.

"I'm not going to make a habit of missing trains," said the happy Dean in the clubhouse after the battle. "But I wouldn't mind making a habit of these 1—0 shutouts. And I've got a good start. My last three games have been 1—0. Won two and lost one. And say, that $100 idea isn't a bad one. Did you see the boys bearing down out there? Our slump is over. Gabby, do you want me to pitch again tomorrow?"

"No," replied the Old Sergeant, "and don't you miss any more trains, or this soft heart of mine may turn to stone."

Redbird Notes

BILL HALLAHAN will pitch one game of today's double-header and Jim Mooney or Sylvester Johnson will be the starting hurler in the other contest, Manager Street announced last night. Walter Beck and Van Mungo are due for the Dodgers. The first game will start at 1:30 o'clock.

A Ladies' day crowd of 5100 women, 700 girls and 2000 cash customers, attended the second game of the series.

The field was slippery in spots from the morning rain and Orsatti got a single in the first inning when Stripp skidded going after a grounder that caromed off Benge's glove.

Joe Hutcheson, outfielder from Memphis, made his debut with the Dodgers in the game. Max Carey benched Hack Wilson, shifted Boyle to left and Frederick to center, with Hutcheson in right. He is a big rangy fellow, a left-handed hitter.

Dean is making a collection of baseballs, prizing the last ball pitched in games he wins. Hutcheson grounded to Collins to end the contest and Dizzy ran over to get the prize but Ripper shook his head and held at as ne ran to the club house.

Bargain Night Popular.

KANSAS CITY, July 8.—"Bargain night," with 40 cents admission to the grandstand, has proved so popular that the Kansas City baseball club has decided to continue the attraction.

Nichols Due Here Tomorrow for Bout With Abad

Dave Abad, clever Panama boxer, will participate in hard boxing sessions tomorrow and Tuesday at the National gymnasium in preparation for his ten-round match with Johnny Nichols, hefty punching Oklahoma featherweight, at Matchmaker Jack C. Tippett's professional boxing card Wednesday night at the Battery A outdoor arena.

Abad and Nichols, who will report tomorrow night, will be meeting for the second time. A year ago the Panama fighter and Nichols fought to a draw in Muskogee.

For the past two weeks Abad has been training in Valley Park. He has been doing a lot of swimming, running and rope jumping along with some boxing.

Nichols, too, has fought here before, making a hit with the fans in his scraps with Johnny "Peewee" Kaiser and Allen Whitlow.

Tippett last night signed Morgan Lingenfelter, Jackie Callahan's clever youngster, and Chick Rains. Indiana middleweight, to meet unsigned foes in a pair of eight-rounders. Harry Durso is being considered as an opponent for Lingenfelter, while Steve Marre is in line for a scrap with Rains.

Two clever little follows, Carl Schafer, who has been fighting in professional ranks for the past year, and Elmer Savage, recent conqueror of Lingenfelter, will trade blows in the third eight-rounder.

BOXING AND WRESTLING SHOW NEXT SATURDAY

Encouraged by the turnout which greeted his initial show of a week ago, Matchmaker Floyd Alsbury announces that he will offer his second amateur boxing and wrestling program at the St. Louis Sport Club arena, Grand boulevard and Natural Bridge, Saturday night.

Winners of the opening card will probably be brought back Saturday. Alsbury also plans to rematch Bill Finnegan and Farrell Moore. The latter scored a hairline decision in their bout of July 1.

TRI-CITY TEAM WINS IN COUNTY LEGION LEAGUE

Tri-City's baseball team, composed of boys from Festus, Herculaneum and Crystal City, shut out University City, 4 to 0, in a county American Legion baseball game yesterday afternoon at Herculaneum. The victory was Tri-City's seventh, with two games yet to be played against Wellston and Webster.

Should Tri-City win its game next Saturday with Wellston, it would gain the county title and the right to meet the Hatzfeld nine, champion of the city legion loop, in the district series, which will probably start on July 22.

University City lacked a scoring punch, and Melvin Butler, the Tri-City pitcher, beat them almost single-handed. Besides holding them to five scattered hits, striking out five batters and walking two, Butler batted in three of his team's runs.

In the second inning, Dick Turley singled, Russell Goff walked, and Butler hit to left to score Turley. Goff crossed the plate on Leonard's single over shortstop. Again, in the sixth, Turley led off with a single; Jones was safe on an error, and both scored when Butler smashed a drive through shortstop.

University City had runners on base in every frame except two, but only once did one pass second. This was in the sixth, when Tommy McConnell singled and went to third on an overthrow at first.

PARKER TO PLAY MAKO FOR CLAY COURT TENNIS TITLE

ever, and Parker lobbed them in and won the final game of the set at love.

Coen came right back in the second set to win the first two games as Parker chopped badly and smashed ball after ball into the net. Frankie broke through, however, to win the third game at 7—5 and the fourth after a terrific struggle at 11—9, only to have Coen take the next two games and lead, 4—2. Parker recovered his game suddenly at that juncture and reeled off four straight-game victories to clinch the match at 6—4. Six of the games went deuce once or more times.

The final set was a dog fight, with the rivals even after two games, but Parker broke through to cop the next two and play safely the rest of the way.

Lefty Bryan, Chattanooga, Tenn., and John McDiarmid, Fort Worth, Tex., entered the finals of the doubles championship with a 6—4, 6—3, 6—4 victory over Berkeley Bell, New York and Kamrath. They will clash against Mako and Jack Tidball, national collegiate champion from Los Angeles, who entered the finals with a 6—4, 6—3, 7—5 triumph over J. Gilbert Hall, New York, and Fritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa.

A Record Hi.

A MILLIONAIRE was Hiram Hodge,
A man of great repute;
His income tax he didn't dodge
And earned a crown and lute.

A Record Low.

PREPARE the pot of boiling pitch
For Brother Skinner's shade;
Although as Croesus he was rich,
No income tax he paid.

What Again!

Joe Jacobs says Schmeling and Baer will box again next February.

A MAN convinced against his will
Is of the same opinion till
Some husky guy knocks off his block
By landing a convincing sock.

Think of That!

Germany has put a tax on bachelors and spinsters and will lend money to those who want to marry but can't afford it. Sounds reasonable.

Pushing a lawn mower was one of Jack Sharkey's training stunts. Jack is always out for a cut at the long green.

"Yale Cut Prices for Its Football."
And that is what a guy might call
The mostest kindest cut of all.

The way things have been going of late it looks as though President Roosevelt had told the Senators to get busy and win that pennant.

Nice Work.

Seeing that the ballplayers were doing nothing about the ban on fraternizing an umpire and a spectator engaged in a rough-and-tumble mixup in Louisville recently. The old fighting spirit will be served.

We don't know how long Primo Carnera will reign as champion, but the guy who steps into his shoes will have a man's size job filling them.

A Champion Speaks.

A JOLT in the ribs I can take without wincing,
A belt on the nose with no anguish evincing.
A punch in the jaw I can stand from a scrapper,
But deliver me, kid, from the demon back-slapper!

Here's one subhead written a week before the fight that came true: "Carnera Has Good Uppercut." If you don't believe it, ask Mr. Cuckoshay or Arkeyshay as the case might be.

Chief Chewchki may not be a champion wrestler, but he seems 'o be set for a banner straw hat season.

See where Fritz Crisler is now a first string pitcher in the Central Jersey League. He lost his first game.

Gene Tunney picked Carnera to beat Sharkey. For an ex-champion Gene is a pretty good forecaster. The Weather Bureau needs him.

Jimmy Bronson, the man from Joplin, also was a Carnera man. Hailing from the lead belt, Jimmy knows a pipe when he sees one.

Incidentally the ponderous Primo exploded the theory that he couldn't hit. He exploded it on Brother Sharkey's chin.

WRAY'S COLUMN

that is doubtful. He would have to begin with the dubs and fight his way up again, to prove his case properly.

The public is now only casually interested in Schmeling, although properly ballyhooed he might be brought into the picture once more.

No New Talent in Sight.

FOR the rest, the heavyweight championship division is down at the heels. There are no other promising men in sight. The old-timers are all washed up or have proved unequal to the task of coping with either Carnera or Baer.

The death of Schaaf wiped out a very promising hope. For the rest, King Levinsky, Castanaga and that kind have either been eliminated or have not shown form of title quality. The Retzlaffs, the Poredas and the washed-up Loughrans are out.

Fans are now interested in the one fighter who seems high-powered enough to punch Carnera a blow that can hurt him—Max Baer. Already conjecture has gone far along the road endeavoring to figure which man would win. Baer's height, great hitting power, courage and stamina are cited as entitling him to a look-in with the big fellow.

A Real Battle Promised.

ONE thing is certain a meeting between Primo and Baer would be a fight. One of the two would not return to his corner standing up, at the finish.

It is this angle that interests the fans. While it is conceded that some opponents might get into the ring with Primo and hideaway for 15 rounds, or perhaps engineer a tap-and-get-away victory over him, ringsiders do not want to see that sort of a defeat of Primo. They want to see a David bring down the Goliath of the ring.

And who but "David" Baer is better able to do the job?

Max Is Becoming Coy.

BAER, however, seems to have grown suddenly coy. He, too, is going into the movie field after his barnstorming with Dempsey is through. He is quoted as saying he is in doubt whether he will continue in the fight game, after getting into the movies.

That is "out"—the public would not let him retire if he would. The statement may have been made in a fit of pique over the situation in which he finds himself, as respects his ring finances. There is a tangle over his earnings and there are several "cuts" in what is coming to him. Perhaps Max thinks, if he can make good on the screen, he can sidestep the percentage boys of the fight racket.

Our guess is that Max will do better in the ring than he will in Hollywood.

Carnera Also in the Toils.

STRANGE—Carnera and Baer, two leading heavyweights, are both in the toils of many managers or gentlemen entitled to "cuts" of his earnings.

No fewer than six claim a share in Carnera's purses. Waiting just around the corner are several legal gentlemen with their hands out, due to judgments rendered against Primo or suits contemplated.

An Italian banker, Soresi, is supposed to be acting in Carnera's interests; but by the time six managers and other requirements are settled the fruits of a championship campaign are likely to be of the dead sea variety.

This interests fans. A fighter's finances affect his ring career. Many believe that a boxer does better when he's hungry. In that case Carnera and Baer ought to be good fighters for a long time to come.

OARSMEN FROM FOUR CLUBS IN MUNICIPAL TITLE REGATTA, TODAY

By Damon Kerby.

The fifteenth annual regatta of the Municipal Rowing Association will be held under the auspices of the Central Rowing Club, 4080 North Wharf street, this afternoon, with the four active rowing clubs in the St. Louis harbor competing.

Central will be defending its city championship, won in the annual meet two years ago and retained last year, but so sharp is the competition expected to be that few positive predictions are being made that the defending champions will repeat.

Four races are definitely scheduled, but there will be five if another club besides Central makes a last-minute entry in the four-oared shell event. Up to last night, only Central's crack four had entered.

The first race, for barges is scheduled to start at 3:30 o'clock. One other event will follow every 30 minutes. These, in the order in which they will be held, are the single sculls, double sculls, four-oared shell (tentative) and eight-oared shell.

The finish line will be at the Central boathouse. Artie Eilers, of Century, will be the starter and Fred Mueller, of Western, referee.

Order of events, and the lanes which were drawn by the clubs, follow:

BARGE RACE, 3:30 P. M.

No. 1 lane: North End—V. Kurtsky, G. Vierling, W. Murphy, A. Bozsick, O. Wade, G. Saczepan, Ray Costello.

No. 2 lane: Western—John Kveton, Charles Gruber, Erwin Hoffman, Herman Miller, Edwin Beckman, Walter Schmidt and Adolph Kreuder.

No. 3 lane: Central—H. Hoefle, J. Kausch, Kleyberger, Banash, Winkiemann, Tierney and R. Kiris.

No. 4: St. Louis—Mac Schwenne, Frank Sager, Amatus Westrich, Vic Bachles, Happy Seiter, Red Horner and J. Adelsberger.

CAB CALLOWAY CUPS TO BE PRIZES IN CITY NEGRO TENNIS EVENT

The nineteenth annual invitational city wide Negro tennis tournament will open Saturday morning at Tandy Park, Pendleton and Cottage avenues. Richard Hudlin, onetime captain of the Chicago University tennis team, is the sponsor. Last year there were 70 players entered, but at least 90 are expected to participate in the present event.

There will be women's singles, men's singles, men's doubles, women's doubles and juniors' championships. Miss Lulu Porter of Chicago won the women's title last year, while Richard Hudlin has captured the men's title in nine successive years. Miss Porter will not be able to take a part in the event this year. The outstanding women players are Miss Ruby Lawrence, Miss P. Green and Miss A. Bruce, while Morrison England, Leroy Millender, Norvel Parker and Hudlin are the star players among the men.

Invitations have been sent to all outstanding Negro players throughout the country. Cab Calloway of radio fame will donate a silver cup to the winners in the men's singles and in the women's singles. The winners will be entitled to go to Hampton, Va., to represent St. Louis in the Negro national tennis championships, which start Aug. 14.

ST. LOUIS SWIMMERS IN NATIONAL MEET

Two St. Louis swimmers, Dan Hochstadt of the Westborough Country Club, and Charles Slachman, representing the University of Illinois, will compete in the National A. A. U. outdoor swimming meet at Chicago, Friday. Hochstadt will enter the diving event and Slachman the 100-yard dash. Each holds the Municipal title in his respective event.

Shooting Events Hoday.

Rifle and pistol matches, open to the public, will be held by the Glendale Shooting Club this afternoon on their outdoor range located on Manchester road, Highway 66, at Hollow, Mo. All interested marksmen are invited to compete.

NO MORE BEST IN QUICKSTEP HANDICAP AT LATONIA

SUPREME SWEET, THE 1932 VICTOR, FINISHES THIRD, AFTER MAROONED

By the Associated Press.

LATONIA, Ky., July 8.—Leading almost all the way, Marooned of the Le Mar Stock Farm faltered as Jockey Montgomery looked back at the finish today, and lost the Quickstep Handicap to No More, from the stable of C. E. Davidson.

Barely a pace separated them at the end, but it was enough to bring victory to No More, the favorite, a purse of $2300 to the owner, and $5.12 to those who wagered $2 to win.

Supreme Sweet, coupled with Pancho Lopez,, as the entry of Mrs. W. E. Schmidt and the Superior Stable and winner of the event last year, was third.

Ten went to the post as Agincourt was scratched, but the race was held to the first three to finish. Gift of Roses, of the stable of J. P. Ebelhardt, was an early favorite, but lost favor just before post time and never showed throughout the six-furlong sprint.

Morsel broke away first, but soon gave way to Marooned, his stablemate. Marooned was two lengths in front close to the rail with a sixteenth to go when Jock Montgomery looked back. No More bounded up, and Montgomery's best urgings could not make up lost ground.

No More finished in 1:11 4-5, the best time since 1924, when Goshawk won in 1:11.

FILLY MAY WIN THE ARLINGTON CLASSIC, JULY 15

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Possibility that the Arlington Classic may go to a filly is not remote. The rich offering of the Arlington Park race track which will be run off July 15 has never been won by a female, but this year may find the precedent smashed.

In fact, in all the brilliant history of the big event, a filly has never finished second or third. A fine, formidable filly looms up this year which seems all set to smash that rule with anything like a little racing luck and a good, solid ride.

Conqueror of many outstanding colts and as stout and sturdy as one herself, the flashy miss, Swivel, may turn the trick in the Classic.

Not only does Swivel rank highest of the band of fillies nominated for this big event, but she even stands shoulder to shoulder with some of the best rated colts, all of which will be in for another big offensive on the three-year-old title which at present is still unsettled.

In her only start of the year, prior to the Kentucky Derby, Swivel won with such remarkable ease that she was installed a highly rated contender for the big Churchill Downs engagement. Unfortunately, however, she was seized with a violent coughing spell while still in Maryland and was withdrawn from the Derby which might have had a different ending had she started. Horsemen still maintain that Swivel could have licked the battling pair, Broker's Tip and Head Play, with ease.

Colonel E. R. Bradley, the only owner with four Kentucky Derbys to his credit—or for that matter, with three of them—has in his candidate, Barn Swallow, what shapes up as the next best filly threat. This miss, winner of the Kentucky Oaks, is a sturdy campaigner, gifted with a world of speed and a stout heart.

Another good performance of Barn Swallow was in the Coaching Club American Oaks in which she finished second after a sluggish ride. However, her bang-up finish in which she made up plenty of lost ground, proved that she was at her best and, with better handling in the Arlington Classic, should be able to put up a stiff argument indeed.

Kirkwood Meets Vess Nine Today In Trolley League

The feature contest in the Missouri-Illinois Trolley League is scheduled today at Kirkwood, where the Vess Club of St. Louis, winner of the opening half of the split-season schedule, will clash with the Kirkwood A. C., runner up.

On Independence Day the Vess Club opened the final half with a defeat at the hands of the Edgemont A. C., 7 to 8, due to excellent pinch hitting by Johnny Harshany, while Kirkwood was being beaten by the Bly-Moss squad.

Jimmy Thompson, ace hurler, will go to the hill for Kirkwood, while Gene Barthleme, whose air-tight pitching was mainly responsible for Vess finishing on top in the initial half, will work for the visitors.

The St. Louis Dairys and Bly-Moss team will meet at Belleville. Manager Bob Fisher of the Bly-Moss aggregation will send Otto Plummer against the Belleville outfit, while Jess Doyle, former Brownie, who has been pitching in fine form lately, will oppose Plummer.

Due to the severe lacing administered to Madison Hubtowners in their last out against the Dairys, Manager Jimmy DeMint has shaken up his team considerably during the past week to meet Edgemont A. C. this afternoon over at Edgemont. DeMint will send either George Werner or Louie Fangmeyer, recently acquired from the Vess team, to the hill to stop the East Siders, with either Harshany or Al Besse getting the assignment for Edgemont.

All games will start at 3 p. m.

MOULT DEFEATS ERNST IN COUNTY TENNIS

Rain delayed the start of the County tennis tournament at Woodlawn Country Club yesterday and after three matches had been decided, rain again interfered.

Robert Moult defeated Edwin Ernst, 8—6 and 6—4 in a hard fought match while Mason Green won from John Bates, 6—4 and 6—2 while Shields Hauhart trounced Sam Murphy 6—0, 6—0.

Play will be resumed at 10 a. m. today if court conditions permit.

Drawings for the doubles will be made this morning and first-round play probably will be made this afternoon.

$1 Across Board Bet To Be Tried At Hawthorne

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.

AN innovation in pari mutuel wagering will be introduced at Hawthorne during the August meeting, it was announced today by General Manager Joseph A. Murphy.

It is the $1 across the board wager, recently tried out in Canada, where it is proving highly successful. Most tracks now have combination ticket in their mutuel system, but it calls for a $2 bet across the board or a total of $6. The Hawthorne innovation reduces the total to half that sum.

This is not a movement towards dollar mutuels in that a bettor must wager $3. The ticket thus gives him a $1 to win, $1 to place and the same to show.

WECKEMEYERS OPPOSE PENN NINE IN FEATURE

The Weckemeyers meet the Pennsylvania nine in the feature game in the East St. Louis Municipal baseball league this afternoon at Jones Park. In the other game, the Hunters oppose the Schniders.

The Weckemeyers and Pennsylvania teams were victors in the first round of play in the second half split season race last Sunday and the winner will be in undisputed possession of first place.

The Hunters, winners of the first half title, with seven straight victories, were surprised last week when the Pennsy team won.

DARK SECRET WINS EMPIRE CITY HANDICAP

By the Associated Press.

EMPIRE CITY RACE TRACK, N. Y., July 8.—The Wheatley Stable's Dark Secret and James Butler's Apprentice, a pair of four-year-olds that have waged several hard-fought battles in stakes of the past, came together again here today in the Empire City Handicap of a mile and a quarter, feature of the card which inaugurated a 22-day meeting.

This time Dark Secret proved much the best. The Flying Ebony colt led all the way to beat his old rival by four open lengths. Apprentice was a similar distance in advance of the Foxcatcher Farms' veteran French gelding, White Clover II. There were only three starters, with Dark Secret an even money choice.

The time was 2:05 flat and the race was worth $1880 to the winner.

Johnny Gilbert had the leg on Dark Secret and the solemn Syrian did an excellent job. He urged his mount to the front in a few strides and then took the colt under restraint, nursing him along with a safe lead over Apprentice. The latter tried to make up ground a quarter mile from home but Dark Secret had plenty left and drew even farther away. White Clover II kept within range of the leaders but was found lacking when Robertson asked him to run.

Miss Ruth Hafner To Be Bride of Clark H. Kooser On Wednesday

Ceremony Will Take Place Informally at Home of Bride's Parents, the Rev. Dr. Woodrow Officiating.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Ruth Hafner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Hafner, 24 Windermere place, and Clark Herman Kooser, son of Mrs. Herman B. Kooser, 210 Rosemont avenue, Webster Groves. The prospective bride has been telling her close friends of her plans for the past few days.

The wedding will take place Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hafner. The arrangements will be informal, and the guests will include only members of the two families and a few friends. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow of Long Beach, Cal., who for eight years was pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church here and a next-door neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Hafner. Dr. Woodrow will be accompanied to St. Louis by Mrs. Woodrow and they will be the guests at the Hafner home.

Miss Julia Hafner will be her sister's maid of honor, and Arthur Wayne Green, who married Mr. Kooser's sister, Miss Juliet Kooser, several years ago, will be best man.

Following the ceremony there will be an informal reception. Mr. Kooser and his bride will live on a ranch at Carbondale, Colo., after a honeymoon.

Miss Hafner is a graduate of Mary Institute and Washington University, where she became a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She did not make a formal debut, but served twice as a maid of honor at the Veiled Prophet ball.

Mr. Kooser attended Princeton, and is a graduate of the Washington University School of Law. He is a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Season Gets Under Way in New England Coast Cities

GLOUCESTER, Mass., July 9.

WITH the opening of all the hotels, and the start of the North Shore summer season, St. Louis residents have begun to arrive along the shore. Mr. and Mrs. Walker Mason, former St. Louisians, who have lived in Hartford, Conn., for the last few years, arrived in Annisquam July 1, and are now settled in a charming old Colonial house on the River road, with a view of the Annisquam River. They plan to stay until Labor Day, when they will leave for Providence, R. I., to look for a new home. Mr. Mason has transferred his business from Hartford to the Rhode Island capital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Flad of St. Louis, who have been coming for several summers to the Hawthorne Inn at East Gloucester, are due there this week for the season.

Miss Isabelle Lane of St. Louis, who has been at "Overledge," her summer home in Manchester, since the last of April, has been joined by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Nathaniel Tyler Lane. Miss Lane motored from Manchester over to Concord the day before the holiday, and brought Mrs. Lane, who had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wells Blanchard of Concord, back to Manchester for the season. Before joining her daughter Mrs. Lane had been visiting in the Adirondack Mountains. Miss Belle Lane also has her sister, Mrs. Josephine L. Carter, with her at "Overledge." Miss Lane will probably be there until the first of December.

Mrs. Harold T. Hungerford of St. Louis opened her house in Yarmouthport July 1, and her daughter, Bettie Jane Hungerford, has been busy greeting young friends there. Mrs. Hungerford's father, George S. Gibbs, is also with her. They had as guests on the holiday Mr. and Mrs. C. Henry Clough of Boston and their son, C. Henry Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Clough have spent every Fourth of July with them for the last 17 years. Mrs. Hungerford, is planning to stay in Yarmouthport until Labor day. Her house is a short distance from the white Colonial cottage occupied by Mr. and Mrs. W. Griffith McRee (Ethel Simpkins) formerly of St. Louis. Mrs. McRee's sisters, the Misses Olive and Miss Louise Simpkins, live next door to her in Yarmouthport.

On the other side of the Cape, at Hyannisport, the St. Louis summer colony is increasing with new arrivals every day. Mrs. Oliver J. Anderson and her daughters, Martha and Jane, have leased the sum-

Mrs. McRee's sisters, the Miss Olive and Miss Louise Simpkins, live next door to her in Yarmouthport.

On the other side of the Cape, at Hyannisport, the St. Louis summer colony is increasing with new arrivals every day. Mrs. Oliver J. Anderson and her daughters, Martha and Jane, have leased the summer home of Andrew H. McCreery of St. Louis, and are settled there for the season. This is the third year Mrs. Anderson has come to Cape Cod. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Bixby are other recent arrivals. They are staying in the cottage leased by Mrs. Bixby's mother, Mrs. H. S. Butler, who has not arrived yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Sparks opened their Hyannisport home on the First of July, and as usual have Mrs. Sparks' sons, Thomas and William Reyburn, with them. They are expecting Miss Valerie Reyburn for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. William Caleb Sipple of Washington, formerly of St. Louis, have been settled here since early in May with their family. They will be joined the first of August by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gorman Lambert, who plan to stay five or six weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. Green have been settled in Hyannisport nearly two weeks, and are making plans to entertain some St. Louis friends next month. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen B. Sheldon are here also, and have Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Shea Horne, their son-in-law and daughter, with them. Dunham B. Dodge has been established at his home about three weeks, and is expecting his sister, Mrs. Edward Hudson Barstow, to join him the last of July. Mr. Barstow will arrive in August. Mr. Dodge was host to Mrs. Frederick L. English, Mrs. Louis A. Benecke, Mrs. J. Fderedick Schlafly, and Mrs. Ben T. Wood, all of St. Louis, over the week-end of July 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell E. Gardner of St. Louis have joined the summer colony at Hyannisport for the first time this year, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colt Day are expected soon. Farther down the Cape, at West Harwich, Mrs. Otto Meysenburg and Miss Louise Quinette of St. Louis have just arrived to spend the season at the Belmont Hotel.

The colony at Wianno and Osterville is getting under way. Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom and her sons, Howard and Bradford, have been settled in Wianno more than two weeks. Francis D. Seward, who has been staying at the East Bay Lodge in Wianno, moved over to the Wianno Club, overlooking the beautiful ocean-front, on July 1, the day it opened for the season. The lovely summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dana, which commands an excellent view of the ocean, is being occupied by their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Thorne. Mrs. Dana will arrive from St. Louis in another week, and Mr. Dana expects to come the first of August. They have been entertaining their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Channing M. Wells Jr. of Boston, for a brief visit in St. Louis. Mr. and Mrs. Wells were married in Wianno last September.

Other St. Louisans here include Mr. and Mrs. H. Chouteau Dyer, and the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Louis H. Burlingham. They both have homes in Osterville, near the Wianno group.

Garner's Niece, Here On Visit, Leaves Today

MISS. ELIZABETH. NANCE GARNER of Austin, Tex., a niece of Vice-President John Nance Garner, has been here for the last ten days visiting her cousins, Miss Mary and Miss Louise Brim, daughter of Mrs. Carl Clay Brim, 316 Laurel avenue. Miss Garner has been entertained at informal parties during her stay. She will depart today for her home, stopping at Tulsa, Ok., for a visit.

MISS DOROTHY KASHNER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis H. Kashner, whose engagement to William Adams of Fairway Farms, Odebolt, Ia., is announced.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Semple Back From Honeymoon

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT B. SEMPLE have returned from their honeymoon and are making their home temporarily at the residence of his mother, Mrs. Nathaniel M. Semple, 5565 Chamberlain avenue. They were married June 15 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. Frank Neer of Ashby Glen Farm, Delaplane, Va. She was formerly Miss Isabelle Ashby Neer.

The first week of their honeymoon was spent at the summer cottage of Mr. Semple's grandparents, Judge and Mrs. Franklin Ferriss, at Harbor Beach, Mich. Then they went to Cincinnati, where they were guests of Mr. Semple's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William T. Semple. They were guests of honor at a Fourth of July picnic given by Mr. Semple's cousin, Mrs. Joseph Sanford Harris, and Mr. Harris, 5602 Washington court.

The bride, who has lived in Cambridge until two years ago, was graduated from the Brimmer School in Boston and attended Sweetbriar College in Virginia. She is a member of the Cobbler Hunt Club. Mr. Semple is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Henry T. Ferriss, 8 Lenox place. his mother was Miss Margery Ferriss before her marriage. He is a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel C. McCluney of Kingsbury place accompanied by their daughter, Miss Louise, arrived Monday at their cottage on Little Traverse Bay to spend the summer.

Descendants of City's Oldest Families to Wed in Fall

Engagement of Miss Grace Mary Stephen and Dr. Hubert Beaufort Peugnet Announced — Wedding to Take Place in September.

MR. AND MRS. DAVID STEPHEN, 4530 McPherson avenue, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Grace Mary Stephen, and Dr. Hubert Beaufort Peugnet, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Berthold Peugnet. Both Miss Stephen and Dr. Peugnet are descendants of the oldest families in St. Louis.

Miss Stephen is a graduate of the Sacred Heart Convent and the Maryville College of the Sacred Heart. Her father came here from Edinburgh, Scotland, many years ago. Her mother's family is from Kentucky, and through her Miss Stephen is a niece of Mrs. Gratiot Cabanne, who now makes her home in Beverly Hills, Cal. She is a cousin of Mrs. Ralph Niedringhaus, and is related to Mrs. Robert J. O'Reilly.

Dr. Peugnet makes his home with his aunts, Miss Claire and Miss Eugenie Berthold, 4482 Lindell boulevard. He is a grandson of Mme. Armand Bernard Peugnet, who, as Miss Virginia Sarpy, was a belle here during the early history of St. Louis. In addition to the Sarpys, Dr. Peugnet is related to the Chouteau and Gratiot families, that played important parts in the founding of St. Louis, and to many of the French families whose descendants still live in Ste. Genevieve, Mo.

Dr. Peugnet is a graduate of the St. Louis University School of Medicine, and is at present an instructor in the department of physiology at the Washington University School of Medicine.

The marriage will take place in the middle of September.

Dorothy Kashner and William Adams to Wed

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS H. KASHNER, 8042 Park drive, Hampton Park, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Kashner, and William Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brooks Adams of Fairview Farms, Odebolt, Ia.

Mr. Adams is a graduate of the Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., and the University of Wisconsin. He is a member of Chi Psi fraternity.

Miss Kashner is a graduate of Miss Barstow's School in Kansas City, and attended the University of Wisconsin for two years. She is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. The wedding plans have not been announced.

Miss Kashner has been attending the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago with Mr. Adams' family, following a visit with them in Odebolt. Mr. Adams accompanied her home and is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Kashner. Mr. and Mrs. Kashner gave a dinner party Wednesday night for their daughter and her fiance.

Miss Joan Chichester to Wed Army Man

MRS. WILLIAM JULIUS POLK, 28 Westmoreland place, has received a cable announcing the engagement of her niece, Miss Joan Chichester, daughter of Mrs. Claude Chichester of Tunworth Down House, Hampshire County, England, and Ronald Cooke of the British Army. The wedding will take place in September.

The prospective bride is a granddaughter of Mrs. Joseph L. Chambers, 4969 Pershing avenue. She made her debut in London several seasons ago. Her mother was Miss Alicia Chambers, formerly of St. Louis.

Mr. and Mrs. Polk's young daughter, Miss Delphine, is visiting Mrs. Chichester and may prolong her visit so as to be a bridesmaid at her cousin's wedding.

Dr. Brandt Dixon Revisiting St. Louis

DR. BRANDT VAN BLARCOM DIXON of New Orleans arrived yesterday to visit his niece, Mrs. Thomas Paul Gleeson, and Mrs. Gleeson, 414 Westlake avenue, Ferguson. Dr. Elliott K. Dixon, 4533 Pershing avenue, and Brandt Van Blarcom Dixon, 7455 Blair drive, are nephews of Dr. Dixon.

Dr. Dixon is President Emeritus of Sophie Newcomb College at New Orleans, having been the college's only president until the time of his retirement. Dr. Dixon formerly lived in St. Louis and was principal of Central High School 46 years ago when he left to become president of the college.

WEDDINGS and ENGAGEMENTS

The marriage of Miss Joan Dunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Dunn, 1488 Stewart place, and John Telford Matthews of Aurora, Ill., took place June 26, at the Third United Presbyterian Church, the Rev. C. G. Lunan officiating. The church was decorated with palms, ferns, Easter lilies and cathedral candles. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents.

The bride was gowned in white net over ivory satin and wore a tulle veil held in place with orange blossoms. She carried Easter lilies. The bride's sister, Miss Grace Dunn, maid of honor, wore turquoise blue chiffon modeled on long sweeping lines and slippers to match. Her bouquet was of Talisman roses. Miss Ruby Hood of Kansas City, Mo., a cousin of the bride, was similarly gowned in peach chiffon with a turquoise girdle and carried Johanna Hill roses. The best man was Tiford Dudley of Aurora, Ill. Robert Howlett of Evanston, Ill., was groomsman. The ushers were Harold Smith and Graham Sillars of St. Louis and David Lansden of Cairo, Ill.

Mrs. Matthews is a graduate of Monmouth College, Monmouth, Ill., where she became a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority. Mr. Matthews is a graduate of the Northwestern University School of Law.

After a honeymoon at Michigan and Wisconsin resorts, Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will visit the Chicago Exposition before returning to Aurora, Ill., where they will live.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mrs. J. Acheson of Washington, Ia.; Dr. Eunice Acheson of Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. F. Shinnebarger of Muscatine, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Munson and Miss Gertrude Miller of Monmouth, Ill.; Mrs. George Hemminger of Mount Vernon, Wash.; Miss Margaret McClenaham of West Allis, Wis., and Miss Margaret Farrell of Olney, Ill.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Sue Grabefker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Grabefker, 1346 Shawmut place, to Marty M. Sacks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hyman Sacks, 5104 Wells avenue. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cohen, 5528 Easton avenue, announce that the marriage of their daughter, Miss Helen Cohen, and Sam Larberbaum, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Larberbaum, 1501 South Broadway, took place last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Rabbi Jacob R. Mazur.

The engagement of Miss Jeanette Sanofsky, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Sanofsky of St. Charles, Mo., to I. Leon Filler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Filler, 5205 Page boulevard, was announced at a party given by Mr. and Mrs. Sanofsky Sunday evening. The wedding will take place late in August.

The wedding of Miss Berniece Eckols, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Temple Eckols, 4497 Lee avenue, to Rudolph F. Bretsnyder, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Bretsnyder, 2116 Alice avenue, was solemnized Wednesday, June 14, at 8 o'clock in the evening at the home of the bride's parents, with the Rev. Elmer Brown reading the marriage service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Z. Dugdale announce the marriage of their niece, Miss Mary B. Dugdale, to Charles A. Smith, son of Mrs. E. J. Smith, of Brinkley, Ark., took place Thursday, June 29. The ceremony was at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. B. F. Page, where she had been living.

Announcement has been made that the marriage of Miss Pearl Klein, daughter of Mrs. Ilona Klein, 6719 Chamberlain avenue, to Harry Pastel, son of Raphael Pastel, 6232 Page boulevard, took place Saturday evening, July 1, at the home of the bride's mother, with Rabbi Jacob Mazur officiating.

Mrs. Klein will give a reception at her home at 8 o'clock tonight for her daughter and son-in-law.

Harriet Bausch Weds William G. Godwin

MISS HARRIET BAUSCH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bausch, 102 Mason avenue, Webster Groves, became the bride of William G. Godwin at an early morning wedding yesterday.

The ceremony, witnessed only by members of the family, was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. Courtney Jones, rector emeritus of the Emmanuel Episcopal Church of Webster Groves, assisted by the Rev. J. Manly Cobb, rector.

Mrs. G. E. Rautenberg of Evanston, Ill., formerly of Webster Groves, sister of the bride, was Mrs. Godwin's sole attendant. L. P. Godwin of Gary, Ind., brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Following the wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Godwin departed on a motor trip to Mr. Godwin's former home in Virginia, stopping en route at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. After their honeymoon they will be at home at 102 Mason avenue, Webster Groves, Mo.

The bride is a graduate of Mary Institute and of Washington University where she was a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority.

Mr. Godwin attended Randolph Macon Academy and the Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

SUMMER CLUB ACTIVITIES

MRS. CHARLES MERRILL HOYT, president and founder of the Gideons, has been selected as chairman for Missouri for the International Women Writers' Conclave to be held in Chicago July 19-22. Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton, writer, lecturer and big game hunter, is in charge of the conclave, which will be held in connection with the convention of the National Council of Women.

An international book exhibit is being arranged with an American contemporaneous section by Mrs. Seton, and another list of the best books written by American women in the last 100 years, by Anita Browne, founder of National Poetry week.

Mrs. Hoyt is assisted in compiling the Missouri lists by Lee Meriwether, president of the Society of St. Louis Authors, Miss Margery Doud, poet and director of the Adult Education department of the Public Library, Mrs. George Malone of the Writer's Guild and Mrs. Marian Pickens of Jefferson City of the Missouri Writer's Guild.

Mrs. Lydia Henniger, St. Louis composer, and Mrs. Hazel Etling Heiligers, dramatic soprano, will appear before the national convention of American Pen Women in Chicago Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Henniger will play her own composition, "Constancy," the love song which won the first prize in January, 1933, in the song lyric class of the Coelia Hoyt poetry contest held by the St. Louis branch of the Pen Women.

Mrs. Heiligers, president of the Carondelet Women's Club, soprano, will sing three numbers written by members of the Pen Women at the poetry tea, which is to be given by Mrs. Frank Granger Logan, Chicago, in compliment to the visiting Pen Women.

Members of the Upper Mississippi Valley Conference of the Federation of Women's Clubs will be entertained at a luncheon to be given July 19 by the Illinois and Chicago Federated Clubs in honor of Mrs. Grace Morrison Poole, president of the General Federation. The luncheon will take place on the terrace of the Horticultural Building at the Chicago fair. Officers of the conference are: Mrs. William Larrabee Jr., Clermont, president; Mrs. Mary A. Wall, Chicago Woman's Club, vice-president; Mrs. C. W. Hunter, Wellington, secretary and treasurer.

The National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will hold its biennial convention July 9 to 15 at the Stevens Hotel, Chicago. There will be two days of occupational round tables which will give attention to the problems of women in practically every business and profession. Outstanding women in approximately 30 vocational fields will summarize the progress women have made to date in their respective fields, and will forecast what seem to be the prospect for the future. Training for leadership is the keynote of the convention. Margaret Culkin Banning, internationally known novelist and short story writer, will be the speaker at the banquet Thursday evening, her subject being "Women's Contribution to Government." Miss Banning has held a research fellowship in the Russell Sage Foundation and has been interested in social problems.

Miss Bertha M. Bruening of the St. Louis Club will attend a round table on advertising and promotion. Miss Lydia Lee will speak on "The Status of Women in the Legal Profession." Plans for key city club programs will be discussed at the election Tuesday, at which the

Panhellenic

OF THE 25 social sororities which belong to the National Panhellenic Congress, only one, Kappa Delta, has national headquarters in St. Louis. Its central office is in the Railway Exchange Building and the national officers in charge are Miss Helen Peck, manager of the department of finance, and Miss Imogene Balcom, head of the department of records.

Last week Kappa Delta granted a charter for an alumnae chapter in St. Louis. The petitioning group of 22 members represents 15 colleges. The new officers are Mrs. O. Sherman Jones Jr., president; Mrs. C. E. Bradley, secretary; Miss Ruth Beck, treasurer.

Kappa Delta was founded in 1897 at the Virginia State Normal University. It is not represented at Washington University, but has student chapters at the University of Illinois and at Drury College. One of the philanthropies of the sorority is a national student loan fund which last year enabled 58 girls to complete their college work. At the sorority convention held last week at Lake Bemidji, Minn., the charters made a gift of $5000 to the student loan fund.

The Gamma Phi Beta alumnae chapter will meet for dinner tomorrow evening at the home of Miss Gertrude Walker, 301 Bompart avenue, Webster Groves. Mrs. Chester W. Kotsrean is in charge of the meeting and will be assisted by Mrs. Charles Wright, Miss Laura Hinchman and Miss Marguerite Van Booven.

Mrs. George W. Stephens, 121 East Swon avenue, Webster Groves, will be hostess for a meeting of the Alpha Xi Delta alumnae chapter at her home tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The Washington University chapter and the alumnae association of Kappa Beta Pi law sorority will be entertained at a tea Saturday afternoon by Mrs. J. Harry Evans at her home, 6215 Bowman avenue. Miss Gladys Stamm, Miss Dorothy Greulich, Miss Celeste East, Miss Irene Powell, Mrs. Evans and Miss Louise Bernero, province president, will give reports of the biennial convention of the sorority held last week in Chicago. The sorority has granted charters to the University of West Virginia and the University of Arizona.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS in the CHURCHES

WEDNESDAY, July 19, will be Patriotic Day at the Board of Religious Organization exposition of progress at the Winter Garden, 520 De Baliviere avenue.

Each patriotic organization in the city has been asked to co-operate and assign a hostess for the day. Mrs. Joseph S. Calfee is chairman of the committee on arrangements.

The exposition will open July 17 and close July 22.

A series of five pageants giving an impressive picture of twentieth century achievements will be presented on five different evenings. Mrs. Clyde McNay, chairman of the program and entertainment committee, announces.

Several hundred persons will take part in the pageant on the opening night, which will depict progress in general from pioneer days to the present. Mrs. Robert H. Ogle is chairman of the committee in charge.

Progress in industry and commerce will be portrayed in the second pageant July 18. It will show the Indian and trading post days, fur peddlers, steam boat traffic and depict the various steps of progress on down to the modern era. Mrs. Robert L. Lund and Mrs. Virgil Rule are chairmen of the committee in charge.

A contrast of new with old types of recreation and sport fashions will be shown July 19. Mrs. Blanche Polock is chairman of this pageant.

July 21, the character building agencies in St. Louis, including the Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., and Big Brothers will participate in a pageant depicting the development of education and character building work. Mrs. Mabelle Drury Fredeking is chairman of the committee.

July 22 "the old homestead and the new" will be presented in pageant form, picturing the modern home with its time and labor saving devices, conveniences and comforts in contrast with the inconveniences in the home of pioneer days. Mrs. Florence Johnson Herring is chairman of the committee.

Members of the College Club, Washington University sororities, the public school playgrounds, various dramatic groups and numerous clubs and organizations are co-operating in staging the pageants.

Mercolized Wax Beautifies Any Skin
In just a few days Mercolized Wax will help to bring new youth and loveliness to a worn, faded or aged complexion. Mercolized Wax used as directed, gently peels off the outer film of discolored skin in tiny flake-like particles, removing with it defects such as freckles, tan, etc. The under skin is then revealed clear, smooth and glowing with youthful health and beauty. Mercolized Wax brings out your hidden beauty. Powdered Saxolite quickly reduces wrinkles and other age signs. Simply dissolve one ounce Saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel and use daily as an astringent. At all drug and department stores.

Cooking Programs on KSD Begin Tomorrow.

MISS MAYME DICKMANN, sister of Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and his official hostess, will speak during the first broadcast of a new KSD six-days-a-week series of cooking programs, at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Half-hour programs will be broadcast by KSD at the same time each week day forenoon under the direction of Gay Lee, who is widely known as a producer of radio programs dealing with home-making in general. The broadcasts will include up-to-the-minute menus and detailed instructions for preparing appetizing food combinations. Miss Lee will be assisted by Miss Charity Couch, a culinary expert, and Miss Emma Johnson. Miss Couch has conducted cooking classes for several years, having come to St. Louis from Indianapolis. Miss Johnson formerly was connected with the domestic science department of the St. Louis public schools. Jack Norman, baritone, and El Boyd, pianist, will sing and play the musical interludes during these programs.

World Radio Audience Figured as 160,000,000.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The world's radio audience was increased by 20,000,000 by the end of 1932, bringing it today to well over 160,000,000, according to a report by Arthur Burrows, director of the International Broadcasting Union at Geneva, Switzerland. Burrows' organization is the repository of all wave length registrations and other data submitted by the radio-using nations of the world.

Burrows breaks down his figures by countries, deriving them from official and semi-official sources. He counts a world total of 37,000,000 radio sets, but adds 3,000,000 more as a conservative estimate for France, Spain, Brazil and smaller nations which have never counted or estimated their "radio population."

Estimating an average of four persons per set, Burrows calculates that the total world radio audience at the beginning of 1933 was at least 160,000,000—and today is considerably more.

Nearly half of these sets and listeners are in the United States, but little Denmark takes the lead over all other countries in the per capita number of radios. For every 1000 persons in Denmark, there are 140 sets, or 56 in every 100 homes. For every 1000 persons in the United States, there are 138.3 sets. Great Britain shows 117.5 per 1000 of population. No other country approaches these figures, the next nearest being Sweden with 98.8 sets per 1000 persons.

The international bureau's radio census shows that, insofar as total number of sets is concerned, the United States is far and away in the lead. Calculations based on the 12,000,000 or more sets counted in the 1930 census bring the American figure to 17,004,781 in 1933. The next greatest total is in Britain, 5,262,953 sets. Germany ranks third with 4,307,722.

Next in order as the principal broadcast listening countries of the world are Russia, with 2,385,000 sets; Japan, 1,348,186; Canada, 684,867; Sweden, 608,624; Holland, 560,151; Denmark, 497,235; Czecho-Slovakia, 472,187; Argentina, 450,000, and Australia, 419,180.

Burrows found that all Europe in the last four years, during which broadcasting methods there were considerably improved, actually increased its radios from 7,281,019 to 14,312,277, or nearly 100 per cent. He calculates the increase in the United States during the year 1932 as about 500,000 new homes with radio. Japan added 377,000 during the same period. Little Siam, whose King visited the United States a little more than a year ago and evinced great interest in radio, showed the greatest proportional increase of any country during the year, jumping its radio audience nearly 150 per cent.

Two trans-Atlantic broadcasts are scheduled for tomorrow and Tuesday on the WEAF chain. At 2:20 tomorrow Harold G. Moulton, president of Brookings Institute, will speak from the NBC studios in Washington. His address will be rebroadcast in England as well as over KSD and the WEAF network. At 3:15 Tuesday an address by Sir Josiah Stamp, a director of the Bank of England, and noted as an economist, will be sent from London by short wave and picked up for rebroadcasting over the chain. KSD cannot carry this, but WMAQ, WENR or WSM may. Both men will discuss the industrial recovery act.

A chorus of 100 voices and a large symphony orchestra from Western Reserve University will give a concert over the WJZ chain at 8:30 Thursday night.

Helen Traubel, soprano, and Lila Canter, pianist, will broadcast a recital over KWK at 6:45 this evening.

Dean T. W. H. Trion of the College of Education, Missouri University, will speak during the School and Community period on KSD at 4:15 Wednesday.

Beethoven's First Symphony will be played by the Philadelphia orchestra during the concert at 6:30 next Saturday evening on the CBS chain; Erno Rapee will direct.

Six recently discovered manuscripts of music by Joseph Strauss, younger brother of Johann, will be used in the Viennese concert at 6 o'clock today over KWK.

Programs based on the Post-Dispatch's daily feature, "The Washington Merry-Go-Round," are being broadcast over KSD at 9 o'clock nightly.

Howard Barlow's symphony concert at 9 o'clock tomorrow night is scheduled on KMOX.

A "John Henry—the Black River Giant" episode is set for 8:15 tonight on KMOX.

MOTHER HENRIETTA SPALDING OF THE SACRED HEART DIES

Nun, 86 Years Old, Fractured Hip in Fall Week Ago.

Mother Henrietta Spalding, former superior at the Sacred Heart Convent, Maryland and Taylor avenues, died yesterday from the effects of a fall a week ago in which her right hip was fractured. She was 86 years old.

Mother Henrietta was born at Lebanon, Ky., and was a sister of the first Archbishop of Peoria, the late John Lancaster Spalding.

The Rev. Martin Spalding of Chillicothe, Ill., a nephew, will say the mass at the funeral at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning in the convent chapel. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

ed for the young people of the Winnebago Presbyterian Church, at the end of the first month shows a large number taking an active part. The leaders are: Miss Alice Stark, Miss Mary Brocksmith, Ed. Eschrich and Russell Agne.

Archbishop John J. Glennon of the New St. Louis Cathedral sailed Friday from New York on the Laconia for Galway, Ireland.

Services at the First Congregational Church of Webster Groves, of which the Rev. George M. Gibson is pastor, will be discontinued until Sept. 10.

A July Christmas service will be held this morning at Bethel Evangelical Church, Garrison and Greer avenues, at 9:15 o'clock. Gifts for orphan children in charge of the missions of India are to be collected. There will be an illuminated Christmas tree, with decorations and a complete Christmas program.

Special vesper services during the summer at the Y. W. C. A., 1411 Locust street, at 5 o'clock will be in charge of Miss Lexie Denyven. This afternoon there will be a short address by Miss Selma Nelson.

The last ordination service which Bishop Frederick Foote Johnson will conduct as Bishop of Missouri will be held this morning when Philip Anthes will be made a deason at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Innocents, Morganford road and Tholozan avenue.

Closing exercises of the daily vacation church school, with a Bible pageant, songs and exercises, will be held Friday night at the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place. Miss Gertrude Prack will be in charge of the program, in which about 150 children will participate.

Reports from delegates to various church conventions held last week in Pittsburgh, Pa., will be made today at the 11 o'clock service at the Third United Presbyterian Church, Union boulevard and Highland avenue. Delegates of the National Young People's Christian Union, Women's General Missionary Society and General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church will be heard.

The Rev. William B. Lampe, pastor of the West Presbyterian Church, will leave this week for the Pacific Coast to spend his vacation. In San Francisco he will meet his brother, the Rev. Henry Lampe, a missionary who is returning from his station in the Orient on a furlough.

The Rev. and Mrs. Ray W. Bachtell, missionaries who are on their way to their station in Siam, will be the principal speakers at a congregational service this evening at Markham Memorial Presbyterian Church(1614 Menard street, at 7:30 o'clock.

An address of welcome will be made by William A. Gantner, superintendent of the Markham Sunday School. The children's choir will sing, directed by Mrs. Kate S. Marten. Piano selections will be played by Miss Dorothy Paschen and Charles J. Nowotny.

Refreshments will be served by the deaconesses.

REAL ESTATE

PART FOUR

NETHERBY HALL APARTMENTS SOLD TO MISSOURI LIFE

$150,000 Valuation in Deal —Property Here and in Kansas City Given in Part Payment.

SAMUEL GIBSTEIN FORMER OWNER

Gross Rentals $21,000 — Many Other Buildings on Lindell Now Owned by Insurance Firms.

By Berry Moore

The Netherby Hall Apartments, at 4550 Lindell boulevard, owned by Samuel Gibstein, have been purchased by Harold D. Knight for the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. Revenue stamps on the deed indicate the property was given a valuation of $150,000 in the transaction. A second deed of trust for $85,000 standing against the property was released and the title con[illegible]ed subject to a first deed of trust for $75,000.

The Missouri State Life, in addition to cash, gave the following property in part payment: 4856-58 Page boulevard, one-story business building, with a lot 38 by 37 feet; 4406 Washington boulevard, three-story nine-room residence, with lot 30 by 126; 4645 Newberry terrace, nine-room residence, with lot 25 by 45; 5148 Kensington avenue, eight-room residence, with lot 25 by 170; and a two-story commercial building at 845-47-49 Minnesota avenue, [illegible] Kansas City, Kan., containing four stores, studio and dancing academy.

Gibstein, a professional real estate operator, acquired the property a year or two ago in a trade with Sam Hamburg. Henry R. Weisels Co. handled the present transaction.

Description of Property.

The Netherby is an attractive four-story building, occupying a lot 100 by 248 feet. It contains eight nine-room apartments, each with three baths. There are electric refrigerators and other modern devices, including passenger and freight elevators. Gross rentals now approximate $21,000, according to the Weisels Co., compared with $35,000 formerly.

The building was erected by [illegible]se Ulman, who built the Chase Hotel, Chester and Chase Apartments and the Cathedral Apartments, the first projects of this type on a large scale.

The 10-story apartment building, with lot 100 by 258 feet, at 4515 Lindell boulevard, in this block, owned by the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., was sold last week to the Goodfellow Investment Co., composed of women apartment managers, for $229,000, as shown in the deed. The Goodfellow corporation [illegible] a first deed of trust back to [illegible] Missouri State for $226,000, the cash payment obviously being only 3000, which was unprecedented in transaction of this kind.

Many apartment buildings on Lindell and in other parts of the city are now owned by life insurance companies and banking interests, which is pointed to as a reassuring feature. The properties have been acquired under loans, or through foreclosure actions, and in many instances are available at a relatively low valuation basis, according to real estate men.

Other Negotiations.

Negotiations involving the President, 12-story apartment at 4615 Lindell, have been off and on several times recently. This building owned by the Central States Life Insurance Co., which acquired it [illegible] Mrs. Edith Ambruster, under[illegible]ker, who had purchased it from the architect's plans at the height the real estate movement. The -story Daniel Boone apartment at 33 Lindell is also owned by the Central States Life.

The Chester Apartments, at 4943 Lindell, have been a magnet, with negotiations now said to be pending for it. The building is owned the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, which acquired it under [illegible] of trust for $275,000, plus [illegible]erest and taxes in default. It under the management of Louis Maginn, recently appointed loan correspondent of the Prudential. The Chase Apartments, on Lindell, e in the possession of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., which k them under a first mortgage. ey are also attracting attention. The St. Regis, on the south side Lindell, just east of Kingshighway, is another apartment building ned by the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. It is the first building of its type to be acquired by life insurance company as an investment. It was formerly owned Claude E. Vrooman, who sold 12 years ago to the International e Insurance Co., which was taken r by the Missouri State Life.

Zone Change Set for Tomorrow.

Mayor Dickmann is due to act tomorrow on the ordinance to change the zoning of three lots at 4206-8 Lindell from multiple dwellings to a commercial district. He had announced that he would sign the measure, but took it under advisement after protests registered at the public hearing last Friday. He has until tomorrow to approve or veto the measure.

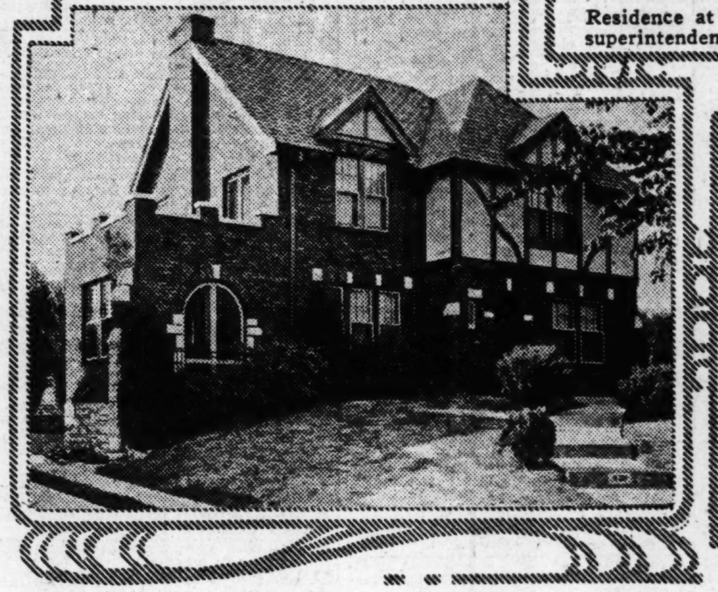
Harry C. Kennedy, owner of 4212 Lindell, urged the Mayor to sign the bill, pointing out that commercial use of property had been permitted legally to the east and west across the street from these three 50-foot lots. It was not possible to rent the houses for residential purposes, he declared.

Opponents of the bill were W. Scott Hancock of the General Council on Civic Needs and Federation of Improvement Associations; Karl M. Vetsburg, president of the Masonic Temple Association; a woman representing the West End Business Men's Association and Simon Van Raalte, real estate dealer. They argued against further encroachment of commerce on Lindell boulevard. Hancock attacked the bill as spot zoning. Several property owners favored extension of the commercial zone on Lindell west to Boyle avenue. The Mayor said that should have been done in the first place.

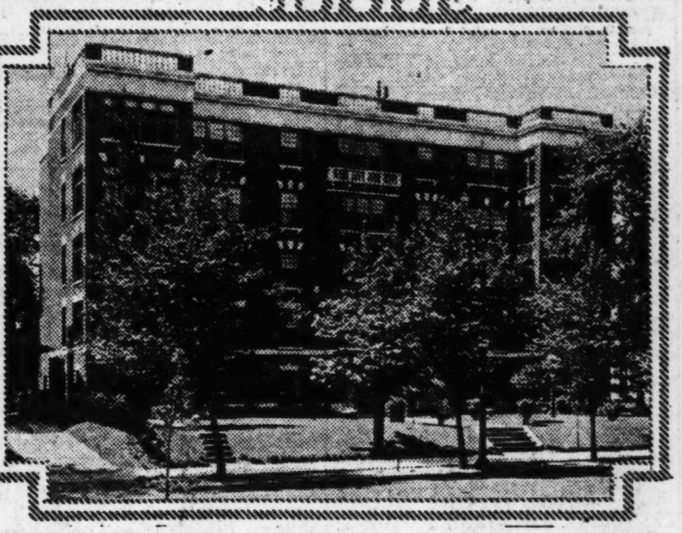
Residences and Apartments Recently Sold or Leased

Residence at 6255 Wydown boulevard which has been leased by M. Myerson, with an option to purchase. The lease was made through the Carl G. Stifel Realty Co., represented by H. M. McDonald.

Residence at 6332 Wydown boulevard purchased by George P. Vierheller, superintendent of the St. Louis Zoological Garden.



Residence at 527 Purdue avenue in University Heights recently purchased by Mr. and Mrs. David Stavin through the Butts Realty Co.



Netherby Hall Apartments, at 4540 Lindell boulevard, purchased by Harold D. Knight for the Missouri State Life Insurance Co. Negotiations were handled by the Henry R. Weisels Co.

4 FEDERAL HOME LOAN OFFICES FOR MISSOURI

Will Be at St. Louis, Kansas City, Moberly and Springfield in Few Days.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8. — Congressman Lozier (Dem.), Missouri, said today four district home loan offices would be opened in Missouri within the next 10 days or two weeks, or just as soon as the main headquarters of the Home Owners' Mortgage Corporation at St. Louis is organized and ready to function.

Lozier said the St. Louis office would be opened in a few days by G. C. Vandover of Farmington as State manager. Other offices will be at Kansas City, Moberly and Springfield. Only a manager for Springfield remains to be named before the whole State organization will be ready to operate.

Lozier said he received word from Moberly that quarters would be furnished the Government there free of charge by the Chamber of Commerce. The Moberly office will have charge of 33 counties, including practically all of the First, Second and Ninth Congressional Districts and embracing such cities as Jefferson City, Columbia, Marshall, Chillicothe, Gallatin, Hannibal, Kirksville and Louisiana.

Missouri Home Loan Selections.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8. — The Federal Home Loan Bank board today announced the appointment of W. C. Crawford as manager of the Kansas City branch in Missouri and John Atterbury, manager of the Moberly branch in Missouri. Missouri branches, operating under the direction of the St. Louis headquarters, are to be established at Kansas City, Springfield and Moberly.

NEW SALES HEAD AND AID JOIN E. L. BAKEWELL FORCE

Harry Hense, for the last 10 years associated with the Land Title Co. in the capacity of an abstractor, and David Bailey, with more than 15 years of real estate experience, have become associated with the office of Edward L. Bakewell.

Bailey had charge of the manufacturing and business property at Bakewell's office 10 years ago, when he resigned to devote his time to the river front project. He will be head of the sales department at Bakewell's office.

Hense is familiar with all records of the recorder's office in both the county and city, having formerly worked as an abstractor for 10 years. He will be connected with the sales department of Bakewell's office.

GLICK REAL ESTATE CO. REPORTS TRANSACTIONS

The Glick Real Estate Co., Inc., reports closing the following deals during the last week: 5777 Westminster, six-family apartment, sold for a client to parties represented by the Weiss-Meyerrick Realty Co.; 1454 Warren street, store and other property sold to a client of the office; 2016 East Warne, single flat, near O'Fallon Park, sold to a client; 4763 Greer, seven-room brick residence, sold to a client; northwest corner of Henrietta and Nebraska, four-family flat sold for parties represented by Dickmann Realty Co. to a client of this office.

BAKEWELL INAUGURATES NEW SERVICE FOR DEED HOLDERS

Edward L. Bakewell has established a department for deeds of trust sold by individuals who have gone out of the business, and by companies now in liquidation. It contemplates collecting interest notes upon their maturity, watching expiration of insurance policies and checking taxes. He feels that by far the larger majority of such loans are good and will be paid out, provided they are looked after by an experienced loan agent.

NEW RESIDENCE STARTED FOR MRS. A. B. SHEPLEY

Construction has been started on a new residence in the St. Louis Country Club grounds for Mrs. Arthur B. Shepley. The cost given in the building permit is $30,000.

The site, comprising two acres, was purchased recently from Mr. and Mrs. Guido Pantaleoni, through Albert T. Terry, Son & Co.

Plans for the house were drawn by Gale E. Henderson, architect.

Cornet & Zeibig Report Lease.

A sandwich shop and buffet will be opened at 207 North Seventh street by Fred W. Mollencott. The lease for Alberta McKnight, owner, was effected through Cornet & Zeibig.

FACTORY AT PALM AND BLAIR SOLD TO FURNITURE FIRM

Meier & Pohlmann Buys Building on Southeast Corner—Wholesale Furniture Dealers Take Lease in Monogram Bldg.

Meier & Pohlmann Furniture Co. has purchased the four-story factory building at the southeast corner of Palm street and Blair avenue, through Martin & Breitt. The building has 25,000 square feet of floor space and occupies a site with 100 feet on the south line of Palm street and 147 feet on the east line of Blair avenue. It contains electric elevator, sprinkler system and heating plant and was formerly owned by the Western Furniture Co.

The purchase price was not disclosed.

The Meier & Pohlmann Furniture Co. already owned the east part of this half block. Acquisition of the Palm street and Blair avenue corner gives the concern control of the entire half block from Fourteenth street to Blair avenue on the south side of Palm street. The building will be used for additional factory space.

The sale was made by Martin & Breitt for the account of the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

Fleck, Bauman & Miller Inc., wholesale furniture dealers have acquired a lease on 21,000 square feet on the third floor of the Monogram Building at 1700-12 Washington avenue. This company is wholesale representative of large manufacturers and also acts for the St. Louis Furniture Market Association. The concern has been on the ninth floor of the building at 1718 Washington avenue.

This company, while handling the sale of poular priced furniture, is now branching out, having obtained agencies for many lines of furniture, draperies, rugs and carpets. It caters exclusively to the wholesale trade.

The new quarters will have 18 separate showrooms for the display of living room, dining room and breakfast room furniture.

The concern will be ready to open for business in its new quarters tomorrow.

The lease was made by Martin & Breitt for the account of the Central States Life Insurance Co., which was represented by Eugene W. Christy.

HOWARD S. BERGEN JOINS JOHN P. DOLAN REALTY CO.

Howard S. Bergen has been appointed sales manager for the John P. Dolan Realty Co., Inc., 6401 Manchester avenue. The Dolan company reports the following sales made during the past week: A new residence to be built at 7354 Chamberlain avenue by Fred W. Ahlemeier Jr. for Alphonse Hillner; vacant lot on Bland avenue for Joseph P. Meehan to Fred W. Ahlemeier Jr.; single flat at 4815 Anderson avenue for Benjamin Rader to Karl Stahlberger; vacant lot on Chamberlain avenue for a client of the Victor Reitz Jr. Realty Co. to a client; a strip of vacant ground on the north side of Garesche avenue for Karl Stahlberger to a client of the Federated Agencies.

THOM M'AN SHOE CO. LEASES STORE ON CHEROKEE STREET

The Thom McAn Shoe Co. has leased, for a term of years, the storeroom at 2739 Cherokee street, which is in the Cinderella Theater Building. The shop, which will be opened soon, will be McAn company's sixth store in the St. Louis area. Both the company and Fred Wehrenberg, owner of the building, were represented in the deal by N. R. Kunz of Clarence H. Turley's office in the Ambassador Building.

Notice to OWNERS of DEEDS OF TRUST in DEFAULT
There have been many deeds of trust sold by Companies now in liquidation, and no doubt most of these loans are perfectly good, if they are worked out by an experienced Company.
If you own a deed of trust now in default, or with an early maturity, I would be pleased to have you bring your problems to me, as I feel that 22 years experience in real estate business has given me a knowledge which may be of assistance to you.

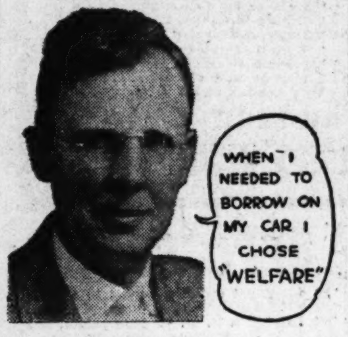
Meet Mr. O. F. E.
One of Our Customers Who Says—



WHEN I NEEDED TO BORROW ON MY CAR I CHOSE "WELFARE"

Because . . .

"I read in their ad that they were the oldest auto loan company in St. Louis and had thousands of satisfied customers, and I figured they must be a fair outfit to do business with—I investigated their plan—and I found out I was right. They were fair, they treated me with courtesy and consideration, and now I'm another 'satisfied customer!' I'd say, go see them if you want to borrow."

CARD OF THANKS

I WISH to extend my sincere thanks to all the relatives and friends, members of United American Mechanics, Clifton Heights Council No. 24, Independent Order of Odd Fellows Lodge No. 24; Rad Rohac V. Dube, No. 23, C. S. A.; Rad Sumavan, No. 78, C. S. A.; Checho-Slovan, and Chums Club for their sympathy and beautiful floral offerings; also Mr. Wm. Moydell, undertaker, for his courteous service in my recent bereavement in the loss of my dear husband, Ferdinand Veselsky.
MRS. LULU VESELSKY, WIFE.

WE wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to our many friends and relatives for their kind consideration in our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband and father, Walter Ryan, also for the many beautiful floral offerings; we wish to especially thank the Detective Bureaus and members of the Police Department of St. Louis for their participation.
MRS. ROSE RYAN AND DAUGHTER.

WE desire to thank our relatives and friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us in our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved husband and father, Sebastian J. Vogler; also Rev. E. E. Leibner for his consoling words, the pallbearers and for the beautiful floral offerings.
MRS. JULIA VOGLER, wife.
MRS. EARL SCHMITZ, daughter.

IN MEMORIAM

CALDERON, ELIZABETH—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away 3 years ago, July 9, 1930. May she rest in peace. Sadly missed by those who loved her.

CASSIDY, MAURICE J.—Lovingly in remembrance of our beloved Maurice, whose death on July 9, 1927, ended his beautiful career, leaving us to mourn his loss and cherish sweet memories.
MR. AND MRS. MAURICE J. CASSIDY AND JEAN.

DEVINE, INEZ—In loving memory of Inez Devine, who died July 6, 1931.
There is a sad but sweet remembrance;
There is a memory fond and true;
There is a token of affection, mother,
And a heartache still for you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

HAY, URBAN—In loving memory, who departed this life July 11, 1924.
MOTHER.

KENNEDY, "MICKEY" EDWARD—In loving memory of my dear son who departed life four years ago July 8, 1929:
More and more each day we miss him,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
Lies within our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

MEHLBERG, PETER—In sad but sweet memory of our dear son, who died July 6, 1923. Sadly missed by PARENTS.

REINHEIMER, SALOMEA — In loving memory of our dear wife and mother who died July 7, 1932:
You suffered days, yes days, of pain,
And waited for cures, but all in vain,
Till God alone knew what was best
And took you away to peace and rest.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

RIEDE, HENRY W.—In loving memory of Henry W. Riede, who departed this life July 14, 1932.
His memory is as dear today
As in the hour he passed away.
Sadly missed by
WIFE, CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

ROTHERY—In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mary A. Rothery, who died three years ago, July 11, 1930. Sadly missed by her CHILDREN.

SCHAFLER, CATHERINE (nee Winkler)—In loving memory of my dear wife and mother, who died July 7, 1928.
A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better God never made;
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that, mother, was you.
Just in your judgment, always right;
Honest and liberal, ever upright;
Loved by your friends and all whom you knew,
Our wonderful mother, that, mother, was you.
Sadly missed by
HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

SCHAUER, CONRAD—In memory of my dear husband and our dear father, who passed away July 7, 1932.
We do not forget, nor do we intend;
We think of you often, and will to the end.
Sadly missed by WIFE AND SONS.

SCHREIBER, MARY—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away three years ago, July 9, 1930.
And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we shall always keep.
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

SEHR, JOHN, SR.—In loving memory, passed away July 11, 1932. Sadly missed by DAUGHTER, CARRIE, GRANDCHILDREN, GUS AND CAROLYN.

SPINDLER, SOPHIA—In loving memory, who departed this life July 8, 1932:
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear;
Fond memories linger every day;
Remembrance keeps her dear.
Sadly missed by
DAUGHTER AND SON, AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

STEIN, DR. JOHN P.—In loving memory of my dear husband, who passed away July 9, 1931.
Surrounded by friends, I am lonesome,
In the midst of my joys I am blue,
With a smile on my face, I've a heartache
Longing, dear husband, for you.
Sadly missed by wife, HELEN.

HELP WANTED—MEN, BOYS

I WANT MEN AND WOMEN TO ADVERTISE OUR GOODS AND Distribute Trial Packages

If you want work and will be satisfied with $6 to $9 a day at the start—with more if you make good—I'll give you a job at once in congenial, interesting advertising work distributing Trial Packages of my goods right in your own neighborhood. You can work full time or spare time and start making money the first day.

$110 in One Week

Just send me your name and I will lay bona fide PROOF before you. I'll show you how Sol Korenblit, of New York, made $110 in a single week! H. L. Lennon writes: "I went out Friday morning and made $39.63 in 7½ hours." Mrs. Eva McCutcheon, of Oklahoma, quit a $10-a-week office job and made $26.55 profit the very first day. Mrs. Jewel Hackett, of Ohio, cleared $33 in 7 hours. These exceptional earnings show the wonderful possibilities!

New Advertising Plan

You may wonder at making such big money as this even in hard times. But my new advertising plan of trial package distribution is doing exactly that for hundreds. The "Trial Package" Plan is simple. Your new job will be to distribute trial packages of my line to people in your neighborhood. After they have used these products and see how they save money, they give you their orders for full size packages. You handle the money and deliver the goods. And you KEEP a big share of every dollar taken in as your pay. Pay for delivering 35 trial packages a day will be $8.75 a day—regular and steady.

Send No Money

I don't want your money. All I want is a chance to lay the facts before you so you can decide for yourself. If you want an unusual opportunity to make $8.75 or more a day—with an old, reliable, million-dollar manufacturing company—then mail the coupon below and see how easy it is to start on my "Trial Package" Plan. You don't need any capital. Earnings start at once. Don't miss this chance. It doesn't cost anything to investigate, so mail the coupon today—RIGHT NOW!

Austria Fighting For Independence, Herriot Declares

Former French Premier Discusses Its Struggle Against Nazis—Opposes Austro-Hungarian Union—For Economic Pacts Only Within Framework of League.

By Edouard Herriot,
Former Premier of France.

PARIS, July 8.

TWO problems present themselves at this time—nationalism in Austria and union of Austria with Hungary. To understand them it is convenient to study them separately.

The first has been explained several times by Chancellor Dollfuss. During the course of his trip to London he explained why he had refused to share power with the Nazis and to yield to their desire to create disorder, just as he had refused the offers of the German Commissioner of the National Socialist movement in Austria, and how he intended to defend the independence of Austria against all threats and all terrorism.

It is that very independence which is at stake today.

The program of the German Nazis for Austria is defined in an article in the Berliner Boersen Zeitung of June 23:

"Given the general situation and the world mission of the German people, Dollfuss and his collaborators have sinned against blood and language, youth and history, against life-evolution, the wishes of the people and against the commandment of God. It is a sin of the first water against the Empire and against Germans."

'Pre-War Germanism.'

One would not have expected to find God mixed up in this discussion, but such articles are revelatory. They show us, they prove to the blindest, that we are witnessing a return to pre-war Germanism, a reversion to the old racial doctrine, and that the Austrian Chancellor is regarded as a criminal because he wants to maintain the independence of his country against such pretensions.

We have even more precise indications. Henry Wickham Steed has called attention to a congress held at Passau, on the Austro-German frontier between June 2 and 5 by the Association for Germanism Abroad.

Representing Chancellor Hitler there, Gen. Franz von Epp declared that the secular mission of Austria had reached an end and that henceforth its role was to allow itself to be absorbed by the German Reich.

At the same time, Steed indicates, there was a secret meeting of the German organization "Feme" which perpetrated the assassinations of Rathenau, Erzberger and others.

Fighting the Nazis.

If the Hitlerian agitation is prolonged, it is said, Minister of Public Safety Frey would form a military government in Austria with Dollfuss as Foreign Minister. But the Government denies this. The Government has signified its intention of forming a "patriotic front" which is not a party, but an organization representing the majority of the Austrian people and uniting the Christian Social Party, the Agrarian Party, and even the Heimwehren, with a program which its director, M. Kruckhausen, defines as follows:

"Its adherents have contracted in writing to fight for the liberty and independence of Austria, to practice and to propagate Austrian patriotism, to repudiate all organizations which have as their goal either the end of Austrian independence or class or religious strife."

Thus backed up, the Dollfuss Government pursues the struggle, forbids the sale of German Hitlerian pamphlets, demands annulment of the Nazi mandates, searches out agitators disguised as tourists, and so successfully that the Reichpost writes: "Hitlerism in Austria already has lost its Battle of the Marne and now can only lose the war in which it is engaged."

It is necessary to say with George Edinger of the Daily Express that when little Engelbert Dollfuss swore to defend not German confraternity but Austrian liberty, then he opened a new chapter in European history.

This, perhaps, is an exaggeration inspired by a natural sympathy, but it is considerable that Austria has refused to waltz with Hitler, that she recalls Silesia and fights with fury against terrorism.

If one sees here only a new episode in the fight between Catholicism and Protestantism, one must still admire this young peasant Chancellor, leading a hard fight for the independence of Austria and deserving the friendship and admiration of all liberal spirits in the world.

Our second subject, the union of Austria and Hungary, is less clear. From indications

STOCKHOLM.

THERE originated in England in the middle of the last century a movement for economic co-operation by consumers who sought to eliminate from the cost of the goods they bought the element of profit. This movement spread first to Denmark, later to Sweden and Norway. While it was comparatively late in developing in Sweden, it has taken here a form of its own and it has served two important ends in the economic life of the country. On the one hand the co-operative movement has acted as a check on capitalism, and particularly upon the power of trusts and monopolies. On the other hand, it has been an important factor, along with state ownership and state monopoly, in the gradual socialization of the country. Co-operation has been one means by which the people have advanced toward ownership of the means of production.

Today the co-operative societies handle about 40 per cent of the retail and wholesale trade of Sweden; they manufacture about 10 per cent of the goods of the country, for the most part goods for domestic consumption; they conduct savings banks and an insurance company; they publish a weekly magazine with a circulation of nearly a half million.

Low Prices to Consumer Consistent Aim of System.

From the beginning, the objective of the Swedish co-operators has differed from the objective of the movement in England. The objective has not been a new, Utopian form of society; the co-operative movement has never had any fixed political or social aim. There has been but one goal: to lower the cost of reliable merchandise to the ultimate consumer. With this goal in view, the co-operative movement has made remarkable advances; it has not only reduced prices, but it has put consumers in business for themselves on a large scale. That last is, of course, incidental, a means to an end that has never been lost sight of—low prices for the necessaries of life.

As did the state in developing its power system, the co-operative societies have entered the field of business on a basis of free competition, with no special favors asked. The societies have never had any connection with the state nor with any political party of any color or kind. The movement has not been institutional in character; the societies' stores have offered good merchandise in attractive form at lower prices than the private shops.

In this, too, it differs from the English movement. The latter retains an institutional character. The English movement is larger; an estimated 45 per cent of the households in England belong to co-operative societies and in Scotland the percentage is between 50 and 55. Co-operation in England and Scotland has ventured farther into the field of manufacture. But despite this, English co-operation has for the most part failed to lower the cost of essential commodities. It has not met the practical test that Sweden had applied. It is typical of the economic development of Scandinavia that this movement should have been borrowed from abroad and turned in a new way to the most direct, practical end.

The co-operative movement here has attracted many men of outstanding ability. That is, in fact, the conservative explanation for its success. The head of the Co-Operative Union, the central organization for the co-operative retail societies throughout the country, is Albin Johansson, said by many, including conservatives, to be the shrewdest and most resourceful merchant in Sweden. But the co-operators themselves say that the movement is not dominated by individuals, but is truly co-operative in nature. Many phases of the development of co-operation in Sweden are intensely dramatic—a dramatization, highly focused in small scale, of the struggle of the last three decades between the consumer and the trust.

In brief, as to structure, the consumer is the primary unit. He owns a certain number of shares, depending upon how many he bought outright at the formation of the society, or how many he has accumulated through dividends on goods he has bought, in the retail society. Once a year he attends the general meeting of the members of the retail society and there with his fellow-members elects an executive board, a board of auditors and a representative to attend the congress of the Co-Operative Union. The 786 member societies own the Co-Operative Union, the proportion of ownership being based on the amount of capital contributed to the central organization, the number of members enrolled and the volume of annual sales. The Union carries on all wholesale and manufacturing activities for the societies. In addition the Union supervises accounts and the management of the stores, plans and designs new shops for the societies, carries on propaganda and education for co-operation and in many other ways serves as the unifying center.

Business Shows Gains Despite World Depression.

The present depression has proved the stability of the Co-Operative Union and the societies affiliated to it. During the last three years the books show gains in every department. The only decline has been in the number of societies and that has resulted from the policy of merging small societies to form stronger units. In 1926 there were 897 societies with 339,273 families holding membership. In 1931 the number of retail societies was 806, with 481,319 family memberships and for 1932 there were 786 societies and 512,968 member families. The number of stores owned by the local societies was 2411 in 1926, 3510 in 1931 and 3716 in 1932. And the annual turn-over rose correspondingly from $71,046,800 (the crown at normal, 26.8 cents) in 1926 to $93,237,200 in 1931 and $94,006,360 last year.

Because the directors of the Co-Operative Union had faced the full implications of a possible world depression as early as 1930, the economy of the local societies has been directed during the last three years along the most strict lines. The financial position of the Union and of the societies was stronger in 1932 than in any other year. Trade debts have been reduced on the joint balance sheet from 38 per cent to less than 6 per cent. The goal is to buy, as the societies sell, for cash only.

Sound Reason for Growth of Co-Operative Movement.

It is not difficult to understand why this movement has constantly grown until it has become today one of the chief forces in the economic life of the country. The ordinary householder is attracted by many things. Prices are cheaper. And not only are outright prices cheaper, but for members there is a 2 per cent dividend on the total amount of all purchases at the end of the year. The stores are handsome, spacious, clean and very well managed. Goods are delivered at no extra cost. The advertisements are attractively presented and they appear in all the newspapers of the city or community in which the society operates.

Thus the Consumers' Co-Operative Society of Stockholm, with 340 stores and 75,000 members, runs the same advertisement in all the Stockholm newspapers, morning and evening, just as would a chain store in an American city. It is logical, too, that the co-operative movement should gain during the depression. Many persons are members now who formerly scorned the savings they could make on their food and clothing bills by enrolling in a co-operative society.

Wages Successful Fight Against Margarine Trust.

It was not until the Co-Operative Union and its affiliated societies were relatively strong that they attempted to fight the trusts. It was considered essential that co-operation have first enrolled a considerable number of loyal followers. The co-operators' first attack was leveled at the margarine trust. Because so much butter is exported to the Continent from Scandinavia, margarine is an important article of diet. The margarine trust charged high prices. The directors of the Co-Operative Union said in effect to the margarine trust: "If you don't lower your prices, we shall begin to manufacture margarine."

It was not that the directors wanted to go into the manufacture of margarine. It was merely that they wanted lower prices and better quality. The trust ignored the co-operators' demand, for the Union had not yet demonstrated its efficiency in the field of manufacture. Several times the Union repeated its threat. When it became plain that this method had failed, the directors did not hesitate to carry out the threat. In 1921 they built a margarine factory. This has been extended several times until it is now the largest and most modern of its kind in Sweden. And the margarine trust has lost its former power, a fact reflected by successive price reductions, from which the whole public benefited.

Power of Flour Combine Broken by Competition.

In the flour-milling industry the Union broke the power of another trust in much the same way. After warning the flour milling cartel, which had been shown by a Government investigation to function to the disadvantage not only of the consumer but also of the producer of grain, the Union acquired a large flour mill in Stockholm. This was inadequate for its needs and a second mill was purchased, subsequently enlarged and modernized, in Gothenburg, the second city of Sweden. Near the flour mill in Stockholm the Union has built a modern oatmeal factory.

In Sweden overshoes are a necessary of life during the winter and here, too, the Co-Operative Union broke the monopolistic power of a trust. For five years, between 1921 and 1926, the Union sought to get the prices of the trust down to a lower level, for if the objective could be attained in this way, the Union itself would not be required to enter another field of manufacture. But all efforts finally failed and the Union bought a rubber factory at Gislaved. The first step taken by the Union was to issue a general proclamation in June, 1926, urging the public to subscribe to an industrial fund. This action alone was sufficient to bring the trust's prices for overshoes down more than 50 cents a pair, within a month, for the trust had at last realized that the Union meant business. Even this reduction, however, did not bring the price of overshoes to a reasonable level based on a fair proportion between the cost of production and the selling price. The Union went ahead with its plans, modernized the factory and succeeded in taking about 70 cents more off the price. In addition the Gislaved factory has gone into the production of automobile tires, producing 53,000 in 1932.

Story of Fight Against International Monopoly.

When the writer was last in Sweden, in 1930, the Co-Operative Union had just completed a factory to make electric bulbs. This was the boldest venture the Union had yet made. The directors were defying not a Swedish monopoly but an international monopoly with unlimited resources at its disposal. The outcome of this experiment was described to the writer by Anders Hedberg, the director of the Luma lamp plant, the first international co-operative factory in the world.

In 1928 Hedberg began an investigation into the manufacture of electric bulbs. The Co-Operative Union had become convinced that prices were too high and there was a well-grounded report that the price of lamps was to be driven even higher. Hedberg, who gave up a high post in the army to become a co-operator, traveled all over Europe investigating the workings of the international lamp trust. He found a wide variation in price despite the dominance of the trust. By a system of trade discounts and strict control

Congress Reflects Diversity of Life In United States

Autobiographies of Members in New Directory a True Guide to American Scene—Some Characteristic Items Picked at Random.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.
WASHINGTON, July 8.

HOW truly representative of the United States is the national Congress may be seen from the autobiographies of the members in the Congressional Directory. Here are some items picked at random from the latest (June) issue of that invaluable guide.

This is America!

Senator Peter Norbeck of Redfield, S. D., lists himself as a "Theodore Roosevelt Republican" and a "well driller by occupation."

Representative Fred H. Hildebrandt (Dem.) of Watertown, S. D., was a passenger train conductor.

Senator Millard E. Tydings (Dem.), of Havre de Grace, Md., was promoted from enlisted man to Lieutenant-Colonel in the World War; he was cited three times and won the Distinguished Service Medal.

Representative David J. Lewis (Dem.) of Cumberland, Md., got a job in a coal mine at the age of 9 and worked there till he was 23. He studied law while a miner and was admitted to the bar. Belongs to the Society for Psychical Research of England.

Began Work at 11.

Representative Vincent L. Palmisano (Dem.) of Baltimore was born in Italy. At 11 he was employed in a box factory in this country and at 15 was a stonemason's helper.

Representative William B. Oliver (Dem.) of Tuscaloosa, Ala., was formerly dean of the law school of the University of Alabama.

Representative James M. Beck (Rep.) of Philadelphia is an officer of the Legion of Honor (French), a commander of the Order of the Crown (Belgian), a commander of the Order of Polonia Restituta (Polish), a corresponding member of the Societe de Gens de Lettres of France, a fellow of the Royal Historical Society of London and an honorary bencher of Gray's Inn, England.

Representative C. Murray Turpin (Rep.) of Kingston, Pa., is a member of the Kiwanis Club, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans of the United States and Canada, Psi Omega fraternity, Odd Fellows, Elks, Eagles, Moose, Patriotic Order Sons of America, Veteran Firemen's Association, Junior Order United American Mechanics, etc., etc., and is an honorary member of the Rural Letter Carriers' Association, Daughters of America, Daughters of Union Veterans, etc.

A World War Record.

Representative B. Carroll Reece (Rep.) of Johnson City, Tenn., commanded a battalion in the World War and was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service Medal and the Croix de Guerre with palm.

Representative Charles West (Dem.) of Granville, O., was an instructor at Harvard and since 1924 has been professor of political science at Denison University, Ohio.

Representative Lawrence E. Imhoff (Dem.) of St. Clairsville, O., was a private in the Marines and was wounded three times during the second battle of the Marne.

Representative Robert Crosser (Dem.) of Cleveland, O., is a native of Scotland.

Representative Wesley E. Disney (Dem.) of Tulsa, Ok., "served as County Attorney of Muskogee County, 1911-15, and was known as a vigorous prosecutor of public and private offenders, removing and convicting Sheriff, Clerk, Mayor, Treasurer and Commissioners for malfeasance in office."

Jed, Jedolyn and Joan.

The two daughters of Representative Jed Johnson (Dem.) of Anadarko, Ok., are named Jedolyn Jean and Joan.

Representative Charles H. Martin (Dem.) of Portland, Ore., had active service with combat troops in the Spanish War, the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer campaign in China and was a division commander in the World War. He was retired as a Major-General in 1927.

Senator Robert F. Wagner (Dem.) of New York City, born in Germany, rose to a Justice of the New York State Supreme Court, from which he resigned to run for the Senate.

Representative Elmer E. Studly (Dem.) of Flushing, Long Island, was a reporter in Buffalo, N. Y., under Sam Blythe.

Representative Patrick J. Carley (Dem.) of Brooklyn was born in County Roscommon, Ireland, and is the father of eight children, seven of whom are married.

Fish a Football Star.

Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. (Rep.) of Garrison, N. Y., was a Harvard football cap-

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong; whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Reflections on the Recovery Act.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial, "Difficulties Lie Ahead of Industrial Control," was timely and very good. No doubt the great test of the present Government will lie in its administration of the Recovery Act. The implications of the act, I believe, are not yet generally comprehended. They will need to be much more generally understood to procure the popular support required for the success of this revolutionary legislation. I think we have been watching the administration with such breathless delight for the past few months that we have not done as much thinking as we seemed to be doing before the fireworks began on March 4.

But I am afraid that there is still a great deal of thinking yet to be done by all of us; and certainly more thinking needs to be done about the Recovery Act than about all the rest of the New Deal's innovations. I wish I knew better what the President himself thinks about it. Doubtless he will make this clear at the proper time and when we are more ready to understand. One of his utterances some time ago, I do not recall upon what occasion, leads me to believe that he looks up on the Recovery Act from an economic viewpoint, briefly stated and over-simplified, somewhat as follows:

Our own economic society is approaching so nearly to complete industrialization that certain facts which could not possibly be escaped in a completely industrialized economy may no longer be safely ignored in ours. For example, in a completely industrialized society, the cost of the industrial product would be the sum of three factors: (1) wages paid to labor; (2) salaries and expenses paid for management, and (3) interest paid to capital. These same three factors would make up also the total income or purchasing power of society. This necessary balance between cost of production and purchasing power would leave no place at all for profit, as understood in the days of the Coolidge-Hoover madness. It may seem probable that profit in the old sense can no longer exist to any great degree in our as yet imperfectly industrialized society whose wreckage we are now struggling to repair.

Now, if this is the economic philosophy behind the Recovery Act, there ought soon to be a dazzling old-time profit for some bright manufacturer of thinking caps, because we shall all be needing them.

A Monstrous Thing.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONE of the most shocking offenses against humanity ever committed by governmental red tape and judicial obtuseness, is the imprisonment, and scheduled deportation of Hugh Macleod, whose only offense is that he refused to be parted from his wife and children. What a monstrous thing it is to keep this man in Leavenworth!

Hitler and the Church.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHAT new nonsense is this? One expected to find the Hitler Government eventually subordinating church to state, but whether one supported such action or not, one awaited even from National Socialism a little more logicality and less disparity between statement and action.

The Prussian Minister of Education declares that the Government has no plan for a state church; yet at the same time there is a National Socialist commissioner created to control the church in Prussia—by far the most important numerically and otherwise of the Protestant "Landeskirchen." "The right of self-rule of the church will not be interfered with," says the Minister of Enlightenment, and at the same moment Commissioner Jaeger suspends Dr. Dibelius, head of the Prussian Evangelical Church, from his office. Yet the only point on which Dibelius seriously quarreled with the Government's action was as regards the independence of the church; this he expressed quite clearly in a recent official letter to the Evangelical Synod here.

Are we to suppose, because the Government declares a policy of non-interference with the church, that it is not supporting Mueller and the "German Christians," members of its own party, working for its ends? This is the first illogical action on the part of Hitler's Government. Every other movement or organization in the Reich has been National-Socialized from above. The Government, however, will not interfere with the churches; it will merely remove, one by one, the leaders of the church who are opposed to its ideas and so leave the way open for the church to National-Socialize itself.

When this last is achieved, there will not be left a single dissenting voice in the Nazi paradise. Everything will be quiet, everybody satisfied, only these pesky Jews will be without bread and raise a discordant note. But they will soon die off anyway. Then the pure Nordic Teutons will be entirely free to work out the principles of a renegade Frenchman, Gobineau, and a renegade Englishman, Houston Stewart Chamberlain. For even the Nazis had to go to the throwouts of other races to find a political idea. When will Germany find herself again?

ROGER B. OAKE.

A Revolution in Monetary Policy?

Is the administration flirting with the idea of ultimately supplanting the gold standard with some sort of managed currency? There were certain phrases in the President's message to the World Economic Conference which seem to point to this conclusion.

"The United States of America," he said, "seeks the kind of dollar which a generation hence will have the same purchasing power and debt paying power as the dollar value we hope to attain in the near future." He referred with approval to "efforts to plan national currencies with the objective of giving to those currencies a continuing purchasing power which does not greatly vary in terms of the commodities and need of modern civilization," and went on to declare that "our broad purpose is permanent stabilization of every nation's currency." While rejecting immediate stabilization of the dollar in relation to other currencies, he proposed eventual stabilization, not in the foreign exchanges, but in terms of other commodities in the domestic market.

There can be no question that such stability is a desirable objective of monetary policy. The fluctuating price levels which have followed upon adherence to a fixed weight of gold as a basis for currency and credit have been productive both of economic disorder and of social injustice. Rapidly rising prices defraud creditors and confiscate savings. Rapidly falling prices place a cruelly unfair burden on debtors.

Inequalities in the movements of prices give rise to economic maladjustments, which prolong depression and impede recovery. Wages fall as prices fall; lag as prices rise, and the worker loses. Persons who live on relatively fixed incomes—bondholders, pensioners, salaried employes—find themselves sometimes barely able to make ends meet; at other times enjoying unearned luxury. Great sums of income are, in effect, transferred from one part of the community to another, through no fault of those who lose them or no merit of those who receive them. Business is today over-stimulated; tomorrow disastrously depressed. These are the evils which flow from a monetary unit which is constant in metallic content; variable in purchasing power.

The advocates of a managed currency would put an end to the fluctuation of price levels by setting up a dollar which would not vary in its relationship to other goods and services. The devices by which they have proposed to achieve this desirable objective are many. All of them, unfortunately, present serious problems of administration. The movement of the general price level is to be discovered only through the employment of index numbers. But the proper composition of such indices is a technical matter which is still in dispute among professional statisticians, and utterly unintelligible to the layman.

It would be difficult, therefore, to establish public confidence in a currency system erected on such a foundation. Monetary authorities would be compelled, moreover, to act upon their estimates of future price movements. Such forecasts are necessarily matters of opinion. The selection of the time for increasing or diminishing the quantity of money; the decision as to the amount to be added to or withdrawn from circulation, would be subject both to error and to prejudice. The proposal requires a technical competence and a freedom from political interference on the part of central bank administration which are by no means certain of attainment. Most of these plans contemplate the establishment of control through the discount and open market policies of central banks. It may well be doubted, in the light of our experience, whether these powers would prove adequate to enable the authorities to exert effective control. When prices are rising, business may ignore these restraints. When business is depressed, an easy money policy may be powerless to stimulate it.

The international gold standard has the merit of maintaining a stable relationship between the dollar and other currencies through the automatic movement of gold and goods. It thereby greatly facilitates international commerce. A stable currency established by a single nation, on the contrary, would be continuously threatened by these international factors. If America, for instance, were to attempt to maintain prices at a level considerably below that which obtained abroad, exports would increase and gold would flow in in such quantities that the banking system would eventually be powerless to absorb it. If, on the other hand, we were to hold our prices above the world level, rising imports would, in the end, drain us of our gold and force us to abandon our policy.

There are only two escapes from this dilemma. One is the complete and permanent abandonment of gold as a medium of international exchange. Such action would permit us certainly to stabilize at home. But in so doing, we would be compelled to permit the dollar to fluctuate violently in terms of other moneys, to the serious disadvantage of our export and import trade. The only alternative would be to attain long-run stability through international co-operation. But such an objective would demand a co-operation more detailed and more complete than anything which was envisaged at the London conference. Its accomplishment would set a difficult task for international economic statesmanship.

Exactly how does the President propose to establish a dollar of constant purchasing power? Certainly not by the mere jettisoning of the gold standard, unaccompanied by further positive action. Scarcely, either, by the powers which Congress has so far placed in his hands: to require the Reserve banks to purchase Government bonds; to print three billion dollars of paper money; to reduce the gold content of the dollar. In none of the measures initiated or authorized to date is there any assurance of permanent stability.

The stabilization schemes which have been proposed in the past are numerous and varied. They include international control of gold production, international bimetalism, international symmetalism, the pooling of gold in a world bank, control through the discount and open market policy of central banks, Prof. Fisher's "compensated dollar," Prof. Keynes' "managed currency." It is not apparent from the President's statement whether he has embraced one of these, or whether he has a new proposal, as yet undisclosed, or whether, in fact, he has in mind any specific device whatsoever. If his words are to be taken at their face value, they presage the most revolutionary change in monetary policy in American history. But can they be taken at face value?

In two radio addresses to the American people, Mr. Roosevelt has revealed an admirable clarity of thought and candor of utterance. But the inferences which may be drawn from his message to the economic conference have, so far, created only confusion. We hope for a clarification of this issue in his forthcoming broadcast.

Argentina's Great Liberal

No one in United States history had a career like that of Hipolito Yrigoyen, but Andrew Jackson's comes to mind. Both dwelt among common people and made the interests of the common people their interests. In the end, the common people carried both to the highest office at their command. If Jackson went to Washington from the Tennessee frontier in 1828, while Yrigoyen was not chosen President of Argentina until 1916, it was because the requisite popular uprising did not occur in the South American Republic until nearly a century after the birth of American democracy, as manifested in the election of Old Hickory.

One wonders at the strange man Yrigoyen was. Eccentric school teacher, legislator, policeman and farmer, he made a fortune in cattle raising and thereafter gave his time freely and free of charge in the public service as he saw it. In 1890, 1893 and 1905, he revolted against high-handed rule. When he took up their cause, the masses were yet to be franchised. The landed class, descended from Spanish aristocracy, held government as well as society in control. From that control he wrested universal male suffrage and the secret ballot. Small wonder that Argentina's liberated millions swept him to the President's chair and, as soon as the constitutionally-required interval had passed, returned him to it.

Yrigoyen was a democrat through and through. The lavish Pink House at Buenos Aires was his to live in, but through his years in the presidency, he remained in his humble quarters over a tobacco shop. The least citizen had access to the stairs which led to his open door. If he was overthrown by younger hands, a hundred thousand people from the far reaches of Argentina marched behind his body. A half million saw the procession pass. Twenty-three orators eulogized him at the grave.

"The great moving spirit of Argentine democracy" former President de Alvear called him. So Yrigoyen was. He takes his place with Simon Bolivar, Libertador of six countries, and with the world figures of his own time.

Child Labor Amendment Still Needed

Oklahoma this week became the fifteenth state to ratify the child labor amendment to the Constitution, increasing to nine the number of states that have approved it this year. The others ratifying in 1933 are North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Washington, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey and Illinois. The revival of public concern over this grave social evil is strikingly shown in the fact that, in the years since 1924, when the amendment was submitted by Congress to the states, only six—Arizona, Arkansas, California, Montana, Wisconsin and Colorado—had approved it up to 1933, and 24 Legislatures had rejected it. It is significant, too, that Illinois, a state of wide industrial interests, has joined the movement, and that ratification this year by Massachusetts, another such state, is considered possible.

The depression, with its contrast of adults unemployed and children at work in sweat-shops, was conducive to public thought, and a notable reversal of front has resulted. Our people have been stirred by the adverse effect of child labor upon the health, education and morale of the succeeding generation, as well as by the disclosure that approximately 1,000,000 adults were kept on the roll of unemployed by the competition of children. It has become more and more apparent that the states themselves would never solve the problem satisfactorily.

Another notable advance of the year has been the adoption by the cotton textile industry of a clause in its industrial code, formulated under the Recovery Act, forbidding the employment of children under 16. Other industries where child labor now is used, such as canneries, mines and other manufacturing fields, are expected to follow suit in barring child labor. It is an important development of the New Deal that, under its conceptions of social justice, the exploitation of toiling children in our industrial system has been attacked in a decisive manner.

It would be erroneous, however, to depend entirely upon the Recovery Act to eliminate child labor permanently. Its provisions run for a term of two years only. At the end of that period, employers would be no longer restrained by their pledges under the industrial codes. Even though public opinion disapproved, there would then be a movement among unscrupulous manufacturers again to profit by hiring cheap child labor. The minimum wage scales now being adopted would also expire at that time, unless the Legislatures or Congress had taken action. As a result, it would again be permissible to employ children at miserable pittances such as were recently disclosed in the Pennsylvania strike of child workers.

So the socially-minded citizens who have been working for the amendment still have the duty of continuing their fight. They would be false to their cause if they accept the code provisions as a permanent victory. These are most encouraging indorsements of their cause, certainly, bearing the support of President Roosevelt, Secretary Perkins, Gen. Johnson and others in the forefront of our new economic set-up. However, the only sure means of winning a complete triumph against child labor lies in adding 21 more states to the list of those that have ratified the amendment. Just as it has been found vain to hope for reform by action of the individual states, so it would be fallacious to consider the Recovery Act procedure as removing all danger of a future return to child labor.

Most of the Legislatures that met this year have now adjourned, although a few that remain in session are expected to ratify the amendment. Eight Legislatures that have not ratified will meet in 1934, and special sessions of several others are likely this year or next. All the remaining Legislatures will meet in 1935. Thus, it should be possible to obtain the 21 ratifications still needed by the time the authority of the Recovery Administration expires.

Whether the present measures are successful or not, whether recovery or depression ensues, the country should get rid of child labor. There is no more reason for its continuance in good times than in bad. The popular approval that now supports the fight against child labor indicates that success is possible if the campaign continues aggressively.

Ennobling Wonder

THE GREAT ENIGMA. A New View on the Outlook of Life. By Hugo Hermann Schauinsland. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York City.)

DR. SCHAUINSLAND, a distinguished German biologist, is president of the Municipal Museum in Bremen. The "outlook on life" which he discusses is by no means a new one, and there is nothing in his luminous little book to indicate that he could have supplied the sub-title. His "outlook" is a very old one, essentially, and it may seem new to many only because it has been out of fashion for a long while. But the scientific fashion has been changing rapidly of late years—a fact of profound social significance in the long view—and Dr. Schauinsland is only one of many distinguished scientists who have broken away from the old naive materialism which is dying with the power of the trading class that sponsored it and imposed it upon the world.

The well-meaning blurb writer informs us that the author "looks at the universe through a microscope of mysticism, and finds that, back of the material reality explored by scientists, there lies a mysterious force which science alone will never be able to explain, and which is the point of departure into a new realm of knowledge."

The well-intentioned use of the expression, "a microscope of mysticism," reveals the very misconception that the author considers; for the microscope is an instrument of analysis, and it has been the belief that, if only matter could be divided into sufficiently small pieces, the "great enigma" of life and the universe could be explained in accordance with mechanistic conceptions. But somehow, analysis of matter has shown a curious tendency to result in vacancy, and life escapes the scalpel.

Accordingly, there are those, and Dr. Schauinsland is one of them, who have come to suspect that the reality men may know is in the nature of organism; that analysis, being a process of disintegration, destroys the very reality which it seeks to apprehend. Therefore, it would perhaps have been more in keeping with the sense of the book if the blurb writer had coined a word and stated that the author considers the great enigma by a "megascopic" rather than a "microscopic" method; for he strives to see life whole and throbbing with the mystery that science has never approached in the slightest degree, for all its admirable ingenuities.

It has been the implied and often the avowed doctrine of mechanistic materialism that the sense of wonder is only ignorance, ultimately to be rendered obsolete by strictly logical inquiry. But more and more of wonder has crept into scientific thinking of late years; and more than half of what this work of a great biologist contains is humble wonder and the ennobling beauty thereof.

Commenting on the state of mind of modern man, Dr. Schauinsland says: "He has shattered the few surviving non-material values, and has adopted in their place a psychic nihilism, and an attitude toward life which lacks every ethical and religious enthusiasm."

As a general truth about our civilization, this will scarcely be questioned; and it is no wonder that we should have arrived at what is generally, in effect, a sub-human level. For considerably more than a century, the trading-class mentality has dominated the world, and science for long was a faithful henchman.

It is no wonder that reality could be defined as "that which can be measured," whereas there are overwhelming reasons, as our author points out, for suspecting that the exact opposite is true. It is no wonder that the vast majority could come to believe that, after all, there are no practical values save those that can be priced, and that to come into possession of such values is the prime if not the sole purpose of living. It is no wonder that men have lost the reverent sense of being an integral part of nature in its mysterious wholeness, deeming themselves something outside of nature, an antagonist to be conquered. May it not be said with meaning that our naive materialism has resulted in a short-circuiting of our vital forces, which are now burning us out?

The trend of scientific thinking seems a hopeful sign, indeed; but if it may be likened to the dawn light on lonely peaks, there is yet no social hint of daybreak in the valleys of the world; for the most important social experiment now in progress is predicated upon the old naive materialism. Perhaps it must be so, in self-defense, until after the rest of the world has passed through the change now everywhere preparing.

SO THIS IS SCIENCE! By H. F. Ellis. Illustrated by Arthur Watts. (E. P. Dutton & Co., New York City.)

THE author, taking all knowledge for his province, and then some, explains everything he can think of under four heads, as follows: the Universe, the Earth, the Animal Kingdom (including Vegetables) and Nature's Brightest Jewel (meaning Man). It is to be feared that he is not quite serious, and it is barely possible that he may at times be kidding scientific theorists a bit irreverently, especially in his comments on space, matter, relativity and the like.

The following contribution to natural history is characteristic: "Is it true that the Tibetan llama has the vertebral centra incompletely ossified, as in Archegosauridae? Answer: No, it is a despicable lie!"

In his preface, the author remarks, "I am especially indebted to my relations, but for whose unfailing criticism and discouragement this volume would never have appeared."

JULIA NEWBERRY'S DIARY. With an Introduction by Margaret Ayer Barnes and Janet Ayer Fairbank. (W. W. Norton & Co., Inc., New York City.)

SOMETHING of Chicago before the fire and the life of its aristocracy at home and abroad are preserved in this delightful little book, the original of which was discovered in 1930, almost 60 years after the young diarist made her last entry. Julia, daughter of a wealthy family, whose name and fortune were given to a now famous library, began to record her daily experiences in June, 1869, when she was 15 years old, and the last entry is dated October, 1872.

If nothing were revealed but the character of an intelligent and lovable girl, the diary would be worth reading for its intimate humanness; but Julia was a privileged girl, and her simple record of daily contacts and experiences has considerable value as a contribution to social history. The greater part of the diary was written in Paris during the Franco-Prussian War.

THE DARK INVADER. By Capt. Franz Rintelen von Kleist. (The Macmillan Co., New York City.)

DURING 1915, when America was still theoretically neutral, even in thought, the Supreme Command of the German Army was wiring repeatedly to Berlin: "We are at our wits' end to defend ourselves against American ammunition." It was small comfort to the Germans to be reminded that our profiteers would be glad to furnish both sides with ammunition, considering the impossibility of delivery.

Under these circumstances, Franz Rintelen von Kleist, a German Naval Intelligence officer, came to America in the spring of 1915, and it was not very long after his arrival in New York that things began to happen to the ammunition ships of the Allies. Many of them caught fire mysteriously in mid-ocean, and some had their rudders blown away. Also, while this was going on, as many will remember, strikes broke out among the dockers on the New York waterfront; and for a while the stream of ammunition flowing to the Allies dwindled alarmingly.

Here we have Capt. Rintelen's account of how all this was accomplished by him, together with many inside views of secret service activities among the warring nations. It is truly an astonishing tale, the accuracy of which is attested by British authorities who were on the inside at the time.

Although the author served five years in an American penitentiary as a result of his activities here, he reveals no bitterness; and when the narrative is finished, any reader who is able to see around his war-time prejudices is bound to like and admire the man. Aside from its absorbing story interest, the book, which is now being reprinted serially in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, has considerable historical importance.

THE PLAIN MAN SEEKS FOR GOD. By Henry P. Van Dusen. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City.)

THOSE who already cherish a conception of God as an active working force in their lives, yet feel the need of some logical structure to reinforce the conception, will read much practical value into this study, and it will be there for them. But those who, in keeping with the general time mood, cherish no such conception, can scarcely hope to achieve one by the process of logical argument.

of retail sales, the trust maintained varying prices in various countries. The chief factor in this international trust is the American General Electric Co., which dominates through to German and British subsidiaries and affiliates. The price in 1928 for a 25-watt lamp was 37 cents in Sweden, 30 cents in Holland and Germany, 27 cents in Denmark, as low as 18 in Hungary and 52 cents in England. There was no justification, so far as Hedberg could discover, for such a wide price range.

Calculation showed that the capital outlay for an up-to-date electric lamp factory was not prohibitive, amounting to less than the monthly net surplus of the various co-operative enterprises in Sweden. Nevertheless, it was debated for some time whether the co-operators should enter this field. Electric lamps play a minor part in the expenditure of the average household and there was doubt as to whether co-operative capital should be tied up in such an enterprise. It was estimated that a saving of 12 cents on each lamp could be effected, a total saving to the country of about $1,500,000. And this, the directors of the Union at last decided, was worth while.

Schott a higher salary, but he did no care to become a mere cog in great foreign mechanism. He refused to go to Berlin and quit hi job. There are very few technicians capable of directing the construction and operation of an electric lamp factory and the Co-operative Union, realizing this, at onc made Schott an offer. The direc tors knew that most capable tec nicians were tied to the intern tional trust by long-term contrac and that such a chance might n offer itself again for many years.

Schott accepted the co-operativ offer and soon the walls of the new factory began to rise. Wit this the international trust becam alarmed. Both threats and pe suasion were tried in an effort t stop the co-operative enterpris Hedberg was warned by the dire tor of one branch of the trust th lamp prices would be brought low in Sweden that the co-operativ factory would be forced to suspe operation within a year.

The effect on the price of electric bulbs in Scandinavia was stri ing. Even while the Luma facto was in course of construction, th trust lowered the Swedish pri from 37 cents to 27 cents. Soon aft the co-operative lamp came o the market the trust had to m the Luma price of 22 cents. W this Luma lowered its price to abo 20 cents, at which it is still able manufacture on a comfortable m gin of profit.

The success of Luma is so stri ing that already English co-ope tors have discussed the possibil of a similar venture and the pr of bulbs in England has dropp about 10 cents. The trust has peatedly threatened the co-operati union with patent suits but h brought none. Before they emba ed on manufacture, the co-operato made sure that patents had expi so they were running no seri legal risk. On July 26, 1932, t Luma plant turned out its fi millionth lamp. It was estimated that a saving of 12 cents on each lamp could be effected, a total saving to the country of about $1,500,000. And this, the directors of the Union at last decided, was worth while.

Technician Who Quit Trust Is Hired by Co-operative.

Their decision was confirmed by an opportunity which arose at this time. The German Osram Lamp Co., controlled by the American General Electric, had just gained complete control of the Stockholm Electric Lamp factory. This German company ordered the technical manager of the Stockholm plant to Berlin, where they could more profitably utilize his service. They offered this technician, H. The directors knew that most capable technicians were tied to the international trust by long-term contracts and that such a chance might not offer itself again for many years.

Schlott accepted the co-operative offer and soon the walls of the new factory began to rise. With this the international trust became alarmed. Both threats and persuasion were tried in an effort to stop the co-operative enterprise. Hedberg was warned by the director of one branch of the trust that lamp prices would be brought so low in Sweden that the co-operative factory would be forced to suspend operation within a year.

Three Other Nations Join Sweden in Lamp Enterprise.

Aware that they might have a fight on their hands, the directors went ahead with the lamp factory. From the first it had been intended that the factory should be a common North European enterprise. As construction went forward, at the expense of the Co-operative Union, discussions were going on with the central co-operative societies in Denmark, Norway and Finland. On May 28, 1931, there was formed the North-European Luma Co-operative Society which took over the then completed factory. This was formed on a truly co-operative enterprise, with the co-operative societies of all four countries, Norway, Sweden, Finland and Denmark, each owning a proportionate share and each having a voice in the direction of the business through representation on the board of directors.

The effect on the price of electric bulbs in Scandinavia was striking. Even while the Luma factory was in course of construction, the trust lowered the Swedish price from 37 cents to 27 cents. Soon after the co-operative lamp came onto the market the trust had to meet the Luma price of 22 cents. With this Luma lowered its price to about 20 cents, at which it is still able to manufacture on a comfortable margin of profit.

The success of Luma is so striking that already English co-operators have discussed the possibility of a similar venture and the price of bulbs in England has dropped about 10 cents. The trust has repeatedly threatened the co-operative union with patent suits but has brought none. Before they embarked on manufacture, the co-operators made sure that patents had expired so they were running no serious legal risk. On July 26, 1932, the Luma plant turned out its five-millionth lamp. On the first year's operation Luma showed a profit and paid dividends to the retail consumers who had purchased the 5,000,000 lamps.

Practical Example of Power of International Co-operation.

"But even more important," Hedberg said, is the practical example of the co-operative movement's power, disregarding national boundaries, to set up industrial undertakings to be owned in common by several national co-operative wholesale societies. Such international co-operation is urgently needed in these days in several fields; the private manufacturers are steadily being welded more and more into vast international combines, too often with monopolistic aspirations. Against these the co-operative movement is powerless if it cannot overcome its nationalism.

"Just as the local stores need their common national wholesale society to provide supplies and to manufacture more efficiently and economically, so do the national wholesalers in their turn need common international enterprises to defend the consumers against the ever-increasing power of international trusts and cartels. The fight against monopoly and monopolistic activities cannot be waged to any purpose with tumult and shouting, nor with sonorous phrases and big words. The unwearying, inconspicuous toil on details and the stubborn, resolute cohesion that have hitherto brought victory and progress to the co-operative standard continue the soundest tactics on this larger field."

While Hedberg and other Swedish co-operators see great possibilities in international co-operation, they are opposed to the practice of the English Co-Operative Wholesale Society of selling the goods it manufactures to co-operative societies in other countries at a profit. This, the Swedish group maintains, is not true co-operation and will result in the same form of nationalistic competition as exists now under capitalism. They point to the situation in Finland some years ago when two rival co-operative societies each started a match factory with a capacity larger than the needs of their members and they were therefore compelled to go into the export trade as rivals, engaging in a harmful price-cutting war.

For this reason the Co-operative Union does not contemplate an expansion of the Luma plant to produce lamps for export. It might be profitable to do this, but the society would never sanction such a move. However, if the English wholesale society decides, as now seems probable to build a lamp factory, then the Scandinavian and English co-operators might join to form one co-operative society for the manufacture of lamps, with a plant in England and a plant in Sweden. This would be, in Hedberg's opinion, true co-operation.

Co-operatives Are Slow to Enter New Fields.

But always the test is the pragmatic one. Will it work? Is it practical? The writer asked Hedberg what other fields of manufacture the co-operators would enter. Clothing? No, there was no need to manufacture clothing, for the prices in that field were reasonable, with a small margin of profit to the private manufacturer. The manufacture of paper is one field which co-operation expects soon to enter. But the co-operators are cautious in their discussion of the future. This is partly business acumen, for if word gets out that the Co-operative Union is considering the manufacture of a certain commodity, then the price of factories which the Union might be interested in acquiring rises proportionately. And it is partly the modesty of the co-operators. They advance with great caution. They attribute their success in manufacture to care and efficiency of administration, in part to the close-knit organization of the Co-operative Union. In contrast, the mistake of the English co-operators has been a lack of efficiency, a diffuse organization. That, the Swedes say, is why English co-operation has failed to bring down the general price level.

As has been said, the co-operative shops are in no way institutional. That has been the fault of the feeble attempts at retail co-operation in the United States; the purchaser felt that he was purchasing his goods from some sort of charity bureau. But in various ways the members of the Swedish co-operatives are made to realize the advantages of mutual co-operation. For example, one of the posters advertising the Luma electric bulbs gives a graph showing how the price charged by the trust dropped even before the Luma plant went into operation. Another poster gives the price paid in England and the price paid in Sweden for the same bulb, the significant difference, nearly 25 cents, being the advantage of co-operation. Still another poster points out that the Luma bulbs are manufactured to test for 1500 hours and the trust's lamps for 1000 hours. In many other days the co-operative member is made to realize not only the practical, but the social advantages of the movement of which he is a member.

Nearly 15 Per Cent in Stockholm in Co-operative Houses.

Co-operative housing, like retail and wholesale co-operation, was relatively late in developing in Sweden. It was forced by the acute necessity of the housing shortage that existed at the end of the war. There was virtually a housing trust. Rents were almost prohibitive to persons in the lower income levels. There were sporadic attempts at co-operative housing and then in 1922 the Tenants' Savings Bank and Building Society was formed, called in Sweden H. S. B., the initials of the three very long Swedish words that make up the organization's name.

H. S. B. has had a remarkable growth in Stockholm. In this city of 500,000 nearly 15 per cent of the population now lives in co-operative houses. Building has continued throughout the depression and the construction program is carefully planned and financed through 1935. As with co-operation in other fields, H. S. B. has competed in the open market. Members have been attracted by the fact that the co-operative apartment houses were superior to others in almost every respect. They are designed along the most modern lines, for light, air, convenience and privacy. One man, Sven Wallander, has had a great deal to do with the development of H. S. B. He combines remarkable skill and inventiveness as an architect with a keen business sense and a capacity for organization. While Wallander has been the moving force in the success of H. S. B., it has passed beyond the stage of dependence upon one individual.

Three Types of Houses to Fit Purses Offered.

H. S. B. builds its apartment houses on three different financial scales. The first type is known as the A-house. The householder who applies for a co-operative apartment in an A-house must pay down 10 per cent of the cost of his apartment. This deposit varies from $190 to $270 (the crown at normal value) for an apartment of one room, bath and kitchen. For five rooms, bath and kitchen he must pay a deposit varying from $1070 to $1180. The rents in the A-house vary from $135 to $215 a year for the smallest apartments to from $700 to $865 for the largest. In the B-houses the co-operator pays a five per cent deposit ranging from $80 to $135 for the smallest apartments and $350 to $400 for the largest. Rents for the B-houses range from a low of $120 a year for the smallest size to a high of $485 for the five-room apartment.

Prospective tenants for the C-houses pay no deposit at all. That is because the State and city provide virtually the entire capital for this type of co-operative house. For the A type the members furnish 10 per cent, private banks and insurance companies another 10 to 15 per cent, and the city and State 75 to 80 per cent. For the C type the members' deposit is only five per cent of the total capital necessary to build the apartment house and city and State contribute correspondingly more, 80 to 85 per cent. While the C type are organized on a co-operative basis by H. S. B., they are really built by the city and all member-tenants for this type of house must be approved by city authorities.

Deposits by Member Tenants Returned in 20 Years.

The members' deposits are treated just as is capital received from the other sources. The member-tenants receive six per cent interest annually on this deposit. They may receive this in cash each year. They may receive five per cent in cash, the other one per cent being the premium on a special kind of insurance which provides that on the death of the head of the household the entire deposit is returned to the family and the annual rent is reduced by 20 per cent. Or the member-tenant may allow his interest to accmulate and be compounded to the end of a 20-year period.

At the end of this 20-year period all deposits are returned in full and the annual rentals are automatically decreased by 20 per cent. The balance of the rent is largely to pay the cost of the actual upkeep and repair of the buildings.

Each separate apartment house is a unit, affiliated with the central organization, H. S. B., in the same way that the retail societies are affiliated with the Central Co-operative Union. The tenant-members are responsible, through several committees, for the management of the house, for the cleanliness of the halls and the upkeep and attractiveness of the surrounding grounds. There are co-operative laundries in each house, equipped with the most modern washing machines and mangles. Each household pays a certain weekly fee for the use of these rooms at specified times. There are beautiful co-operative nurseries and kindergartens, for children up to 5 years old, each nursery equipped as only the most expensive private nursery school in the United States would be equipped. Mothers who work may leave their children in these nurseries from 6:30 in the morning to 6:30 in the evening for a very small sum. A trained teacher and several assistants are in charge of each nursery. The children receive three meals at these nurseries and their diet is carefully supervised.

Effort to Provide Pleasant View From Homes Built.

The houses are admirably planned and situated. An effort has been made—and on the whole successfully—to provide a vista from each window, a view in which there are trees and water or at least green grass and an open space. A majority of the apartments in the newer buildings have balconies on which the tenant has a considerable degree of privacy. The architects for H. S. B. make use of the newest developments in housing and they have themselves made several valuable contributions to efficiency and cleanliness. The member may also purchase his furniture through H. S. B. This furniture has been especially designed and adapted for small apartments. It is in the modern style, but not in an exaggerated or arbitrary fashion.

For 1934 and 1935 H. S. B. has planned apartments houses to cost between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. There is a waiting list of tenant-members for these buildings. For the C-type house there are 18,000 on the waiting list, but unfortunately, because both city and state lack funds, none of this type can be built at present. Those apartments now building and those planned for 1934 and '35 are of the A and B types. Of the present tenant members now occupying co-operative houses, 60.42 per cent are workmen, 9.89 per cent subordinate officials in private or public service, 23.84 per cent are clerks in stores and offices and 5.85 per cent are higher officials, teachers, engineers, architects and persons in other professions.

Plan Devised to Provide for Lowest Income Group.

While H. S. B. reaches families on relatively low income levels, there are many whose income will not permit them either to pay the original deposit or the rent charged by H. S. B. For this group on the lowest economic level, another plan has been devised by another architest with both business sense and social vision, Sven Markelius. Markelius has designed a co-operative apartment house that is even more truly co-operative than those of H. S. B. In the Markelius house there will be one co-operative kitchen for all families and a common living and recreation room. Markelius' first apartment house is to be built this year. He has succeeded in getting private capital at low rates of interest for his project. The city of Stockholm, too, has been interested in providing adequate, modern housing for the lowest income group.

Immediately after the World War a law was passed that placed a limitation upon rent levels. The objective was to bring down rents but the law had the opposite effect. It caused virtually all building to cease. With this the city itself entered the building field, constructing in a short period 15 workers' apartment houses, each five stories in height. But there were many difficulties, with the powerful building unions, with bureaucratic delays and disputes. It was at about this time that H. S. B. began to develop. The city then, in effect, confessed its failure as a builder and proceeded to give aid to co-operative enterprise and to private contractors.

To the private builder the city advanced funds at low rates of interest and offered ground at low rental. In return for this the city specified what rents the private contractor should charge, fixing annual rentals at so much a square meter. If the private builder violates these terms, then he is held liable for interest at the full rate for the whole term during which he has had the use of the city's funds. Apartments for 10,000 families have been built in this way, under the careful supervision of city architects and engineers.

Areo of Garden Suburbs Nearly 75 Pct. of That of Stockholm.

In another building field the city has had greater success. Stockholm's garden suburbs are known to architects and city planners the world over. It was in 1900 that the city first realized the importance of acquiring large tracts of land for suburban development. Stockholm was at that time extremely congested. By 1907 the city had acquired sufficient land to begin developing a site to the south of Stockholm, making streets and putting down sewers, water and gas mains and electric cables. A site to the west of Stockholm was developed in 1911. The city leased the ground to the person desiring to build on a 60-year lease, with rent at the rate of 5 per cent on the capital the city had invested in the lot. The city's architects and planners laid down careful prescriptions for the kind of house that should be built with the result that there is a certain homogeneity of architecture.

The area of these garden suburbs now improved with houses is about three-fourths as large as the area of the city itself. The city has spent about $7,500,000 on improvements. The population of the city suburbs is at present 35,000, with an annual increase of about 2500. And the city has been constantly acquiring land, looking to the future. Whenever it has been possible to buy a tract of land at a reasonable price, the city has done so until now the city owns 16,000 acres of unimproved land, situated at distances ranging from three to 10 miles from the center of the town.

Providing Pleasant Homes for Those Least Able to Pay.

In 1927 the city realized there was no provision in the garden suburbs for the lowest income groups. An experiment was begun that year. For a cash down payment of about $80 there was offered a stardardized house and lot to put it on. It was up to the worker to put up his own house, under the supervision of city inspectors. That is, after the worker had picked out his lot, the city delivered his house, knocked down. First the worker digs the basement and puts up the foundation of pressed concrete blocks. After this is done the house itself can be put up in less than a day. These cottages of three, four, five rooms, with kitchen and bath, have all the conveniences of a modern home. The total cost of these houses, including all fixtures, is about $3000, which the worker pays in installments from year to year. The fixed annual charges, for ground rent and so forth, are about $270.

In the spring the street cars to Olovslund and Skarpnack are crowded with workers and their families, bearing spades, hammers, saws, picnic lunches, babies, on the way to the site where their "Magic House"—the name adopted by the city—is soon to rise. They work early in the morning and through the long, light evenings, often until 10 o'clock or later. The children play about, watching their new house take shape. While it is true that the houses are standardized, the skilfull use of shrubs and flowers soon takes off the worst curse of standardization. There are wide play spaces for the children. Lake Malar is near for swimming in summer and skating in winter. At the end of last summer 1600 cottages had been completed. Because of the capacity of the city's factory in which the house frames are manufactured there is a limit on the number of cottages that can be built each summer.

The city has entered into many other activities. It runs the street car and bus systems and distributes electricity, gas and water. Likewise co-operation in Sweden and in the whole of Scandinavia has entered many fields that one can only mention. Virtually all of the agricultural produce of Denmark is marketed co-operatively. The fisheries in Norway are organized into co-operatives. Men and women working together have demonstrated again and again that self-help is possible, that the profit motive is not essential to business efficiency.

OKLAHOMA TO TAKE UP REPEAL

Governor Adds It to Subjects Special Session May Consider.

OKLAHOMA, Ok., July 8.—Gov. William H. Murray today sent a special message to the Legislature in special session, permitting it to set up machinery for an early vote on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. He specified he was not opening the question of repeal of the prohibition sections of Oklahoma's constitution.

Both houses had passed resolutions asking the Governor for authority to consider the Federal repeal amendment.

1933 COTTON ACREAGE 11.6 PER CENT OVER '32

Increase of 16 Per Cent in Texas Where One-Third U. S. Crop Is Grown.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—An increase of 11.6 per cent in this year's acreage of cotton was estimated today by the crop reporting board, which said that as of July 1 there were 40,798,000 acres under cultivation.

Its field workers reported increased acreage in every state from a 1 per cent increase in Mississippi to 79 in California.

The most significant increase, however, was in Texas which produces more than one-third of the nation's cotton. An increase 16 per cent in the acreage there was shown, a rise from 13,592,000 acres in cultivation on July 1 last year, to 15,767,000 acres growing on July 1 this year.

Cotton in cultivation in the United States on July 1 was reported by the Department of Agriculture today to tal 40,798,000 acres, compared with 36,542,000 acres in cultivation a year ago and 35,939,000 acres picked last year.

Estimates of the indicated production and the Jul: 1 condition were not given because of the law preventing issuance of these reports until August.

The estimate does not take into account the proposed 30 per cent reduction in acreage which the agricultural adjustment administration has mentioned as the amount it might take out when offers have been received, consolidated and accepted on an equitable basis among the various states.

In working out tentative acreage quotas assigned to the states, the administration used the 1931 acreage—39,109,000 acres—as a basis, saying it was more nearly comparable to the present acreage than of any other recent year.

The reduction on that basis would mean elimination of 11,732,700 acres and place the hypothetical area of 27,476,300 acres for this year's crop.

The administration has stated it could not say nor accurately estimate just what the reduction would amount to in terms of acreage, assuming producers' offers were accepted.

The acreage to be retired from production is to be limited by the amount of money available and also by the yields of the land offered.

During the last 10 years the average abandonment of acreage between July 1 and picking has been 2.6 per cent.

The July 1 area in cultivation in percentage of last year's July 1 acreage and the number of acres, by states, follow:

Virginia, percentage of last year 110; acres 78,000; North Carolina 105 and 1,324,000; South Carolina 106 and 1,799,000; Georgia 106 and 2,867,000; Florida 114 and 122,000; Missouri 110 and 451,000; Tennessee 108 and 1,167,000; Alabama 106 and 3,245,000; Mississippi 101 and 3,936,000; Louisiana 106 and 1,804,000; Texas 116 and 15,767,000; Oklahoma 130 and 4,122,000; Arkansas 106 and 3,642,000; New Mexico 102 and 116,000; Arizona 120 and 137,000; California 179 and 222,000; all other states 107 and 19,000.

in Budapest it appears that Hungary would prefer the Austrian project for Austro-Hungarian union to the French proposal for co-operation among the five Danubian states. The Austrian Socialists want centralization of territory before an economic accord. These discussions have resulted in the retreat of certain offensives.

The Giornale D'Italia of June 24, denies that Italy favors an Austro-Hungarian union but, indicating that where there is smoke there's fire, states that in the event of such a union, the states of the Little Entente have no right to oppose it.

It is unnecessary to point out at length the German opposition to a Danubian federation of which she is not a member.

Monarchism in Background.

So far as we are concerned, we have no reason to change our minds. We are no more favorable to a new accord embracing two or five or seven countries than to Andre Tardieu's plan. We do not want to eliminate Germany or Italy from the Danube any more than we want to see them dominant.

We proved this at the Stresa conference, which has yielded useful results and has offended no sensibilities. Our idea is that these economic problems should be treated within the frame-work of the European federation. This frame-work is the only one in which can be eliminated the project for restoration of the Hapsburgs which, despite official denials, has been hiding behind certain combinations.

Premier Goemboes' recent trip to Berlin, discussions in the Hungarian Parliament and statements by Foreign Minister Decanya show that the Government at Budapest is oriented toward Italy, and above all toward Germany.

To Goemboes is attributed that statement that he would not hesitate to carry the crown to St. Stephen as far as Vienna if the Hapsburg restoration would revive the Austria-Hungary of Francis Joseph.

Certainly that is one way to conclude that an Austro-Hungarian rapprochement would provoke some very redoubtable competitions and augment political disorder in Central Europe.

Resuming, the two problems we have discussed sum up as follows:

First, Austria, threatened by Hitlerian invasions, is defending her independence energetically for both political and religious reasons.

Second, the project of at least an economic rapprochement between Austria and Hungary has been interpreted for some time as the first possible result of a four-power pact.

Third, due to the opposition of the Little Entente, the authors and members of this plan have been obliged to alter it into a plan for a union of five powers.

Fourth, a union of two of the five would be equally arbitrary, equivocal and dangerous. It is necessary that economic ententes should be realized within the European plan and within the frame-work of the League of Nations.

COTTON CLOSES DOWN IN PRE-ACREAGE REPORT TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Disposition to even up accounts for the official acreage report and possible new developments in the crop reduction campaign in the South, was reflected by nervous and irregular fluctuations in cotton here today.

After selling off to 10.35c early under liquidation and Southern selling, October rallied to 10.52c on covering and trade buying but reacted partially under renewed liquidation closing at 10.40c. The general market, which closed at 11:50 o'clock, or 10 minutes before the official acreage figures were issued, was barely steady at net declines of 1 to 5 points.

The Government report issued after the close placed the acreage under cultivation as of July 1 at 40,798,000 acres, which was roughly about 700,000 acres above the average of recent private estimates ranging from about 39,700,000 to about 40,645,000.

In comment accompanying the report it was pointed out that today's estimate of the planted acreage does not take account of any reduction that may be made by farmers under the cotton program of the agricultural adjustment administration.

BERLIN, July 8.—The annual reports of the North German Lloyd and the Hamburg-America steamship lines show a loss by each company of 13,000,000 marks (approximately 3,250,000 gold dollars). The losses are covered by special reserves.

The North German Lloyd's net takings were 22,250,000 marks, while the Hamburg-America's were 16,750,000, compared to the preceding year's 18,090,000 and 20,360,000, respectively.

The North German Lloyd's revenue from passenger traffic was 20 per cent less than in 1931 and 45 per cent less than in 1930, while the Hamburg-America lost 28 per cent, as compared with 1931 and 38 per cent from 1930.

The Hamburg-America Line transported 96,857 passengers for the year just reported on, compared with 102,000 in 1931. Its goods traffic dropped [illegible]

BOND TONE IS FIRM IN RATHER LARGE TRADE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Profit-taking in the rails slowed down the bond market a trifle today, but support for a number of industrials and utilities gave the market a firm tone at the close of the brief session.

The trading pace was not quite as swift as that of yesterday, but sales totaled $10,753,000, par value, which is considerably above a normal Saturday's aggregate. The average for 60 domestic corporate issues advanced one-tenth of a point to another new high for the past year or more at 81.2.

Corporation maturities that responded with net advances of one to two or more points, included some of American & Foreign Power, Anglo-Chilean Nitrate, Columbia Gas, Container Co., Hudson Coal, International Paper, National Dairy, Philadelphia Reading Coal & Iron, Postal Telegraph, Shell Union Oil, United Drug, Utilities Power & Light and Warner Bros.

Most of the rails drifted irregularly under realizing despite freight car loadings figures for the week ended July 1, which disclosed a gain of nearly 30 per cent over the same week in 1932. Losses and gains in the carrier section, however, were about even.

Foregin obligations were moderately irregular. The recently buoyant French issues lost one to around three points and British 5½s eased. The Australians, Germans and Japanese improved.

United States Government securities were quiet and slightly lower.

NET CHANGES IN CURB LEADERS ARE SMALL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Profit-taking was a factor in many sections of today's curb market, but offerings were well absorbed for the most part and net changes in leading issues proved generally small. Metal stocks rallied. Sales totaled 488,000 shares, against 333,000 last Saturday.

The boost for mining equities paralleled a rise in those shares on the stock exchange. Lake Shore pushed up a couple of points, while Pioneer advanced 1¼ and Hudson Bay nearly a point. Newmont and New Jersey Zinc firmed more extensively.

In oils, Humble dipped 1½ and Gulf lost ⅝, but Indiana was steady.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—Stocks had their best day on Monday, took a breathing spell over the Fourth of July holiday, and came back on Wednesday a trifle wobbly. Minor losses were more than recovered in a speedy Wednesday session and, from then on, despite a lot of backing and filling resulting from considerable profit-taking, the stock movement was upward. The Associated Press-Standard Statistics average for 90 selected issues showed a net gain of 6.2 on the week and stood at 95.1, another new high for the past year or more.

Commodities, as a rule, followed stocks rather closely—or, perhaps, stocks may have followed commodities—with wheat showing a gain of 5 to 5¼ cents a bushel; corn 5½ to 6, and rye, 2⅛ to 2½ cents a bushel. All wheat futures got above the $1 mark in Chicago. Cotton was a trifle unsettled at times, owing to uncertainties regarding acreage reduction, processing taxes and other influences. Its net change was about 20 cents a bale lower to 5 cents higher. Bar silver managed to hold an advance of ⅝ of a cent an ounce at 37 cents and copper for domestic shipment moved up to 9 cents a pound, the highest price for this metal since May, 1931.

The dollar fell to a low of 70 cents in terms of the French gold franc, following the administration's emphatic veto of currency stabilization.

Market buoyancy was inclined to subside a bit because of the uncertainties surrounding future moves of the gold standard nations. Fears that one or all of them might be forced off gold was a restraining influence at times.

In the domestic sector, substantial gains were shown in steel and electric power production.

Weekend Trade Active.

Stocks did considerable wavering in weekend market, although bulls brought up fresh candidates for the advance. The net result was almost a stand-off on the basis of averages, for the Associated Press-Standard statistics composite finished with a gain of one-tenth point. Trading was active, sales totaling 3,007,560 shares.

Heavy profit-taking kept most leaders lower during the greater part of the session, and there were many extreme dips of one to two points. By closing time, losses for such stocks as were down had been cut and gains of fractions to a couple of points were fairly numerous. Metal issues were strongest. Rails, Steels, Chemicals and some Motors reacted.

Radio a Feature.

Radio picked up another long wave of buying orders and rose just a point. Its opening was a 50,000 share block at 11⅝, up ⅝, and numerous lumped transactions of 5000 to 35,000 shares changed hands thereafter.

Gold stocks glistened to the accompaniment of a rumor that the Government might permit exports of newly mined metal, thus permitting a sales price of between $28 and $30 an ounce as against $20.67, which is the fixed mint quotation at home. Homestake climbed 14; McIntyre, Alaska Juneau and Dome were up one to two points. Coppers seemed to take more seriously recent advances in the metal, Anaconda, Kennecott, U. S. Smelting and Cerro de Pasco improving one to nearly three points. International Silver gained 3¾. Nash was an isolated strong spot in the automobile section as a result of its dividend resumption and disclosure of a strong cash position. American Telephone, whose earnings are better, declined rather reluctantly, off half a point net.

Day's 10 Most Active Stocks.

Closing price and net change of the 10 most active stocks:

Radio, 12, up 1; Gen. Elec. 30, up ⅝; Comwlth & Sou 5¼, up ½; Anaconda 21¼, up 1; Gen Motors 32⅛, down ⅝; Kennecott 25⅝, up 1; Intl Nickel 20⅜, up ½; Graham Paige 5, up ¼; Alaska Juneau 24⅛, up 2⅛; Dome Mines 34¼, up 1¾.

Stock Loaning Premiums.

The following stock was loaning at premium at the close Saturday: Colorado Fuel, $1 per 100 shares.

FIRST INCREASE IN LESS THAN CARLOT MERCHANDISE

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—The American Railway Association announced today that carloadings of revenue freight for the week ended July 1 were 634,074 cars, an increase of 29,406 over the preceding week and 145,793 over 1932.

For the first time since car loadings began to climb upward, less than car lot merchandise showed an increase over the preceding week and the corresponding week last year.

Less than car lot merchandise loaded was 171,362 cars, an increase of 1460 over the preceding week and 331 cars over last year; miscellaneous freight 236,201 cars, increase 4235 and 53,805; grain and grain products 46,123, increase 7782 and 15,516; forest products 28,119, increase 386 and 12,702; ore 17,413, increase 3881 and 12,310; coal 112,302, increase 10,287 and 45,269; coke 7190, increase 1544 and 4153 and livestock 15,364, a decrease of 169 cars below the preceding wek but an increase of 1707 cars over last year.

The showing of less than car lot merchandise was interpreted here as one of the most favorable indications yet shown by car loadings. This type of freight consists of small shipments made from distributing houses in all parts of the country to small merchants and is the type of freight much of which during recent years has been hauled by truck.

Railroad men say the increase indicates a wider distribution of goods than heretofore.

DOLLAR 70.5C AT CLOSE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 8.—The dollar was once more pushed down hill today.

In terms of the leading gold standard currency, the French franc, the dollar was worth 70.5 cents at the close, representing a depreciation of approximately 30 per cent.

Closing quotations on the franc were 5.56 cents, a net gain of .06 a cent. The pound sterling was up 3 cents to a final price of $4.71.

All other foreign exchanges bettered yesterday's levels, the gold standard currencies showing particular vitality. Swiss francs shot up .22 of a cent, closing at 27.47 cents; the Dutch guilder stood at 57.25 cents when the day's trading ended, an advance of .45 of a cent, and Belgium belgas were 19.82 cents, an increase of .17 of a cent.

Liras were quoted at 7.54 cents, up .06 of a cent and marks stood at 34.10 cents, up one-tenth of a cent. Scandinavian currencies were uniformly strong. The Canadian dollar closed at 95 cents, a gain of one-quarter of a cent.

HOME GROWN POTATOES $2.50 AGAINST 75C TO 90C YEAR AGO

Home-grown potatoes brought $2.50 per 100 lbs. for sacked stock on the local market the past week. The price compared with 75@90c paid a year ago. Scarcity of offering was due to dry weather following delayed planting owing to wet spring, damaging the crop. On one day in latter part of week only nine loads of home-grown came on market compared with 80 to 100 on normal crop.

On Friday 5 cars of Missouri cobblers sold to go out at $2.90.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, July 8.—Rumored prediction of new wave of high temperature in Canadian Northwest and evening up for Government crop report on Monday were credited with bringing about upward range of over 3 cents in wheat at final session of week. The advance followed recovery from mixed start.

Winnipeg wheat closed 1⅞@2c net higher.

Liverpool closed ½d lower.

September wheat opened at 99c, off ¾c, and December $1.01½, up ¼c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 210,000 bushels, compared with 57,000 a week ago and 112,000 a year ago, included 136 cars local and 4 through. Corn receipts, which were 82,500 bushels, compared with 192,000 a week ago and 65,800 a year ago, included 46 cars local and 9 through. Oats receipts, which were 24,000 bushels, compared with 20,000 a week ago and 11,000 a year ago, included 12 cars local. Hay receipts were 1 car local and 1 through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, wheat was irregular. Prices on the soft variety were ½c lower to 1c higher than Friday's range and ¾@2¼c higher than yesterday's late sales. Hard wheat was ¼@1c lower, ¾c higher than yesterday's late transactions. Mixed wheat was off ½@1½c. Cash operations closely followed the trend of futures, declining early and advancing late in the day. Trading basis on No. 2 soft wheat for the most part was 2c below the Chicago September figure. Hard wheat sold ¼@1c below the Chicago September option. There was no material change in garlicky discounts, light selling at 1@1½c under straight grades, medium 2½@3c under and heavy about 4c below. Corn was ¾@2¼c lower and in good demand. Oats were ½@1c lower. Demand was fair.

Red wheat was ¾@1¾c higher and hard 1@1¼c higher. Corn was 1@2c lower and oats ¼c lower.

WHEAT CLOSES STRONG ON RUMORED NEW HEAT WAVE

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 8.—Spurred by prediction heard of new torrid temperatures Northwest, threatening increased damage to spring wheat, especially in Canada, wheat values made brisk upturns late today.

Only scattered rains fell in the Northwest, and the forecast was for higher temperatures both sides of the Canadian border.

The United States Government crop report giving the condition of grains as of July 1 will be issued at 3 p. m. Monday, and there was more or less evening-up of accounts as a result. Highest prices of the day were reached by wheat in the final 15 minutes of trading.

Wheat closed strong, 1⅞@2⅜ above yesterday's finish, corn ⅜ off to ⅜ up, oats ⅛@⅜ advanced, and provisions showing 12@30c advance.

Enough rain to check buying enthusiasm led to fresh downturns in grain values very early today.

Many traders contended that price advances of late had been too rapid to be healthy. Opening unchanged to ½ lower, wheat afterward declined all around. Corn started unchanged to 1⅜ off, and subsequently underwent a general setback.

The wheat market recovered and early sold as much as cent higher.

Quick rallies of about 2 cents a bushel from early low figures in wheat resulted from sudden expansion of speculative demand which developed on price declines. Some buyers placed emphasis on the fact that usually July is the worst damaging month for spring wheat.

Accelerating the rally in wheat prices was strength shown by the Winnipeg market. On the upturns, commission house selling increased, and reactions ensued, but they proved brief, and fresh rallies carried the market higher than before. Talk was heard that the United States Government crop report due on Monday was likely to revive bullish confidence. In various quarters, however, this opinion was not shared, and there were reminders that a raise in August and September pars used in official estimates should be kept in mind.

Owing to rains, corn and oats were relatively easy as compared with wheat.

Provisions averaged higher with cereals, despite downturns of hog.

Uniform Traffic Code for U. S. and Canada Proposed

Motor Vehicle Administrators of Two Countries to Work for Its Adoption.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, July 8.—With adoption of a uniform traffic code for the United States and Canada as its objective, the American Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators has been organized at a meeting of highway representatives from 40 states and two Canadian provinces here.

Permanent officers, it was decided, will be chosen at a meeting in the fall, the place and time to be determined by temporary officers, chosen in the closing session yesterday.

Temporary officers include: E. Austin Baughman, Baltimore, chairman; H. Rickard Sticker, Harrisburg, Pa., vice-chairman; Lew Wallace, Des Moines, Ia., secretary.

Speed of Cars Increasing.

Average speed of motor vehicles has increased from about 15 miles an hour in 1902 to 45 miles an hour.

Standard De Soto Improved

Standard De Soto Six closed model with added features, including increased power, air wheels, dual trumpet horns and upholstery styling.

Alborn White Co. Engineering Chief

Frank G. Alborn has been promoted to chief engineer of the White Motor Co., succeeding H. D. Church.

Since 1925, Alborn has served the White company as assistant chief engineer and has been actively engaged in the development of the present White line of trucks and busses.

Plymouth Plans To Add Thousands Of Auto Salesmen

Will Open 75 Schools to Train Them, Rowland Tells Dealers Here.

"Despite rising automotive sales, there is still a tremendous untapped market for new cars in America which, if properly cultivated, could add immeasurably to the prosperity of the automobile industry and the maze of industries dependent upon it," Assistant General Sales Manager R. M. Rowland, director of advertising of the De Soto Motor Corp., said Thursday to Dodge, De Soto and Chrysler dealers in this territory. The dealers had gathered to hear details of a country-wide campaign to put immediately thousands more Plymouth salesmen in the field.

The meeting was one of 40 being held this week in key cities as a prelude to a plan for increasing Plymouth's national sales organization. The project includes the opening of more than 75 business schoos for the training of new salesmen.

"It is true that the automobile industry as a whole has made amazing sales strides in the past two months," Rowland said. "Plymouth, with six months of the year passed, has produced and shipped more cars than in the entire year of 1932.

"This month 40,000 Plymouth cars were scheduled for production. June was the best month in our history, both for production and new Plymouth registrations.

Walter Chrysler foresaw this market when he first announced the new standard and de luxe Plymouth cars in April. He said then that it was a time of opportunity, a time when the public would appreciate extra value and buy in greater volume than ever before.

Country-Wide Sales Plan.

"This is a time of opportunity for automobile dealers and salesmen, too. But although renewed confidence, greatly expanded purchasing power and excellent cars have greatly increased our sales, there is still a tremendous untapped market waiting to be sold.

"Plymouth's nationwide campaign to put more salesmen in the field is going to place at work an additional army of capable men. Their efforts, properly directed, should increase your business and our business, too. This means that the scores of industries dependent upon Plymouth will be beneficially affected, placing more men at work and adding momentum to President Roosevelt's campaign to increase employment and place industry upon a more prosperous basis."

The business schools will be conducted by Plymouth factory representatives. To be eligible for enrollment, it is not necessary for a man to have been in the automobile business or to have had automotive training exclusively.

Another Plymouth Record.

Plymouth sales in the week ending June 17 again broke all records in the history of the company for the sixth consecutive week.

H. G. Moock, general sales manager of Plymouth Motor Corporation, said that Plymouth retail sales in the week ending June 17 totaled 6794 units, an 8 per cent gain over the previous week, and an increase of 79.3 per cent over the same week a year ago. Plymouth sales first broke all records starting the week ending May 6. The latest week's sales figures show a 44.8 per cent increase over this period.

Cross-Continent Record-Breaking Run Severe Test of Tires

When Bob MacKenzie, Pittsburgh racing driver, completed his coast-to-coast record-breaking drive in 57 hours and 38 minutes in April, he conducted one of the most gruelling tire tests ever attempted, according to tire engineers of the B. F. Goodrich Co.

In setting the new mark from Los Angeles to New York City at an average of 57 miles an hour, MacKenzie drove at speeds of nearly 100 miles an hour when traffic and road conditions permitted.

Rain and snow were encountered frequently by MacKenzie and his relief driver, Joe Harberth, except on the first 450 miles from Los Angeles to Needles, Cal., where the temperature was 105 degrees.

Rolling over all types of highways and detouring to avoid the large cities, MacKenzie lowered the previous record, set in 1932, by more than two hours.

The punishment inflicted on new type "golden ply" tires used in the two and a half days of high speed driving exceeded any similar test ever conducted by Goodrich, officials said, and was accomplished without tire trouble of any kind.

Ford Sales Lead In Wayne County

Sales of Ford V-8 cars and trucks have taken the lead in Wayne County, in which Detroit is located.

Registrations for the first 24 days of June showed a total of 1816 Ford sales, and the publications devoted to the industry point out that Ford's increases in sales are inevitably followed by the entire industry as a whole.

Automobile editors and periodicals devoted to the industry generally say that this showing by Ford in Wayne County presages a great increase in automobile sales. Detroit and Wayne County long have been a barometer of automobile cars and trucks.

Auto Travel for Business.

A survey of motor travel purposes made in Wisconsin by the United States Bureau of Public Roads indicates that 60 per cent of automobile travel is for business and 40 per cent for pleasure.

Legal Speed of Cars in Texas.

The maximum legal speed on any thoroughfare in Texas is 45 miles an hour. The Legislature has repealed the statute prohibiting one car from passing another on a highway at a speed in excess of 18 miles an hour. The law was a survival of the days when roads in the Lone Star State were little better than ruts in the plains.

Merry Distributes Car-Rocking Device For Greasing Stations

A new car-rocking device, for use on greasing racks, is said to assure thorough lubrication of an automobile. The device consists of air-operated, twin reciprocating jacks which contact the car frame at the center of the chassis, imparting a rocking motion to the car on the lift, pit or rack for greasing. All suspended weight is thus taken from the shackles, enabling the grease to be put where the wear occurs. Also, the spring leaves are opened so oil can be sprayed on the wearing surfaces.

The motion of the car can be controlled to duplicate road conditions, enabling the attendant and motorist to observe the car under driving conditions and detect squeaks, rattles and worn or defective parts.

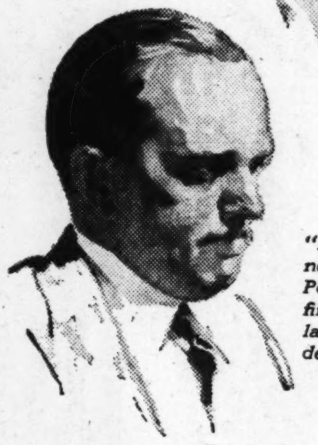
Only a STRAIGHT EIGHT can give Straight Eight PERFORMANCE!

"I like safety and comfort, and these hot days, believe me, I prize Pontiac's Fisher Controlled Ventilation."

"I like Pontiac because I want Straight Eight performance—not something just as good."

"I don't want cheapness, but I want a real automobile and I want practical economy. Pontiac gives me just that."



"A car is a business necessity for me. Pontiac meets my first need because it lasts, stands up and delivers."

"Pontiac not only performs like a truly modern car—it looks the part, and I'm proud of it."

"I've been used to costly cars, but I must say my Pontiac gives me everything I could want—and gives it economically."

PONTIAC—the Economy Straight Eight—is one of the outstanding successes of the year. It is showing the way to big-car comfort and Straight Eight performance at low price and with operating economy.

Everybody wants big-car comfort and Straight Eight performance—and everybody knows that only a Straight Eight can give Straight Eight performance.

Pontiac is the Economy Straight Eight. Ask any Pontiac owner—and you'll find it is giving 15 miles or more to the gallon—and gives that not only for a few thousands of miles, but for many thousands after you'd expect it to show signs of wear.

Pontiac, you see, is so balanced in design; stresses and strains so well equalized, that it gives its owners Balanced Value. Which is simply another way of saying it has no weaknesses, but stands up as a whole.

One of Pontiac's outstanding features is Fisher Controlled Ventilation. You'll never know how delightful summer motoring can be till you try it. Many say no car can be considered modern without it.

Try a demonstration. Let Pontiac itself convince you that it has no equal at or near its price—that it is the outstanding car of the year in every detail that goes to make a car modern and desirable.

Local Factory Largest of Factories — Can Produc Fisher Body Division Equ Freight Cars Handled Da

The St. Louis assembly plant of the Chevrolet Motor Co., Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue, the largest of eight assembly plants in various sections of the United States, produced 39,590 Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks in the first five months of 1933, according to a joint report on general operations of the St. Louis plant by G. B. Low, production manager of the Chevrolet plant, and J. G. Harris, manager of the Fisher Body division.

Of the first five months' output, 24,755 units, or approximately 6189 carloads, were shipped by railroad out of St. Louis. The balance, 14,835, were handled on a driveaway basis, by city and nearby dealers and by three independent driveout companies. Of those shipped by freight, 305 units were for export to Mexico. The export shipments average 60 per month.

Plant Covers 105 Acres.

While the St. Louis plant is primarily an assembly unit, as far as the chassis of the Chevrolet car is concerned, the Fisher Body division not only kiln-dries all its lumber and cuts it, but turns out the finished product.

The plant, which covers 105 acres, fronts on Union boulevard north of Natural Bridge avenue, and the one-story Fisher Body mill, which is west of the assembly plant, faces Natural Bridge road.

The plant, operating at top capacity, has a daily output of 1000 cars and trucks, of which 800 are passenger cars.

Five miles of railroad track is on the Chevrolet property. The yard has a capacity of 450 freight cars. The average amount of material received at the plant daily is between 65 and 70 carloads. The total freight car loading, both incoming and outgoing, is between 675 and 700 daily, according to the report.

The plant, which is operated approximately 11½ months a year, has one of the largest enameling ovens in any of the General Motors factories. All plant materials are handled by conveyors from stock

St. Louis Chevrolet Plant Produces 39,590 Cars, Trucks in 5 Months

Local Factory Largest of Company's Assembly Factories — Can Produce 1000 Units a Day — Fisher Body Division Equally Busy — Nearly 700 Freight Cars Handled Daily.

The St. Louis assembly plant of the Chevrolet Motor Co., Union boulevard and Natural Bridge avenue, the largest of eight assembly plants in various sections of the United States, produced 39,590 Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks in the first five months of 1933, according to a joint report on general operations of the St. Louis plant by G. B. Low, production manager of the Chevrolet plant, and J. G. Harris, manager of the Fisher Body division.

Of the first five months' output, 24,755 units, or approximately 6189 carloads, were shipped by railroad out of St. Louis. The balance, 14,835, were handled on a driveaway basis, by city and nearby dealers and by three independent driveout companies. Of those shipped by freight, 305 units were for export to Mexico. The export shipments average 60 per month.

Plant Covers 105 Acres.

While the St. Louis plant is primarily an assembly unit, as far as the chassis of the Chevrolet car is concerned, the Fisher Body division not only kiln-dries all its lumber and cuts it, but turns out the finished product.

The plant, which covers 105 acres, fronts on Union boulevard north of Natural Bridge avenue, and the one-story Fisher Body mill, which is west of the assembly plant, faces Natural Bridge road.

The plant, operating at top capacity, has a daily output of 1000 cars and trucks, of which 800 are passenger cars.

The total freight car loading, both incoming and outgoing, is between 675 and 700 daily, according to the report.

The plant, which is operated approximately 11½ months a year, has one of the largest enameling ovens in any of the General Motors factories. All plant materials are handled by conveyors from stock sources to the assembly line. The length of the assembly conveyors is 700 feet. Seventy separate inspections are given each car before it is finally released during the course of its assembly. This is followed by a five-minute road test, after which the car is ready to go.

Fisher Body Division.

All motors and other major parts of the chassis are shipped from other Chevrolet plants to St. Louis in carload lots and then assembled.

The Fisher body division, which has a daily capacity of 1000 complete bodies, works one-quarter million feet of lumber a day at capacity and uses a carload of glass for windshields and windows daily.

The Fisher division uses more than 1,200,000 yards of cloth upholstery and more than 10,000 tons of sheet metal annually. The Chevrolet assembly plant also uses approximately the same amount of sheet metal each year.

Approximately $600,000 worth of cotton bats is purchased yearly in St. Louis for the Fisher division. The upholstery is used in Chevrolet cars. The Fisher mill, in addition to its daily output for the St. Louis plant, cuts the wood parts for all coupes turned out by the other Chevrolet assembly plants.

Although figures for June are not complete, indications are that approximately 15,000 cars and trucks were built in this plant last month, and during the month, together with the first few days of July, over 1000 employes have been added to the payroll.

Production of new Chevrolet cars and trucks in June more than doubled output in the corresponding month last year, and was the largest single month's production in two years, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., said yesterday.

With a total output of 81,573 units, June compares with 36,142 in June last year and with 68,538 in May this year, previously the best month since June, 1931, Knudsen said.

Cement-Bound Paving Under Test in Illinois

Form of Macadam Road First Built in Scotland to Be Given Trial.

An experimental road, through which engineers expect to discover better ways of building low-cost, cement-bound macadam pavement, is being constructed at Elmhurst, Ill., by the Portland Cement Association.

This type of pavement was first laid in Scotland in 1872.

The association is laying 1200 feet of cement-bound macadam, as a result of interest in it following the expiration of the patent held by a road builder in New England, where the pavement was widely used.

Altogether 60 different sections of pavement will be placed, each composed of a variation in the use of sand, coarse aggregate and cement.

Cement-bound macadam is a modified concrete pavement built with simple equipment. A layer of coarse aggregate is placed on the road bed and it usually is rolled. Next a cement grout or mortar is placed over the aggregate and the saturated mass is then compacted with a roller. The pavement surface is then quickly leveled. The result is a smooth riding surface suitable for roads where traffic flows are not excessive.

Dodge Dealers and Salesmen in Get-Together Session

The Dodge Motor Corporation, for which V. C. Benedict is local zone manager, held a get-together meeting and dinner at the Bevo Mill recently for the metropolitan dealers and their salesmen.

Benedict said he planned to hold such meetings frequently throughout the year as he felt that by having the dealers together they could better discuss problems in connection with their business. After the dinner, various problems were brought up and debated.

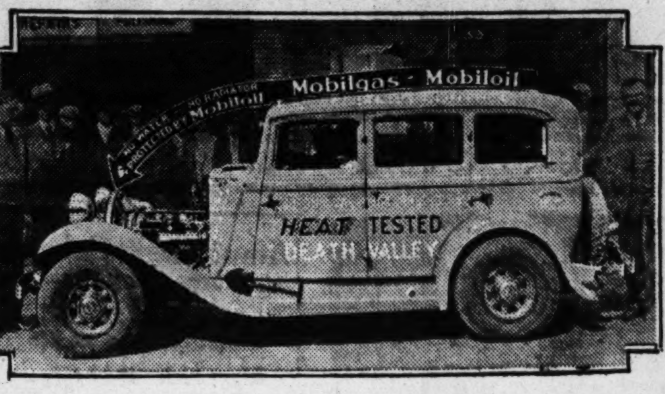
Car That Runs Without Water



Plymouth car which, without a radiator and with no water in its cooling system, was driven over several miles of St. Louis streets Wednesday. After the drive there was no evidence of injury to the car's engine.

This Plymouth is driven in this manner to demonstrate the recent advances in development of gasoline and lubricating oil. It is equipped with instruments to indicate at all times the condition of the motor and the lubricating oil and gasoline. Tests and the instruments showed, it was stated, that neither oil nor gasoline were damaged by the waterless run.

The car came to St. Louis under the auspices of the Socony-Vacuum Corporation and the Lubrite Refining Corporation. Wednesday's run, the Socony-Vacuum engineers said, was easy compared with the ordeal the Plymouth was subjected to last summer during tests in Death Valley carried on incident to the development of Mobiloil and the "climatic control" features of Mobilgas and Mobilgas Ethyl.

Death Valley was selected because it is the lowest and hottest place in the United States. The Socony-Vacuum engineers wanted to subject fuel and lubricant to conditions considerably in excess of any to be met in normal service.

With the radiator off the car, no water in the cooling system, and depending entirely upon the qualities of the gasoline and lubricant to protect the engine from the effects of the high temperatures to be developed, a series of tests was completed. The car was driven 10 hours without a motor stop. It also was driven 1000 miles in second gear.

To subject fuel and lubricant to a wide range of atmospheric conditions, it was driven from Death Valley, 300 feet below the sea level, to the highest point to be reached by motor car on the slope of Mount Whitney, highest mountain in the United States.

The engineers in charge of the tests explained that the Death Valley tests followed a long series of laboratory tests in which the ability of Mobiloil and Mobilgas to provide protection under the most severe conditions, was developed.

The waterless Plymouth was on exhibition early in the week at the Empire Motor Co., and then at the Weber Motor Co.

Site Oil Corporation Will Distribute Cooper Tires Here

Sidney Siteman, secretary of the Site Oil Corporation, announces that the firm has been appointed distributer of Cooper tires. This concern has a number of filling stations in St. Louis which are under the management of Phil Siteman, vice-president, and Sidney Siteman.

These tires will be handled at all of the firm's filling stations.

King of Iraq Buys Dual Ratio Auburn

King Feisal of Iraq has bought a straight-eight 100-horsepower Auburn custom sedan, equipped with dual ratio, according to N. E. McDarby, vice-president in charge of sales of the Auburn Automobile Co.

"As all Auburns are completely equipped and appointed, the King ordered no special features," said McDarby. "The car was taken off the regular production line, crated and shipped. It is dark blue with black trimming, and equipped with six wire wheels and white side-wall tires.

"The car was ordered through Lumsden and Greene, new distributors of Auburns at Bagdad, capital of Iraq."

J. O. Munn Named Assistant to Vesper, N. A. D. A. President

F. W. A. Vesper, president and executive head of the National Automobile Dealers' Association, announces the appointment, by action of the executive committee of the body, of John O. Munn as assistant to the president and general manager, and as secretary of the association.

Munn, whose automobile experience extends over a quarter century, has met thousands of automobile dealers all over the country through a former factory connection and a dealers' service bureau. He will devote his time to assisting President Vesper in carrying out the much enlarged program of association activities now in operation.

Munn will work from the St. Louis headquarters, and will spend much of his time in the field contacting dealers so that the national officers will at all times be conversant with local market conditions.

Elks' Goodwill Tour Made in Studebaker And Rockne Six Cars

The Elks Goodwill Tour, on its way to the Elks convention in Milwaukee from Los Angeles, Cal., was met at Des Peres, Mo., by J. G. Ashner, salesmanager for the Arthur R. Lindburg Co., distributer of Studebaker and Rockne. The cars driven by the Elks from California are Studebakers and Rocknes.

The delegation, headed by Mark Love and Ralph Jones, and also was welcomed by F. L. Bennett, secretary of local Elks lodge, No. 9. After luncheon at the Elks Club, a parade was formed, driving to the City Hall in Studebaker and Rockne cars furnished by the local distributer, and there greeted by Mayor Dickmann.

Ford Eights Make 10,000-Mile Gasoline, Oil Economy Runs

Ten thousand mile runs by Ford V-8 automobiles as tests of gasoline and oil mileage are being reported from every section of the United States, according to M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co.

"We have reports from Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska as well as from the first run in Oklahoma," says Johnson. "The run in Oklahoma showed that the new V-40 eight-cylinder Ford sedan had the economical fuel and oil operation claimed for it. There the Phillips Petroleum Co. found that it gave more than 18 miles to the gallon of gasoline for 10,000 miles and that oil needed to be changed only every 1000 miles without any being added between changes.

"Now comes a report from Omaha, where a 10,000-mile run was staged by the manufacturers of DX lubricating motor fuel and Veedol motor oil. A total of 535 gallons of gasoline was used, an average of 18.22 miles per gallon. The oil was changed at distances varying from 750 to 1000 miles without any being added between changes.

"Both of these drives were continuous, being made day and night. A similar run was staged from Des Moines through Iowa, and one is now being made from Minneapolis and St. Paul through Minnesota. Chicago is to have one also through Northern Illinois and Wisconsin."

Ford Car Financing Concern Offering Salesmen's Prizes

The Universal Credit Co., the authorized finance concern for Ford dealers, announces that all Ford salesmen may compete for special prizes in every section of the country, according to J. F. Krebs, St. Louis manager.

This supplements a similar program of the Ford Motor Co. whereby salesmen who qualify for membership in the National Ford Producers' Club are given added compensation by the Ford Motor Co. for each car or truck sold.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

DRAMA-MUSIC-MOVIES

ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 9, 1933.

"Student Prince" Returns

Romberg's Operetta, Long a Favorite With Forest Park Audiences, to Be Seen, for the Fourth Time, On the Municipal Opera Stage Tomorrow Night—Ilse Marvenga, Once the "German Mary Pickford," Who Created Role of Kathie in Musical Version Of Mansfield Drama, to Head Present Cast.

WITH Ilse Marvenga heading the Municipal Opera tomorrow night will present, for the fourth time on the stage of the theater in Forest Park, "The Student Prince." Miss Marvenga has played the role of Kathie more than 3000 times, including the original presentation of the operetta in New York and in London and George Hassell will have his original role of Lutz, which he created in the New York production and also presented by him when the "Student Prince" was given its first English performances.

The title role will be sung by Allan Jones, who sang it last year and Clifford Newdahl will make his first appearance of the season as Dr. Engel. Nancy McCord will have the role of Princess Margaret, John Barclay is cast as the Prime Minister von Mark, and Hannah Toback will appear in the sprightly role of Gretchen. To the comedy George Hassell, in the role of Lutz; Jack Sheehan will provide an accompaniment of Hubert, the valet of the valet, while Hope Emerson, ample alike in person and humor, appears as the Grand Duchess Anatasia, returning to Forest Park to make her first appearance of this season in that role.

NOW "The Student Prince" is closely associated with Municipal Opera history. Produced first, indoors, in 1924 in New York and seen the following year at the Shubert Theater here, it was sung in the park in 1928 and so great was its success on the big stage that it was repeated in '29 and '30. The coming week is to see its fourth presentation by the Municipal organization. In the 1928 performances it had Sam Ash in the role of Prince Karl Franz, Alice MacKenzie as the Kathie, and Florence Ames the Lutz. It then established an attendance record for the Forest Park productions. The second year had the same Kathie and the same Lutz, but Roy Cropper sung the role of the Prince. Again in 1930 it was presented with Leonard Ceeley, who had made a name for himself in one of the many "Student Prince" companies as Prince Karl Franz, Maria Linda as Kathie and Hal Ford as Lutz. Jack Sheehan in the role of Hubert, which he played for the first time in that production and in which he will appear again during the coming week.

The story of "Student Prince," as doubtless every theater goer knows by this time, is the romance of conflict between love and a dynasty. Originally it was a German drama, "Alt Heidelberg," by Meyer-Forster but within six months after its initial presentation in Berlin it had been adapted to the stages of New York, London, Paris and Buenos Aires. America saw it first under the title of "Old Heidelberg," with which Richard Mansfield opened the Lyric Theater in New York on Oct. 12, 1903.

DOROTHY DONNELLY, herself famous as a dramatist, from that splendid, if melodramatic, international success "Madame X," was chosen to adapt "Old Heidelberg" into operetta form. Her task was to provide lyric occasions—the opportunity for songs and choruses for ensemble numbers—which would enhance rather than detract from the play's compelling romance. This she did most admirably and Sigmund Romberg rose to the occasion she provided by writing to the score of "The Student Prince" some of the greatest melodies his genius has poured forth.

Romberg has a peculiar facility and a brilliant felicity in writing for male choruses. Each of his great successes following "The Student Prince," "The New Moon," "The Desert Song," both Municipal Opera favorites, and "Nina Rosa" and "My Maryland," which are in this summer's Municipal Opera repertory, have had as rousing features choruses of men. Before the advent of the Romberg operetta male choruses were an evil to be suffered rather than to be encouraged. A few tenors yowled top-tones and a handful of basses did their utmost to achieve profundity as they bellowed drinking songs, but "The Student Prince" ushered in a new fashion.

Much of this change is doubtless due to Oscar Bradley, this season's musical director for the Municipal Opera, who not only prepared the chorus and coached the principals for the original New York and London productions of "The Student Prince," but has supervised the musical training of not less than 50 other companies. Incidentally Edward Scanlon, Municipal Opera's associate stage director, assisted in the original New York production and had full charge as director in the original London production a year later.

BRADLEY, trained in the English tradition of choral part singing, a graduate of the Royal Academy of Music in London, a musician to his fingertips, undertook his task in the spirit of the English tradition rather than in that of the continental opera and operetta in which chorus singing was a minor and often a slurred-over factor. New York ears were astonished at the virile, colorful singing of the student chorus. The group of boys were singing with spirit, but that wasn't all—they were actually singing parts and their voices move in and out in a wonderful tapestry of song, as they presented Romberg's melodies.

And Watson Barratt, art director for the Municipal Theater Association, designed the original productions for New York and London, and, in staging the opera here, is said to have made the most of the great opportunity for spectacular beauty provided by the huge stage and the al fresco character of the Municipal Theater.

Ilse Marvenga, who will be the Kathie in tomorrow night's cast, was known back in 1920 as the "German Mary Pickford." She was the daughter of a family of merchant princes at Bremen, whose real name was Marling, and who as "Ilse Marvenga" had chosen a career of song and was a valued member in soubrette roles of the Bremen Opera Company. Her repertory included roles in such widely divergent musical offerings as Mozart's "Magic Flute," Auber's "Fra Diavolo," Eugene D'Albert's "Tiefland," Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" and Weber's "Freischutz" as well as the Lortzing and Strauss operettas. After 3000 performances of the role of Kathie in this country Miss Marvenga refused to play it again. That was four years ago. Only the opportunity of appearing before Municipal Opera audiences this summer induced her to change her mind.

THE WEEK'S NEW FILMS

By Nie

EVERY once in a while Europe sends a fine film over to this country, and while "Be Mine Tonight," at the Grand Central, is not a great picture—not a "Maedchen in Uniform," for instance—it is a lovely little musical comedy for the discriminating, if any, cinema customers. Made originally by the UFA company of Berlin, and entirely in German, it was such a success that the French Gaumont concern made a Parisian version, but made it in Germany. Then the British Gaumont outfit turned it into English, sticking, however, to the Berlin studio and Switzerland for the outdoor scenes. This is the picture which is being shown here this week, and a lot of nationalities are tangled up in the production. Anatole Litwak, who directed all of the different companies, is a Russian movie man, and a most artistic one. Kiepura, the leading man, a tenor with a golden voice, is a Pole, and Magda Schneider, the woman in the case, is the prettiest little German actress the screens have ever seen. Both of them are certainly headed for Hollywood and big money, although little Miss Schneider does not speak any English, and had to learn her part in this film word by word. The rest of the company is English. The story concerns a grand opera singer who tires of his concerts and runs away to Switzerland for a vacation. There he meets, loves and wins Magda Schneider—sings his way into her heart—after he has to convince the police that he is not an imposter. There is an English racketeer mixed up in the affair, a swindler, who impersonates the tenor, and Sonnie Hale, a comedian from the London stage, makes the most of this part. "Be Mine Tonight" has been beautifully made and Kiepura's voice is a real treat to all music lovers, just as it was when, once upon a time, he sang with the Chicago Civic Opera company.

Come Back to Erin.

IT has been a good many years since Laurette Taylor skyrocketed to stage fame in J. Hartley Manners' play, "Peg O' My Heart." It has been a long time, too, since it was made into a silent movie; but now, down at Loew's, Marion Davies has dusted the story off once more to make it her best screen offering. Not at all outdated at this late day—automobiles and radios and things like that have been injected, by the way,—the heart-interest drama of an Irish girl who inherits two million pounds and goes to live, more or less on probation, in England, is as charming and delightful and clean as it was when Miss Taylor played it. Tears and laughter are well mingled in the story and Miss Davies has the help, the very great help, of Michael, a dog who knows what acting is all about.

Lifting the Old Mortgage.

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS JR., Guy Kibbee and Loretta Young head a fine cast in another good picture of the week, "The Life of Jimmy Dolan," at the Missouri. This one is all about a young prizefighter who is accused of murder and runs away to hide on a children's health farm conducted by Loretta and Aline McMahon. Most anyone would fall in love with Loretta, and Doug does. He has to go back to the prize ring once, just long enough to make $2000 to pay off the mortgage on the farm, but after that, he prepares to settle down with Miss Young, milk the cows and train the youngsters to become strong men and women. It is a good picture with plenty of excitement, and Guy Kibbee is excellent as an old detective who turns soft and refuses to drag Jimmy Dolan off to the booby hatch. The Missouri has a No. 2 film called "Professional Sweethearts" which is something about the inside goings-on around radio studios.

College Days — and Nights.

PROBABLY the most entertaining film of the week for the regulation movie fans is "College Humor" at the Ambassador, for it requires no thinking on the part of the audiences and never gets away from the cinema idea of what a big school is like. This time the school is dear old Mid West, a co-ed institution, which has its evening parties, its glee clubs, practically no class work, and a football team. Running right to schedule, Jack Oakie wins the big game in the last second of play and everything ends cheerfully, to music. Dick Arlen, Oakie, Mary Carlisle and Eddie Nugent make up the cast of regular movie players and then Bing Crosby, Burns and Allen and some other radio personalities are called in to add mirth and song to the affair, which is a peppy and pleasing tale.

Buddy's Back.

BUDDY ROGERS, who retired to uplift the stage band outfits, is on the screen again after a long lay-off. Fox has his first come-back film, a little thing called "Best of Enemies." This is a sort of "Abie's Irish Rose" affair with two families clashing, not over racial differences, but over prohibition. Buddy is the son of a rabid reformer and Marian Nixon the daughter of a saloonkeeper. You probably never would guess that they get married in reel eight. The story is pretty thin and while Rogers does the best he can with it, most of the honors go to Frank Morgan, as the reformer, and Joe Cawthorn, who is driven back to Germany by the eighteenth amendment. The Fox has the only stage show of the week and the vaudeville end of the bill is headed by Donald Novis, a radio tenor who can really sing.

Jackie Cooper in Beery Film Again

Jackie Cooper, the child actor, who was teamed with Wallace Beery in "The Champ," will again appear with Beery in "The Bowery." Jackie will play "Swipes," the newsboy pal of Beery, who will fill the role of Chuck Connors, the "Mayor" of Chinatown.

George Raft will have the role of Steve Brodie, instead of Clark Gable who is too ill to work. Filming of this story of colorful early Manhattan history began yesterday.

Laughton and Marshall Return.

Charles Laughton, who has been spending the spring doing stage and screen work in London, arrived in New York last Sunday, en route to Hollywood to begin his role opposite Dorothea Wieck in her first production, "White Woman." Herbert Marshall, who has just finished an engagement on the London stage, departed from England for the United States last week. He also will be featured in Miss Wieck's picture.

Amusement Calendar

GRAND CENTRAL—"Be Mine Tonight," a European-made musical comedy film in English.

Concert Course as Early Attraction At New Auditorium

The opening of the new Civic Auditorium next winter will bring to St. Louis a new course of concert attractions to be presented by Oscar Condon, long a figure in St. Louis musical life, and in concert management.

John Charles Thomas is to open the course, though the date has not yet been set. He will be followed by Walter Gieseking, German master of the piano.

Mischa Elman is under engagement for the Condon course, and Rosa Ponselle, prima donna soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, will round out the group of four solo recitalists who are to be presented, while a joint recital of Doris Kenyon, diseuse, and Alfredo Salzedo, harpist, completes the offerings for the season.

Oscar Condon was for three years manager of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, prior to the World War, and later was in charge of an artist bureau in New York. He has acted as Western representative for New York concert managers in several seasons past.

Dramatic Clubs to Unite in Production

Dramatic clubs of Washington University, John Burroughs School, Webster High, Mary Institute and the Country Day School are those represented in the Burroughs Open Air Players who are to produce George Kaufman's and Marc Connelly's comedy, "To the Ladies!" at the John Burroughs Amphitheater, Price road and Clayton car tracks, Wednesday and Thursday evenings.

This production will be the first of a summer series of three plays by this group. Mary Jane Roach, of the Washington University English department, is the director.

'Cradle Song' Next Vehicle for Wieck

"Cradle Song," the Gregorio Martinez-Sierra play of Old Spain, will serve as the second American starring vehicle for Dorothea Wieck, of "Maedchen in Uniform" fame who is now in Hollywood preparing her first American picture, "White Woman," in which she will be supported by Herbert Marshall, Charles Laughton and Walter Abel.

"Frivolities" at Highlands.

"Highlands Frivolities," a mixture of comedy, songs and popular melodies, in which members of Harry Lange's Musical Merrymakers travesty various types seen at the park, will feature the free entertainment bill at Forest Park Highlands, this week. The musicians will conclude the 45-minute offering with a burlesque bathing beauty contest. The other presentation will be a song and dance revue produced by Constance Blank.

Swimming to Cinema Fame

Johnny Weissmuller, a Timid, Sickly Lad, Took To the Water to "Build Himself Up," and Then Took to the Films Because He Was Pushed Into 'Em—Now as the White-Haired Boy of Hollywood, He Is Playing Tarzan Again.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

WE saw, in the news columns of the Post-Dispatch the other day, a picture of Johnny Weissmuller and Whoopee Lupe Vele watching a polo game out in Hollywood. Although the photograph didn't show it there were probably three or four hundred other movie actresses biting their finger nails and turning more or le green with envy in the background.

For Johnny Weissmuller is the white haired boy of the cinema colony right now. When he walks up and down Malibu Beach in a bathing suit the lady stars and the extra girls trail along behind him and the femmes of Sunset Boulevard battle for his autograph. And this is the boy who, not so many years ago, was a sick youth who was advised by a Chicago doctor to take up swimming to "build him up."

Holder of records in almost every swimming event, proclaimed the possessor of perhaps the finest physique of any man alive, and famous as the "Tarzan" of the screen, the Johnny Weissmuller of today is a far different person from the timid lad, of Austrian descent, who took that first faltering step into a swimming-pool.

Johnny's story is one of grit and stick-to-it-iveness. His first swimming was a task that required every ounce of his energy. He battled sickness and fatigue to keep at it, resolved to be well.

And the task not only made him well, but paved the way to world fame for him.

THE acquatic champion and film celebrity was born in Chicago, the son of a former Austrian army captain, who came to America to practice engineering. Doubtless the rigorous training of the Austrian army, veritably a part of his father's very being, was in some degree inherited by the boy. It probably was the trait that kept him carrying on following the doctor's early tip.

Johnny attended the Chicago public schools, and the University of Chicago. He had been swimming for some time when it was noticed that he had an amazing speed in a certain odd stroke he used. High School athletics drafted him, naturally, and William Bachrach, coach of the Illinois Athletic Club, became interested.

Up to that time Johnny had been an "instinctive" swimmer. Bachrach analyzed his swimming stroke, directed it so that every movement gained the maximum of efficiency in the water and taught the boy how to conserve every ounce of his natural ability.

Then, in college, Johnny swam in more events. His first national record was the winning of the Amateur Athletic Union championship at the Great Lakes Naval Training station.

During his amateur reign he won 39 championship medals, w the American hero of the Olympic Games in Paris in 1924, and A sterdam in 1928. Altogether he captured 75 world speed records.

His introduction to the screen came in an odd way.

METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER was looking for an actor to play "Tarzan" in "Tarzan the Ape Man," and at the same time Weissmuller was filmed in a Grantland Rice sports subject, demonstrating swimming. A Metro executive saw the reel.

"I think that's the man we want," said the executive.

"But can he act?" asked another.

The first executive had a simple way of settling that. "We'll bring him out, make a test of him, and see."

Johnny arrived at the studio, bewildered by the great plant, and with a mind pretty well made up that he wouldn't do.

W. S. Van Dyke, director of the picture, had a sure-fire way of curing that complex.

"You'll act, you big stiff, or I'll kick a lung out of you!" boasted Van Dyke. "After all, all you have to do is be yourself. You're Tarzan to the life as it is."

Johnny brightened up. He went into tests with several actresses, finally with Maureen O'Sullivan, who eventually won the role of the heroine.

One of his proudest moments was when he mastered the queer cry he uttered in "Tarzan." He loves to bellow it about the studio and used to dare Lawrence Tibbett to try and do it. He and Tibbett, incidentally, are great friends and used to ride together. Buster Keaton is another of his cronies.

He is boyishly enthusiastic over golf, and traded swimming lessons for golf lessons with well known expert.

SO symmetrical is his body that one hardly realizes the full size of the man. He stands six feet three inches—a mass of nail-hard bone and muscle. There isn't the fraction of an ounce of fat on him.

He isn't quite used to his own success on the screen. After "Tarzan" he began looking for some other work—he didn't think they'd have him on the screen again. When he was told of the sequel, "Tarzan and His Mate," soon to be made, he was almost incredulous. He can't see why people want to see him in films.

Johnny is a man in years. But at heart he's still a boy.

Showmanship

THE radio is not really within our field. Except for one or two occasions when we have helped the theater game along by asking some actor or actress a lot of foolish questions, prepared in advance, over the air, we have played but a small part in that form of amusement. But it would seem even to our untrained mind that the Police Department is not taking full advantage of the entertainment possibilities of its local station. Listening in on a short wave set to the police calls the other night we heard something like this:

> "Scout car 3, district 10, go to Vandeventer and Delmar. There is a burglar in the grocery store there."

That was all. We waited a long time to hear Scout Car 3 report back that the burglar had been captured but Scout Car 3 was strangely lacking in showmanship. Officer 666 should have carried the program out to the end and wound up by saying that the burglar would now say a few words to the radio audience. Something like "Hello, Mamma. Tell the kiddies not to wait up for me, I'll be late to dinner," or, if a strictly moral tone is demanded by the Police Department he might have begun his talk with "Crime doesn't pay."

The public wants entertainment these days, especially free entertainment, and the city is overlooking a good spot to hand it out.

THE TOUCANS IN A NEW SETTING

at the St. Louis Zoo

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

THE Macaw family and all their parrot kin have moved out of their old home, the big parrot cage in the Zoo's bird house, and another substantial old South American family, the Toucans, have moved in to the accompaniment of a good deal of whispering and craning of necks among the neighbors. Frank Nuderscher, well-known St. Louis artist, has just completed an extensive job of redecorating for them, and the general understanding is that they have come to stay permanently, or at least for such time as they can keep peace in the household. The Macaws, it is understood, are temporarily in retirement, the moulting season having left them with very little, if anything, to wear. But they will be at home to visitors before long in a brand-new home upon which construction work is soon to begin.

This change from Macaws to Toucans, it may be said, is viewed with some apprehension in the old neighborhood. It is true that they are much less talkative than the Macaws and much less less likely to call names and create disturbances at night. But, nevertheless, the newcomers bring with them a reputation that they will have to live down, and it may take time.

For it happens that Toucans are notoriously given to bickering among themselves, and when Toucans bicker it sounds a good deal like a dog fight.

It's an entirely new idea, this plan of putting a whole Toucan family of some 12 members in one cage. Ornithologist Henry M. Kennon says there isn't another zoo in the country where more than one can be found in a single cage. They are easily tamed and seem to thrive in captivity, but there is something about the Toucan temperament that makes for brawling when two or more get together in close quarters.

Three or four—to say nothing of 12—all yapping at once would disorganize the bird house's entire population, so a careful watch is being kept on the new tenants. So far, the zoo authorities are happy to relate, there has not been a single major disagreement. This is attributed to the unusually large size of the cage. A Toucan simply must have room to flap his wings. Next to fish and cherries, wing room is the most important thing in his life. In the old parrot cage he has plenty of it and has, besides, a very fine Panama mountain view to give him the impression of freedom and open spaces.

There are five distinct species of Toucans represented among the 12 individuals in the Zoo's collection. Four of these are shown in natural color in the painting by Nuderscher reproduced on this page. The king of the outfit is the toco, distinguished by a yellowish red beak with a black tip. This specimen is shown sitting beside the stump. The one on the left above is the mahogany bill, and opposite is the ariel Toucan, distinguished by a yellow shirt front and a black beak. At the right, below, is the monolis with a beak of purple. As to size and ungainliness of beak, there is little choice. With the exception of the hornbills and the shoe-bill stork, no other birds in the Zoo can compare with them in this respect. Their beaks are longer than their tails and it is said that when seen on the wing at a distance they appear for this reason to be flying backwards.

With all their size, Toucan beaks are extremely light and anything but ungainly when they are in action. A Toucan can reach out and pick a cherry out of the air with the dexterity of a major league outfielder. Nevertheless, a beak of such size creates something of a problem for a comparatively small bird when roosting time comes. The Toucan solves this in a very ingenious manner. He turns his head and rests it on his back, raising his wings slightly to make a trough for it to lie in. He then folds his tail forward over all, using it as a blanket.

The crater of Mount Mihara, as seen from an airplane.

The Growing Number of Youths and Maidens Who Have Surrendered to the Sinister Lure of Mount Mihara Has Become a Matter of National Concern.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

TOKIO.

TROUBLES other than its conflict with China now beset Japan.

From His Imperial Majesty Hirohito down to the humblest coolie of the rice fields of Akashi, the Nipponese are in the throes of a moral frenzy, as the result of the weird belief that Mount Mihara is tenanted by a destructive demon, ever beckoning men and women, young and old, to a cruel and ghastly death.

Within recent months, Mount Mihara has become the most sinister, the most notorious of Japan's innumerable volcanoes.

As if impelled by some irresistible force, the sons and daughters of Dai Nippon are constantly arriving at the edge of its huge crater to fling themselves into the sulphurous smoke that forever hides its dizzy depths from human view.

Its baneful attraction is now the all-absorbing topic of discussion throughout the scattered island empire of the Mikado. So overwhelming has become Mihara's lure of death that the Japanese are now beginning to ask themselves the question: Can the spirits of evil take a local earthly habitation?

Strong, indeed, was the belief of the ancients of Japan, especially the missionary workers of Buddha, that at stated intervals the twin deities of death and disaster left their supernatural dwelling for an earthly abode. During the visit of these gods of destruction, both armed, one with a sword of a thousand blades and the other with a torch of a thousand flames, they were wont to stage demoniac revels, causing "strange furies to take hold of mortal men."

Now a considerable number of modern Japanese, some of them intelligent and well educated, are seriously wondering if these gods of evil are not again at work spreading madness among the subjects of the Mikado!

HARDLY a day passes but the newspapers of Tokio, Osaka and Nagasaki record at least two suicides at Mount Mihara. Within the last three months that black gulf has swallowed up 117 men and women, and would have taken 300 more had they not been dragged back from the plunge by force.

Mass-hysteria, religious emotionalism, some ghastly and inexplicable hypnosis, vertigo, effect of the volcanic vapours, an insane craving for publicity—what?

Many, not alone Japanese, are seeking the answer to this question—trying to unriddle the lure of Mount Mihara—and that explains why newspaper correspondents from all over the Orient are now flocking to Tokio.

A daring exploration of the crater was made just a few weeks ago. Accompanied by a photographer, Tokuzo Iwata was lowered 1250 feet into the smoky abyss. While making his observations he discovered the bones of a suicide.

The following account of a pilgrimage to Mihara was gathered from a group of correspondents who recently made the trip:

Mihara juts its head in lordly fashion from a charming little island, just a few hours by steamer down Tokio Bay. The vast majority booking passage are one-way pilgrims, only foreigners or newspaper men as a rule requesting round-trip tickets. The demand for a return coupon evokes a sharp scrutiny from the booking clerk, who seemingly cannot understand why anyone should wish to visit Mihara except to commit suicide.

The craft plying between Tokio and Mount Mihara are usually crowded, and the quay, long before sailing time, is jammed with hundreds of Japanese, all, apparently, in a holiday mood. The week-end journeyings to the sinister crater have the mirthful glamour of Sunday boat excursions in the United States.

DAINTY Japanese shop girls in their brightest Sunday kimonos; charming and intriguing geishas from the Yoshiwaras of Tokio, Kobe, and other cities; bespectacled students in peaked caps; old women who look far too feeble to climb mountains; fathers and mothers with families of chubby children; parties of young men mildly boisterous after three or four egg-cupfuls of sake—rice wine—and all scrutinizing one another as potential suicides.

On the after deck, unprotected from the sun's broiling rays, a group of jokos, the factory lasses of Japan, some mere children of 14, is often found. In their cheap black cotton uniforms of blouse and skirt, dirty white apron, wrinkled black stockings, and clumsy black shoes, they are dingy figures as compared with their gay kimono-clad sisters, the Yujos of the Yoshiwaras—as dingy as the life they lead, and as dingy as modern industrialized Japan must appear to them against the countryside from which they have come.

The jokos never buy return tickets from Mount Mihara.

The boat reaches the island about 3 o'clock in the morning, and in the wan, ashen light which comes before dawn the passengers are put ashore. In open boats, loaded to perilous limits, the crowd is rowed to a bit of sandy beach between the rocks, for the tiny fishing port has no pier.

Tokuzo Iwata—wearing the gas mask—the Japanese who descended 1250 feet into the crater of Mount Mihara in a gondola which is shown in the photograph.

Inky blue is the sea, a half-mourning lavender is the color of the sky, a combination serving to throw the black shape of the flat-topped volcano into bold and ominous relief.

Japanese paper lanterns are dancing on the shore. The little maidservants of the village inns are clattering down on their wooden pattens to guide the invading host to breakfast.

A queer lot the Nipponese, for they reason that if one means to take a headlong dive into the crater of death one needs sustenance, for the climb to the top of the cruel Mihara is a three-hour job. It is more than likely that many wavering candidates for suicide have had their deadly resolution strengthened by the Japanese breakfast of raw fish, pickles and green tea.

Entrancing in its natural beauty is this island of death. Deep green lanes like those of Massachusetts' famous North Shore lead to the foot of Mihara's slopes. Then for over an hour one climbs through a forest of azalea and camellia bushes, riotously bright in their wild coloring.

Up the steep, rough track, in single file, clambers an unbroken procession of Japanese. Many are panting and gasping for breath, but they keep moving upward. Every now and then one drops by the wayside for a breathing spell. Again, there are those whose wayside rests are permanent — they simply succumb to heart exhaustion.

A mingled sense of surprise and disappointment seizes the pilgrim as he reaches the top, for there is no crater in sight, but one of the oddest views imaginable.

Towards the sea, the green slopes up which the pilgrims have come fall away to the rock coast, off which the ships lie like toy yachts in a pond. In the opposite direction stretches a huge concave tableland of volcanic dust, as bare of any vegetation as the cinders of a cold hearth. It is evidently an extinct crater, and when it was active Mihara must have been one of the world's mightiest volcanoes.

Across this sterile waste, a mile distant, arises steeply a jagged cone seven or eight hundred feet high. From beyond its summit white smoke issues forth in a dense, sluggish cloud.

It is now that one has to decide as to the means of transport to the crater—camels or ponies. The camels are hairy Mongolian beasts with wicker armchairs slung on either side of their backs, a safe and sure, but not speedy, way of making the ascent. The sturdy ponies provide a much quicker means of going skyward, as they scramble up the rocky slopes of the central cone with all the agility of mountain goats.

But the journey's end, even with camel or pony, is not yet in sight. There is still more climbing before the crater's edge is reached. Ahead, about a half-mile distant, lie ridges and ridges of sharp-edged lava rocks, piled in the confusion in which some primitive eruption had deposited them to cool. Across this black Gehenna, like a column of ants, a procession of men and women is creeping painfully up and down.

At least one begins to sight the end of the heart-breaking and nerve-racking and muscle-tiring pilgrimage. Beyond the lava bed the ground abruptly stops, and all further view is hidden by dense volumes of slowly swirling smoke.

One is on the very edge of the famous "suicide plunge" of Japan.

On firm ground one now advances to the very brink of the awesome spot, to discover that the crater falls in a sheer precipice. There is little to see but smoke, blinding, choking smoke. From time to time gusty breezes blow one side clear, revealing the frightful plunge taken by the suicide victims. The huge hole is easily a half-mile in width.

Moving about among the awed tourists and prospective suicides is a worn and weather-beaten old man, the guardian of the crater. Leaning on a staff, like a primitive shepherd, he keeps a watch on visitors, and tries, though not very successfully, to prevent suicidal leaps into the smoky pit. His job does not allow him much time to talk or recount his experiences.

"Do they scream when they go over?" he was asked by a visiting news scribe, through an interpreter.

"They never scream," he snapped.

"How far is the bottom?"

"IN THE 30 years I have been here, I have not seen it. The smoke, you notice, always obstructs the view."

"Do you—"

In an instant, with an energy belying his years, the old man tore himself away from his questioner to halt a Japanese youth, apparently a student, who was slowly advancing towards the edge of the crater. With a threatening gesture of his staff, the guardian of Mihara blocked the way of the youth, meantime berating him angrily.

The would-be suicide was pale and wan, and apparently ill from hunger. His long black hair fell messily over his eyes. He was coatless, and his shirt collar was unbuttoned. He appeared as a man in a drunken stupor.

Sullenly, with downcast head, the youth stood his ground. Then the boy began to argue with the aged guardian that his life was his to do with as he pleased. Finally, the lad slouched reluctantly away.

What the Microscope Detective Has Done Toward Crime Solution in America

Exhibit by the American Medical Association Sums Up the Results of the Medical Examiner System.

"Starr Faithfull couldn't have jumped into the ocean," declares Dr. Gettler. "She must have been thrown in."

By GUY FORSHEY

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

MILWAUKEE, Wisconsin.

A NEW type of detective, the medical detective, who works with microscope and test tube in a scientific laboratory, has made his appearance in this country and has something to show for the comparatively short period during which he has been at work.

At the recent convention of the American Medical Association here he brought out his record and put his samples on display. The result was an exhibit which disclosed in graphic manner the part that modern medical science is able to play in crime detection. It was a grewsome display—in some respects a veritable chamber of horrors—but it did call attention to a few facts which American cities, unlike those of Continental Europe, have been slow to recognize, namely, that the old Coroner system, relic of the time of Alfred the Great, has long outlived its usefulness and ought to be discarded; that evidence developed in a superficial autopsy and inquest is likely to be inconclusive and misleading, and that a trained scientist, by efficient use of his laboratory equipment, may often accomplish more toward solution of a mysterious crime than an entire metropolitan police force employing the usual detective methods.

This exhibit, which proved to be easily the most popular one among the hundreds that filled two floors of the Auditorium, was prepared by the Medical Examiners' offices of New York City and Newark, New Jersey, its various items having been assembled over a period of several years from homicide and suicide cases actually investigated by these offices. Such celebrated cases as that of Starr Faithfull, who was mysteriously drowned off the coast of Long Island two years ago, and the Snyder-Gray murder case are represented among its ghastly relics, as are the Baker poisoning case, the case of the "blue man of the circus," and others less familiar but quite as significant for the light they shed on the main point, which is that surface evidence of murder or suicide is often contradicted and unmasked as false by the facts which the microscope and chemical analysis reveal.

AN EXCELLENT case in point is that of Starr Faithfull. One morning in the summer of 1931 this young woman's body was found on a Long Island beach, where it had been washed up by the surf. It was established that she had died of drowning. Letters were found indicating she intended to end her life over disappointment in a love affair, and endeavors to trace her movements on the day of her disappearance led to a steamship pier in New York harbor, where, it was testified, she was last seen alive. On the strength of this evidence, the case seemed to be an open-and-shut case of suicide. But was it suicide?

Here the New York Medical Examiner's office stepped into the investigation and the examiner's findings disclosed a clear-cut case of murder. Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, professor of toxicology in New York University Medical College and member of the New York City Medical Examiner's staff, examined the body. From the dead girl's brain and liver he extracted 12 1-2 grains of luminal, a powerful sleeping drug, many times the number of grains necessary to produce sleep. It was obvious, therefore, that Starr Faithfull must have been in a deep sleep at the time of her death.

"She couldn't have jumped into the ocean," declares Dr. Gettler. "She must have been thrown in."

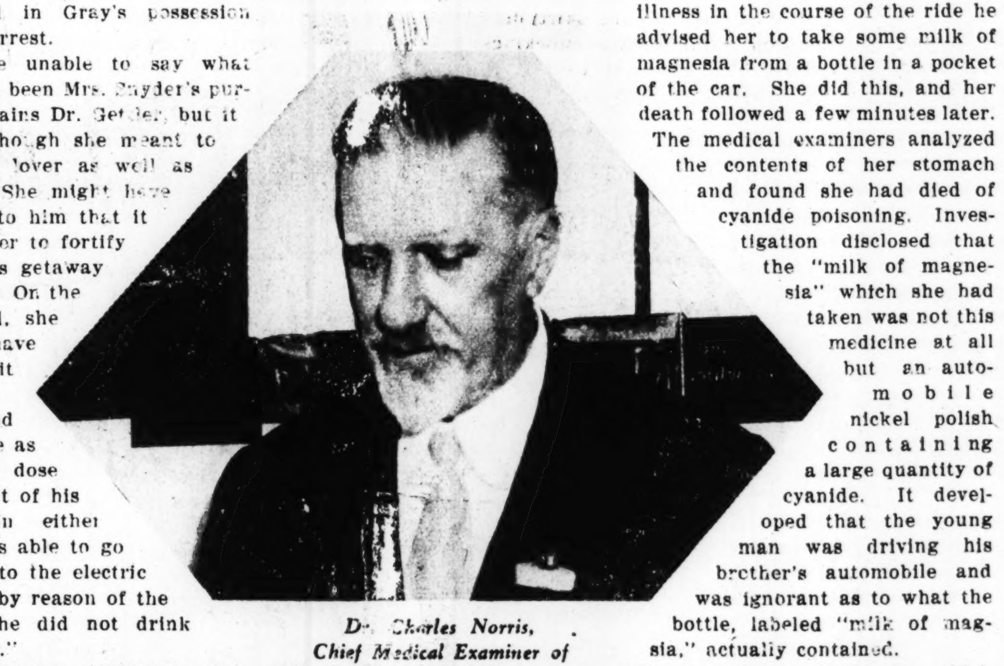
As it turned out, the slayer or slayers of Starr Faithfull never were apprehended, but that was not the fault of the medical examiner system. The significant fact is that the girl's death was detected as a murder. The two vials of luminal, exhibited in a glass case in the section devoted to "poisons extracted from human bodies," are scarcely spectacular as an exhibit, but in the light of their history become one of the more interesting and significant items in the display.

Most newspaper readers recall vividly the famous "sash-weight" murder of Albert Snyder, art editor of Motor Boating Magazine, in the spring of 1927, a crime for which his wife, Mrs. Ruth Snyder, and her admirer, Judd Gray, a corset salesman, were electrocuted at Sing Sing Prison some months later. In this case the slayers were quickly arrested and confessed the principal facts as to the method they employed in dispatching the heavily insured husband and attempting to disguise the crime as the work of a robber. Here are a few facts, however, which the medical examiners determined from study of the body—facts which, in the absence of a confession, might have shed a rather startling light on a murder ostensibly committed by robbers.

From the dead man's brain they extracted a quantity of alcohol showing that he must have been intoxicated. From his brain also they obtained enough chloroform to have caused his death without the aid of a sash weight. It had been administered after he was drunk but before he was clubbed with the iron bar. The wire wound around his neck, they were able to determine, had been placed there after and not before his death. All these findings were verified by the woman's confession. In this Snyder-Gray exhibit, too, appeared another significant item, shown for the first time. It is a small vial containing part of the "whisky" which Mrs. Snyder thrust into Gray's hands on his departure for Syracuse after the murder. Chemical analysis revealed that it contained enough bichloride of mercury to kill half a dozen people. The bottle was found in Gray's possession upon his arrest.

"We are unable to say what might have been Mrs. Snyder's purpose," explains Dr. Gettler, but it looks as though she meant to get rid of lover as well as husband. She might have pretended to him that it was a bracer to fortify him for his getaway to Syracuse. On the other hand, she might have told him it was poisoned and was for use as a suicidal dose in the event of his capture. In either case he was able to go eventually to the electric chair only by reason of the fact that he did not drink that liquor."

Another of the exhibits on the poison wall pertains to a case which, Dr. Gettler believes, the majority of Coroners would have signed out as death from acute indigestion without further investigation. It was the case of Rose Coop, who became violently ill one evening while riding with a young man acquaintance and died before a hospital could be reached. It was known that she had been suffering from indigestion and the young man related that when she complained of illness in the course of the ride he advised her to take some milk of magnesia from a bottle in a pocket of the car. She did this, and her death followed a few minutes later. The medical examiners analyzed the contents of her stomach and found she had died of cyanide poisoning. Investigation disclosed that the "milk of magnesia" which she had taken was not this medicine at all but an automobile nickel polish containing a large quantity of cyanide. It developed that the young man was driving his brother's automobile and was ignorant as to what the bottle, labeled "milk of magnesia," actually contained.



Dr. Charles Norris, Chief Medical Examiner of New York City.

The overdose of heroin which caused the death of Jeanne Eagles, well-known actress, and which the medical examiners later extracted from her brain, is an item on the "poison wall," along with the many and various compounds of silver found in the organs of the blue man of the circus.

This man, a freak exhibited for many years in one of the sideshows of the Barnum & Bailey Circus, attributed his blue color to a rare disease which "nobody understands."

"We had suspected for a long time that he was taking silver," Dr. Gettler relates, "but he vehemently denied it. When he finally died at the age of 70 we made an examination of his body. I found silver in one form or another in all his organs, a total of 103 grains of it. From the contents of his liver I made a pure silver pellet as large as a buckshot. You see it there in that vial beside his gallstones. Incidentally, his gallstones were about the only part of him that seemed to be entirely free from silver.

In one exhibition case are two pancakes, dried and shriveled. Cakes from the same batch caused the death of a man, the legend informs the spectator. It was another husband-murder case, in which the wife did the murdering, and did it by means of fluoride compounded in her spouse's breakfast cakes. The death passed as one from natural causes until the medical examiner looked into the case and found in the man's body enough fluoride to etch out a circular piece of glass two inches in diameter. The piece of glass is in the case along with another larger one, etched by the fluoride contained in some of the uneaten cakes.

THERE are numerous other poison exhibits to be seen, each small vial telling its own grim story of some violent death, but it is the photographic section of the display that constitutes the real chamber of horrors. These photographs are mostly of mutilated bodies, assault victims, ax-murder victims, Tong war victims, victims of maniacs, victims of machine-gun fire and knife attacks. A gory layout. But behind their selection is seen a scientific purpose. Most of them demonstrate how certain facts, valuable as evidence, may be established by a trained medical examiner from study of the wound. Self-inflicted wounds frequently bear a stamp, disclose certain peculiarities that distinguish them from wounds inflicted by an assailant. To use one of the more obvious examples, there is the peculiar characteristic of the self-inflicted knife cuts known to the medical examiners as "hesitation marks." The man who cuts his own throat usually makes several minor "exploratory" cuts before he gathers courage or decision to go through with the job. Apparently he is anxious not to bungle the performance and cautiously "feels out" the situation.

One of the most remarkable exhibits of all, in so far as it shows what the scientist can do with microscope and a knowledge of chemistry, pertains to a case of identification. About a year ago the charred embers of an automobile were found smoldering on a deserted road some distance out of New York City. Among the embers were found the remains of a human body. Besides the skull, which was fairly intact, and a few other bones, there was nothing to work with except ashes and a few metallic objects which the fire had not consumed. Here are the facts the medical examiners established from that heap of debris:

THE victim was a white man, 30 to 40 years old, about 5 feet 4 inches tall and weighing from 150 to 155 pounds. He was of muscular build, in good physical condition and suffering from no chronic disease. Death had been caused by shooting. He had worn a tan suit of all-wool herring-bone worsted material, with a plain alpaca lining. He had worn a stiff straw hat, size 7 or 7 1-8, a tan silk top shirt with pearl buttons, white athletic undershirt of cotton lisle, shorts of madras material with blue and white vertical stripes, gold colored hose supporters of good quality and a Hickok belt, size 34, of black pigskin leather and cowhide lining. In his pockets he had carried two $5 bills, two ammonia bullets with wax tips and a Yale type door key. He had recently had dental work done, as shown by a new gold crown. A chart of his teeth was sent to several thousand dentists in the East. A dentist in a New Jersey city spotted the gold crown which he had made less than a month before. This new clew led at once to identification of the man as a henchman of the late Arnold Rothstein, notorious New York gambler.

The medical examiner's work in another automobile fire case saved a life insurance company from having to pay a heavy accidental death claim on a man who had committed suicide.

Highway patrolmen found an automobile in flames on a country road, with a man's body lying across the front fender. It was badly burned, and superficial evidence indicated he had been overcome while trying to put out the fire and had fallen forward into the blaze. The case had been virtually closed as an accidental death when Dr. Gettler began his investigation. His toxicological examination disclosed cyanide (the speediest of all poisons) in the organs of the victim, and other observations showed clearly the man was dead before the fire touched him. He had suffered heavy financial losses and had chosen suicide as a way out. But he had also chosen to disguise his suicide in order that his family might collect the double indemnity payable in the event of accidental death. As Dr. Gettler reconstructed the incident, he had driven to a lonely spot, set his automobile on fire, swallowed cyanide, flung the bottle into the roadside shrubbery and had then draped his body across the fender, depending on the quick action of the poison to beat the flames.

On going back to the spot with this reconstruction, the police searched the roadside shrubbery. They found a bottle that had contained cyanide!

Miners Turn Actors in a Dramatization of Labor Strife

Two scenes from "Mill Shadows."

The Strike of the Carolina Textile Workers Supplies the Theme for This Four-Act Tragedy Written by an Illinois Worker.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

ST. LOUIS will have an opportunity to see on Tuesday of this week a play such as never has been produced here before. It is a play about real people who took part in a true-life drama so intense and so bitter that the playwright had only to record it to make his play one of profound dramatic values, even though it is admittedly a propaganda play.

The name of the play is "Mill Shadows" and it tells in four acts and nine scenes the story of the strike of the textile workers in Marion, North Carolina. It is not a pleasant nor an amusing play, after the fashion of many Broadway successes. It is as grim as that grim conflict of the workers in the newly industrialized South. It turns up the story of how six men were shot to death, as they stood on the picket line, by Deputy Sheriffs. That was the tragedy that broke the Marion strike, that is the tragedy that makes the play.

According to Anita Block, chief play reader for the Theater Guild in New York, "Mill Shadows" is probably the most authentic labor play that has been produced in America. It is throughout a play of the workers. Its author is Tom Tippett who was born at Hillsboro, Illinois, and was at one time a miner and union organizer in the Southern Illinois coal field. And when it is produced in St. Louis Tuesday the entire cast will be workers —members of the new Progressive Miners of America Union from Southern Illinois.

Tom Tippett, the author.

It will be played at Jeffla Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. Previously the same cast has done the play in Gillespie, Benld, and several other Southern Illinois mining towns. There are two reasons why the Progressive Miners and their wives decided to do this play. First, they wanted to try to make a little money to help along the struggling new union. But secondly, and perhaps more important, they wanted to show the public through this play something of the stark reality of labor conflict. These miners and their wives feel that the bitter labor warfare that they have been through during the past year was not unlike that which ended in the shooting at Marion, North Carolina. They are workers with a strong consciousness of class.

They succeeded in interesting several St. Louisans and a committee was formed, headed by Mrs. Jerome Cook, which put up a guarantee fund to cover the very modest cost of bringing the production here.

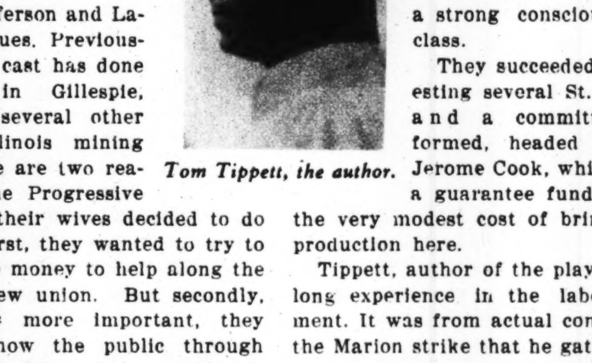
Tippett, author of the play, has had long experience in the labor movement. It was from actual contact with the Marion strike that he gathered the material for the play. He knew all the principals on both sides and he served often on the picket line with the strikers.

After working some years in the Southern Illinois coal field, as miner and union organizer, Tippett went to the Brookwood Labor College at Katonah, New York. Graduating from Brookwood, he went as an organizer into the southern textile field. As is well known, textile operators had moved their factories from New England to secure the advantage of "cheap" and unorganized labor in the South. This cheap labor was obtained by inducing mountain folk to leave their rural homes and move to the new industrial towns. This cheap labor was contented for some years with the wages paid by the mill owners. But it was not long before trouble broke out. The strikes at Marion, Elizabethton, Tennessee, and Gastonia, North Carolina, have occupied many columns in the newspapers and the methods employed by the mill owners have been commented on pro and con.

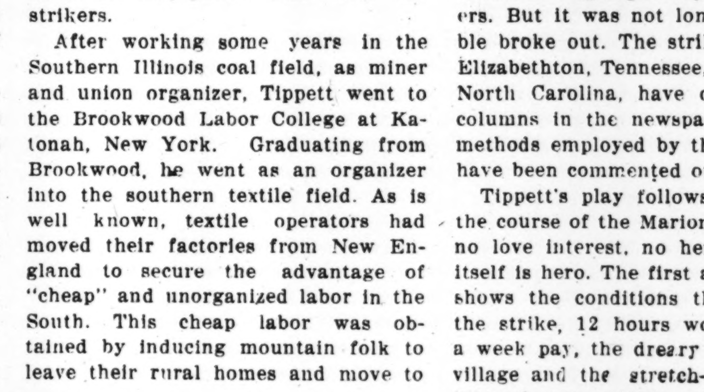
Tippett's play follows quite closely the course of the Marion strike. It has no love interest, no hero—the strike itself is hero. The first act of the play shows the conditions that led up to the strike, 12 hours work a day, $9 a week pay, the dreary life of a mill village and the stretch-out system—"stretch out a little on the right to tend a few more looms, stretch out a little on the left, till you're all stretched out of human shape."

The second act describes the development of the strike, the scene being laid in union headquarters. The scene of the third act is outside the lighted cotton mill at night, with Deputy Sheriffs on guard. In the third scene of this act the massacre takes place. The deputies fire on the workers who form a picket line at down. The play ends on a somewhat uncertain note, with Granny, a heroic mountain type, vowing to stay on and carry on the labor conflict in which she has seen relatives and friends die.

With perhaps a different emphasis on the direction in which the worker wishes to go, it is the kind of play popular in Russia today. In "Mill Shadows" American workers have expressed their deep discontent with their plight.



Gigantactis Macronema, or "Izaak Walton," the fish who catches other fish with a rod, line, hook and bait.



Lasiognathus Saccostoma—a Caribbean Sea fish. From the long rod hangs a line equipped with a lure.

Strange Habits of Some of the Ocean's Queerest Fish

A New Collection at the American Museum of Natural History.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

IT must have been suspected that there was something special about Mr. and Mrs. Photocorynus Spiniceps; a name like that could scarcely be wasted on an ordinary couple. And now that their domestic life has been exposed, it turns out that, sure enough, they are queer fish. The tiny husband literally lives off his large and formidable wife. He attaches himself to his spouse's left eye or some other part of her body where he can't be reached by her sharp teeth, and is fixed for life. Apparently the necessity of accompanying his wife in all her gadding about is not enough of a hardship to outweigh the advantage of being freed forever from economic worries.

This piscine pair with the peculiar design for living is represented in a collection of models of grotesque deep-sea fish recently acquired by the American Museum of Natural History in New York. And the freakishness of the Photocorynus Spinicepses is rivaled by several other exhibits in the collection, such as the fish that goes fishing with hook and line, one which sports a long beard, and one which uses a luminous appendage to attract a meal. People with a deeply philosophic bent can view this array of fantastically shaped and equipped dwellers in the ocean depths and find justification for concluding that it takes all kinds of fish as well as people to make a world.

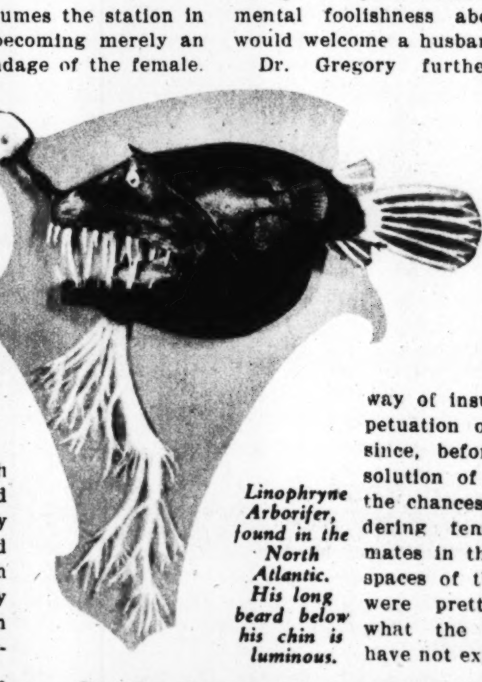
The collection was received by the American museum in exchange from the British Museum. The models are of fish caught in Atlantic and Caribbean waters and studied by Dr. C. Tate Regan of the British Museum.

The Photocorynus Spiniceps is found in the Gulf of Mexico, and there really isn't a great deal known about it; so recently has man become acquainted with it that it hasn't yet received a popular name. But scientists have learned about the creatures' strange domestic arrangement and think they have a pretty good idea of how it comes about.

THE mature females have a phosphorescent appendage, like a horn, in their foreheads, which, glowing in the darkness far beneath the surface of the water, serves as a lure to other fish. Ichthyologists, probably better known as fish experts, think the males rush toward this light—and usually to their doom. For that soft glow isn't lovelight, it's the bait for a trap, the trap being a large mouth well supplied with teeth. Most of the fish which hurry to the light, including the potential husbands, are caught in that mouth, and that's the end of them. But sometimes a male escapes the snap of the hungry jaws, bites the snapper, and hangs on permanently.

"The male's sharp little teeth pierce the female's skin," says Dr. William K. Gregory, Curator of Fishes for the museum, "and he begins to feed on the blood of his gigantic mate. As he hangs on with bulldog grip the male is gradually transformed into a quasi-parasite, and becomes attached to her for life."

So the male assumes the station in life of a gigolo, becoming merely an insignificant appendage of the female.



Linophryne Arborifer, found in the North Atlantic. His long beard below his chin is luminous.

It is only fair to say in his defense that he does the best he can. This fortune hunter of the deep simply can't support himself. He has no lure with which to attract prey, and even if he had, his mouth is too small and his teeth too tiny for him to feed himself from such sources. His only chance to get on in the world is to marry well—that is, to get a wife who will support him. In another respect, too, his attachment to his mighty spouse is a matter of self-preservation. If he doesn't hold on after he has settled in a safe place on her body she probably will swallow him before he can get away. His bride has no sentimental foolishness about her, and would welcome a husband in her diet.

Dr. Gregory further comments: "The explanation offered by ichthyologists for this strange state approaching semi-parasitism on the part of the male is that it is nature's way of insuring the perpetuation of the species, since, before this happy solution of the problem, the chances of lone wandering females finding mates in the vast black spaces of the great deep were pretty slim. But what the ichthyologists have not explained is how or why such a meek and inoffensive little male fish should ever become ambitious and rash enough to press his unwelcome attention upon a giantess of such frigid and ferocious mien."

To the unscientific, it may seem that nature's plan for perpetuating the species took into account the remarkably complete absence of beauty on the part of Mrs. Photocorynus Spiniceps. Only a fortune hunter could find her attractive. She looks like something one sees in a nightmare. The lower part of her face resembles the stern of a mud scow, her eyes have a baleful glare, and her immense mouth, with its sharp, widely-spaced teeth, has an extraordinarily grim expression. Scattered conspicuously about her countenance and head are sundry unlovely spikes and bumps. Even her fins are strong and bony rather than graceful. So it appears unlikely that she would ever find anyone to love her for herself alone, and is doomed to be mated with males who marry her only for a living.

On the other hand, these forbidding females have the advantage—if it is an advantage—of living under a system of polyandry. Ordinarily each female has several husbands, firmly attached to her and comfortably living off her substance. It happens that in the model received by the American Museum only one husband is in evidence; he is clinging to his meal ticket above her left eye.

Another interesting deep sea monster in the collection is the Gigantactis Macronema, native to the Caribbean Sea. This fish is the "Izaak Walton" of the piscatorial world. It does its fishing like a man, for nature has equipped it with a rod, line, hook and bait. The rod sticks out from its snout and from the tip hangs a line many times longer than its body. At the end of the line dangle three sharp hooks and a luminous lure. This fisherman-fish catches its prey on the hooks just as any other angler would, and carries its catch into its mouth.

ANOTHER fish equipped by nature with rod and hook is the Lasiognathus Saccostoma, also of the Caribbean Sea. From its long rod hangs a line equipped with a lure and ending in a triangle of hooks.

The bearded fish is the Linophryne Arborifer, found in the North Atlantic. Its long beard, which doesn't seem to be very well trimmed, is luminous. The ultimate branches are thought to be sense organs that enable the angler to perceive the approach of other fishes. Its mouth bristles with long teeth.

Then there is the Melanocetus Niger, a very voracious angler, coming from the Gulf of Panama. Its nose ends in a long line with a luminous ball.

The Himantolophus Groenlandicus, also a native of the Gulf of Panama, has a bulb-like appendage ending in lobes that look like two four-fingered hands. Branching out from the bulb are numerous tentacles which are probably luminous in life.

The second act describes the development of the strike, the scene being laid in union headquarters. The scene of the third act is outside the lighted cotton mill at night, with Deputy Sheriffs on guard. In the third scene of this act the massacre takes place. The deputies fire on the workers who form a picket line at down. The play ends on a somewhat uncertain note, with Granny, a heroic mountain type, vowing to stay on and carry on the labor conflict in which she has seen relatives and friends die.

With perhaps a different emphasis on the direction in which the worker wishes to go, it is the kind of play popular in Russia today. In "Mill Shadows" American workers have expressed their deep discontent with their plight.

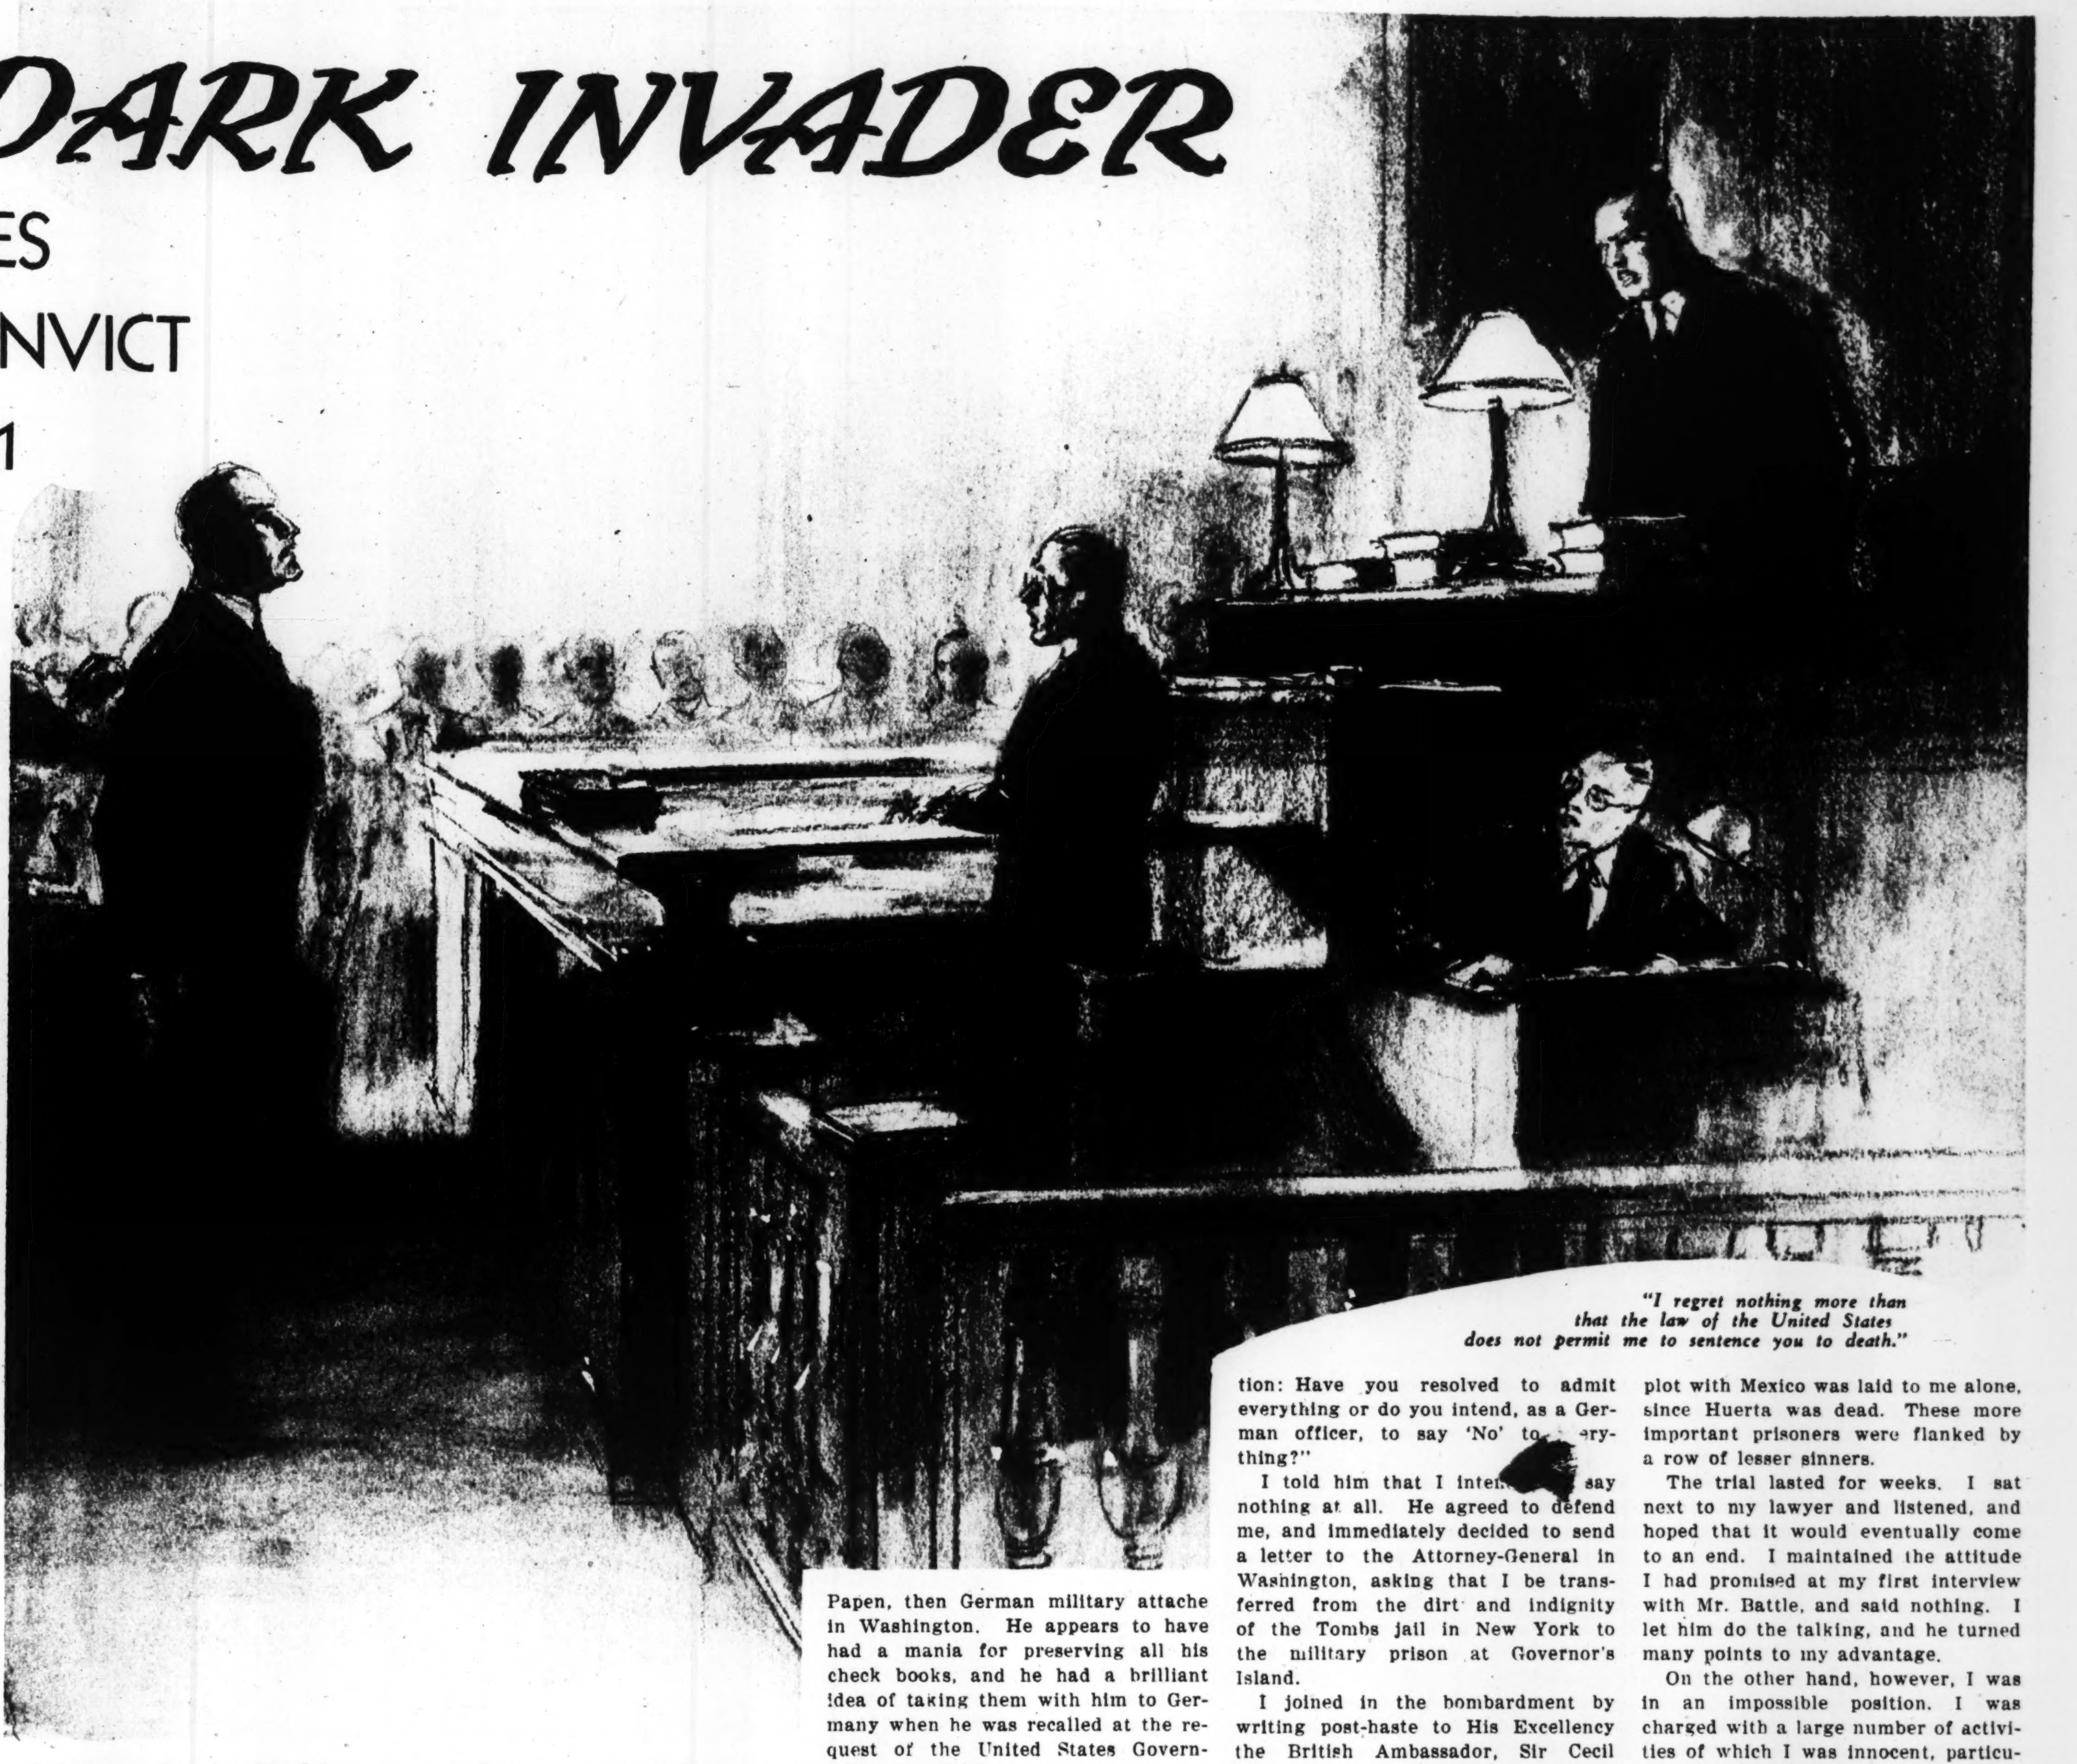
THE DARK INVADER BECOMES FEDERAL CONVICT No. 8891

"The Government of the United States vs. Captain Rintelen" — Convicted — Atlanta Penitentiary — Home Again.



"I regret nothing more than that the law of the United States does not permit me to sentence you to death."

This is the final instalment of a series telling the inside story of and by Captain von Rintelen, Germany's master spy and chief agent of destruction in America during the great war. In preceding instalments "The Dark Invader" tells how, in 1915, he was ordered to America to stop ammunition shipments to the Allies, regardless of law. Arrived in New York, he places incendiary bombs on ships, causing the vessels to burn at sea; organizes a dock workers' strike, temporarily paralyzing shipping; and conspires with Huerta, deposed Mexican President, in an effort to have Mexico declare war on the United States. But Von Rintelen is ordered by cablegram to return to Germany. The cablegram turns out to be a British counterfeit, and he is captured by the British at sea. "The Dark Invader" then is imprisoned at Donington Hall, in England, but after the United States enters the war he is told he is to be removed. Von Rintelen feels certain that he is to be returned to the United States.

By CAPTAIN FRANZ RINTELEN VON KLEIST

Of the Imperial German Navy

IN THE headlights of a motor car I saw armed English soldiers, and was driven away from Donington Hall followed by the good wishes shouted out to me by my fellow prisoners. The drive ended at Nottingham, where I was taken on board a train. I was surrounded by soldiers and detectives to protect me from the civil population, who looked menacing. When we reached Liverpool I received permission to telephone to Admiral Hall. When I was connected I said:

"I only want to tell you that this is a mean trick you are playing. I ask you to countermand the order at once. You must know that prisoners of war are not allowed to be taken through the battle zone. The U-boat blockade is a battle zone."

"You sail for America this morning," he replied. "I have nothing more to say at present."

He hung up the receiver, while I fired a few curses at his head.

My escort, bayonets fixed, accompanied me until we boarded the liner Adriatic.

And now I was on my way to America!

I pulled myself together, and it became clear to me that I could no longer escape my fate. We started off in a queer way. The Captain invited the officers on board to lunch, and I sat there in my German uniform among dozens of Allied officers of numerous nations and all branches of the service. None of them was familiar with all the various little differences in dress, and it did not occur to anybody that I was a German.

We left harbor in the evening. I stood on deck with the British officer who was accompanying me as my escort and had orders to hand me over to the American authorities. Like all the others, I had put on mufti, and I was glad when the Englishman told me that no one except the Captain and himself was aware that I was a German officer. We were escorted by a dozen patrol boats of the Royal Navy, for we carried about 100 British officers from Admirals and Generals down to Second Lieutenants, who were being sent across as military instructors for the American Army and Navy. I cannot describe how for days I hoped that our vessel would be stopped by one of our U-boats. My hopes, however, were vain.

Everyone on board suffered from a U-boat psychosis, and I was also infected. It was not at all improbable that we should meet a German submarine, and I had an idea which I was unfortunately unable to put into practice. I sewed together a black, white and red flag out of ribbon and other materials, which I intended to tie round my waist if we should be held up by a U-boat. It was very unlikely that I should have time to make an elaborate speech to the officers who came on board, and somebody would be bound to stand behind me to prevent me from attracting their attention. If we all had to parade on deck I would open my coat, and it was certain that any German officer would inspect more closely a man wearing a black, red and white flag round his waist on an English auxiliary cruiser.

We saw neither U-boats nor German officers, however, and at last the American coast came into sight, and I, much to my resentment, was handcuffed and taken ashore in uniform, under the cross-fire of a battery of cameras, which took my photograph for the New York evening papers.

NOW I was taken before the District Attorney.

Detectives and police officials were waiting for me in a large room, but I refused to open my mouth until the handcuffs were taken off. I then protested against the way I had been treated, and demanded to be regarded as a prisoner of war, but I was told curtly that I was a civil prisoner. I therefore refused to say another word. As a result I was taken away and left to myself in a cell. Next morning I was brought before the representative of the Attorney-General of the United States, who came straight to the point.

"You will remember," he said, "that you were in America in 1915. You must permit me to read out the charges against you. Do you remember having known Dr. Scheele and the Captains Wolpert, Bode and Steinberg?"

I held my tongue.

"Do you recollect that you committed acts of sabotage against munition transports by means of incendiary bombs manufactured by this Dr. Scheele? Don't you remember having damaged the rudders of munition transports by means of an apparatus constructed by a certain Mr. Fay?"

"I remember nothing."

"That is a great pity. Perhaps, however, you will call to mind having founded a trade union called 'Labor's National Peace Council,' in order to corrupt our dock workers by the organization of strikes? Of course, you never had an interview with General Huerta at the Manhattan Hotel! You never heard of the firm of 'E. V. Gibbons,' or the 'Mexico Northwestern Railway'! You were never on friendly terms with one of the most distinguished members of the New York Bar Association, Mr. Boniface, who put his comprehensive legal knowledge at your disposal?"

I kept my mouth shut and said nothing. I was very uneasy, but I told myself it was by no means certain that they could prove everything they were trying to assert.

The attorney appeared to read my thoughts. He gazed at me a while and then said:

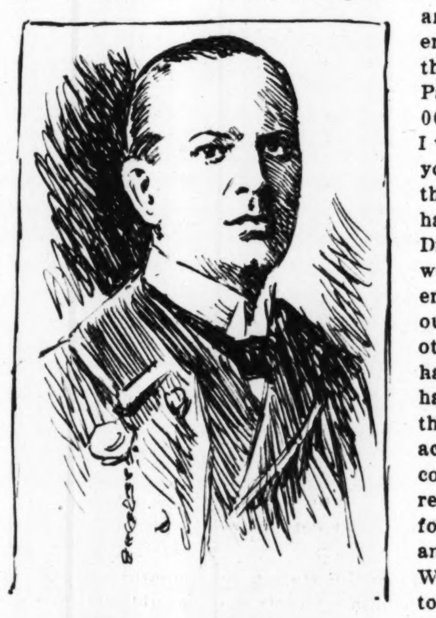
"Come a little nearer, please. Let us have a quiet talk. You see, up to a short time ago we were convinced that there were some men here at work putting incendiary bombs on ships, calling men out on strike, negotiating with Mexican and Irish leaders, and carrying out all sorts of activities whose purpose was to help Germany, but which infringed the laws of this country. I must offer you my compliments. We know that all these happenings were directed or carried out by you. While you were still in America and violating our laws, we were unable, in spite of our most zealous efforts, to bring either your or any of your agents to book. It was only after some time we found your trail. Of course, we had been suspecting you for some time. You were watched, but we could never discover the slightest positive proof. The situation was changed suddenly when this book came into our hands. Take a look at it, please. As an intelligent man, you will not fail to notice that it is a check book. Do me the favor to examine closely the different entries. It was very instructive to me to learn the names of the people to whom the owner of this book had paid out sums of money. I presume a perusal will help to refresh your memory. If you should happen not to recognize the handwriting, permit me to offer you the following information:

"This is a check book that was formerly in the possession of Captain Papen, then German military attache in Washington. He appears to have had a mania for preserving all his check books, and he had a brilliant idea of taking them with him to Germany when he was recalled at the request of the United States Government as being no longer persona grata. You may be of the opinion that it was an unfriendly act on the part of the English to extract the check books from his diplomatic luggage. But please turn over the pages."

I opened the book. It consisted only of counterfoils of the checks which Captain von Papen had made out. As I turned them over I suddenly had a dreadful shock. I saw clearly written the following entry: "To Dr. Scheele, $10,000." I remembered that item and knew for what purpose Von Papen had made out the check.

Captain von Papen, in failing to destroy the book, had perpetrated a blunder of stupendous idiocy.

"I see," said the attorney, "that you have stopped at a certain counterfoil. I assume that you know a number of the people to whom these sums of money were paid. But at any rate you are looking at an entry which says that Captain von Papen paid $10,000 to Dr. Scheele. I will therefore tell you, briefly and to the point, that we have arrested this Dr. Scheele. He was sensible enough to answer our questions. In other words, he has confessed. He has told us everything about your activities in this country and it is really unnecessary for you to say anything at all. We know enough to secure a conviction so far as you are concerned. There is one other matter which will be of interest to you. Dr. Scheele's admissions enabled us to arrest all your friends. One said this and another said that, but I can assure you we know enough. Will you, therefore, talk, or do you prefer to keep silent?"



Captain von Rintelen.

I preferred to keep silent, and was sent back to prison. I passed the night visualizing what would happen if I could suddenly have the vast pleasure of being alone in my cell with Captain von Papen!

Friends engaged a noted American lawyer, Mr. George Gordon Battle, to undertake my defense. I cannot overstate my gratitude to this splendid man. At our first interview he looked me up and down for a moment and said:

"Before I decide to undertake your defense, you must answer one question: Have you resolved to admit everything or do you intend, as a German officer, to say 'No' to everything?"

I told him that I inten[illegible] say nothing at all. He agreed to defend me, and immediately decided to send a letter to the Attorney-General in Washington, asking that I be transferred from the dirt and indignity of the Tombs jail in New York to the military prison at Governor's Island.

I joined in the bombardment by writing post-haste to His Excellency the British Ambassador, Sir Cecil Spring Rice, at Washington, contending that I was a prisoner of war and not a civil prisoner, and requesting that he aid me in bettering my imprisonment.

In vain! I was to become definitely a "common" prisoner!

My trial began on May 5, 1917. During my preliminary examination I had firmly insisted that I was innocent, and had not admitted any of the charges which were laid against me. The court in which my trial took place was a large rectanglar room, with wide windows and an arched roof. At one of the longer sides was the Judge's bench which dominated the whole room. He sat enthroned alone, in a black robe, and to right and left of him were large portraits of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln. On the right-hand side of the room was a large raised bench for the jury. In the center, in front of the Judge, stood a long table for the accommodation of the accused and their advocates, while the journalists sat at a smaller table on the left. One side was shut off by a barrier, behind which crowded the spectators.

THE trial, in which I was the chief figure, was by no means on my account alone. The American police had done a great deal of work in the meantime. The case was the Government of the United States vs. Captain Rintelen and Accomplices. The charge was violation of the Federal laws under the following counts:

Endangering of transport at sea.

Transporting and storing of explosives within the territory of the United States without a police license.

Violation of the strike laws by founding an illegal and fictitious trade union.

Endangering the security of the United States by contriving war plots with a foreign Power (Mexico).

Endangering the good relations between the United States and other Powers with which she was on friendly terms by contriving rebellions within the territory of these Powers (Ireland-Great Britain).

Altogether about 30 men were charged during the various stages of the trial, including Captain Wolpert, Herren Daeche, Fay, Binder, Uhde, Captain von Kleist, Dr. Scheele, the melancholy Mr. Boniface, and the engineers Herren Schmidt, Becker, Praedel and Paradiess of the German steamer Friedrich der Grosse, who were accused of endangering transport at sea. There were also charges under this count against six German captains and engineers of a German shipping line, but they got away in time. The plot with Mexico was laid to me alone, since Huerta was dead. These more important prisoners were flanked by a row of lesser sinners.

The trial lasted for weeks. I sat next to my lawyer and listened, and hoped that it would eventually come to an end. I maintained the attitude I had promised at my first interview with Mr. Battle, and said nothing. I let him do the talking, and he turned many points to my advantage.

On the other hand, however, I was in an impossible position. I was charged with a large number of activities of which I was innocent, particularly matters which had been instigated by Captain von Papen, but which I should have to pay for. It would have been quite simple for me to rebut them, for I had only to say who had been responsible, but I could not do that—I could not, as a German officer, betray a comrade.

THE trial drew towards its end and the accused were overwhelmed. There was not much of us left when it was over. When the attorney for the prosecution rose to address the jury we were all very uneasy. I myself had special reasons for viewing the future pessimistically when he began to occupy himself with my person. He depicted the damage I had caused, and I still feel proud when I recall how he showed that I nearly succeeded in preventing the munition shipments over a long period through the organization of a general strike. I still get excited when I remember how he expressed his gratitude to Captain von Papen for delivering us all up to American justice by his confounded carelessness. He then summed up my activities once more, and after he had taken a deep breath, he demanded for me a sentence of four years' penal servitude. It was poor consolation when he proceeded to honor me with the following remarks: "I regret having to demand such a heavy penalty against this German officer. He has, as he believes, only done his duty. But in doing so he has violated the laws of the land, and the punishment I have demanded is therefore fitting. Let us, however, utter no harsh words. We have nothing but respect for him."

There was an interval of three days between the speech of the attorney for the prosecution and the verdict, a period which I occupied by reading all the American newspapers I could get hold of. While one group of papers declared that it was unjust to demand a sentence of penal servitude against a German officer who was a prisoner of war, other journals attacked me bitterly.

I was solemnly sentenced to four years' penal servitude. When I was asked if I had anything to say, I stood up. Feeling that Germany could not be defeated, I cried in exasperation:

"This will not help you to win the war."

The Judge also jumped up and shouted:

"I regret nothing more than the fact that the law of the United States does not permit me to sentence you to death."

"I don't regret it at all," I replied.

He looked at me with a hard stare

THE JUDGMENT OF QUEEN BUZZ

This is a game that can be played by any child. All that is needed are scissors, paste and some cardboard. The directions for playing "Toy Talkies" are given at the bottom of the game.

THE PLAYERS

SHERLOCK COMBS—A great Bumblebee detective.
GENERAL STINGER—In command of the Bumblebee Army.
DR. DRAGON—A snake doctor.
TEDDY AND EDDIE—Bear cubs who are prisoners of the Bumblebees

THE PLAY BEGINS

(Sherlock Combs and Dr. Dragon enter, talking.)

SHERLOCK COMBS—I'm certainly glad I found you and I hope your magic works.

DR. DRAGON—Thank you. But why does she want this done?

SHERLOCK COMBS—Hm-m-m. I don't know. But Queen Buzz always knows best. (They leave and Queen Buzz enters.)

QUEEN BUZZ—I hope Sherlock was able to find Dr. Dragon. I can't hold my people back much longer. (General Stinger enters.)

GENERAL STINGER—Please, Your Majesty, why don't you let us teach those Bear cubs a lesson?

QUEEN BUZZ—General Stinger, I give you my word that if you will be patient I will let you teach them a lesson. (Sherlock Combs and Dr. Dragon enter.)

SHERLOCK COMBS—All is ready, Your Highness.

QUEEN BUZZ—That is splendid. Bring them in. (Sherlock Combs leaves.)

QUEEN BUZZ—I want to thank you, Dr. Dragon. You have done us a great favor. We will never forget you.

DR. DRAGON—It was a pleasure. But why did you want it done, Your Highness?

QUEEN BUZZ—You shall see in a moment. (Teddy and Eddie, the size of Bumblebees, and Sherlock Combs, enter.)

TEDDY—(Pleading.) Please tell the doctor to make us big again. We weren't trying to steal your honey.

QUEEN BUZZ—I am not punishing either of you. I know only too well how you Bears love honey, and I thought it was a shame that you were too big to gather it, so I had you made the same size as Bees. Now, General Stinger, you may teach them their first lesson; how to gather honey. (She leaves.)

GENERAL STINGER—This isn't the lesson I wanted to teach them, but orders are orders. Come along. (He and Teddy and Eddie leave.)

SHERLOCK COMBS—What do you make of it, Doctor?

DR. DRAGON—It's a good idea—if it works.

DIRECTIONS: Cut out back-drop and pin it on a wall near the floor. Next, take two books and stand them at each end and about 5 inches in front of back-drop. Then take characters, cut them out, and paste them on thin cardboard, folding flap at bottom so they will lean back a little. Attach a piece of thread about 15 inches long. Place the characters back of the book on the right hand side of the stage and draw them on the stage with thread as they are needed. The operator may talk for the characters, changing his or her voice as different characters go on the stage, or each character's part may be spoken by a different child. MUNY OPERA DRESSOGRAPHS

ILSE MARVENGA, today's selection among the Muny Opera stars who will appear in this space during the Forest Park theater's season, was born in Bremen, Germany, 29 years ago. She made her stage debut in German Grand Opera, appearing under the baton of the famous director Nickisch. Her first light opera role was played in Hamburg, and it was while engaged in this show that she contracted to come to America to create the part of Kathie in "The Student Prince," a role which she played 3000 times in America and England. On her three thousandth performance Miss Marvenga decided she'd had enough, and her appearance as Kathie at the Municipal Opera this week marks her first return to the part.

Accompanying Miss Marvenga are three costumes she wears in Muny Opera shows. Cut out the star and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress her in her proper outfits. The three costumes shown here are worn by Miss Marvenga in these roles in the following productions: 1—Kathie in "The Student Prince," in which she is a peasant girl; 2—Marietta in "Naughty Marietta," and in this show she wears the garb of a street singer, and also a hoopskirt.

Next week: Jack Sheehan.

FLYING THROUGH a MOUNTAIN with a FORTUNE in GOLD

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

J. Curtis Quick Pilots His Cargo Through Passages That Permit His Wing Tips But Twenty Feet Clearance.

J. Curtis Quick.

LOS ANGELES. A THUNDEROUS roar shatters the tropic sultriness that enshrouds the Mexican province of Sinaloa or Durango; mountain canyons reverberate with unaccustomed din; lordly eagles screech futile defiance and huge mountain lions slink away to their lairs. The Aerial Treasure Taxi is on the wing.

Peering up through the dense jungle that sweeps from the mountains to the sea, the patient Pancho cocks attentive ear and turns back to his burning tortillas with a sigh; from a rocky outcropping that pierces the forest green, Black Pedro focuses his binoculars on the tiny plane. Then he, too, turns away with disappointment. But always there is hope.

Today the hum of the motor is steady and strong, the sky is clear and the treacherous winds are taking a siesta. But there may come a day when the sharply attuned ear will detect the tell-tale motor miss, bespeaking that all is not well aloft.

And when that day comes, maybe there will drop from the sky, like the fabled manna, huge treasure in gold and silver!

Nine thousand feet up in the air, dallying with the pliant controls of his Bellanca Pacemaker, a husky Texan, J. Curtis Quick by name, looks down upon the green and purple panorama. For this one day, his chief danger is over—that narrow, tortuous passage through the mountain wall that surrounds the gold and silver mines at Vantanis. There are places where there is less than 20 feet of clearance between his wing tips and the canyon walls; right-angle turns where sudden bankings must be accomplished with caliper precision; air pockets and wind punches that toss his tiny aircraft like a chip in a whirlpool.

Even here he is 10,000 feet high, having spiraled for altitude, like a fly in a tumbler, out of the tiny bowl that is Vantanis. On the return trip he will have to drop into this same bowl like a plummet after negotiating the dangers in the gorge.

But for this day, as for many days during the past three years, the danger lies behind and the Aerial Treasure Taxi is headed for Mazatlan with its cargo of ingots. Silver and gold in neatly cast bars, it is, and today the gold percentage runs high; the load is worth $30,000 or $40,000.

Presently, after a short half hour of flying, the treasure plane will swoop down on Mazatlan, where a waiting ship will pick up the bullion and take it to San Francisco, where it will be poured into the insatiate maw of the United States Mint.

No wonder Pancho and Pedro and Manuelo, and others of their ilk, sigh with patient resignation in the jungle, for since the inauguration of the Aerial Treasure Taxi, whose duty it is to convey the wealth of the isolated mines to the sea coast, there has been a decided depression in banditry.

IN FORMER times these gold and silver ingots were carried out on pack mules. Eight days and more it took to convey the treasure the 80 miles from the mountains of Durango to the sea and if, as the heavily guarded cavalcade crawled along some precarious ledge, something should transpire that stampeded the burden bearers, one might hurtle over the cliff, with 30,000 pesos of bullion, into the arms of some lucky one who by merest chance happened to be waiting at that very spot.

But now, thanks to J. Curtis Quick and his Aerial Treasure Taxi, the precious metal shoots through the sky, high out of reach. Instead of eight arduous days, transportation is now merely a matter of minutes, with loads going inland that even an army of mules could not have carried.

Here in Los Angeles for a short vacation, during which he is enjoying the companionship of some of his old friends from Texas, Quick talked a bit the other day about his flying job.

"I suppose it is an adventurous life," he admitted, "but I expect even the unusual gets to be a habit. I came up to Los Angeles to break the monotony. Take that flight through the gorge, for instance, through which I have to pass in order to land at Vantanis. In order to stay up, I have to travel at 90 miles an hour, and there are places in the gorge where I can see only 300 feet ahead. When I take in passengers, it just petrifies them. But I'm so used to it I almost go through with my eyes shut. I've pulled out in a fog so thick that when I hit the coast I flew straight out to sea, not knowing I had passed Mazatlan.

"But in the ordinary routine of flying, Vantanis is my second stop. The first and most important is Tayoltita, where large and richer mines are in operation. I take in food, machinery and occasional passengers and bring out bullion. This is smelted at the mines and cast into bars of mixed gold and silver. Each brick weighs between 80 and 90 pounds and the load is limited to 10 bars. At the present time a load of pure silver is worth about $5000, but when the percentage of gold is large the value of the load may jump to $50,000.

"I SUPPOSE it takes away from the romance when I mention that carrying in machinery is really more important than carrying out bullion, but it's true. You see, they always could take out the treasure on muleback, but they couldn't bring in modern machinery, for the trails made is impossible for a mule to carry anything weighing more than 200 pounds, or anything that wasn't well balanced and compact.

"But it's different with a ship. I take in electric motors, sections of huge steel gears that weigh 1500 pounds, cargoes of carbide in hundred-pound cans. It was a load of these that nearly wrecked me once. There was an air pocket over Tayoltita and the ship dropped. But the carbide cans floated up over my head and then, when the air pressure equalized, came hurtling down around me. You can imagine me, trying to keep the plane steady and at the same time dodge these hundred-pound missiles that threatened to knock me cold."

Like all air pilots, Quick can't see any particular danger in his work, and just to show how safe it is, points to 300 trips in which he was forced back to Mazatlan only eight times. Tayoltita, like Vantanis, is a freak spot, another deep bowl reached only after surmounting a 9000-foot rampart and dodging a 12,000-foot mountain peak. The landing field itself is 2000 feet above sea level.

"As a matter of fact," laughs Quick, "it really isn't a landing field at all, but a baseball diamond and is the only level spot in the bowl. So now it serves a dual purpose, and many a time I've broken up a perfectly good ball game, because when I come over the rim and drop into that bowl, I just have to land on that one spot whether I want to or not.

"That's one of my heaviest cargoes—baseballs! You see, this little plateau where I land the plane and where they play baseball is so small that when a ball is knocked out of bounds it drops over a 300-foot cliff and is lost in the jungle. They can't put up a high fence because of the plane.

"Most of the executives and engineers are Americans, and although they are isolated from civilization—by the surrounding country—have managed to make themselves comfortable.

"They have a tennis court and swimming pool and a motion picture theater, made possible by an electric plant which was brought in piece by piece, through the air. They even have a bowling alley and some of the engineers' wives are real champs. The electric plant is run by water power from a 750-foot fall and operates an 800-horsepower turbine. I bring them fresh meat, groceries and crates of apples and oranges. There are wild oranges near the mines, but the folks like the California oranges better.

"The mine workers, Indian and Mexican, are a happy lot. They live in thatched huts, most of which have no walls. Old auto tires are in great demand for footwear. They make them over into sandals. This is also true in Mazatlan."

These Durango mines, where Curtis Quick pursues his novel occupation, are said to be but faint echoes of the real treasure crypts of the district. History and legend tell of rich veins of gold and silver whose yield made silver sandals and golden bracelets for the daughters of Montezuma. In later years, somewhere in the vicinity of 1790, one of these ancient workings was rediscovered and worked by the Indians. Millions were taken from it. Then one day, without warning, it collapsed, trapping 42 people. One with sufficient hardihood may visit the spot today and pull brittle bones from the debris, but it is said that only modern machinery can ever reopen this lode.

Not far from this spot there is a lost gold mine, not a myth, but a real authenticated diggings. There was a village, too, but in the year 1850 a huge mountain slide buried the whole business.

The nearest real town to the Tayoltita mines is St. Ignacia, only 25 miles away, as the crow flies, but it takes three days to get there by mule path, and there is no other road. But the air taxi makes it in 15 minutes, a long, long climb straight up into the air—then a two-mile drop.

But it is picturesque Mazatlan, snuggled against the sea, that is the real Mecca for the miners and the headquarters of the air taxi. Unspoiled by white man's civilization, it remains primitive and charming, but with its own peculiar code of laws and living. Mexico is "air-minded" and the strictest laws in Mazatlan have to do with flying and gasoline.

AT THE present moment there is a lull in the Treasure Taxi business, due to the instability of the metal market. Work at the mines has not ceased, but there is no hurry about reaching the market, and so, after many years, the pack mule may again fight his way over the mountains and through the jungle with bars of treasure on his back.

But all this worries J. Curtis Quick not a bit. He is on vacation and after he tears himself away from the enticements of Hollywood, plans to hop from here to there along the southern border, with Havana, Cuba, as his eventual destination. Here he will tarry for a while and then he plans to return to the towering mountains and twisted gorges of Durango.

Japan's Epidemic of Suicides

treating figure, the air was rent with an eerie scream, as the pilgrims to Mihara saw two girls—Geishas of the Tokio Yoshiwara — plunge headlong into the crater.

In an instant all was confusion, with the old man imploring the pilgrims to leave the spot and begin their descent down the slope. During the resultant excitement, the old man spotted the youth whom he had turned back earlier on the edge of the crater poised to leap, but before he could reach him the lad had gone to his death.

"That boy came up here as soon as the boat landed this morning," explained the guardian to the awestruck crowd. "Three times this day have I turned him back, but he got away from me the fourth time.

"AS SOON as I spied him earlier in the day, I knew he was going to end his life. I know these things by instinct. I have not watched this crater for 30 years for nothing. Sometimes they escape me, but I turn back at least three every day."

At the little police station in the village below Mount Mihara there are days when as many as 10 would-be suicides are being held in custody, for their families or legal guardians to take them away.

Not a few of the suicides of Mihara are soldiers of the Mikado, who have returned from Manchuria, unfit for further army service as a result of wounds and illness.

The usual cry of the Japanese soldier as he plunges into the yawning pit of sulphurous vapor and flames is, "Tennoh-Heika Banzai!" ("Long live our Emperor!")

But, [illegible], Lieutenant-General Sadao Araki, Minister of War, and Yosuke Hata, Minister of Justice, are quite disturbed at the growing roster of Mihara suicides, not only amongst soldiers and veterans, but also geisha girls.

Many of the Geisha girls who have gone to their doom in the crater, have been revealed as among those selected for Yoshiwaras in the newly created state of Manchukuo, where Japan is now maintaining a large military establishment.

The leaders of the Imperial Diet are also worried over the daily tragedies of Mihara, especially in view of the fact that among all classes in Japan, high, low, rich and poor, hopes are running high that the Empress will shortly present her husband with a son and heir.

Despite previous disappointments—the four children of the Mikado are all girls — the most widespread arrangements are being made for national rejoicing in anticipation that the new arrival will be a Crown Prince.

More than usual interest attaches to the coming event by reason of the forebodings of many Japanese that the twin deities of death and disaster, who have hitherto withheld their blessings of an heir, may again vent their wrath on Emperor Hirohito, for breaking with the age-old traditions observed by his hundred and twenty-three predecessors in the choosing of a life partner. Hirchito married into the Satsuma clan, instead of taking a wife from the Choshus.

Should the Empress, who is now sheltered at the Chateau Shioda, present her imperial husband with a fifth daughter, the feeling in government circles is that Mount Mihara will witness an even greater number of suicides.

The Dark Invader

and gave a sort of grunt. I did not require anything else; the warder put on the handcuffs before leading me away.

That was in May, 1917.

One more cloud appeared on the horizon, and that was when the British forces, under General Allenby, had rolled up the Turkish front in Palestine, in the autumn of 1918.

The pursuing cavalry came across a tent, the occupant of which had taken to his heels, leaving behind whatever documents the British had not taken away from him at Falmouth. Such perfect calm seemed to prevail down there that the tent's occupant, Captain Papen of course, found time and peace of mind for the filing of those "documents."

A wire was sent to London, and the reply read, so rumor had it: "Forward papers. If Papen captured, do not intern; send him to lunatic asylum."

COPIES of those papers found their way soon afterwards to New York and Washington, and a new indictment against me was the consequence. Still, the American authorities had a sense of humor, too, and amidst the derisory laughter over the ill-fated German officer's retreat in Palestine, the charge against the German officer in residence at Atlanta was dropped.

Now from jail to jail was I dragged—or, rather, as I styled it, as I was not brought by right from England to America—invited by one "hotel" after the other, until finally it was decided that the "Grand Hotel" was the most suitable place for me to stay at—the Federal Penitentiary at Atlanta, in the State of Georgia.

For years I wore a blue linen jacket, blue linen trousers, shoes made of sailcloth and a broad-brimmed hat. I lived in a cell together with international forgers, thieves, pickpockets and smugglers. My number was 8891, and at first some of the other prisoners promised themselves considerable profit from the hurling of stones at the head of the German Captain who wore that number. They were people who were anxious to curry favor with the prison authorities; but when the aristocracy of the place—that is to say, the respectable burglars, footpads and smugglers—discovered that I never betrayed a fellow-prisoner, the situation changed quickly to my advantage.

Captain von Kleist, who had aided me greatly in planning my destruction of munitions, also was brought to Atlanta. I spoke to him, but he did not answer, and he went about as though dazed. I arranged for the fine old man to share my cell.

Captain von Kleist finally died in my arms from general debility.

Those who did not survive are all lying by the prison wall of Atlanta. A simple cross indicates the name and the prison number which each of them bore while under sentence.

When I looked at these crosses I was seized with sullen energy. They should not bury my body there. I had to escape a prison death.

I was determined to get out of this "hole" alive! The sick list seemed to be the only alternative, and from now on I was condemned to "light diet," the menu of which consisted of porridge and toast—morning, noon and night. As there were still 300 days "time" ahead of me, the prison became a "spa"—900 meals of porridge sustained me until the day I was once more to be a free man. I took exercise in my cell whenever possible.

And after a gray eternity the gates of Atlanta were opened. I went to New York, where I took a boat for home.

This was early in 1921.

THE most bitter disillusionment awaited me. Nobody expected me. Nobody was able to understand the psychology of a man who had passed the transition period from war to peace in prison. When I spoke about the war, in which alone I still retained interest, I discovered everyone else had almost forgotten it, and was living not for the past, but for the future. For me war and fight were still realities, and my world was in the past, and would still be, were it not for my beloved daughter.

When I had recovered from my disillusionment, there came the recognition that man is not made immortal by what he destroys but by what he constructs.

May the bombs we once employed never be brought forth again!

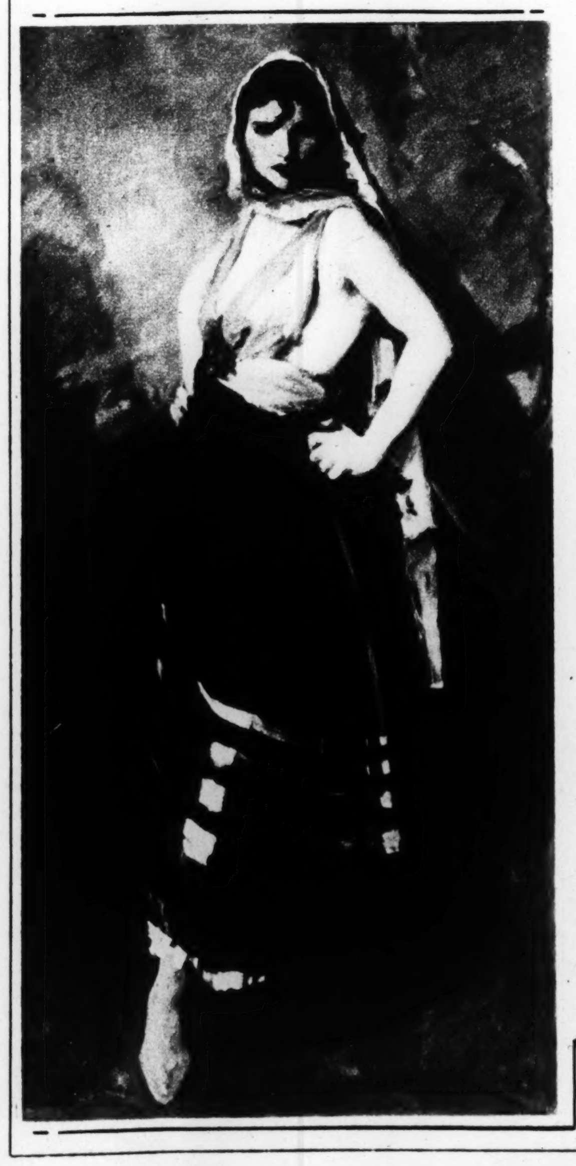
CONTEMPORARY AMERICAN PAINTINGS



"Dramatic Dancer."

THE Gallery of Contemporary American Paintings is the twenty-eighth in a series of exhibits being featured weekly at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. Each display in the "Gallery of the Week" presentation will be reproduced in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, with an accompanying description of the exhibit by museum authorities.

With very few exceptions the canvases shown in this gallery were painted within the last twenty-five years. "The Approaching Storm" by George Inness, dated 1893, and "The Wolf Charmer" by John La Farge belong to an older generation. La Farge is known less for his easel pictures than for his great service to American art in arousing an interest in mural painting and the decorative arts in this country.

The relatively high key of most of the paintings shown demonstrates the increased influence of the French open air painters and their technical discoveries. "Sea and Cloud" by Carlsen, "Torn Lingerie" by Frieseke, "Reverie" by Richard Miller and "September Fields" by Garber are excellent examples of the change from the low-toned harmonies of the contemporaries of Inness and Wyant. The warm brilliance of afternoon sun and the cold sparkle of a winter day, as in "A Road by the Palisades" by Lawson and "Through Snow-clad Hills and Valleys" by Symons, are rendered with keen observation and a technical skill which at times sacrifices to its vibrant effects the subtler qualities of the earlier landscape.

Following the leadership of Winslow Homer, artists such as Paul Dougherty in "After the Gale," William Ritschel in "Shores of Monterey," and Frederick Waugh in "The Sea," succeed in depicting the turbulence of the ocean with the brilliant color of weed-covered rock and churning water. Hayley Lever in "Midday in the Harbor" gives the colorful charm of a fishing village and its sail-dotted harbor against a sparkling sea. These pictures are clearly a product of an out-of-door, sun-loving generation.

The almost strident virtuosity of Robert Henri's "Dramatic Dancer" contrasts forcibly with Alexander's "Phyllis" with its graceful line and soft color. A pupil of William Chase, Henri's vigorous treatment and brilliant color have had a far-reaching effect on contemporary American painting. The spirited "Dash for Timber" by Frederick Remington represents the best work of a group of Americans who devoted their talents to setting down as accurately and directly as possible the story of the West and its vanishing romance.

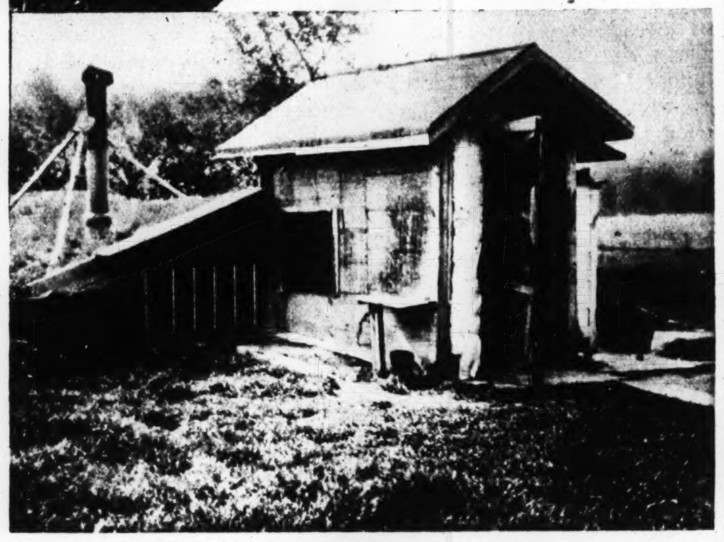
LIVING in a HOLE in the GROUND

How the Christian Family Finally Burrowed Into the Earth as a Means of "Weathering All Storms," Physical and Otherwise.

Albert Christian.



Entrance and superstructure of the dugout in which the Christian family lives.

TAYLORVILLE, Illinois.

THE economics of the Christian family would make the most ardent of the professional simple-lifers blush for shame. The Stuart Chases who have gone to Mexico and the South Seas in search of economic paradises might well come here and consider the state of the Christians, father, mother and 11 children, who live on a farm not far from this town.

The family lives in an all but moneyless world. And if you accept the word of the head of the family, they live quite well—at any rate, they seem happy. There is no problem of rent, even, for the Christians live in a hole in the ground. It is literally that—a hole in the ground. And, what is more, the Christian family says it is a very pleasant hole in the ground, one that they might even be reluctant to trade for the average house.

"We wouldn't trade our place for the finest mansion in the county," is the assurance of Albert D. Christian, the father. "There is no telephone, no electric lights or any of the other foolish knick-knacks that clutter up most folks' houses. And it's a sight cooler, too. We don't feel these heat waves half as much as the folks in the big cities, nor even like the ones in Taylorville feel them."

To the city dweller the Christians' hole in the ground might seem a bit primitive and scarcely adequate as a home for 13 individuals who range in age from 5, the smallest child, to 50, the head of the family. Cots line three of the walls. There are a cook stove and a table with benches, at which the entire family can sit down at once. A partition in the rear provides a fruit and vegetable storage room. And that is all, and enough, says the elder Christian.

Christian and his sons dug their home in three weeks. They built an entry-way provided two large windows and moved in. Through a series of disasters the Christians have come to their present "natural" shelter. At one time they lived like ordinary tenant farmers, in a farm house. Fire destroyed the house and all their possessions five years ago. The owner of the farm declined to build a new house—rents didn't justify it. Resourceful Mr. Christian bought a large tent. He trimmed 5000 black locust fence posts to pay for it. Then along came a cyclone and destroyed the tent and what furniture had been acquired following the fire. It was then that the father and sons dug down to create a safe home in the earth.

THE Christians' farm comprises 21 acres of land. With the major crops — corn and soybeans—the family manages to barter for sugar, flour and other food necessities. But most of the food is grown on the farm—white beans, potatoes, all manner of vegetables, white corn for meal, hogs for meat.

"I traded a wagon load of turnips for sugar," he says. "And I dug my own well. We couldn't buy a galvanized iron trough for the stock to drink out of, so I made one from a hollowed log. If you have to do things, I guess you can do them, all right."

While the Christians may prefer to live under the sod, their livestock fares in the usual farm custom. A barn has been built of rough lumber sawed on the farm.

"I am operating 21 acres," Christian explains, "and my contract calls for clearing the land in exchange for three crops. When we came, the land was covered with timber and scrub growth, but we've got it pretty well cleared now. I've had some hard knocks, but I've weathered them. And now I feel I can weather anything."

Protection Where Protection Counts

A great part of all spoilage in home canning is due to imperfect sealing. There are three reasons for this:

Spoilage due to air leakage; contamination from acids when metal touches the contents; possibility of bacteria under porcelain lining.

That is why food authorities recommend sealing in glass.

With PRESTO JARS, Mason and Widemouth styles, and PRESTO GLASS CLOSURES, the perfect combination has been found. Thousands of modern homemakers are adopting this equipment exclusively, because it seals entirely in glass, air-tight, bacteria-proof and time-proof.

Your grocer has Presto Jars and Glass Closures . . . ask for them by name.

DURLACQUE

All It Is Claimed to Be

"Durlacque is all it is claimed to be," states Mrs. Anna Armil, 309 Hitt Street, Columbia, Mo., awarded second prize in the Durlacque contest of April 23.

"I have just completed cleaning a very large house with a large sun porch, all frame. Previous to starting cleaning I had purchased various cleaning products, but was told to try Durlacque and will say it is truly wonderful, and I did not use a full box."

Ask your grocer for Durlacque ..it makes cleaning easy.

Does Your Family Enjoy Breakfast?

It should be a great satisfaction to you to have your family come to breakfast eager for the good things you have for them.

And if you want to see them rush to greet you with happy smiles, just tell them the night before that HUNTER'S SAUSAGE will be served in the morning . . . because there's no breakfast more universally popular than the one that includes sausage.

Coupled with the delicious flavor of Hunter Sausage is the comforting knowledge that it is absolutely pure and wholesome, made from choice cuts of young, corn-fed porkers . . . government inspected . . . and seasoned just right for the whole family.

Your market has it, as well as Hunter Ham, Bacon and other meats . . . insist upon Hunter brand . . . the name is your guarantee of quality.

Drink Milk for Health

Upon the housewife depends largely the welfare of the great nation of tomorrow. The family well being rests almost entirely upon what she gives them to eat.

Dairy dishes are nourishing, delicious and economical; they are easy to prepare . . . another big advantage for today's busy housewife.

LANGE'S INSPECTED MILK AND CREAM are safeguarded with every care . . . inspected herds, well kept farms, constant laboratory tests insure purity and quality.

Order it from your neighborhood store, and exchange the caps for Eagle Stamps.

For a pleasing variation of custard, arrange sliced oranges in serving dish, sprinkle with powdered sugar and pour cooled, boiled custard over them. Serve with or without meringue.

EMANCIPATION

For generations women existed as slaves to their kitchens. Progress in all the other arts and sciences was reflected by no similar advance in culinary methods. Housewives were forced to content themselves with cooking appliances little more convenient than those in use decades ago, which required the closest personal supervision if successful results were to be obtained.

But with the advent of the new OAKLAND PEDESTAL TABLE GAS RANGE, all this has been changed, its manufacturers assert.

They say with this modern range as a helper, with its pedestal table base, in-a-drawer broiler, extra heavy insulation which keeps the heat IN the oven and OUT of the kitchen, and its many other superior qualities, the housewife is freed from kitchen bondage and has leisure for rest, recreation and to keep in step with progressive movements of the day.

There's a size for your particular requirements at the show rooms of your retail stove and furniture store . . . examine them for yourself.

Quicker Cleaning

Every day brings so many demands on the modern housewife that time and labor-saving are important considerations.

HRH (Her Right Hand) simplifies this problem by helping you do your daily cleaning quickly, easily, efficiently.

The water-softening properties of HRH gently, but surely loosens dirt . . . porcelain, floors, tile . . . all will be spic and span, hygienically clean.

Help yourself to more leisure . . . let HRH work for you!

Department, paint, drug, hardware and grocery stores carry HRH in the new, convenient sifter top can illustrated on this page, as well as the regular yellow package . . . put both on your shopping list for tomorrow.

PRAISE FOR PWPC

"I am thoroughly convinced that Peerless Waterproof Cement, manufactured only by the Peerless Waterproof Cement Co. of St. Louis, is all it is claimed to be," writes J. W. Williams, of Texas, adding:

"The price is low, and it is something that every residence and every place of business can use. It is an article that purchasers will realize that they have received their money's worth and the salesman will feel that he has done them a favor."

Drug, department and hardware stores carry PWPC . . . order a bottle tomorrow.

"Accept no substitute for Peerless Cement!"

Ill Health at Bay

For a happy mind and quiet, look you to your diet; serve some fish each day, ill health to keep at bay.

Filet of Haddock delicious, is a food highly nutritious, of such a tempting savor, with modern cooks it's found high favor.

Perch and Pike and Salmon, too, interest in dining will renew; while Mackerel or Striped Bass, to a festive treat'd be a pass.

The Meletio Sea Food Co. begs you on them to rely, the freshest of fish to ever supply; at The Food Mart and your market, too, they say their sea foods are awaiting you, in a variety so wide, withal, never upon one will they pall.

And meals will gain many a dainty dish, when daily you serve some kind of fish.

Elco Canned Salmon Au Gratin

Make a white sauce of one tbsp. butter, one tbsp. flour, one cup milk and seasonings. Flake two cups Elco Canned Salmon, removing all bones and skin; add to sauce. Stir in one tbsp. lemon juice. Turn into buttered baking dish, cover with bread crumps, dot with butter, grated cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Bake 20 mins. in a hot oven.

The L. Cohen Grocer Co., distributors of Elco Brand canned foods, say only the finest salmon is good enough to bear their brand. And that packed only a few hours after taken from the clear, cold Alaskan waters, Elco Salmon retains all the natural delicious flavor and nourishment.

Your grocer carries Elco foods, order a supply tomorrow and exchange the labels for Eagle Stamps.

Inspect Your Home . . . Critically!

Look around your home . . . critically as you would a stranger's. Have walls and woodwork become drab? Furniture scratched and dull? Floors scarred and lusterless?

To remedy such unwanted conditions Steelcote Flat Wall Finish, Furnitint and Steelcote Varnishes have been perfected, states George E. Niedt, president of the Steelcote Mfg. Co. "With Steelcote products you can quickly transform the least attractive room into one of distinction and charm . . . make your home what you desire it to be," the official added.

Note the breakfast room illustrated above . . . wouldn't your morning orange juice, toast and coffee gain added flavor in such a setting? And if you prefer some other color combinations, the wide range of colors in Steelcote Semi-Gloss Wall Finish will enable the most widely diverging tastes to be satisfied.

There's a neighborhood store bearing the Steelcote Paint Stores sign near you, or ask at any hardware, paint or accessory store for Steelcote products.

"THE STAFF OF LIFE"

Bread is "the staff of life," especially if it is WARD'S SOFT BUN BREAD, a product of the Ward Baking Co. Made with an extra quantity of rich fresh milk, tested flour and other ingredients, according to an unvarying process and baked under ideal conditions, it offers a wealth of nourishment in a form to tempt the most particular tastes.

It carries the endorsement of Good Housekeeping Institute, as well as that of thousands of housewives who have tried this new, better and bigger loaf.

Ask for it by name at your grocer's or delicatessen shop and for a "different" pudding for tomorrow's luncheon, serve:

WARD'S CHEESE PUDDING

Heat 1½ cups milk in double boiler, add ½ cup grated cheese, stir until dissolved. Add ⅛ tsp. salt to 2 eggs, beat until light; stir into hot milk, cook until thickened. Add a little cayenne, pour over 6 slices Ward's Soft Bun bread and bake 15 mins. in moderate oven. Serve with broiled or fried bacon.

(Recipes for items marked with an * will be found under the menu.)

MELETIO SALMON TURBET

Soak 2 cups Ward's Soft Bread crumbs in 1 qt. Lange's Inspected milk for 15 mins., bring to boil, add 2 tbsps. butter, salt and pepper to taste. Remove bone and skin from 1 lb. cooked Meletio salmon, flake. Put alternate layers of soaked bread crumbs and salmon in buttered baking dish, having top layer of bread crumb mixture. Bake in Oakland oven at 375 degrees until a light brown.

LANGE'S ORANGE MUFFINS

Sift 2¼ cups flour, 4 tsps. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt and ⅓ cup sugar; add grated rind of 1 orange, mix. Combine juice of orange and enough Lange's Inspected milk to make 1 cup, add 2 beaten egg yolks and 2 tbsps. butter; beat in dry ingredients. Beat whites of eggs and stiff and fold in carefully. Bake in muffin pans in Oakland oven at 400 degrees.

WARD'S STUFFED TOMATOES

Cut slice from blossom ends of 4 firm, ripe tomatoes; remove centers. Chop centers, rejecting seeds. Mix with ½ cup Hunter cooked ham and 1 cup Ward's Soft Bun bread crumbs; add 1 tbsp. finely minced onion that has been cooked 5 mins. in melted butter. Fill tomatoes, pressing down well. Cover top with Ward's Soft Bun Bread crumbs that have been mixed with melted butter. Bake ⅓ hour in Oakland oven at 375 degrees.

HUNTER SAUSAGE WITH SPANISH RICE

Dice 6 slices Hunter bacon, fry until brown; remove bacon from fat, add to 2 cups cooked rice. Add 1 sliced onion and 1 shredded green pepper to hot bacon fat, cook until onion is yellow. Add 2 tbsps. flour and juice from can Elco tomatoes, cook until well blended; season with salt and pepper, combine with cooked rice. Place in buttered baking dish, with 15 Hunter small sausage links over top; bake in Oakland oven at 400 degrees until sausage is brown.

BOSCO COCOANUT PUDDING

Cream ⅔ cup butter with 1½ cups sugar, add 2 eggs and ½ cup orange juice, beat well; add 2 tbsps. grated orange rind, 1 tsp. lemon extract, ¼ tsp. salt, 1 cup graham cracker crumbs, 2 cups flour sifted with 3 tsps. baking powder and ⅔ cup grated cocoanut. Chill dough; break off bits and flatten down on buttered baking pan, 3 inches apart. Bake in Oakland oven at 375 degrees. Serve with Bosco, the three food-drink.

ELCO BEETS WITH PEAS

Cut centers from Elco Dark Red Beets, heat. Heat can Elco Fancy Sifted June Peas, season with butter, salt, pepper. Fill beet cups, sprinkle with paprika, serve very hot.

BOSCO, PREDIGESTED FOOD

Because of the exclusive method of preparation of Bosco, the scientific combination of cocoa, sugar and barley malt, the cocoa starch is converted into sugar and the proteins become soluble and diffusible, making it a predigested food, Dr. Max Wallerstein, its originator, states in an official report on this three-food drink.

Its makers say that addition of Bosco to milk makes it a more concentrated energy food, while it adds less than one-quarter of a per cent higher fat content.

Your neighborhood store has Bosco in vacuum glass jars.

CLEANLINESS, PRIME FACTOR

Cleanliness is one of the prime factors, if not the most important, in the making of beer, according to Alvin Griesedieck, vice-president and general manager of the Falstaff Brewing Corp., 3684 Forest Park.

"In the Falstaff brewery we use every possible method to obtain absolute cleanliness," said Griesedieck. "Every piece of equipment is washed and scoured and polished to the nth degree. Bottles and kegs are washed and rewashed by the latest of improved processes. Our water is the purest that can be obtained and we spend thousands of dollars to keep Falstaff beer absolutely pure at all times."

EINSTEIN AND HERRIOT GET DEGREES—The famous scientist and the noted French statesman are shown in the procession at commencement exercises at the University of Glasgow, where they were both awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws.

A HITLERITE RECEPTION IN LOS ANGELES—When Maj. Ernst Udet, Europe's most famous acrobatic flier, arrived in the California city recently to represent Germany in the National Air Races, a squad of brown shirts marched to greet him carrying an American flag, the German tri-colors and the swastika emblem.

LIKE A BATTLE SQUADRON—The mother swan leads the way and the six cygnets string out behind her like destroyers trailing a cruiser. The photograph was taken on the Thames, near London, a short time ago.

BEATING THE HEAT WAVE IN CHICAGO—When Mary Lou Sobiesk, 6 months old, showed signs of scorching, Alice Mae, 5, and Martin 2½, took her out into Lake Michigan and gave her the treatment illustrated here.

WHAT'S BECOME OF THE TECHNOCRATS?—A few still survive and they held a convention in Chicago recently. Here are some of the leaders. Left to right, Prof. M. King of Columbia University, William Knight, Howard Scott, head of Technocracy, Inc., and Ernest N. Howe.

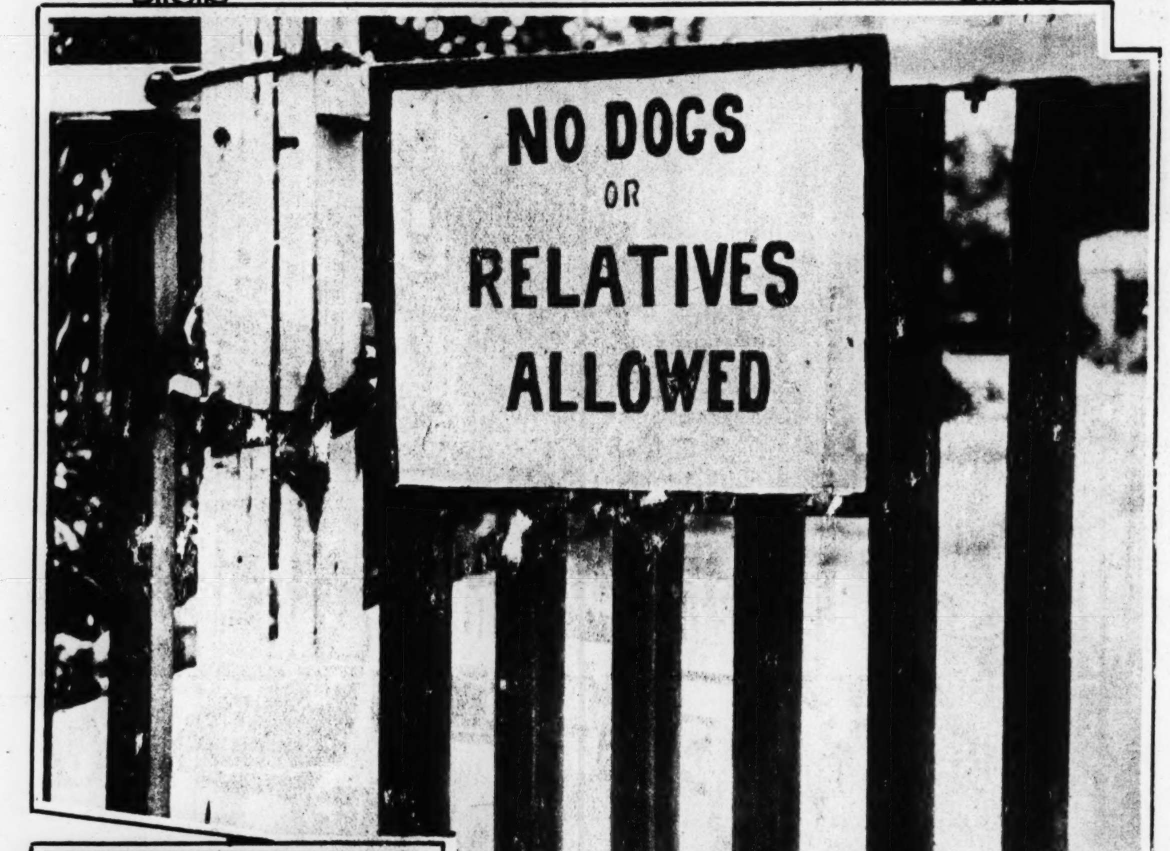
HE HASN'T A WEAK STOMACH ANY MORE

Young Alfred Erwin, 2½ years old, used to be troubled with one until his father, a San Francisco steelworker, decided that what the boy needed was exercise and not dieting. As a result of the treatment, the lad has developed into a miniature acrobat.

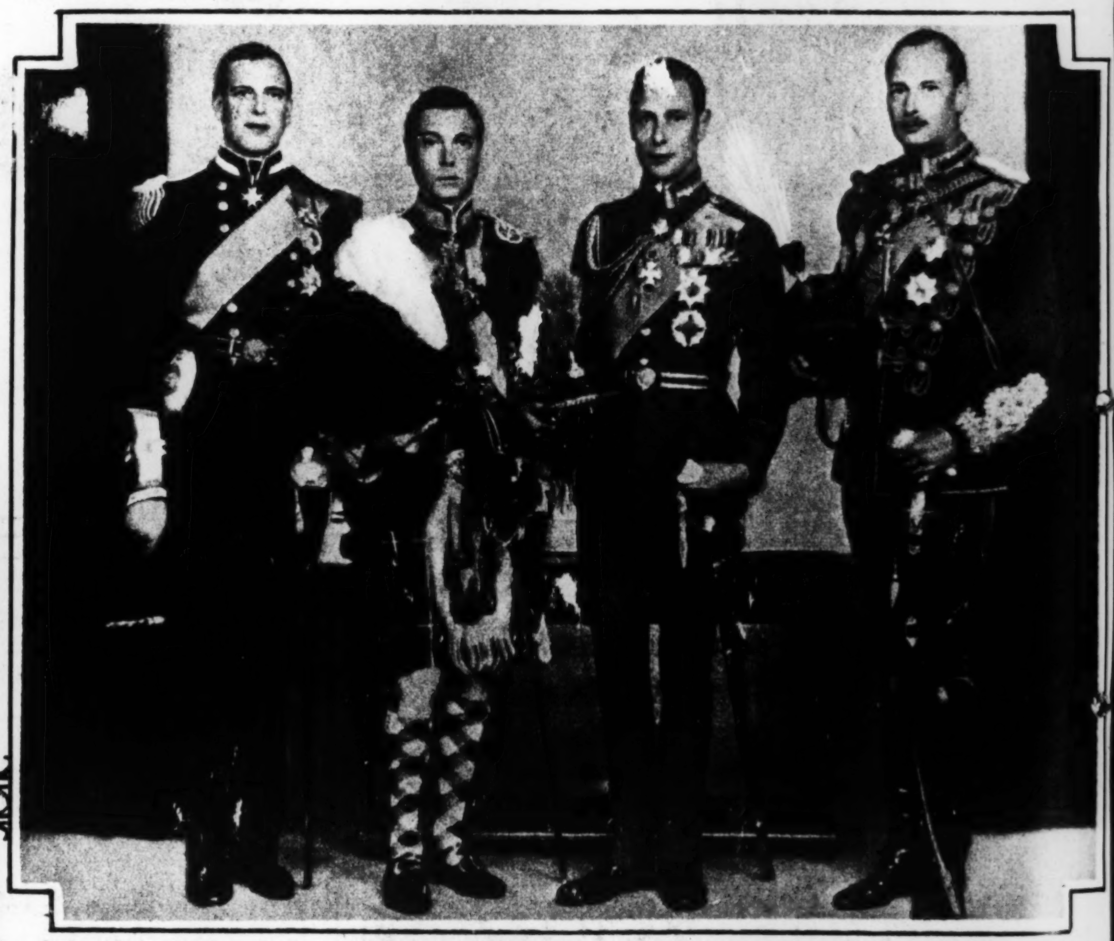
CHALIAPIN AS DON QUIXOTE
The famous Russian singer is shown here in his powerful impersonation of the demented knight of Cervantes' romance, for the film which has just been released in Europe.

WHERE TREES GROW TALL AND STRAIGHT—This shady nook is in the pine and birch woods of Northern Wisconsin.



HE SEEMS BITTER ABOUT SOMETHING!
Rudolph E. Jacobsen, San Francisco stock broker, has retired to his estate at Atherton, Cal., and on the padlocked gate he has placed this sign. When questioned about it, he admitted he didn't expect dogs to be able to read it.

A NEW TENNIS CHAMPION
Miss Peggy Scriven, English player, won the French women's singles championship at Auteuil on June 5, defeating Mme. Mathieu. She was not a "recognized" contestant, however, as she had entered the tournament unofficially.



TWO ROYAL FAMILY GROUPS—On the left appears a new portrait of the royal family of the Netherlands. Left to right, the members are: the Queen mother, Princess Juliana, Prince Henry and Queen Wilhelmina. The other group shows the four sons of the King and Queen of England. Reading from the left, they are: Prince George, the youngest son, born 1902; the Prince of Wales, born 1894; the Duke of York, born 1895, and the Duke of Gloucester, born 1900.

ANOTHER SIGN OF THE WEST'S DECADENCE—Here hard-riding, quick-shooting buckaroos have hung up their guns and lassos and are learning how to parry and thrust with rapiers—and under the direction of girl teachers at that. This is a class on the Flying-V Ranch at Tucson, Ariz.

BUSINESS OF BECOMING A PRINCESS

Barbara Hutton, American heiress, whose fortune is estimated at $20,000,000, and Prince Alexis Mdivani, member of the Mdivani family of Czarist Georgia, photographed during their civil wedding ceremony in Paris recently. The bridegroom is at the left.

SEAL HUNTING IN THE ARCTIC—It is one of Soviet Russia's most profitable industries. Ships of the ice-breaker type penetrate as far as possible among the floes and the hunters then cross the wastes on foot in search of seal colonies. Below is shown one of these colonies and, in the foreground, three hunters creeping up to fire on the animals.

OH HELLO! WELL DO YOU NOTICE ANYTHING?
A NEW HAT! AND IT'S TOO SMALL. THE WAY IT'S PERCHED UP ON TOP OF YOUR HEAD.
HA HA!
HA HA? LISTEN, THIS IS A REAL HAT. IT'S CALLED A VACUUM GRIP. THE HEAT FROM MY HEAD STARTS A VACUUM THAT HOLDS THE HAT ON IN EVEN THE TOUGHEST WIND.
IT'S MADE ON THE SAME PRINCIPLE AS AN AUTO CLUTCH AND..... OH OH! WHAT'S WRONG?
TEE HEE! WON'T IT COME OFF?
I GUESS I WORKED UP A LITTLE TOO MUCH VACUUM. MY WORD, THIS BABY IS ON TIGHT!
SUCH LUCK! IT'S THE SAME PRINCIPLE AS THE AUTOMOBILE CLUTCH... AND... LISTEN, LET ME TURN AROUND SO YOU CAN PULL IT OFF.
THE IDEA! SUCH A HAT! NOW HOLD STEADY AND I'LL JERK IT ONCE MORE.
IT'S NO USE. THAT RUBBER CLUTCH WON'T LET GO. IT JUST STRETCHES. LET ME THINK..?..ANYHOW, JERK IT ONCE MORE WHILE I JUMP AWAY FROM....
OH! MY HANDS SLIPPED!
WHOO!
TEE HEE! IMAGINE A HAT YOU CAN'T GET OFF!
I'LL CALL UP THE PEOPLE WHO SOLD IT TO ME AND FIND OUT WHAT'S WHAT.
YES....BOUGHT IT TODAY. ONE OF YOUR VACUUM GRIP HATS. I CAN'T GET IT OFF!
OH I SEE.....JUST SLIP SOMETHING UNDER THE BACK END AND RELEASE THE CLUTCH, EH? YES I UNDERSTAND ALL ABOUT THE VACUUM PRINCIPLE. YES...YES... YES....
TEE HEE! HOLD STEADY OR....
HEY! HEY! BE CAREFUL WITH THAT BUTTONHOOK! WATCH OUT..!...YOU'RE NOT GETTING IT UNDER THE HAT... YOU'RE DIGGING IT INTO MY SKULL! HEY! OUCH! THAT'S ENOUGH OF THAT! PLENTY!
JEG KAN IKKE FORSTAA DET.
HVAD ER DER PAA FÆRDE?
WHAT! YOU MEAN YOU..... THE MEN WHO SOLD IT TO ME CAN'T GET IT OFF EITHER?
UNFORTUNATELY THAT TYPE IS OUR TRIPLE-STRENGTH GRIP AND SHOULD BE SOLD ONLY TO BALD GENTS.
WE ADMIT IT'S OUR MISTAKE. NOW LET'S SEE....HOW TO GET IT OFF?
...AND I, I SAYS, LOOKING HIM RIGHT IN THE EYE, COULD HAVE BEEN A SERGEANT TOO IF I YESSED THE CAPTAIN SILLY AND WAS ALWAYS HANGING ON HIS NECK. AND I SAYS TO HIM.......
THERE'S OUR CALL, LOUIE!

IF THAT AIN'T MY MOTHER ALL OVER AGAIN — GAVE ME A DIME.
THAT'S NICE.
I'M GOIN' TO SAVE IT.
THAT'S OKAY WITH ME.
BUT AT THE SAME TIME, YOU MUSN'T BE FORGETTIN' THAT I'M THE GREATEST LITTLE PAL YOU EVER HAD. AN' THAT'S WHY I SAY— BEIN' A FRIEND, A VERY NEAR FRIEND — WASTE NOT, WANT NOT! OR IF I MUST BARE MY HEART TO YOU— PUT A LITTLE SOMETHIN' AWAY FOR A RAINY DAY. STILL—
-THAT'S WHY I HAVEN'T GOT ANYTHING, I GUESS. I'M TOO BIG-HEARTED. GIVE EVERYTHING TO MY FRIENDS. WHEN I HAVE A DIME IT WOULDN'T BE ME IF I DIDN'T TAKE TWO CENTS FOR MYSELF AN' GIVE MY FRIENDS EIGHT, BUT MAYBE THAT'S WHY I'M NO PLACE NOW. AND IS IT APPRECIATED? THAT'S WHAT I DON'T KNOW.
LOTS O'TIMES I LIE AWAKE ON THE PILLOW JUST THINKIN' AN' THINKIN'. IF I WAS WITHOUT A CENT, WOULD MY FRIENDS COME TO ME? WOULD THEY BE A PAL TO ME? I MEAN THE SAME KIND OF A PAL I'VE BEEN TO THEM. OH, DON'T MISUNDERSTAND ME— I WOULDN'T EXPECT THEM TO GIVE ME EIGHT CENTS' WORTH AN' THEM TAKE TWO. NO, MY BIG-HEARTEDNESS WOULD COME IN AGAIN ON THAT. I FILL UP QUICKLY WHEN A GUY IS GOOD. IT BRINGS TEARS TO MY EYES. IT'S LIKE OLD SONGS. A FELLOW COMES TO ME——AN' SAYS, "HERE, I GOT A DIME AN' I WANT YOU TO HAVE SOMETHIN' ON ME. WHAT'LL YA HAVE?" SOMETHIN' IN ME COMES UP AN' I CAN'T KEEP THE TEARS BACK BECAUSE IT'S THE GOODNESS OF THE GUY THAT TOUCHES ME. I CAN SMELL A FRIEND RIGHT AWAY. I DON'T THINK THERE'S ANYTHING SO TOUCHIN' AS THE TYPE O'MAN THAT GOES AROUND AMONG HIS FRIENDS, GIVIN' THE SHIRT OFF HIS BACK.
I THINK IT'S A LOT O'TALK WHEN THEY SAY HE HASN'T ANYTHING IN THE END. WHAT ABOUT THE LOVELY MEMORIES?
DEAR ME, YES. MEMORIES! WHY, THERE'S BEEN TIMES, AND CERTAINLY YOU REMEMBER THEM, 'CAUSE YOU'VE BEEN IN ON THEM. WELL, YOU'VE BEEN IN ON LOTS O'THINGS, NOW THAT I REMEMBER IT. I REMEMBER I USED TO FIGHT LOTS O'BATTLES OF YOURS. I DIDN'T ALWAYS WIN, BUT I FOUGHT THE BATTLES.
WELL, YOU CAN HAVE YOUR MEMORIES, BUT I THINK MY DIME SLUMBERIN' IN A BANK WILL DO ME MORE GOOD IN THE END.
THAT'S NARROW-MINDED.
TELL YA WHAT WE'LL DO. WE'LL WALK UP TO YOUR HOUSE BECAUSE TIMES LIKE THESE YA OUGHT TO HAVE SOMEBODY WITH YOU WHEN YA GOT MONEY, ON ACCOUNT O'HOLD-UP MEN. YA CAN NEVER TELL WHEN THEY'LL TURN UP. IT'S JUST THE PAL IN ME. SEE, I DON'T WANT ANYTHING, AN' I JUST WALK WITH YOU SO THAT YOUR MONEY'S SAFE. BUT LET ME DO SOME MORE THINKIN'. DO YA REMEMBER THE TIME YA USED TO COME AROUND SATURDAY MORNINGS AN' I USED TO GIVE YOU SOME PIE MY MOTHER BAKED? THOSE WERE THE NICE DAYS, WEREN'T THEY?
I THOUGHT THAT WAS HECKY'S HOUSE.
WELL, DO YOU REMEMBER THE TIMES I USED TO LEND YOU MY SKATES, AN' I LOANED YOU A SLED ONE TIME!
YES, BUT I RETURNED THE SLED, DIDN'T I?
YOU RETURNED A BASKETFUL O' TOOTHPICKS, BUT IT WASN'T A SLED. BUT LET'S NOT GO INTO THAT NOW. REMEMBER THE TIME YOUR MOTHER SENT ME TO THE DRUGSTORE FOR CASTOR OIL FOR YOU AN' I TRIPPED ON THE CURBSTONE AN' BUSTED THE BOTTLE? DO YA REMEMBER THE TIME I WROTE AN EXCUSE TO THE TEACHER FOR YOU AN' MADE A LITTLE MARTYR OUT OF MYSELF? AN' DO YA REMEMBER THE TIME I WAS EATIN' A CHICKEN SANDWICH AN' WE MET HECKY, AN' I GAVE YOU THE CHICKEN AN' I KEPT ONE PIECE O'BREAD AN' GAVE THE OTHER PIECE TO HECKY?
IT SEEMS TO ME I REMEMBER SOMETHIN'—
WELL, IF YOU REMEMBER ALL THIS, AN' YOU DON'T SPEND THAT DIME, I'LL GIVE YOU A SOCK IN THE NOSE.
